SUMMARY.

The Anglo-Russian Convention has been well received in Russia.

In Berlin official circles the attitude of the German Government is described as in friendly agreement with the treaty.

Members of the House of Commons who visited Switzerland to inquire into the Swiss military system have issued a report.

It highly praises the system, stating that it contains features which Great Britain might study with advantage.

The New York Yacht Club has declined Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to race for the America Cup.

The ground for this action is that any proposal to limit the size of competing boats is a violation of the terms of the America Cup Trust.

The New York Yacht Club is prepared, however, to accept a challenge on the old lines.

The Sultan of Morocco has sent an official to Casablanca to consult the French authorities.

Some of the Menlouna tribes are negotiating at Casablanca for peace.

The French troops are encircling Casablanca with a strong fortification.

The Premier of Cape Colony in a manifesto asks for a mandate to amend the Constitution to prevent the blocking of supplies.

Captain Collins, the Commonwealth representative, has fully replied to the published criticisms on the Australian tariff.

At a large meeting of English merchants resolutions were passed protesting against the imposition of further duties on British goods.

A steamer larger than the Lusitania is to be built for the Hamburg-American line.

The Asturias, 12,500 tons, which is to run in the Orient-Royal mail line to Australia, has been launched for the Royal Mail Packet Company.

Great devastation has been caused by floods in the South of France.

A copy of the coal vend's contract note shows that its terms and conditions are of a remarkable character.

An authority stated yesterday that the document is unmistakable evidence that the Interstate Shipping Combine is one and the same as the Northern Coal Vend.

"It is also abundantly clear," remarks the same authority, "that the southern district collieries are under the influence of the combine."

"The document proves beyond doubt," it is added, "that persons outside the combination cannot do any business."

The subject of the coal vend was referred to in the House of Representatives yesterday.

Mr. O'Malley asked the Treasurer to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the matter.

The Treasurer said he noticed that the combine was being supported by certain persons whose support had caused him some surprise.

He asked the hon. member to give notice of his question.

The adjournment of the House was moved to call attention to the alleged shipping combine and its contract with butter exporters.

The debate resolved itself into one concerning the relative merits of socialism and anti-socialism.

Sir William Lyne implied that the Prime Minister intended to introduce some startling innovations in regard to rates of freight.

Further debate took place in the Senate on the Federal Government's proposal to acquire a block of land in the Strand, London, for offices.

An amendment was moved on the second reading of the bill, but it was defeated.

A deputation waited upon the Lord Mayor to protest against the enforcing of the bylaws governing bill-posting.

The Lord Mayor said he regarded the regulations as a fair compromise. He thought bill-posting in the city should cease.

Senator Walker asked in the Senate what steps were being taken to encourage a continuous stream of desirable immigrants.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council replied that a much larger sum than that of last year was on the Estimates.

At the sitting of the Baptist Union the Rev. A. Metter said there were several reasons why an Australasian Baptist Congress should be held.

The union passed a resolution congratulating the New South Wales Alliance on the success it had achieved at the local option polls.

The union expressed its strong condemnation of matrimonial agencies.

Sir Joseph Ward said at Wellington yesterday that they must preserve the purity of the race in the Dominion.

They should resist any invasion of the Eastern nations, which, by mixing with the people, would produce a race of half-breeds.

The Diocesan Synod concluded its sittings last night. It was decided to take steps to establish a church mission hall and offices.

A proposal to report on the modifying of the constitutions of Moore College and St. Paul's College was referred to a select committee.

A deputation from the Public Service Association waited on the Minister for Works to obtain assistance in securing better premises.

The Victorian Cabinet has approved of the draft of Mr. Bent's new Charity Bill.

Provision is contained in the measure for a tax on sports and amusements.

The vote for the extension of the southern breakwater at Newcastle is exhausted, and work has ceased. Fifty men are thrown idle.

The Hon. M. Scott won both the Open and Amateur Golf Championships at the Royal Melbourne links, at Sandringham, yesterday.

The coal trade on the South Coast has been well sustained during the week, most of the mines having worked full time.

Extensive improvements are being carried out at Mount Kembla Colliery.

The miners in the southern collieries object to the differential rates offered by the coal-owners as being altogether too low.

Several persons were fined at the Central Police Court yesterday for offences in connection with the smoke nuisance.

It was decided yesterday to form a union to protect the rights and privileges of country hospitals.

The Improvement Leases Board gave its reserved decisions yesterday in regard to applications for improvement leases.

A new theatre is to be erected in Russell-street, Melbourne.

Saturday afternoon is to be the weekly half-holiday in all shops in Western Australia instead of Wednesday.

Appreciable reductions in freights on grain and timber, etc., have been made on the railways of Western Australia.

Mr. Joseph Fisher, one of the pioneer colonists of South Australia, has died at the age of 73.

Bad weather is prevailing throughout New Zealand. The rivers are in high flood, and the railway and telegraphic services are disorganised.

Mrs. Bannan, wife of Detective Bannan, died very suddenly after alighting from a tram at Circular Quay.

Five persons were imprisoned in a lift for half an hour at the Queen Victoria Markets yesterday, through the mechanism getting out of order.

A young man named Reuben Henry Ward was sentenced to death at Dubbo yesterday for a capital assault upon a young woman.

Two miners, named Sinclair and Schmidt, were killed in the Block 10 mine at Broken Hill on Thursday night.

A large shearing shed at Cooma, Narrabri, with complete shearing plant, has been destroyed by fire.

A small amount of business was transacted on 'Change yesterday at previous rates.

A very quiet market ruled in both copper and silver stocks, prices being weaker.

Gold scrip commanded fair attention at steady prices.

Weather forecast: Fine generally, excepting a few scattered showers over southern districts; variable winds.

THE WORLD OF DRESS.
Dresses at the Cowes Regatta are always very smart, her Majesty looking as young as ever, was gowned in a Navy Serge Suit, Skirt plain gored, overlapped seams, Coat about 6 inches below the waist, Lawn Blouse, White Sailor Hat, White Veil closely fitting to the face and pinned to the hair at the back, Tan Shoes and Stockings and Tan Gloves.
Princess Victoria was attired the same in every detail, except that she wore a White Serge Motor Hat with a White Veil.
The Duchess of Argyle wore a Navy Serge Suit, no braiding, short Coat, Tan Shoes and Stockings, Emerald Green Hat trimmed self-coloured Taffeta Ribbon, with a flowing veil.
One of the most noteworthy and smartest fads is to have the Stockings to match the Ties in such colour as Emerald Green, Violet, Old Rose, and Black. These accessories are worn with Embroidered Linen and Lawn Blouses.
Jewellery was seen to a large extent. Pearl and self-coloured Bead Necklets were very much favoured; and wherever a string of Turquoise or Pink Beads were worn, a touch of the same colour would be noticed either in the Hat or upon the White Blouse. Many young girls were seen in Serge Skirts, Brown Shoes, and Stockings, large but simple styles of Sailor Hats.
Cloth Inverness Cloaks are greatly worn for evening wear, with Stoles of Oriental Embroidery. This Embroidery is very much seen on Suits. Those in White, also Navy Serges have touches of it. Silk Rubber Macintoshes for ladies are carried by nearly everyone. White predominates, while others seen are in Green, also Navy Blue.

THE MIRROR TOILET CABINET,
TO-DAY 1s 5d, USUALLY 1s 9d.
Picture a miniature Toilet Table with a mirror and five drawers, each drawer containing different shaped hairpins, with the exception of the centre drawer, which contains Needles, and a packet of Pins, and you will realise what our special line is to-day. The size is 5 inches across, and the Cabinet is made of wood and cardboard printed to represent Oak. The price to-day is wonderfully reasonable; and although it is not one of those articles that are likely to prove a lasting joy, it makes a pretty ornament on a Dressing Table.
Orders by Telephone or letter sent immediately on receipt of the newspapers announcing this special line, will be executed at the advertised reduced price.

QUAINT DUTCH SAFETY PINS AND BLOUSE SETS.

BY WAY OF LETTING YOU KNOW: The nigger's eyes rolled nine ways at once as he walked through the cemetery at midnight, but the funeless whistle of funk died on his dry lips when he saw a ghost at his shoulder. He covered a ½-mile at a pace he believed too hot for any spook, but the ghost was panting at his shoulder when he pulled up. "Say," it remarked, "that was a powerful fine run you gave me." "Yes, massa ghost"—bunching himself up for his get-away—"but it ain't nothin' to what youse gwine to git now!"

STECK.

Have you a little room in which you have wished it were possible to place a Grand PIANO? We have enabled you to do so. For a half-century we have patiently experimented to reduce the size and price of Grand Pianos, to adapt them to the limited space and purse of many music-lovers. In the STECK "Boudoir" we have at last produced a Grand that meets musically the requirements of the most exacting tone critic. This dainty, beautiful instrument charms all who hear and see it. Measuring but 5ft 7in in length, it renders a Grand Piano of the highest character available even for rooms of limited space. The STECK, more than any other Piano, possesses a rich mellowness of tone, a sympathetic singing quality, which makes it not only the ideal instrument for the great artist in concert, but also the best Piano for the home.

HIGHEST GRADE. HIGHEST GRADE.

THERE ARE MANY THINGS TO DO

in our everyday life, but when a holiday comes round you must have only one object in life—enjoy yourself—and the first thing you MUST do, to have perfect enjoyment on your holiday, is to order

A "McINTOSH" PICNIC HAMPER FOR 8-HOUR DAY.

My Picnic Hampers contain all accessories, with full and plenty of choice seasonable foods, delivered anywhere, and for any number of guests. Send for Hamper List.

HUGH D. McINTOSH, THE PICNIC CATERER, LINDEN-COURT, 107 CASTLEREAGH-ST, SYDNEY. TELEPHONES: 2686, 4807, 971 Central; 545 and 319 William-street; 106 Paddington.

By the Way—Why not order your PICNIC HAMPER for National Park. The ideal spot for every sport and recreation. Say on 8-hour Day.

THE LAST FEW WEEKS HAVE BEEN RECORDS.

We prepared for the tariff by heavy purchases before the duty went on; but there's an end to everything, and at the present rate of business the opportunity of saving that 10 shillings will not last much longer.

Thanks to our customers who have right royally responded to our invitation to save 10 shillings on each suit ordered before present stocks are exhausted.

You must wear clothes, and will want at least one new suit for summer. Then order now and save money. Order to-day. Open till 10 to-night.

COUNTRY CUSTOMERS.—THE SAVING IS FOR YOU AS WELL. WRITE FOR PATTERNS.

A CABLE FROM LONDON.
LONDON, 1/6/'07.
GENERAL MOTOR CO., SYDNEY, AUSTRALIA.
Mrs. RILEY, driving a 20-h.p. Belsize Car in the Scottish Reliability Trials, was awarded the Premier Position and Gold Medal for Highest Number of Marks out of ninety-six cars which started.
BELSIZE MOTORS, LIMITED.
The Scottish Reliability Trials is the premier yearly motor event of Great Britain, and the above success is only the natural result of the Belsize Company's 10 years' experience in motor-car building, and illustrates the simplicity, reliability, and efficiency of the Cars they are manufacturing.
Belsize Car, Scottish Reliability Trial, 1905, non stop runs throughout.
Belsize Car, Scottish Reliability Trials, 1906, non stop runs throughout.
Belsize Car, Scottish Reliability Trials, 1907, Premier Position and Gold Medal.
Belsize Car, Irish Reliability Trials, non stop run throughout.
What other car can show such a record of reliability?
A Car that is all British, and a credit to Great Britain (Autocar).
12-h.p., two cylinder, £350; 20-h.p., 4 cylinder, £550; 30-h.p., 6 cylinder, £1200.

15-H.P. TALBOT.

THE MOST SUCCESSFUL CAR OF THE SEASON IN ALL THE MOST PROMINENT BRITISH COMPETITIONS.
UNSURPASSED FOR ELEGANCE, SPEED, AND RELIABILITY.
These Famous Models are now on view for a few days, and all interested are cordially invited to call and inspect these fine examples of British Workmanship.

THE MAGNIFICENT MINERVA.

CIRCUIT DES ARDENNES, WINNER OF 1st, 2nd, 3rd, AND 6th PLACES.
375 MILES IN 374 MINUTES.
SEVERAL OF THE FAMOUS 24-H.P. MODELS DUE NEXT WEEK.
SOLE AGENT TALBOT, MINERVA, AND SINGER CARS,

I. PHIZACKERLEY,

169-171 ELIZABETH-STREET, HYDE PARK, SYDNEY.

THE DOCTOR'S CAR— 8-H.P. DE DION.

That is the one car that medical men are perfectly satisfied with.
It is very economical to run—actually consumes less petrol than any other car of similar power, and is of the simplest possible construction.
In the Victorian Petrol Consumption Tests one of these cars ran 34.90 miles on a gallon of petrol—price 1s 6d.
We have recently landed another shipment of the 8-h.p. De Dions, and they are all specially strengthened for use on rough Australian roads.
Will you come in and examine one of them, or if you live convenient to Sydney we will send a car out for your inspection.
MOTOR GARAGE OF SYDNEY, LTD.,
253 ELIZABETH-STREET, SYDNEY (between Bathurst and Liverpool streets).
Sole Agents for Vulcan (British built) F.I.A.T., genuine licensed De Dion and Clement-Bayard Motor Cars.

RECENT SUCCESSES

OF THE

15-H.P. 4-CYLINDER FORD.

1. Beat Everything in its class at Saltburn Speed Tests, winning Two Gold Medals.
2. In the 200 Miles Reliability Competition of the Essex Motor Club, did a high-gear, non-change, non-stop run, winning the Gold Medal. Petrol Consumption, 33.5 miles to gallon. (This is wonderful for a 4-cylinder car).
3. Du Pre Challenge Cup, High Gear, Hill-climb, one kilometre, in 1 min. 30 sec.
4. Nottinghamshire Automobile Club Hill-climb, 2min. 3 secs. Best performance over every competitor on handicap of price.

Is not this the Car you want? With a standing reputation like this, and the price is far below anything of any make in a 4-cylinder car. Can we take you for a run in one of these cars, and let you see for yourself what they can do, and don't pay any £500 to £700 for any car of this power until you see and test the car that has beaten them all on every performance.

HUMBER CARS.
IN 1906 TOURIST TROPHY RACES, the HUMBERS were the only team to finish.
IN 1907 the BEESTON HUMBER won the International Tourist Trophy Race easily.
In the Tourist Trophy Race a Humber ran second, and the Two Humbers were awarded Gold Medals.
The GOFF CUP, which was offered for the Car which consumed the least petrol, has been won by Coventry Humbers since its inception.
The consistent running and reliability of Humbers has not been equalled by any cars, even by those costing three times as much. New Models just landed.

MOSELEY'S "PERFECT" TYRES.
All Motorists should see these Tyres—they can be taken off and replaced by anyone in 7 minutes without any physical exertion—they are more resilient than any other form of tyre in use—they do not split around the beads or nip the tubes—they wear longer and support the load more luxuriantly than any other kind of tyre, and do not cut easily or puncture.
WE GUARANTEE THEM FOR 3000 MILES.
Samples may be inspected at 233 KENT-STREET, SYDNEY.

CHAPTER X.

AN UNANSWERED QUESTION.

Sir John had guessed aright. Shere Ali was in the conservatory, and Violet Oliver sat by his side.

"I did not expect you to-night," she said lightly, as she opened and shut her fan.

"Nor did I mean to come," he answered. "I had arranged to stay in the country until to-morrow. But I got my letter from the India Office this morning. It left me—restless." He uttered the word with reluctance, and almost with an air of shame. Then he clasped his hands together, and blurted out violently: "It left me miserable. I could not stay away," and he turned to his companion. "I wanted to see you, if only for five minutes." It was Violet Oliver's instinct to be kind. She fitted herself naturally to the words of her companions, sympathised with them in their troubles, laughed with them when they were at the top of their spirits. So now her natural kindness made her eyes gentle. She leaned forward.

"Did you?" she asked softly. "And yet you are going home."

"I am going back to Chiltistan," said Shere Ali.

"Home!" Violet Oliver repeated, dwelling upon the word with a friendly insistence.

But the young prince did not assent; he remained silent—so long silent that Violet Oliver moved uneasily. She was conscious of suspense; she began to dread his answer. He turned to her quickly as she moved.

"You say that I am going home. That's the whole question," he said. "I am trying to answer it, and I can't. Listen!"

Into the quiet and dimly lit place of flowers the music of the violins floated with a note of wistfulness in the melody they played—a suggestion of regret. Through a doorway at the end of the conservatory Shere Ali could see the dancers swing by in the lighted ballroom, the women in their bright frocks and glancing jewels, some of whom had flattered him, a few of whom had been his friends, and all of whom had treated him as one of their own folk and their equal.

"I have heard the tune they are playing before," he said slowly. "I heard it one summer night in Geneva. Linforth and I were dining with a party on the balcony of a restaurant over the lake. A boat passed, hidden by the darkness. We could hear the splash of the oars. There were musicians in the boat playing this melody. We were all very happy that night. And I hear it again now—when I am with you. I think that I shall remember it very often in Chiltistan."

There was so unmistakably a misery in his manner, in his voice, in his dejected looks, that Violet was moved to a deep sympathy. He was only a boy, of course, but he was a boy sunk in distress.

"But there are your plans," she urged. "Have you forgotten them? You were going to do so much. There was so much to do. So many changes, so many reforms which must be made. You used to talk to me so eagerly. No more of your people were to be sold into slavery. You were going to stop all that. You were going to silence the mullahs when they preached sedition, and to free Chiltistan from their tyranny."

Violet remembered with a whimsical little smile how Shere Ali's enthusiasm had wearied her, but she checked the smile and continued. "Are all those plans mere dreams and fancies?"

"No," replied Shere Ali, lifting his head. "No," he said again with something of violence in the emphasis; and for a moment he sat erect, with his shoulders squared, fronting his destiny. Almost for a moment he recaptured that for which he had been seeking—his identity with his own race. But the moment passed. His attitude relaxed. He turned to Violet with troubled eyes. "No, they are not dreams; they are things which need to be done. But I can't realise them now, with you sitting here, any more than I can realise with this music in my ears, that it is to my home to which I am going back."

"Oh, but you will!" cried Violet. "When you are out there you will. There's the road, too; the road which you and Mr. Linforth——"

She did not complete the sentence. With a low cry Shere Ali broke in upon her words. He leaned forward, with his hands covering his face.

"Yes," he whispered, "there's the road—there's the road." A passion of self-reproach shook him. Not for nothing had Linforth been his friend. "I feel a traitor," he cried. "For ten years we have talked of that road, planned it, and made it in thought, poring over the maps. Yes, for even at the beginning, in our first term at Eton, we began. Over the passes to the foot of the Hindu Kush. Only a year ago I was eager, really, honestly eager!" and he paused for a moment, wondering at that picture of himself which his words evoked, wondering whether it was indeed he—he who sat in the conservatory—who had cherished those bright dreams of a great life in Chiltistan. "Yes, it is true, I was honestly eager to go back."

"Less than a year ago," said Violet Oliver. "Less than a week ago. When did I see you last. On Sunday, wasn't it?"

"But was I honest then?" exclaimed Shere Ali. "I don't know. I thought I was—right up to to-day, right up to this morning when the letter came. And then——" He made a despairing gesture, as of a man crumbling dust between his fingers.

"I will tell you," he said, turning towards her. "I believe that the last time I was really honest was in August of last year. Linforth and I talked of it through a long day in the hut upon the Meije. I was keen then—honestly keen. But the next evening we came down to La Grave, and—I met you."

"No," Violet protested, "that's not the reason."

"I think it is," said Shere Ali quietly, and Violet was silent.

In spite of her pity, which was genuine enough, her thoughts went out towards Shere Ali's friend. With what words and in what spirit would he have received Shere Ali's summons to Chiltistan? She asked herself the question, knowing well the answer. There would have been no lamentations—a little regret, perhaps—perhaps, indeed, a longing to take her with him. But there would not have been a thought of abandoning the work. She recognised that truth with a sudden spasm of anger, but yet admiration strove with the anger and mastered it.

"If what you say is true," she said to Shere Ali gently, "I am very sorry. But I hope it is not true. You have been ten years here; you have made many friends. Just for the moment the thought of leaving them behind troubles you. But that will pass."

"Will it?" he asked quietly. Then a smile came over his face. "There's one thing of which I am glad," he whispered.

"Yes."

"You are wearing my pearls to-night."

Violet Oliver smiled, and with a tender caressing movement her fingers touched and felt the rope of pearls about her neck. Both the smile and the movement revealed Violet Oliver. She had a love of beautiful things, but above all of jewels. It was a passion with her deeper than any she had ever known. Beautiful stones, and pearls more than any other stones, made an appeal to her which she could not resist.

"They are very lovely," she said softly.

"I shal be glad to remember that you wore them to-night," said Shere Ali; "for, as you know, I love you."

"Hush!" said Mrs. Oliver; and she rose with a start from her chair. Shere Ali did the same.

"It's true," he said sullenly; and then, with a swift step, he placed himself in her way. Violet Oliver drew back quietly. Her heart beat quickly. She looked into Shere Ali's face and was afraid. He was quite still; even the expression of his face was set, but his eyes burned upon her. There was a fierceness in his manner which was new to her.

His hand darted out quickly towards her. But Violet Oliver was no less quick. She drew back yet another step. "I didn't understand," she said, and her lips shook, so that the words were blurred. She raised her hands to her neck and loosened the coils of pearls about it as though she meant to lift them off and return them to the giver.

"Oh, don't do that, please," said Shere Ali, and already his voice and his maner had changed. The sullenness had gone. Now he besought. His English training came to his aid. He had learned reverence for women, acquiring it gradually and almost unconsciously rather than from any direct teaching. He had spent one summer's holidays with Mrs. Linforth for his hostess in the house under the Sussex Downs, and from her and from Dick's manner towards her he had begun to acquire it. He had become conscious of that reverence, and proudly conscious. He had fostered it. It was one of the qualities, one of the essential qualities, of the white people. It marked the sahibs off from the Eastern races. To possess that reverence, to be influenced and moved and guided by it—that made him one with them. He called it to help him now. Almost he had forgotten it.

"Please don't remove them," he implored. "There was nothing to understand."

And perhaps there was not, except this—that Violet Oliver was of those who take but do not give. She removed her hands from her throat. The moment of danger had passed, as she very well knew.

"There is one thing I should be very grateful for," he said humbly. "It would not give you very much trouble, and it would mean a great deal to me. I would like you to write to me now and then."

"Why, of course I will," said Mrs. Oliver, with a smile.

"You promise?"

"Yes. But you will come back to England."

"I shall try to come next summer, if it's only for a week," said Shere Ali; and he made way for Violet.

She moved a few yards across the conservatory, and then stopped for Shere Ali to come level with her. "I shall write, of course, to Chiltistan," she said carelessly.

"Yes," he replied, "I go northwards from Bombay. I travel straight to Kohara."

"Very well. I will write to you there," said Violet Oliver; but it seemed that she was not satisfied. She walked slowly towards the door, with Shere Ali at her side.

"And you will stay in Chiltistan until you come back to us?" she asked. "You won't go down to Calcutta at Christmas, for instance? Calcutta is the place to which people go at Christmas, isn't it? I think you are right. You have a career in your own country, amongst your own people."

She spoke urgently. And Shere Ali, thinking that thus she spoke in concern for his future, drew some pride from her encouragement. He also drew some shame; for she might have been speaking, too, in pity for his distress.

"Mrs. Oliver," he said, with hesitation; and she stopped and turned to him. "Perhaps I said more than I meant to say a few minutes ago. I have not forgotten really that there is much for me to do in my own country; I have not forgotten that I can thank all of you here who have shown me so much kindness by more than mere words. For I can help in Chiltistan—I can really help."

Then came a smile upon Violet Oliver's face, and her eyes shone.

"That is how I would have you speak," she cried. "I am glad. Oh, I am glad!" and her voice rang with the fulness of her pleasure. She had been greatly distressed by the unhappiness of her friend, and in that distress compunction had played its part. There was no hardness in Violet Oliver's character. To give pain flattered no vanity in her. She understood that Shere Ali would suffer because of her, and she longed that he should find his compensation in the opportunities of rulership.

"Let us say good-bye here," he said. "We may not be alone again before I go."

She gave him her hand, and he held it for a little while, and then reluctantly let it go.

"That must last me until the summer of next year," he said with a smile.

"Until the summer," said Violet Oliver; and she passed out from the door-way into the ballroom. But as she entered the room and came once more amongst the lights and the noise, and the familiar groups of her friends, she uttered a little sigh of relief. The summer of next year was a long way off; and meanwhile here was an episode in her life ended as she wished it to end; for in these last minutes it had begun to disquiet her.

Shere Ali remained behind in the conservatory. His eyes wandered about it. He was impressing upon his memory every detail of the place, the colours of the flowers and their very perfumes. He looked through the doorway into the ballroom whence the music swelled. The note of regret was louder than ever in his ears, and dominated the melody. To-morrow the lights, the delicate frocks, the laughing voices and bright eyes would be gone. The violins spoke to him of that morrow of blank emptiness softly and languorously like one making a luxury of grief. In a week's time he would be setting his face towards Chiltistan; and, in spite of the brave words he had used to Violet Oliver, once more the question forced itself into his mind.

"Do I belong here?" he asked. "Or do I belong to Chiltistan?"

On the one side was all that during ten years he had gradually learned to love and enjoy; on the other side was his race and the land of his birth. He could not answer the question; for there was a third possibility which had not yet entered into his speculations, and in that third possibility alone the answer was to to be found.

Etc. White won.

This game was adjourned twice. At one adjournment the position stood thus:—Black men, 3, 11, Kings 16, 22; White men, 12, 28, Kings 6, 14. White to play. The sealed move was 6—10, followed by 16—19, 10—6, 22—23, 14—10, 19—10, 6—2, 18—17, 8—7, 16—20. A slip then. White played 10—14, and won. Several onlookers expressed the opinion Black should have won. What say our critics?

NOTES.

The result of the final contests between Messrs. Drury and Warnock in the State Championship tourney, stands at present: Drury beat Warnock in the first round by two wins to one, with one drawn. The second and final round stands, one win to Drury and two drawn. The fourth game is adjourned. The position at the adjournment stood thus:—A Black man on 5, Kings on 19, 20, 24. A White man on 32, Kings on 6, 10, 14. White to play. Mr. Drury proposed a draw. Mr. Warnock objected, wherefore Drury claimed a count off, only requiring to draw the game to win the first prize and the championship title, which, I must say, he is fully deserving of having lost his chance in the winners' round by losing a game he should have won. He has had an up-hill battle to fight to keep in the running, and beat those among the losers he had previously beaten a second time, and by beating Warnock twice in succession, he has put up a record in tourney play, which has not hitherto been done.

Mr. G. Jewitt, one of the leading experts of Great Britain, visited Hull a few weeks ago and gave an exhibition of simultaneous play, engaging 20 players, of whom he won 13 games and drew 11.

A LITTLE LESSON IN HEALTH.

The idea is too prevalent that when symptoms of constipation occur, sluggish liver, headache, biliousness, indigestion, and dizziness, a drastic purgative is required. This is not so. Strong purgatives aggravate the constipated condition, by dangerously weakening the organs they act upon. The liver, stomach, and kidneys must be toned up and strengthened as well as cleansed and corrected. California Syrup of Figs performs this double duty pleasantly, safely, and always thoroughly, overcoming instead of intensifying the tendency to habitual constipation. It assists Nature without strain or violence. California Syrup of Figs is as effective and reliable with the strong and robust adult as with the fragile child. Of chemists everywhere, 1s 2d and 1s 11d.—Advt.

CURRENT LITERATURE.

THE EX-EMPRESS.

Mr. Philip W. Sergeant, whose book on "The Courtships of Catherine the Great" showed that he had an intimate acquaintance with this interesting era of Russian history, displays in "The Last Empress of the French" (T. Werner Laurie), a full knowledge also of the court of the second Empire in France. The Empress Eugenie, who was 81 years old a few months ago, has challenged by the misfortunes of the last 30 odd years of her life a full share of human sympathy, just as in the preceding 18 or 17 years she commanded admiration or envy. Raised to a throne, which, though, in Napoleon III.'s own words, it was the throne of a parvenu, was also the throne of one of the most powerful monarchs in Christendom, she learned by bitter experience that French Queens have little happiness. She saw herself the honoured guest of Queen Victoria, treated as a fellow-sovereign, and she found herself a few years later a fugitive in the land which she had visited in pomp and magnificence. As a wife she had to learn the bitter lesson that beauty does not command fidelity, as an Empress she saw her country overthrown, and the throne to which she had been raised swept away; and she lived to see in the death of her only son the failure of the fond hopes which had clustered round his cradle. Great riches, it is believed, she still possesses, but, despite this, the career of the Empress Eugenie must always be one, and that not the least moving, of the "sad stories of the death of Kings."

There, of course, have not been wanting critics who attributed to the Empress much of the calamity which oppressed the latter days of the Empire. Napoleon III. was a sick man, and as the years rolled by he saw himself losing one by one the men who had helped to create and to strengthen his throne. He had lost confidence in himself, and the people were beginning to understand his real character. The French, said Thiers, made two mistakes in their judgment of Napoleon—the first when they believed him to be a fool, and the second when they believed him to be a genius. Neither fool nor genius, he had come very near to the end of his tether, and he easily persuaded himself, or allowed himself to be persuaded, that as it was the future that was at stake, it was to the representatives of the future that the management of present affairs should be entrusted. It was the dynasty, not its founder, whose interests were imperilled, and it was therefore to the Prince Imperial, and not to the Emperor, that regard was to be had. But the Prince Imperial was only a child; he was but 14 when he received his "baptism of fire;" and his natural guardian, failing the Emperor, was his mother. Napoleon saw in Eugenie, who was his junior by some 18 years, a vigorous and capable guardian of their son's interests, and a regent who would rule France in accordance with them. Thus his natural and growing indolence found an excuse and a justification for it. Eugenie was not the woman to let the opportunity slip. Her ambition had been fired by the splendour of her position, and her natural pride in being the mother of the only hope of the dynasty had been harshened by the slights she had experienced at the Emperor's hands. From the birth of her son she had displayed a growing tendency to engage in politics, and this notwithstanding her defects for a leading position therein—defects due to her birth, her education, and her character. Not the strongest of women—an Elizabeth of England, or a Catherine of Russia, or a Louise of Prussia—could have hoped to have been successful in guiding safely through the stormy waters a ship of State so badly equipped as France was. Eugenie of France was no such strong woman, and the dauntless courage which was her only qualification for the task was more than counterbalanced by her ignorance of affairs, her impulsiveness, her lack of self-control. As we all see now, the Empire was doomed, and Napoleon III. in his prime could not have saved it. It was the misfortune of the Empress that she was nominally in charge when successive blows were struck. It was her misfortune, too, that certain sayings of hers as to the honour of France demanding war with Prussia, and as to this war being hers, have stuck in the public memory, tenacious of attractive details such as this, whilst forgetful of more important matters. All France was crying out "A Berlin" in those days, and making frenzied threats of avenging French honour. When the cries were smothered at Gravelotte and Sedan, and when dishonour reared its ugly head at Metz, a victim was demanded, and it was found in the figure-head of the ship which had been lured to destruction. Mr. Sergeant, having recent German memoirs before his eyes, has no hesitation in finding the immediate cause of the Franco-Prussian war in Bismarck's and Moltke's manipulation of King William's famous telegram from Ems; a manipulation which turned an inoffensive statement of fact into a gross insult. Indeed, it is impossible in the face of Bismarck's own statement—and the Chancellor took credit to himself for the crime—to deny that the telegram was altered with the object of securing the very result which it attained. Once it became known that the Ambassador of France had been insulted by the Prussian King, there was no holding France; and the Empress was simply carried along by the wave of popular feeling. "Her" war, indeed; it was Bismarck's war, to be followed a few years later by his attempt, then happily thwarted, to "bleed France white." We may not blame the Empress for believing that the French army was ready to the last button for glorious campaigns. The Ministers assured her of its thorough preparedness, and she was only one of the millions of her adopted country who entered upon the war with a light heart.

The breath of scandal was busy enough with the name of the Empress Eugenie, and the efforts in this direction of the enemies of the Bonaparte dynasty were powerfully assisted, as well by the unscrupulous hostility of Prince Napoleon, as by the sometimes unseemly extravagances of her personal court. The sombre dulness of the early years of her married life, in strong contrast with what was known of the freedom of her behaviour as Mademoiselle de Montijo, had degenerated into a vulgar and tasteless display. The Empress was never allowed to forget that she was not born in the purple, and persons who would have been models of propriety in the court of London, or Vienna, or Berlin, permitted themselves to take liberties with her which, gross enough in themselves, lost nothing in the telling. Marie Antoinette, the daughter of the Hapsburgs, found to her cost that the divinity which hedges a sovereign is not powerful enough to prevent the thrust of poisoned darts; how much more were people likely to criticise adversely the eccentricities permitted in the court of the non-Royal wife of a parvenu Emperor! But Mr. Sergeant has no difficulty in showing that the scandals rife about the court of the Empress were founded on gross exaggeration, and that she herself was untouched by them. His book (which comes to us from the Sydney Book Club) gives an excellent presentation of a most interesting life.

THE DIDACTIC NOVEL.

Here are a couple of stories—"The Helpmate," by May Sinclair (Constable's Colonial Library), and "The Passing of Night," by J. Fovargue Bradley (Long's Colonial Library). It has to be said in regard to the first-named of these books (which comes to us from the Sydney Book Club) that, apart altogether from the didactic qualities of "The Helpmate," the many persons all over the world who expected great things from the author of "The Divine Fire," will be somewhat grievously disappointed in this book. For this we largely blame the inadequacy of the motive rather than of the treatment, coupled with the fact that the story has so largely to do with the observance of the Seventh Commandment. Nearly all the romance which used to be connected with this matter has been so hopelessly mixed up with the mud of divorce courts that the marvel of persons writing stories about it is the most surprising thing in connection with their books. In this instance a bride finds very early in her honeymoon that her husband has been unfaithful to her in anticipation. She so grievously resents this that she abruptly closes the honeymoon and puts an end to the relations of husband and wife. Even this is a concession to public opinion, for what the bride originally wanted to do was to get a divorce on the moment, or else go home to her mother, or both. Second thoughts induced the heroine to play the passive but aggravating role of a martyr. The position was somewhat intensified by the arrival of a daughter to the disenchanted couple. The wife, too, finds that she made a mistake when she started quarrelling with her bridegroom. She does not put it in this rude way when communing with herself in a thoughtful spirit. She puts it this way: "She was a good woman, and her goodness had been her husband's ruin." Even so, she was wrong. Goodness never killed, and this particular victim lived happily for years.

Not quite so melancholy a book from the artistic standpoint is "The Passing of the Night"—and that mainly because the author is so clearly of less importance than the lady known as May Sinclair. "J. Fovargue Bradley" may disport herself to her heart's content, for she is like Wisdom crying in the street to this extent, that no man regardeth her; whereas May Sinclair has a reputation to maintain, and the ability to maintain it if she so desired. "The Passing of the Night" (which comes to us through Messrs. George Robertson and Co.), is a dreary collection of ill-arranged controversial treatises. In it is fought out all the old battle of Anglicanism and Nonconformity and Romanism in England, with diversions into the minor arenas of establishment versus disestablishment, endowment versus disendowment, ritualism versus evangelicism—all the old convincing grounds. The author airs at large her knowledge of the ecclesiastical movement from Henry VIII.'s day to our own, and it must be said at once that, saving such minor lapses as making Dr. King of the celebrated case Bishop of London instead of Lincoln, we have here an interesting statement of the position. But what is this statement doing in a novel? The glimpses we catch of the story are pleasant enough, but they are so tiny and fleeting, so overshadowed by mountains of ecclesiastical lore, that they are more annoying than enjoyable.

Mr. Frank Frankfort Moore's new story, "The Marriage Lease: The Story of a Social Experiment"—copies of which come from Messrs. George Robertson and Co., Dymock's Library, and the Sydney Book Club—is the somewhat wearisome example of another kind of didactic novel. Here the theory is that people—the people of Azalea—are tired of the life-long marriage bond, and that the system of leasehold has been received as commendable. Incidentally, this raises the question of the length of the lease, and much wisdom is exercised—much wit also—in arguments in favour of a three-years' or a five-years' tenure. The experiment was tried for a while, but the result was not satisfactory. The story is cleverly told, but as has been so evident in Mr. Moore's recent work, the cleverness is exalted beyond the story.

CARETTE OF SARK.

Mr. John Oxenham, whose first story was published not ten years ago, has deservedly made a name for himself as amongst the first of modern story-writers. A few years ago, when a story from his pen was published serially in the "Herald," there was need for an introduction; to-day Mr. Oxenham is admittedly in the first flight of English novelists. In his latest book, "Carette of Sark" (Hodder and Stoughton)—copies of which reach us from the Sydney Book Club, Messrs. George Robertson and Co., and Dymock's Library—we have the result in a harmonious whole of the efforts of the romanticist, the historian, and the born story-teller. The combination is almost unique in our days, and there is just a chance that readers accustomed to the flashlight performances of some modern favourites will resent the restraint imposed by the gradual unfolding of the plot. These modern favourites—exercising powers greater than Nature's—hurry readers from possibilities through impossibilities, and improbabilities back again to possibilities, whereas men of Mr. Oxenham's calibre content themselves with the possibilities. In this story we have pourtrayed for us the adventures of Philip Carre, a man of Sark, and the story of his great love for Carette, a lovely girl who has been the companion of his boyish escapades. In a complete if leisurely way Mr. Oxenham tells the pleasant and moving tale that he has found in the course of his travels through that remarkable little country which is English though French, and which retains some of the virtues of mediaevalism, though it is cheek by jowl with the leaders of modern civilisation. Mr. Oxenham has the happy knack of modernising antiquities—or, if you will, throwing the glamour of quaintness over everyday things—and the result is a delightful story which defies analysis, compounded as it is of the stuff that the immortal tales are made of: part fancy, part fact, part history, and the whole skilfully seasoned for modern consumption by more than a dash of poetry. One significant touch. The library to which the hero had access consisted of five books—a very large Bible, Mr. John Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," Fox's "Book of Martyrs," La Fontaine's "Fables Choisies," and "a massive volume of Plays by William Shakespeare." The youth who used this library well at the beginning of the nineteenth century was well equipped for the battle of life.

NOTES.

"Nimrod's Wife," by Grace Gallatin Seton (Archibald Constable and Co.), is a pleasant story of holiday exploration in the wilds of Western America. Nimrod is a mighty hunter, and the historian is his worthy consort. She undergoes considerable privations in the right spirit, and there are indications sometimes in the course of the narrative that the gray mare is as good as any other horse in the mob. Her sex sometimes hampers Mrs. Nimrod, as, for instance, when she is forced to leave her husband and a friend bathing to seek a private pool where she may disport herself free from the observation of men and from the restraints of clothing. Unhappily for her, she is confronted here by a huge sea-serpent, which resolves itself later into an innocuous water snake, but which has assumed such proportions in her eyes that she is glad to be rescued, "a frozen rag," by her husband. The pleasant party has many adventures, which are agreeably described. We have a copy of this book from Dymock's Library, as well as from the publishers.

The Rev. Dr. Alexander Maclaren, who is now in his 82nd year, and who has been minister of Union Chapel, Manchester, for nearly 40 years, has been made the victim of stenography. A shorthand reporter, without Dr. Maclaren's knowledge, "took down" many of his utterances which are now embodied in "Pulpit Prayers" (Hodder and Stoughton, through Messrs. Angus and Robertson). Happily, this doing good by stealth, this purloining of Dr. Maclaren's utterances, was brought within the cognisance of Dr. W. Robertson Nicoll, who had enough influence to secure permission for their publication. The world is the richer for these remarkable utterances of prayer and praise.

"The Story of Job, or Light on the Mystery of Suffering," by H. Grattan Guinness, D.D., is now in its second edition. This is a rendering of the Book of Job into sundry varieties of English verse, and into some measures which are neither English nor verse. But, of course, the attempt was wholly unnecessary in view of the incomparable beauty of the rendering of this beautiful poem by the translators, whose work is embodied in the Authorised Version of the Bible. Dr. Guinness has not improved on this noble rendering.

"The Peep of Day," which shed its light on the early days of some readers who are slow enough to admit that the years are gathering round them, has been produced in a new and illustrated form by The Religious Tract Society. It is not clear that the resurrection was altogether wise, and there are certainly some views of life advanced in this once popular book, which no mother would care to teach her child to-day, unless she were prepared to meet indignant protests a few years hence.

The Rev. Dr. George Matheson was engaged to the very day before his death in the preparation of his book, "The Representative Women of the Bible" (Hodder and Stoughton, through Messrs. Angus and Robertson). He had already published books concerning the representative men of the Bible, and the work before us was his answer to the request that these books should be supplemented by a volume descriptive of those women in the Holy Scriptures who are typical of the sex at its best. Jael, the wife of Heber the Kenite, is, happily, not included in the list, and, incidentally, her assassination of Sisera is described as "a dastardly deed." There are fifteen types well pourtrayed here.

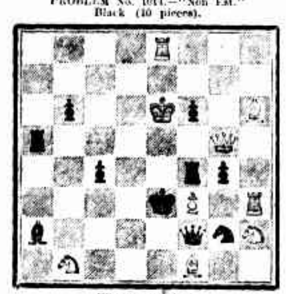

Mr. Nathan F. Spielvogel's "The Cocky Farmer" (George Robertson and Co.) is not a collection of short stories, as might be supposed, but one story split up into serviceable lengths. This fact does not decrease its attractiveness; rather, the multiplicity of adventure adds to the interest of the little book.

From the Sydney Book Club we receive copies of stories by well-known authors—Mr. Thomas Cobb and Mr. Max Pemberton. Mr. Thomas Cobb tells us in "A Sentimental Season" (T. Werner Laurie), the somewhat unconvincing story of an unrequited attachment which merited its fate. The crippled but otherwise desirable son and heir of a comfortable country magnate loved a girl of undesirable and suggestive parentage. He never told his love until after the lady's damask cheek had ben saluted by less worthy but more daring suitors. His activities were mainly confined to the supplying of the lady with filthy lucre and to otherwise rescuing her from the evil consequences of her ill-directed affections. Mr. Max Pemberton's "The Lodestar" is cryptic mainly in the title. A young man who is in love with the daughter of a Polish revolutionary, becomes, much to his surprise, the honoured inmate of a house owned by a person of whom he knows nothing. This person is, amongst other things, a Russian agent, whose efforts are successfully devoted to the entrapment of the aforesaid revolutionary. The hero follows his love to Warsaw, where he incidentally becomes acquainted with Cossack means of maintaining law and order. Everything ends happily.

Correct solutions from F. B. Smith, Black Bishop, E. J. Stenning, Once More, F. C. Freeman, J. M. C., H. Porter, O. Hegman, B. F. Kersey, J. Harvey, E. M. Fry, and H. R.

Correct solutions not above mentioned have reached us too late to score in tourney. They will, however, be acknowledged in our next issue.

QUARTERLY SOLUTION TOURNEY.

The "Sydney Morning Herald" 51st quarterly solution tourney opens with October. Conditions: Solutions the unaided work of solvers must reach this office by Monday fortnight after the appearance of problems, which are limited to one two-mover a week. The key move only need be given. In the case of unsound problems, if there is no solution, a statement to that effect is necessary; if more than one, any one of them will score. Special section: Conditions same as above, except that all problems appearing during the quarter are included, and a point given for each key of an unsound problem with more than one solution. We have pleasure in offering a memento in each section for the highest score or scores. Noms-de-guerre may be used, but names and addresses should accompany the first solution. As complaints reach us from time to time of letters going astray, competitors in sending current solutions are recommended to repeat those of the previous week.

"HERALD" THIRTEENTH TOURNEY.

The "Sydney Morning Herald" thirteenth international problem tourney. Conditions: (1) Competitors may send in as many original problems in diagrams, accompanied by full solutions, as they please. "White to play and mate in two moves." (2) Each problem to have a nom-de-guerre or motto. The composer's name and address to be enclosed in a separate sealed envelope, with the like motto. Seals will not be broken until the awards are made. (3) Each problem to have but one author, not to have competed in any other tourney, or been published before. (4) Problems to be adressed, "The Editor, the 'Sydney Morning Herald,' Sydney, Australia," and reach this office by December 1 next. The prize we offer for the problem that the judge (Mr. F. J. Young, of Hobart, Tas.) deems best is five guineas. Should he so recommend, two special prizes will also be awarded.

Further competing positions to hand:—Asjedlieft und Welbedaukt (20).

NOTES.

Our Twelfth International Problem Tourney.—The B.C.M., in the course of rather a supercilious criticism of Mr. Young's award, states that Mr. Young says: "The white king (in Problem No. 950, 'Day Dreams') is useful only to stop a cook by '. BQ4.'" As a matter of fact, what Mr. Young did say was: "The white king takes a part in the composition, thanks to the black pawn on rook 7, otherwise BQ4 would be a second solution, but this is answered by 1. P Queen's ch." This is something very different. The B.C.M. goes on to say:—"We may also add that we have before us a composition entered in this tourney which must have been among the 42 which Mr. Young summarily dismissed as not being up to tourney form, according to his report, but which is unmistakably superior to several of the positions he discusses as being worthy of final considerations." To condemn a judge for leaving out a problem and not to mention the name of the problem is obviously unfair. We hold no brief for Mr. Young. His standing in the chess world speaks for itself. The B.C.M., however, is a chess authority, and its criticisms carry weight, so we regret that its comment in this case hardly seems worthy of it.

MUSIC AND DRAMA.

The return of Signor Hazon to Italy with his wife and daughters by the Scharnhorst next Saturday leaves vacant the conductorship of the Sydney Amateur Orchestral Society and the Sydney Philharmonic Society. The former position has been happily accepted by Herr Gustav Slapoffski, formerly of the Royal Carl Rosa Company, and at present directing Mr. George Musgrove's German Opera Company in Australia. Mr. Robert B. Barton hon. secretary, is now able to announce the receipt of a cablegram definitely filling the second appointment, and with equal success. Mr. Joseph Bradley will be the new Philharmonic conductor, and will arrive here next March. This engagement was due to the energy and tact of Sir William Manning during his recent visit to London, when he was assisted by the advice of Dr. F. H. Cowen and Sir Frederick Bridges, and by the cooperation of Novello's, who made their great publishing house the headquarters of negotiations. There were about 50 well-qualified applicants. Mr. Joseph Bradley has been for twenty seasons past conductor of the principal choir in Scotland, the Glasgow Choral Union, and had just been re-elected for another season (ending next February) when he decided to visit Australia. Previous to that he was for six years connected with the Halle concerts in Manchester, under the late Sir Charles Halle, as choral accompanist and organist. In Glasgow he has had complete control of an orchestra of 80 players and a chorus of 350 in a repertoire ranging from Bach and Handel to Strauss and Elgar. Mr. Bradley forwards a mass of concert programmes, press criticisms, and other printed matter dealing with his career. The prospectus of the Choral and Orchestral Union of Glasgow, 1906-7, shows two separate musical bodies in association, Dr. Cowen conducting the Scottish Orchestral Concerts, of which as many as 28 are given, and Mr. Bradley the four choral ones given by the Glasgow Choral Union (with Scottish Orchestra). In February last Mr. Bradley conducted the first and third acts of "Lohengrin," with our one-time visitor, Mme. Ella Russell, amongst the principals. On November 20 last year, the prospectus quotes "Verdi's 'Requiem' by the Glasgow Choral Union and the Scottish Orchestra (conductor Mr. Joseph Bradley);" and the press notices upon his direction of Berlioz's "Faust" on November 6, 1894 (soloists Mr. and Mrs. Henschel and Mr. Edward Lloyd), entirely from memory, are in the highest degree favourable. It may be added that the new conductor is a native of Hyde, near Manchester. He is an F.C.O. and a Mus. Bac., Oxon., and by his record seems likely to prove a highly distinguished addition to the list of English artists resident in Australia.

Mr. J. C. Williamson is at present drinking the waters at Carlsbad, but will return to London for a few days next month before leaving to witness some of the "fall" productions in New York. His principal business has been the engagement of Miss Margaret Anglin to tour Australia next year. He had been negotiating with this artist for some time, and as she was spending her vacation in Paris he was able to adjust all details with her there. Miss Anglin holds a big star position in the United States as an emotional actress, and will probably bring out her own company and a fine repertoire of modern pieces. One of the most interesting events in Miss Anglin's career of 12 years occurred at the Lyric Theatre, New York, last November, when she and the English actress Lena Ashwell alternated the characters of Lady Eastney and Mrs. Dane in "Mrs. Dane's Defence." The experiment crowded the house. Mr. Williamson has just purchased from Mr. James Chute, the famous Bristol manager, all the costumes and accessories of the "Humpty Dumpty" pantomime, for which he has engaged Mr. Bert Gilbert (formerly here with Miss Ada Reeve) as principal comedian. He has also purchased elaborate animal and bird costumes for Walter Slaughter's musical scene, "Who Killed Cock Robin?" the principal feature in the Christmas juvenile production here of "Blue Bell in Fairyland." In connection with the comedy season opening here October 26 with "Brewster's Millions," a production of the first importance will be Sutro's new play, "John Glayde's Humour," which enjoyed recently a long run at the St. James's Theatre with Mr. George Alexander. Miss Amy Castles was to leave at once for Continental engagements. Miss Dolly Castles was to go out with the No. 1 "Lady Dandies" company on tour, headed by Miss Evie Greene. Miss Eileen Castles is studying singing in London. Mr. George Castles has a part in Seymour Hicks's company, and Mr. Williamson states that he possesses a good robust tenor voice and a bright stage appearance. As regards local arrangements, the "Blue Moon" company opened at Perth on Thursday, and as they have to visit Kalgurli their season here at Her Majesty's will not begin until the end of next month.

Already the arrangements for the winter concert season of next year are beginning to develop. One of the earliest arrivals should be the violinist Kubelik, supported by Miss Erna Mueller, a Victorian contralto, and in June Mr. and Mrs. Albert Mallinson will open their season. These artists left London for Dresden last month, probably in order to resume there the recitals of Mr. Mallinson's songs. Last year Mallinson was the only English composer invited to give a private recital of that character before the Dresden musicians, others who assisted in that way being Max Reger and Carl Reinecke. Mrs. Mallinson will be remembered in Sydney about a decade ago as Mme. Anna Steinhauer, a fair-haired Danish soprano of some eminence. Her husband, who resided for two or three years in Melbourne, composed the male-voice cantata, "Balder the Beautiful," which was produced here by the Sydney Liedertafel. Messrs. Meynell and Gunn will direct the Mallinson tour, and their concerts will be purely classic in character.

Mr. Thomas Kingston returned to Sydney during the week upon the completion at Charters Towers of Miss Tittell Brune's Queensland tour, and Mr. J. C. Williamson has now disbanded the company, which the American actress headed for three years. During the latter half of that period Mr. Kingston was leading man, having come from South Africa for that purpose, but he does not return to England, but remains here to play the principal part in "Brewster's Millions." This farcical comedy is not due at the Theatre Royal until October 26, as its production will involve the most elaborate ship-scene ever staged here, in which the entire stage will move with the vessel. From London the actor learns that the new song-cycle, "Rose of the World," composed by his wife, the noted pianist, Mme. Adelina De Lara, has just been translated into French for Jean De Reszke at Paris, and into Italian for Signor Caruso, who promised to take up the music after singing it several times at the Hotel Cecil. Mr. Ben Davies will sing some of the songs on tour.

Mr. Kelso Henderson, a young baritone, who gave a farewell concert at the Y.M.C.A. Hall a few months back, has been fortunate in his visit to New York, as he writes thence under date July 10 that he has just signed on under Shubert's famous management for 12 months as principal baritone in comic opera. This engagement was secured after being only two weeks in the city. Mr. Henderson had had some useful experience here with Mr. J. C. Williamson's musical combinations.

An interesting experiment in electrical culture was tried in one of the glass-houses of the Royal Botanic Gardens at Regent's Park. A small aerial railway has been constructed in the greenhouse, and from three lamps on a travelling car a pure violet light is being poured on the plants, through screens of glass and water. Heat is derived from the hot-water jacket of a gas-engine, and the purified exhaust supplies carbon di-oxide to the atmosphere and ammonia to fertilise the soil. Strawberries and tomatoes are being treated, and are expected to be ready for the table by Christmas. Mr. B. H. Thwaite, the inventor of the system, believes that by means of it cultivators will be able to ignore the English winter climate and attain three or four fruit and flower producing seasons in the year.

THE HEALTH-GIVER
KUTNOW'S POWDER

THE face is the barometer of life, which indicates the rise of health and vigour, or the fall into languor and depressing debility. It shows either the picture of health with brilliant eye and rounded cheek or a sallow, yellowy complexion, blotchy skin, bleary eyes, a furred tongue—sure and unmistakable signs of premature decay and actual or approaching ill-health. Should you reveal a pair of laughing, bright eyes, a clear, transparent skin, a clean tongue, and a ruddy glow of health, then adopt the certain means of maintaining and preserving it by an occasional refreshing and exhilarating morning draught of Kutnow's Powder. If, on the contrary, you see depicted the evidence of irregularity of the digestive and excretory functions, then lose no time in taking Kutnow's Powder, the master-remedy for such ailments. Kutnow's Powder ensures the active working of the liver and kidneys, removes all skin blotches, gives you a sound digestion, and strengthens your physical and mental capacity. With Kutnow's Powder in your possession you can defy the attacks of indigestion, biliousness, constipation, or liver and kidney troubles.

"THE MEDICAL JOURNAL,"
DECEMBER, 1901, SAYS:

"The main object of the physician is to keep the inner organs free from all toxicants produced by faulty metabolism. Nothing is so highly recommended for that purpose by the medical authorities of the present age as KUTNOW'S POWDER, of which the late Sir Morell Mackenzie, in his decisive and positive mode of expressing his opinions, wrote:—'I have tried it, and find that it answers particularly well.' And Dr. Ewald, the great stomach specialist, said:—'Its advantages appear to arise from its possessing the power to eliminate from the body the excess of bile and acids, thereby purifying the blood and strengthening the general tone by improving the assimilative processes of the debilitated system.'"

POWERFUL AND CONVINCING PROOFS.

REMOVE THE POISONS.

When the liver is torpid the intestines become overloaded with the waste products of the body, causing fermentation to set in.

The poisons thus formed are absorbed by the blood and distributed over the entire body, including the brain.

A sluggish liver inevitably produces constipation, and constipation forms a veritable hotbed for the cultivation of every form of disease.

As the poisons enter the blood they set up irritation in all the nerve centres.

The brain or nervous system sensitively responds to bilious attacks and liver disorders generally.

Depression of spirits, dizziness, peevishness, capriciousness, and congestive symptoms quickly follow.

Well may we say of anyone who is suffering from a "fit of the blues" that his liver is out of order.

An inactive liver gives rise to that indescribable feeling known as "the miserables," a pitiable condition which often leads to serious results.

Kutnow's Powder removes the poisons, rouses the liver, and restores it to normal activity.

It furthermore flushes the kidneys, gets rid of poisonous deposits, and efficiently regulates the bowels.

Kutnow's Powder relieves headache almost instanter, and completely banishes depression of spirits.

In Kutnow's Powder are incorporated all the health-giving ingredients of the most famous European spas.

Kutnow's Powder is absolutely free from sugar, and at the same time most palatable, refreshing, and invigorating. You can get it at all chemists and stores.

How to Guard against Fraud.

The Genuine and Original KUTNOW'S POWDER is sold by all conscientious Chemists throughout the world. Beware of fraudulent imitations, of which there are many. Insist on being supplied with Kutnow's Powder. See that the fac-simile signature, "S. Kutnow and Co., Ld.," and the registered trade mark, "Hirschensprung, or Deer Leap," are on the carton and bottle. You will then avoid fraud, and

LIFE IN LONDON AND THEREABOUT.

(CHRONICLED BY HENRY W. LUCY.)

Work of the Session.—New Australian Tariff.—The Deceased Wife's Sister.—Death Duties.—Queen Victoria Memorial.

WESTMINSTER, Aug. 23.

In planning the work of their second session his Majesty's Ministers undoubtedly erred on the side of attempting too much. That is the sin of vigorous youth. It was expiated by the inconveniences and loss of time consequent on futile endeavour. All the same, the session beats the record in the matter of the number and importance of legislative achievements. Not since the palmy days of Gladstone has the fruit of a single session been more bountiful. That it should have accomplished a scheme of army reform, comparable in its thoroughness only with that which keeps green the memory of Lord Cardwell, would be of itself sufficient to make it memorable. In addition, it has added to the Statute Book Acts creating a Court of Criminal Appeal, restoring evicted tenants to their holdings in Ireland, establishing a system of small holdings in England, placing patents and designs on a businesslike footing, amending the Merchant Shipping Act, dealing with the flotation of commercial companies in the interests of the sometimes hapless shareholder, driving in the thin edge of woman's suffrage by extending their right to sit on local administrative bodies, revising income tax and death duties, and authorising the guaranteeing of a loan to the Transvaal, which, has, according to General Botha's testimony, sealed the bond of union between races which, seven years ago, were in deadly conflict. This is not a full list of Acts passed this session. But it will serve to indicate the character and range of the business done.

There is a good deal of chuckling in free-trade circles at the fact that the first protest against the new Australian tariff should come from Birmingham, birthplace and headquarters of the cult of preferential tariffs. The local Chamber of Commerce has hurried into the presence of the free-trade President of the Board of Trade with anguished cry that he should use every endeavour to induce the Commonwealth Government at least to postpone operation of the tariff for a period of three months. Whilst the Midlands are most active and insistent in their denunciation of the new tariff, it is viewed with distrust and dislike in all centres of industry throughout the Kingdom. It is recognised that, whilst the politely-named preferential tariff will slightly benefit British trade, as against the competition of rival countries, the small mercy will be more than counterbalanced by the general increase of protective duties established in favour of the Australian producer. Outside trade circles hit by the new fiscal arrangements, it is recognised that in this matter the Commonwealth has a full right to do what it likes with its own. There is perhaps spice of malice in enjoyment of the grim humour which administers to faithful Birmingham this object-lesson in the privileges and advantages of colonial preference.

The passage of the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill, after a period of dogged fighting extending over half a century, has created general satisfaction. Apart from the bigotry of the ban, the pain it gave in many otherwise happy households, its detention on the Statute Book was an affront to the colonies, where such marriages have always been legalised. The history of legislation from the first is involved in scandal. Seventy-three years ago the then Duke of Beaufort married his deceased wife's half-sister. A son was born, whose heirship to the dukedom was barred by the operation of the statute declaring such marriage illegal. If the case at issue had been that of a cook's son the House of Lords would have looked on unmoved. The affairs of a duke's son are, as the French say, another pair of sleeves. Lord Lyndhurst, then Lord Chancellor, made haste to introduce a bill legalising such marriages, thus making straight the pathway of the future Duke of Beaufort. The good Bishops were instantly up in arms. Of course it was not for them to stand in the way of the accomplishment of ducal desire. Let his Grace of Beaufort have a dispensation; but for all commoner people the penalties attached to such weddings must remain in full force. Lord Lyndhurst didn't care tuppence about the common people's affairs. All he was concerned for was the succession to the Beaufort dukedom. He accordingly accepted an amendment under which his bill applied only to marriages contracted prior to the year 1835. Thus it came to pass that for 72 years this restriction, as absurd as it is offensive, has prevailed among a singularly docile people.

The only pleasant thing I know in connection with the narrow controversy is a story about Mr. Denison, afterwards Viscount Ossington, Speaker of the House of Commons from 1857 to 1872. One night the House was engaged upon discussion of a measure the nature of which made it undesirable that ladies should be present. On such occasions the Speaker never takes upon himself the responsibility of ordering the doors of the Ladies' Gallery to be closed. What happens is that the doorkeeper is instructed to inform applicants for admission of the nature of business in hand, and to suggest their abstention from attendance. On this particular night the warning had due effect, save in the case of a determined dame who insisted on full enjoyment of her privilege. She seated herself in the otherwise empty gallery, and refused to budge. News of the difficulty was conveyed to the Speaker, the harried doorkeeper confessing his inability to move the lady either morally or physically. "Oh, never mind," said the Speaker, "I fancy it must be the Deceased Wife's Sister. Leave her alone."

Chancellors of the Exchequer are hard to satisfy. Amid a glut of wealth garnered from death duties, Mr. Asquith is murmuring about the dead-and-gone millionaire. Discontent arises in connection with a curious development of the decline in the value of principal stocks just now depressing the money market. Within the last few months there have been two or three instances where estates valued for probate have fallen just below the pleasing plumpness of the round million. This has been directly due to the fact that the estate, having to be straightway realised, prices obtained for stocks are considerably below what may be regarded as their normal valuation. On estates yielding anything over a million the Chancellor of the Exchequer has extra pickings in the rate per cent. levied. This, of course, runs all the way down the scale, affecting every estate liable to duty. Up to £10,000, for example, estate duty is levied at the rate of 2 per cent. Above £10,000, not exceeding £25,000, a tribute of 4 per cent. is dropped into the Treasury. By such gradations it reaches the millionaire, whose dead hand is forced to yield a tithe of his accumulated wealth. Depreciation of value all along the line has appreciable effect upon the Treasury's takings.

It is expected that the spring of next year will see the unveiling of the statue of Queen Victoria, at present hidden behind the enclosure fronting Buckingham Palace. The disclosure is awaited with some concern by a public compulsorily inured to the presence in the metropolis of some sad things in the way of sculpture. The remaking of the Mall, converting it into a stately, tree-girt boulevard that can fearlessly bear comparison with the triumphs of Paris and other Continental capitals, renders the site more precious, and would deepen chagrin at finding its beauty marred by some fresh monstrosity in the form of modern sculpture. Apprehension is not lessened by knowledge that to a certain extent the work is modelled after the design of the Albert Memorial in Kensington Gardens. As in the case of the Prince Consort, her Majesty, clad in robes of State, will be presented seated under a canopy. Symbolical figures representing Justice, Truth, Courage, Constancy, and Motherhood will be grouped around her. Flights of steps formed of huge blocks of Carara marble will lead up to the statue, being flanked at their base by two fountains. The estimated cost of the memorial is a quarter of a million sterling. At present we are living in hope that it may turn out to be worth it.

"DR. JIM."

THE CAPE PREMIER.

A PERSONAL SKETCH.

(BY H. V. O'M.)

Leander Starr Jameson, or "Dr. Jim," as he is generally known to his friends, Prime Minister of the Cape of Good Hope, hero of the historic "raid," and for many years Ædus Achates of Cecil John Rhodes, is certainly one of the world's interesting personalities. What is "Dr. Jim" like?" is a query that has frequently been put to the writer, who was privileged to come in contact with him on several occasions during a five years' residence at the Cape. Well, in stature the doctor is a little man, measuring, in his stockinged feet, probably not more than 5ft 6in, and of rather spare frame. But, in proportion, his shoulders are broad and his chest deep—a chest that is full enough to enclose a big brave heart that flinches at nothing. His head is large, well poised, and with sufficient height above the eyes and in the region of the cerebellum. Fever, contracted in far Rhodesia, and a long, strenuous career of heavy responsibilities, anxieties and dangers, have left their mark upon him and impaired a once fairly robust constitution. The Cape Premier is still a young man, not having yet attained his fiftieth birthday. Bright, animated, mirthful, as a rule, and full of expression are his dark eyes, lit up generally by a merry twinkle. Occasionally, though, an expression of complete weariness and abstraction may be seen there. Then it is perhaps that Jameson becomes an interesting study. That weary, far-away look is the reflex of the mind within flinging back, for a moment, to stirring days of intrepid adventure—days of brilliant achievement, aye, and of bitter failure. But it is not "Ichabod" that is written in those eyes Merely the sign of a passing mood, which presently gives place to the merry expression, the hearty laugh, that mostly animates the medico-statesman's face. Energy and courage are his in a liberal degree, and he is possessed of a manner so pleasing as to endear him to most men and women who meet him. By his colleagues he is held in the greatest affection, while his popularity and personal influence with the members of his party, especially in the House, even some of the most rebelliously inclined, are the secret of much of his success as a leader.

Temperamentally Jameson does not strike one as having been designed by nature for a politician as the term is popularly understood. Nor did he in his younger days intend to qualify for the groove in which he is now cast. As a matter of fact, he elected to become a member of the medical profession. After a particularly brilliant career at his University, failing health drove him to South Africa, where he settled in Kimberley (then in its roaring days), where he soon earned the reputation of a skilful surgeon, and for years stood at the head of his profession. It was in Kimberley, or Diamondopolis, as it is sometimes called—then the Mecca of venturesome speculators and fortune-hunters—that he first met Rhodes. And it was not long before the distinguished surgeon was persuaded by Rhodes (also driven thither by health reasons) to gradually abandon the practice of his profession, in order to assist the Colossus in his mighty work of painting red the map of South Africa. Soon we hear of Jameson as Administrator of vast Rhodesia, at that time virtually a terra incognita, but soon the less essential to the Imperial project that filled the mind of Rhodes. Later on, it is as Rhodes's trusted emissary into Lobengula's stronghold, an enterprise of incalculable danger, that Jameson is revealed. Everyone knows that Jameson's journey was one of peril and grave difficulties, and that his ready tact, resourcefulness, and certain adventitious happenings in regard to the sick savage-chief, enabled Jameson to complete his mission with success. In those days he frequently displayed the qualities that have since enabled him to undertake tasks that would dismay most men. And here one may be permitted to digress for the purpose of remarking that the spectacle of General Louis Botha as Prime Minister of the Transvaal, a self-governing British colony, is not more extraordinary than that of the hero of the "raid" occupying the position of Prime Minister of the Cape. Jameson, it has been observed, was not intended for a political career, but the untimely and deplorable death of Rhodes settled the question irrevocably. Instinctively every eye in the British party turned to the man who, more than any other, had helped Rhodes in his great Imperial schemes. Obviously the man to whom to entrust the completion of Rhodes's work was Jameson. And he accepted the great responsibility.

Elected as one of the members for Kimberley a few months prior to a general election, he sat in silence until the eve of the closing of the session, when, quite unexpectedly, he rose in his place one day to apologise for his "mistake" over the "raid." And he discharged this delicate duty with graceful modesty and unmistakable sincerity. "Let bygones be bygones," he asked of the House, and the appeal was received with cheers from both sides of the Chamber. Then, the campaign. Spring was discredited, and had practically no following, and the way was clear for Jameson. From end to end of the vast colony he journeyed, leaving no important centre unvisited; he addressed meetings innumerable, of white and black, English and Dutch, declaring in unequivocal terms his firm intention to revolutionise the disastrous system of politics that had made the colony the sport of racialism, destroyed enterprise, and retarded reforms absolutely necessary to progress.

Many marvelled at the audacity of the man in invading purely Dutch strongholds with his unheard-of "heresies;" but more admired the courage and pertinacity of this "new" politician, who shaped like an old hand at the game. Fiercely the campaign was fought by the two great white races, with the result that the Jameson party was returned with a good working majority, every man of it pledged to support the policy of progress and reform propounded by Jameson, or, if unable to do so, go before his constituents. (That pledge has, so far, proved wonderfully effective.) Invited to form a Ministry "Dr. Jim" immediately succeeded in doing so, and subsequently met the House with a series of measures, many of which were passed into law during the first two sessions of the present quinquennial Parliament, which, the cable tells us, is about to be dissolved. It is not easy to forget the significant spectacle at the close of a recent session, when, after many stormy all-day and all-night sittings, necessary to force through certain radical progressive measures involving, some of them, bitterest controversy and racial conflicts and prejudices, a number of Dutch Bondsmen crossed the floor and warmly wrung the hand of the Prime Minister! And this after he had smitten his opponents severely. He had taxed "Cape smoke" (colonial brandy), imposed an income tax, and increased his majority by the Additional Representation Act, a measure designed to lessen disparities and glaring inequalities in Parliamentary representation, which had largely favoured Bondsmen.

Frequently during the session you may see "Dr. Jim" sitting at the foot—not the head—of the Treasury benches, legs crossed and head thrown back, in apparent weariness. His face is partly covered by his hand. Now and then he will display nervous impatience and seem unutterably bored, but seldom condescends to interrupt the malicious stone-walling and frequently grossly personal references to himself, from exasperated Bondsmen. He is not dozing, for suddenly he jumps up, turns, and says something to one of his colleagues, with a hearty laugh, and then strolls nonchalantly out of the Chamber. The Cape Premier believes, evidently, that a still tongue makes a wise head. Since he has been Prime Minister he has spoken very little either within or without the House, and it is safe to say that he has not addressed many more than half a dozen public meetings since he held his present position. It is said that he is not fond of platform oratory, and it is probably true. Still, Jameson is a fluent and effective speaker, always intellectual, logical, and, in certain circumstances, admirably adroit. Like Chamberlain, his utterances are unblemished by the "ers" and "ahs" met with in the speeches of many eminent men. And Jameson is interesting as a speaker because he is Jameson and because he mostly has "something to say"—in other words, "a message" for his hearers. He is more concerned with the logic and strength of his argument than with its immediate effect upon the audience. He is content that he has said nothing that will furnish an effective weapon which his vigilant political enemies may hang a damaging criticism. Of his strenuous life, the great battles he has fought, and must yet fight, of his likeness to Rhodes in personal habits and appearance, the story may be deferred until after the general elections, which are about to take place. He will, at all events, face the constituency, if not with success, owing largely to the great exodus of British-born supporters, at least with a record of useful measures passed into law during the last five years (nearly), which will go far to assist his avowed determination to "lift the old Cape cart out of the rut," and generally hasten the federation of British South Africa as a loyal, progressive, and integral part of the Empire.

TAPPING THE BORDER.

A RAIL-LESS CORNER.

APPEAL TO VICTORIA.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTER.)

I.

A glance at a Victorian railway map shows that the lines of the southern State either touch, or come within easy reach of, the Murray River in no less than nine places—Mildura, Swan Hill, Koondrook, Moama, Tocumwal, Cobram, Yarrawonga, Wahgunyah, and Wodonga—while the Picola line and that from Wodonga to Tallangatta roughly run parallel with the stream. The distance from Mildura to Tallangatta is shown on the map to be no less than 320 miles. On the other hand, the New South Wales system touches the Murray in only two places—Albury and Corowa—about 40 miles apart. This sums up the policies of the two States in regard to the great belt of country stretching along the river between Wentworth and the Alps. The Victorian lines look to be just what they are, the tense fingers of two great hands stretching out for trade; while the New South Wales lines appear to be nothing more than facilities for easy thoroughfare between the capitals.

This State has always hesitated to push railways through Riverina or through the southern hills to the Murray; Victoria, profiting by lesser distances and New South Wales hesitancy, has taken every opportunity to connect up with the Murray—and, as a natural consequence has secured practically 90 per cent. of the trade of this State within measurable distance of our southern border. It can surely be in no way provincial to suggest that some of that trade should be re-captured, or, at least, that no more should be lost. To capture trade is fair game in all national circumstances, and it is most assuredly so when the trade concerned is within the State's own boundary. There is a big corner down in the south-east of New South Wales that is rail-less, and, being convinced of the richness of its resources, it is bent upon getting a line or, if need be, two lines whereby these may be the more fully exploited. The fact that the district, or, rather, series of districts, really does need a tapping line, and that its interests are divided between New South Wales and Victoria, warrants a consideration of its position in relation to our system and that of the southern State. The corner indicated takes in the whole of the Murray River country from Albury to the head of that stream and the Indi River, and extends northward as far as Adelong and just below Wagga. It is a part of the territory that never knows a drought, as the term is understood in the west; it embraces some good wheat country, excellent fruit and vegetable land a very large area of first-class dairying country, big timber forests, and, in the extreme south-east, that immense tract of mountain lands which has already proved of inestimable value to the State in the capacity of a summer haven for western stock in time of drought.

Various schemes to open up this valuable piece of country have been put forward at different times, and even now there is quite a bewildering number of railway leagues in existence, all more or less pulling against each other. Among the suggested routes are:—Albury or Wodonga to Jingellic, on the Upper Murray, about 65 miles; Germanton (terminus of a short eastern branch from Culcairn, on the Sydney-Albury line), south-east to Jingellic, about 45 miles); Wagga south-east to Humula and on in the same direction to Tumbarumba, a total mileage of about 72; Wagga to Tarcutta, about 17 miles east, thence south to the same destination. Mount Hereb, on the Cootamundra-Tumut line, directly south to Tumbarumba, 48 miles, and Gilmore, a little further on the same line, to the same objective.

The Albury-Jingellic proposal, although being strongly urged by people north of the Murray, does not contemplate a New South Wales railway at all, the suggestion being a Victorian line, to run down from the Upper Murray parallel with the river to Hawks View, then cross, and, still as a Victorian line, run over the intervening five miles of New South Wales territory to join the Melbourne line at Albury. A variant of this proposal is that Bethanga-road, on the Wodonga-Tallangatta line, should be the starting point, the rails to run from there to Talgarno, on the Murray, which is about 14 or 15 miles from both Albury and Bethanga-road, and thence on, as in the other proposal, to Jingellic. This would obviate the carrying of any New South Wales territory, but whereas the Hawks View route would be comparatively straight, the Bethanga-road one would mean a long detour out to the Tallangatta line and back to the Murray again at Wodonga. And again, the latter route would entail considerably larger construction expenditure. There was at one time a proposal to carry the Wodonga-Tallangatta line along the top of the ridges to Corryong, about 80 miles from Wodonga; but that proposal seems to have dropped out of favour by reason of the long stretch of Murray country below Welaregang that would be unserved.

That the Upper Murray railway will be built within a comparatively short time, wherever the junction may be, seems highly probable. The people on both sides of the river are very much in earnest over it, and are neglecting nothing that might strengthen their appeal to the Victorian Government to construct the line. Voluntary taxation has even been resorted to, and the landholders along the river on the New South Wales side, from Wagra up to the head, have promised 5d an acre on their land, which in itself represents nearly £7000 towards the cost of construction.

How long it will be before the line pays is problematical, but that it will eventually do so is certain. The Murray Valley is taken up from Albury to the Alps, but by far the greater proportion of it up to Jingellic is of no great value, and, besides being poor, the river flats are for the most part jammed by a too close encroachment of the great dunery hills on either side of the stream. But from Jingellic upwards the hills withdraw, though mostly on the New South Wales side the valley opens out, and in a series of gentle undulations alternating with park-like flats, presents some of the finest country on the continent. Here the rainfall is practically a certain quantity, the river is a permanent stream, and the land will raise anything suited to such a climate. Owing to the immense handicap that waggon freight for 70 miles and upwards means to produce in competition with that raised within touch of the rails, this land is now being called upon to do little else than fatten stock, which it does to the extent of many thousands annually.

Jingellic station itself is one of the best fattening runs on the Murray, and on occasion carries an astonishing quantity of stock. Beyond it lies Ournie, another splendid run, and then Welaregang, perhaps the finest property on the river, embracing as it does 20,000 or 30,000 acres, the great bulk of which are on rich river flats. From Welaregang right up to the head waters practically the whole country is held by four families—Paton (Welaregang), Pearce (Greg Greg), Whitehead (Warbrook and Lighthouse), and Mitchell (Bringenbrong and Khancoban). These holdings comprise the best land in the valley, and besides having proved itself eminently suitable for corn and wheat raising, the whole of it is excellent dairying country; so that in the circumstances the disintegration of the runs is inevitable. One holder in the district himself informed the "Herald" representative that with the advent of a railway the greater portion of the holding would certainly be cut up for close settlement. Away up beyond Khancoban there are a few small settlers turning the dairying capabilities of the district to profitable account, and the same industry is getting a solid footing on the share principle on Bringenbrong and Khancoban, notwithstanding that all the cream has to be carted across the river and down to the Corryong factory, upwards of 30 miles; and the returns would indicate that in the event of rail communication, and the inevitable local factories, the Upper Murray is destined to become one of the richest dairying districts in the State.

Mention has been made only of runs on this side of the Murray, with the object of drawing attention to the possibilities of a district the whole trade of which will be permanently secured to Victoria in the event of the proposed line along the southern bank of the river being constructed. And lest the idea gain ground that the agitation is merely on the part of a few large holders, it must be mentioned that the land above Wodonga, on the Murray, to be served by the line aggregates upwards of 2000 square miles, and has at the present moment, big holdings and all, a population of over 3000 souls, variously interested in pastoral, agricultural, and mining pursuits. The last item is placed in the category by reason of the fact that the hills enclosing the valley on either side are yielding tin, copper, and gold in several localities, the most noteworthy on the New South Wales side being Dora Dora, Talmalmo, Coppabella, and Ournie.

Nor is it only the New South Welshmen on the river itself who are joining with the Victorians in urging on the projected line. The people for a number of miles north of the Murray Valley who are not served by the Germanton line recognise the prospects of success in front of the proposal. They themselves have for many weary years been fruitlessly urging our Governments to tap the district with a line, and here at last is to hand a big hope of getting into fairly close touch with a railway, so their weight leans on the side of the project. As a matter of fact, however, it may be at once stated that the whole population of these districts lying on the southern slopes of the great divide between the Murrumbidgee and the Murray are absolutely Victorian in their interests. The contour of the country has made them so. Trade must inevitably follow the line of least resistance, and in this instance that line leads to Melbourne. The people of Tumbarumba, as an example, shut in by the hills to the north of them, can only effect heavy traffic communication with our railway system at Wagga, 72 miles off. This means that they are 386 miles from Sydney. On the other hand, a road journey of 92 miles establishes communication with Melbourne at Albury, so that they are within 279 miles of the Victorian capital. Naturally their trade goes south—and they go south, too, whenever the opportunity occurs. It sounds astonishing, but nevertheless there is the authority of the Tumbarumba storekeepers for the statement, that in regard to certain lines of goods, it pays the Sydney merchant, if he wishes to secure a Tumbarumba sale, to ship the goods to Melbourne and place them on the trucks for Albury there rather than at Sydney.

As with the Tumbarumba people, so with all to the south and the south-east of them. Notwithstanding an arbitrary border line placed here, there, or anywhere, geography has decided that for the time being these people are Victorians. There is but one way to reverse that decision, to swing their interests back to the State in which they are, and to attract their trade to Port Jackson. It is a perfectly legitimate way, even though in effecting it we were not opening up another big tract of country that must always in any circumstances be an essential part of our State. It is simply by a direct line from our present railway system that will, while serving the interests of the country in question, afford the shortest possible cut between Sydney and the Upper Murray districts. The route that such a line should follow will be discussed in a future article.

THE WORLD'S PRESS.

The archaeological mission went out to Asia Minor by the University of Liverpool has returned highly satisfied with the result of the pioneer journey. The members of the party travelled over the portion of Asia Minor embracing the ancient Hittite Empire. Boghaz-keni, the capital of the Hittite Empire in 2000—1000 B.C., was first visited. Excavations in progress there have revealed the ruins of a temple, the ancient city walls and gates, and several sculptured examples of Hittite art. At Enjuk the party discovered two new sphinxes, and at Caesarsea a number of Hittite inscriptions and antiquities; also the headless figure of an eagle, standing upon three lions—a colossal and striking sculpture.

To fill the artificial lakes in his park and make it look like a fairyland for his bride during their honeymoon, Mr. James B. Duke, the American tobacco king, pumped the Raritan River dry, and in this way stopped the operation of the Raritan woollen mills. Over 400 mill-workers were thrown out of work, but they were paid their wages by Mr. Duke.

St. Helena is determined to suppress juvenilles moking. The new law that has just come into force in the lonely little Napoleonic Island would probably be deemed Draconian by the average British youngster. Any person giving or selling tobacco to boys or girls under the age of 16 is liable to a fine of 20s for the first offence and 40s for each subsequent offence. Boys detected in the act of smoking or in the possession of tobacco or cigarettes are liable to a fine of 5s, plus 12 strokes with the birch.

The Rev. E. Husband, Vicar of St. Michael's, Folkestone, at the annual cyclists' parade, condemned the practice of motoring at excessive speed, which he described as one of the curses of the twentieth century. He had now become, he said, a terror to pedestrians and cyclists to pass along their favourite roads, through the fear of being killed by the motors which dashed past them at railway speed. Just as railway trains had their separate tracks, so he suggested that "those manslaughtering motors" should be banished from the highways by Act of Parliament, and be compelled to use separate roads, the cost to be borne by the motorists themselves.

The Chicago Federation of Labour has decided to abandon its customary annual parade. The reason given for this step will doubtless appear a very curious one. It is that a Labour Day parade is an "antiquated and luxurious" method of displaying the strength of the trades unions. The explanation will be more intelligible when it is stated that each person who marches in such processions in America wears a special uniform, costing him about 5d0l. The money saved from this expenditure, as well as from the cost of banners, bands, etc., is henceforth to be put into a big defence fund, which will enable labour, as the Chicago trades unionists say, to "keep a stiff upper lip to employers."

Mr. William Madoc, of Chicago, in an address to the Kisteddfod, recalled the legend that Prince Madoc ap Owain Gwyhedd discovered the New World in the twelfth century a long way ahead of Sebastian Cabot and Christopher Columbus, and that the Declaration of Independence itself was drawn up by Thomas Jefferson, a Welshman, who became President of the United States. He also mentioned with pride that it was a Welshman who instructed George Washington in the mysteries of mathematics.

The only woman in England in charge of a lighthouse is about to retire, after 35 years' service. She is Mrs. Williams, keeper of Leasowe Lighthouse, Wirral Peninsula. For 20 years she and her husband had charge of the lighthouse on the Great Orme's Head. They removed to Leasowe, where Mr. Williams died. The Mersey Docks and Harbour Board, recognising the wife's services, gave her full charge of the Leasowe Light. For the past 14 years Mrs. Williams has held this position, being assisted lately by her daughter.

With the object of preparing a Government return, the Post Office Department at Washington has put various questions to the clerks. Some amusing answers have been received. One veteran says his "marital" condition is "very timid." The majority answered "very good," and quite a number "might be better." One man said his relations were all right, "but my wife is dead." Another said they were very good, "my wife is at the point of death." A third clerk declares that his marital condition is "very good, since he has been a widower for 10 years."

A Willesden woman, before going away on her holidays, left her cat, which was not in good health, at the Animals' Hospital. In her anxiety for her pet's welfare she requested the curate of the parish to call each morning to inquire how the animal had passed the night and to keep her informed as to the state of its health.

The traditional uniform of the "sailor bold" is threatened by the United States' Navy Department, which is likely to introduce important changes. It is asserted that the "conspicuous attire" hitherto worn makes seriously against enlistments. American seamen themselves are alleged to dislike having to appear in public in a dress suitable only for a comic-opera chorus or for small boys in the park. The "flapping trousers" appear to be the chief grievance, and the "low rolling collar with a bare neck" is scarcely less unpopular. It is argued that in the days of sailing-ships and yards and rattlines and the rest it was of some use to have wide trousers, but in these times all they are good for is to ventilate the ankles.

The Faithist Community, which has established a modest footing in Balham, London, and whose comprehensive gospel ranges from the creation of man to the "glory and labours of the gods and goddesses of the Etherian Heavens," is the latest addition to the long list of London's strange religious sects, which are now almost as many as the days of the year. In London the Chinaman burns his incense-stick in more than one joss-house in the East End; the Mohammedan has his mosques; the Malayan his temple, near St. George's-street East; the Parsees worship the sun in Bloomsbury; the Mormons have a mission in Islington; and in many parts of the metropolis the Buddhists and Ancestor-worshippers perform their strange rites. Of Christian sects in London there are at least 300, including the Cokelers, the disciples of William Sirgood, the Walworth shoemaker; the Peculiar People, who prefer prayer to physicians; the Sandemanians, the followers of Joanna Southcott, the prophetic serving-maid; the Shakers, and the Seventh Day Baptists.

CUTICURA SAVED LIFE.

Father tells of his Boy's Suffering from Eczema—Was in Despair when Doctors, Infirmary, and Hospital Failed—Tried Cuticura—Eczema Speedily Cured.

"I feel that Cuticura saved my boy's life. He is 8 years old, and for the last 18 months his mother and I have been worried a great deal, owing to eczema. I have tried all kinds of remedies for the boy without any result. Under doctor's treatment he seemed to get worse. I took him to the infirmary and also to the hospital, without obtaining any benefit. We gave up all hope of the boy being cured, until I determined to give the Cuticura Remedies a trial. After the use of one cake Cuticura Soap and one box Cuticura Ointment the improvement was marvellous, and after using another cake of Cuticura Soap and one box Cuticura Ointment he was thoroughly cured, and still remains so. I cannot speak too highly of the wonderful cure by the Cuticura Remedies."—W. Salter, Postman, 18 Waverley-street, Baptist Mills, Bristol, April 2, 1906."—Advt.

COOLGARDIE WATER SCHEME.

HOW FAR HAS IT BEEN SUCCESSFUL?

In this age of socialism a close study of the working of State enterprises is advisable. In whatever part of Australia they are in operation they are of interest, because the conditions throughout the Commonwealth are often similar. The knowledge gained by experience is of the highest value for guidance in the future. As the Coolgardie water scheme is one of the largest undertakings of the kind in the world, and of far greater proportions than anything of the same sort in Australia, an investigation of how it is progressing should be useful. The scheme provides for the conservation of rain water near the coast, conveying it through 30in. pipes to the goldfields, 350 miles inland, and distributing it to the mines and reticulating the towns for municipal and domestic purposes. It is well to notice sometimes how complex problems are readily overcome, while what appear to be simple matters of arrangement are the greatest stumbling blocks.

It is a striking incident that since the opening of the Coolgardie water supply, mining in the area served has not gone ahead a single step. This is decidedly contrary to expectations, and now that the slump appears to have set in in dead earnest the State Treasurer is commencing to scratch his head. The water is not even used for sluicing purposes to any extent worth mentioning, and the dry-blower has still a monopoly of the alluvial ground at Coolgardie. Market-gardening was also to be a fortune-making industry around Kalgoorlie and Coolgardie when Forrest's "river of water" was turned loose on the fertile but parched soil of that neighbourhood. Some thousands of acres of rich land was taken up as miners' homestead leases whenever it was found that the water scheme was a success and that it was possible to pump millions of gallons to the goldfields daily. The garden area and homestead leases were soon ready for the seed, which were to bring into being fresh wholesome fruit and vegetables to mix with the "tinned dog" and Chinese flavoured produce which put a nasty taste in the mouths of the miners years before, and which had become more pronounced as the water pipes began to loom over the horizon. Sir John Forrest had said that he "would make two blades of grass grow where one, or none at all, grew before"; in fact, he pictured green fields and waving corn on the surface of the once arid interior. The inhabitants were aroused to soft sobs of delight, and they set about paradise-making. Nearly every householder in Coolgardie dug up his back yard in preparation for a melon patch or potato plot. Others had their areas ploughed, and estimated how long it would take to make the expected fortune, and what they would do with the money. The soil had been tested before from tank-water, and it brought forth abundantly, and promptly, for the long bright days and the virgin soil worked wonders. Miners had cleared plots around their camps, and prepared for putting in an hour's recreation after the day's toil, sowing the seed and turning on the water. Here was a stand-by in case of a closing-down of the mine. Fortified by a bountiful garden and poultry-yard, which was to be a convenient auxiliary, the miner had not only a luxury, but practically a whole living in case of a reverse. At last it seemed that the goldfields people were to be happy. There seemed to be no cloud on their horizon. Many echoed the sentiments of the swagman who arrived in Bayley-street late one night, after a hot and weary tramp. Said he: "God bless Sir John Forrest," as he raised the cup at the street fountain to his dry lips.

This is the picture that was in the minds of the people on the goldfields when they knew that the life-giving stream of precious fluid was ready to flow. It was a great humanitarian work, and the heartfelt gratitude of the people flowed out to the one who was the means of providing it.

In the circumstances the picture did not seem to be unreasonable. The reality proved to be different. People have been known to reckon without their hosts. They did so in this instance.

It will be remembered that the designers of the water scheme based their estimates on the water being sold at 3s 6d per 1000 gallons. In spite of this and of the fact that in every other particular the great undertaking had proved itself all that its makers had expected of it, the Government of the day into whose hands the administration of the scheme had fallen, made the startling announcement that water for agricultural and domestic purposes was to be charged at the rate of 7s per 1000 gals.—exactly double the amount agreed upon. This in the face of the fact that the Mining Trust, comprising all the rich mines on the Kalgoorlie and Boulder belt, were to be supplied at 5s per 1000. The usual howl of indignation followed, but protests were useless. Water for irrigation purposes at 7s per 1000 gals. was a ruinous price, but this was not all. The Government insisted on a guarantee of a large consumption per annum, and the payment of a substantial sum in advance, otherwise they refused to allow the holders of garden areas or miners' homestead leases to be connected with the water supply at all. Scores of people abandoned their holdings; others turned their plots into tennis or croquet courts; but a few hung on with that determination and pertinacity for which a mining community are so well known. Those struggling prospectors working shows of their own were charged the same price as the agriculturist. Is it any wonder that the advent of the water was not followed by the working of some of the low grade lodes with which the Coolgardie district abounds? Petition after petition, appeal after appeal, were sent to the Government; Minister after Minister, and Premier after Premier were met in public and private conference, and the situation was discussed in all its bearings. It was pointed out to those in power that the water scheme was a national undertaking, and that if the water were given cheaply the people were ready to make the best use of it. All that was asked and pleaded for was that the original idea be carried out in its entirety, and that the water be supplied at 3s 6d per 1000 as intended by those who designed the work. It was claimed that the reduced price would greatly increase the consumption, because it would open new avenues for the employment of the water, and lead to larger use of it after the rigid economy which the previous conditions of the locality had forced upon the people. All this agitation ended in nothing. Minister after Minister and Government after Government announced that they had determined to conduct the water supply on "business lines," and they refused to budge one inch.

Let it be said at once that Sir John Forrest had severed his connection with the State Parliament before the water scheme was completed, and while he hesitated for a couple of years before he ventured to criticise the administration, eventually he could contain his opinions no longer, and he joined in the agitation for an all round reduction of prices, and vigorously condemned the methods adopted, and described them as destroying the objects of the scheme and curtailing its value.

The actual cost of pumping water from the reservoir to the goldfields is about 10d per 1000 gallons. This includes everything but interest and sinking fund, which latter are enormous, seeing that the scheme cost about £3,000,000. Even up to the present time, although the consumption is steadily increasing as the price is being reduced, less than half of the amount of water the scheme is capable of supplying is used, and the reservoir is inexhaustible. It has been estimated that even if no more rain fell on the catchment area it would take the pumps, working at their full capacity, over five years to empty the huge basin.

In the wet season every year the water overflows the weir, and a beautiful cascade of millions of gallons per day runs away to waste for months at a time. At the same time the goldfields at the other end of the pipe line are thirsting for water, simply because they cannot afford to pay the wicked prices imposed. After all, what was intended as a great humanitarian work has become a mere water-selling concern. The business methods of the Government, of course, were not like those of the merchant prince who would endeavour to extend his business by selling as cheaply as possible, but closely resembled those of the greedy grocer who cheats his customers, and puts sand in the sugar.

Several years passed before those in authority realised that the prices were too high. The scores of garden plots had been reduced to two or three; garden areas and miners' homestead leases had been abandoned; dozens of low grade mines which prospectors held on to for months awaiting the completion of the water scheme had been abandoned and forfeited. Upon these many thousands of pounds were uselessly expended, and the holders left the district and the State in disgust. Of course this was gradual, and for that reason has been largely unnoticed in official quarters. It is an impressive fact that although a great revival in mining and in general trade on the Eastern goldfields was expected on the completion of the water scheme, there was no such change, but in its place there was an all round depression. It is difficult to account for it, but it is a fact (which the statistics of the State prove) that ever since the water supply was complete there has been a general falling off in gold returns, trade, and population in all of the districts served. These, however, do not represent the worst feature of the change so far as the State is concerned. Those who have an intimate knowledge of the districts know that it is the men with the mining acumen who have gone; those who find lodes and work them and open up country for others to peg out also, and not those looking for specimens to float companies with. One such man of grit and knowledge is worth a score of the ordinary rank and file. Wherever these men go genuine mining seems to prosper. When they roll up their tents and leave, those in shops, offices, and hotels may not take much notice, and even the census returns may show some increase for a time; but the time soon comes round when the reefs get lost in this show and in that, and as no new ones are being found, or even looked for, the inevitable slump comes. The man who sold his hotel when the real miners got tired and left did the right thing; but those who refused good offers and those who bought in, are left to hold the dog, and are now going through the starving-out process. Gold yields and population statistics are useful in their way, but those things which influence them are like clinical thermometer readings—they indicate the changes directly. This maladministration has no doubt had a similar "choking-off" effect on the men who buy mines and those who find the money in England and elsewhere. It is not intended to imply that this has been the cause of all the trouble. The administration of the railways and other legislative matters have assisted in driving away the materials which were ready to make the country prosperous.

Two men produced the water scheme—Sir John Forrest conceived the idea, and the late Mr. C. Y. O'Connor carried it out. The former left the State, and the latter was driven to suicide (by corruption in the construction) before the work was completed. The only point at which complete success was not attained was precisely at the only point at which the original scheme had been departed from—the price. It had been doubled for a start. Even the huge waterfall at the weir—to which excursion trains were run from Perth to take crowds to witness the "magnificent" sight, did not impress those in authority to a sense of the error of their ways. "Why not let the water run to waste at the other end of the pipe line? It will do some good there," was Sir John Forrest's scathing criticism. But it was all in vain. It took three years, with the waterfall in full blast for months at a time, to wash away the stupidity which was responsible for a prohibitive price at the start. A Labour Ministry was among those who refused to make the prices reasonable, although it consented to some reductions, but not material ones, and it was even more absurd in some of its regulations.

Eventually, apparently with heart-breaking self-sacrifice, the price was reduced from 7s to 4s per 1000 gallons; then it came to 3s for agriculture. Three months ago—after the last market gardener had ceased to work at a loss—the price for agricultural purposes came down to 9d per 1000 gallons in one startling swoop. Too late. Like the most useful of the miners, the agriculturists were driven to the four winds of heaven before the reductions came—starved out. For mining purposes the price has also been substantially reduced this year, but there is yet room for improvement.

There is one satisfactory thing in this whole process of reduction of price. In spite of the absolute starving of the agricultural industry, which promised to be a welcome source of refuge, and the crippling of the mining industry in every case in which a reduction of price has been made there has been not only an increase in consumption, but an increase in revenue, and the reservoir is still sending its millions of gallons to the sea.

The fact that some constituents of the soil in certain places along the pipe line are eating into the steel pipes is a reminder that the work will not last for ever; but this trouble is being met by raising the pipes above the surface of the land.

Had there been skilful administration of the water supply from the commencement, and indirect rather than direct results looked for, the outcome might have been widely different.

THE JAPAN YEAR BOOK.

We receive from Mr. E. W. Cole copy of "The Japan Year Book" for 1907 (The Japan Year Book Office, Tokyo), which is the third annual publication of this useful cyclopaedia of information. Of the editors, one is Mr. Y. Takenob, who was formerly of the "Japan Times," the only English paper edited and published by Japanese, and who is now professor at the Waseda University; while the other is Mr. G. Takeda, editor of the "Pacific Ocean." The present number is larger than either of its predecessors, and the information, which has evidently been kept carefully up to date, is imparted in a simple and agreeable manner. There is, of course, still room for expansion and improvement, and the editors mention several points on which they will expatiate at length in the 1908 edition. But, even as it stands, "The Japan Year Book" is an invaluable publication. It has all the advantages of an encyclopaedia without some of its disadvantages. It deals at sufficient but not overpowering length with the main features of modern Japanese history and society. Politics and local government, and diplomacy, education, religion and the press, agriculture, mining, finance and forestry, banks and banking business, home and foreign trade and mercantile marine, railways and industry—such matters have their individual share of attention just as much as the army and navy, or Japanese policy in regard to Formosa, Korea, and Manchuria. Some hundred pages are devoted to "Who's Who in Japan," where is to be found the necessary information as to the life-history of this or that man who is more or less prominent in commerce or politics or the military or naval services. Errors creep in here, as well as in such publications all the world over. For instance, we are told that Hisaya Iwasaki was born in 1895, was created a baron in 1900, and that in 1893, besides graduating LL.B. of an American university, he married a lady who has presented him with three sons and two daughters. Of course, the essence of the value of such compilations is absolute accuracy, and, so far as this is concerned, misprints are as misleading as deliberate misstatements. However, the work is generally free from blemishes of this kind, and the marvel is that foreigners writing in English have been able to present so remarkably readable as well as interesting a history of the Japan of to-day. The editors are also frank and outspoken. Thus, whilst the British statesmen who were concerned in the first Anglo-Japanese treaty are referred to as "astute diplomatists," the Emperor of Korea—the monarch who was forced to abdicate the other day—is candidly described as a "weak and vacillating sovereign." A valuable feature of the book is the inclusion in it of the text of the treaty engagements between Great Britain and Japan, of the treaty of peace between Japan and Russia, and of the convention between Japan and China which was rendered necessary by some of the terms of the Portsmouth treaty. We have mentioned only some of the excellences of this work, which should be in the hands of all interested, in whatever way, in the progress of Japan and in her relations with the rest of the world.

MOUNTAIN TRAINS.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—I am one of the many who are hoping that the new Railway Commissioners will improve the summer services on the mountains. The Premier last season said that there ought to be an improvement by accelerating the speed of the trains. There would be many more persons travelling if the conveniences were greater, and the transit quicker.

I would ask the Commissioners to consider the following:—The tourist train at 8.25 a.m. on Saturdays takes 28 minutes longer to reach Mount Victoria than the tourist train leaving at the same hour on Wednesday. The evening tourist train, again, on Wednesdays and Saturdays both take 38 minutes longer to reach Sydney from the mount than the train that leaves at 6.15 in the morning. Both these instances are anomalies that I should think need not be.

Mountain traffic is always growing, and this coming season, by the better times, is to be the largest on record. But while the convenience of travellers should be studied, there is little doubt that an improved and accelerated service would increase and make the mountains a greater source of pleasure to the many people who need a change into the country, and thus increase the railway revenue.

NESTING TIME.

(BY L. H.).

The coming of September rouses a keen interest in the bird-lover's heart, and gives a keener zest to his bush rambles. The flowers are in full bloom, the birds in full song, and, best of all, it is nesting time. The first discovery of a bird's nest is a thing to remember, opening, as it does, the way into a new and delightfully mysterious world. I was about six years old when I found my passport. It was in a little South Coast village, famed for its bacon and cheese, that one day on my way to school I found a nest, my first nest. It was placed in a little thornbush on the wayside, and by tiptoeing I could just reach to it, and found a long shaped bundle of grass, warmly lined with feathers, containing eggs smaller than any I had ever imagined, and white as snow. In the light of later and less desirable knowledge, I realise that the bush was a bursaria, and the nest that of the redbrowed finch, or, as any small boy who has been tempted by the title to read thus far will have scornfully sniffed, the redhead. But I did not know then, and did not want to know, the ball of grass, with its feathers and tiny eggs, was all sufficient for me. Surely only fairy birds could issue from those tiny ovals. Morning and afternoon I peeped to see. But alas for my hopes, my attentions, though innocent, must have struck a fear into the heart of the little mother, for I watched in vain until the bursting of the addled eggs put an end to my hopes.

It was several years before I found another nest, on my first boyish birdnesting expedition into a suburban tea-tree scrub. I knew a few birds at this time, and a school chum and myself resolved to collect eggs, so we set off on a hot September afternoon, with tremendous enthusiasm in our hearts. But the enthusiasm wore away as the afternoon grew hotter, and eggless and tired we were just giving up in despair, when our eyes lit simultaneously on a nest. It was placed in the fork of a tea-tree about 12 feet from the ground, and so cunningly built that its small grey cup, with strips of bark hung vertically round its sides, seemed like part of the tree itself. But a pair of bright beady eyes, a black bill, and white throat showed over the rim, and our hearts fluttered with excitement as we gravely tossed for the privilege of climbing. I can still feel the pang of disappointment that shot through me when I lost. I would have given worlds to have looked into that grey bark and cobweb cup, with its rough lining of leaves and fine twigs. But before I had time to realise this, my chum had his hand on the tree, and the bird, which we had already recognised as the familiar "yellow bob," fluttered off, and was lost in the scrub. A moment later we both bent our heads over the pair of jewels which the nest had held—the colour of a clear skinned green apple, marvellously blotched and spotted with warm brown. The treasures were soon blown, and we trooped off home with one apiece securely packed in our previously virgin egg tins, well satisfied with our first afternoon's outing.

Let me say here for the benefit of those tender-hearted souls who may have already begun to mutter, that however much the morality of robbing birds of their eggs may be questioned, the tales of broken-hearted bird-mothers which find such a prominent place in school and story books for the young have no solid foundation of fact. Nature intended birds to breed, and they have to suffer from many enemies, in addition to the marauding small boy—wind, rain, rats, snakes, iguanas, and other birds—so that the loss of a clutch of eggs is not a matter of great moment to them. Instead of wasting their time moping, they build another nest, and replace their lost clutch at the earliest possible moment. They will carry out nature's mandate and bring forth their brood no matter what disappointments they have to suffer in the doing. Experiments have been carried out, in which a pair of birds have been robbed of their eggs seven or eight times before finally eluding the experimenters and hatching their young. Ordinarily a bird rears from one to three broods in a season, so it is obvious that reserves are supplied to counteract accidental or other losses. Another mistake often made in humane natural history books is to recommend the young egg collector to take only a single egg from a nest, leaving the balance to be hatched. This would be very well if the balance were hatched, but unfortunately many birds are so suspicious that the very fact of their nest being touched by human hand is enough to make them desert it altogether. So the humane collector takes two or three single eggs from different clutches, and causes their total loss, while if he had taken one complete clutch from the first nest his wants would have been satisfied with the loss of only one clutch.

But with the ethics of egg-collecting I am not concerned here. That yellow bob's nest was the invitation to many happy afternoons spent in the fragrant tea-tree scrub, each bringing new treasures to light. Most plentiful of all that year were the nests of the rufous-breasted thickhead, better known to grown-ups as the "thunder bird," from its peculiar habit of uttering a succession of loud ringing notes after the sound of a clap of thunder, a gun shot, or any similar sound; and to small boys as the "ring-coachy," a name combined from two prominent characteristics, the black crescent, which divides the rust of the male's breast from the white of his throat, and the whip-like note which faintly resembles that of the coach whip bird.

Henry Kendall, by the way, calls this bird the "echow" in a couple of his earlier poems, obviously a phonetic rendering of its resonant call-note. And I have heard boys in wide-apart localities refer to it as the echong, an even better rendering. Its nest is only a matter of a few twigs bent into a shallow transparent saucer, resting upon which the beautiful brown eggs may be clearly seen from below. The bird revels in tea-tree, and the scrub is vocal with its rich, delicious notes from September to March.

Here, too, we found our first thrush's nest; in the heart of the densest patch of scrub in the paddock. It was an untidy nest, with a big piece of dirty calico hanging from it, and idly flapping with every breath of wind, but it contained one beautiful pearly white egg, richly blotched with brown and slate. Here was a dilemma; one egg could not be divided between us two. And yet we were loth to leave such an egg at the risk of having it taken by other small boys, during our week's imprisonment at school. The sight of a big oval gall attached to a gum twig—such a combination as a little earlier in life we would have considered a most beautiful pipe—decided us. The gall was ripped from its twig, and placed in the thrush's nest, and the precious egg blown and packed away. On revisiting the spot the following week we found the gall contemptuously turned out beneath the tree, so our attempt to deceive the bird had failed. But we found two more eggs in the nest all the same.

Many other nests we found, redheads, tomtits, bark-tits, yellow-bellied tits, jacky winters, peewees, and so forth, but there is only one other that stands out from the procession of discoveries. We found it hanging amid the topmost twigs of a bushy tree near the thrush's nest, a mere shell of red inner bark in the shape of a deep bag. Three successive week-ends we watched it grow, until adorned with spiders' cocoons without and lined with a wonderful filling of warm red cowhair within, it contained one richly coloured egg of a delicate flesh tint, with a touch of warm brown in it, and girdled with a zone of rich brown spots. Through the almost transparent shell came a faint glow of the golden yolk within, while the lining cast red shadows on the sides. Such was our first honey-eater's nest and egg, and it was one of the most exquisitely beautiful things I have ever seen. But the charm of this discovery lay not altogether in its beauty. Throughout the week we had watched the nest growing we had never once seen the bird, and this mystery of the nest built without visible agency held us enthralled. So we left things till the following week, and were rewarded with a pair of the lovely eggs, and a glimpse of their author, a glorious golden-green bird with black throat and chest and silky white patches on the sides of its head. The impression was so vivid that we were easily able to get the bird identified as the white-eared honey-eater.

Since that early spring, I have spent close on a score of nesting times in the field, in many places and in all manners of country. Yet, though my discoveries are numbered by the hundred, the sight of a nest with the sitting bird, chin over one rim, and tail over the other, always give me the same thrill of enjoyment. The continued battle of wits against the secretive instinct, has a charm which no one but a naturalist can know. Nature has entrusted her secrets of these little birds, with injunctions to preserve them. You find your bird with a shred of bark in her bill, or may be, a feather. Her bright eyes glance at you suspiciously, as you set yourself to watch. She fidgets restlessly for a while, and you know the nest is near. Then dives off into the scrub from which she came, and knowing this a feint, you hold ground. Presently she comes back, alert and suspicious, to find you have not vanished. Perhaps she grows angry and scolds you, or perhaps she drops her feather and commences to preen herself as if she had no thought in the world beyond her toilet. But her coming back has confirmed your belief, and you stay, or move just a little away, till she takes her feather up again, and flies off to place it in her nest. Such is the easiest victory. But some birds betray no sign of anxiety, never allow themselves to be seen carrying nesting material, and vanish altogether for an hour at a time, on your slightest movement, and these are worthy of your steel. The quest is long, and many a time in vain, but the victory is sweet, though often it does not come until the eggs have changed to downy babes, whose necessitous appetites force their parents to relax their caution.

But the chief charm of bird study, as of any other branch of nature study, lies in the fact that you are always an original discoverer. You may have read of birds and nests and eggs till you fancy you have them all by rote, but when you actually find the bird, or the nest, you realise that the printed words have conveyed no real meaning to you, and you experience all the joy of an original discovery. And there are always fresh worlds to conquer, fresh fields to harvest, new friends to make. You cannot come to an end. Nesting time is at its height in October and dwindles in November, till December ushers in the months of the baby birds. Stray nests may be found, throughout the year, and some exclusive birds pride themselves on abnormal breeding seasons; but these three are the main nesting months, and the bird lover grudges every moment that is not spent in the open air. The time comes all too soon when the nesting songs are silent, and the bush grows dull in comparison, while, most pitiful of all, the beautiful and wonderful nests which once held so much mystery and charm, hang in the bushes as mere rain-sodden relics, till winter sweeps them all away.

THE PROSPECTING VOTE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—With reference to my letter on the above, and upon which you make some comment in to-day's issue, you remark, "It is true that no important gold find can be traced directly to the prospecting vote, but there is little doubt that the expenditure of the money has been the means of affording assistance to a very large number of working miners and others, and has perhaps saved the squandering of large sums of private moneys by proving fields as 'likely' to be nothing better than 'duffers.'" I am obliged to you for this plain statement, as it will the more easily enable one to get at the crux of the whole thing, but let it be understood I am speaking only of the Bathurst district, and from my own personal knowledge of the same.

The biggest demand for assistance from the prospecting vote is usually made when the winter is coming along. Then it is the "cocky" miner sorely wants aid, not so much with the view of deserving a payable reef as to tide him over the winter months, and if the grant is only sufficient to keep him in tucker or a little more he is well content. But "when the springtime comes gentle Annie," as the old song says, and work with better pay is to be obtained, he packs up his tools and proclaims the show a duffer. It has often been said of our district that the gold does not go down, but inasmuch as there has been no deep sinking to determine the matter I take up the other side and maintain that it does, and I believe I am right, and it is on this ground that I adhere to my former statement, "that the money granted for this purpose is literally thrown away." And now to prove it. Aid is granted, say, to sink 25ft to 50ft on a "likely" (your word, Mr. Editor) reef, and to drive a similar distance. Result, a "duffer." The gold does not go down is the verdict. What has this piece of "hen-scratching" proved? Absolutely nothing.

Numerous instances of such cases can be given, all shallow workings and all duffers, but not one instance can I recall where Government aid has been devoted to run down a shaft 250ft to 500ft, anything short of which cannot fairly be said to be a test at all. The manipulation of this prospecting vote is, I fear, absolutely bad, and devoid of ordinary business and common-sense method.

Reform has been in the ascendant of late, and it is to be hoped a beginning may be made to improve matters in the Mines Department. Schools of Mines and kindred association are what is needed to help develop the great mining industry, and it is in this direction that Government aid might to advantage be expended.

[The statement in question is not ours, but a departmental statement.—Ed. S.M.H.]

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—My attention has been directed to a paragraph in your paper which deals with the Auditor-General's proposal to abolish the prospecting vote of this State, and I would crave some space on the question.

The amount of the prospecting vote is some £370,000 odd, and the amount returned, in cash I take it, to the State Treasury is under £1500. Truly a meritorious performance.

The Auditor-General proposes the abolition of the vote, and, looked at from a business standpoint, that proposal is perfectly right. Government aid to prospectors as it stands to-day is of no benefit whatever to the State. Far better that the £370,000 had been thrown into Sydney Harbour in a lump sum, as by that means there would have been no cost of administration, and it could have been recovered when the Treasurer next has the task before him of converting his financial statement from a deficit to a surplus.

I maintain that the prospecting vote should not be abolished; never was a vote given for a better purpose. The mineral resources of New South Wales are equal, if not superior, to any country in the world. The fault of the prospecting vote having proved such a dismal failure lies in the fact that those officers of the Mines Department whose duty it is to inspect, report on the properties, and apportion the vote are ill fitted for the task. One glance at the figures must, to the mind of any right-thinking man or woman, show that the fault lies at the door of the Mines Department, and there alone.

For the prospecting vote to be of any use, it is necessary that those to whom the responsibility is given for the carrying of it through must be men of special training, experienced geologists, metallurgists, mineralogists, etc., with wide practical experience, and not to be hampered with red tape and circumlocution which is so rampant in our Government departments of to-day.

I am, etc., A CLOSE OBSERVER.

CLEMENTS TONIC DEFEATS THE SURGEON'S KNIFE.

A TESTIMONIAL OF IMPORTANCE TO EVERY SUFFERER.

A narrative well worth reading is one which was told by Mrs. Elizabeth Cole, of No. 73 Carlton-crescent, Summer Hill, in the company of a press representative, the object being to place her experience before the public for consideration. Mrs. Cole's opening remarks were:—

"About two years ago I consulted one of the leading doctors, and he could not say definitely what was wrong with me. However, he but my husband would not agree to it."

"How long did your sickness last?"

"Going on for five years, worse luck! And not before getting Clements Tonic did I obtain any benefit from my numerous purchases. All that time I was as low in spirits as a woman could be—nothing cheered me, and if my life had depended on it I could not raise enough energy to work or anything else. Always following meals, too, a feeling came to my chest as if I was going to smother—oh! it was horrible; and flatulence was another great bother to me. The stomach felt as if nothing but wind was inside, so bulged out and uncomfortable, as though I had overeaten; but the fact of the matter was that I could hardly eat enough to keep body and soul together, for my appetite had gone entirely. Now, would you believe that when I had drunk several bottles of Clements Tonic I was not like that at all—each of those tormenting sensations left me quite mysteriously, and you may depend I was very thankful, too. Yes, and

CLEMENTS TONIC MADE ME EAT WELL

—indeed, I used to surprise my relatives with the appetite I had gained, and the easiness with which the pains left my head was amazing. What a happy release that was, to be sure, for when those agonies had subsided I grew bright and contented, in the belief that Clements Tonic would do still more for me."

"And were your expectations realised?"

"Up to the present time my health has remained intact, which is surely sufficient proof of the genuineness of Clements Tonic, for not for a day or a week, but for good; and now I never miss a chance of advising other delicate folk to adopt its use, for I know it to be the only reliable remedy in the country."

IT HAS EVIDENTLY CURED ME,

"Shall I put what you say before the public?"

"Yes; publish everything, in any shape or style you think of."

Subscribed and declared at Lewisham this seventh day of November, one thousand nine hundred and four, before me,

J. H. BURNETT, J.P.—Advt.

IMMENSE SUCCESS.

FROOTOIDS,

THE NEW CURE FOR

HEADACHE, INDIGESTION, AND CONSTIPATION.

The immense number of orders for FROOTOIDS sent by post direct to the Proprietor is convincing proof that the Public appreciate their marvellous curing power. They cure quickly, are elegant in appearance, and pleasant to take, and, what is of the utmost importance, are thoroughly reliable in affording quick relief. You do not require to go on taking them for a prolonged period, as is necessary with some medicines, which even then are mostly disappointing; you simply take a dose of Frootoids when ill, and repeat the dose if necessary, but generally one dose is quite effective.

Frootoids are immensely more valuable than an ordinary aperient, in so far that they not only act as an aperient, but do remove from the blood, tissues, and internal organs all the waste poisonous matter that is clogging them, and choking the channels that lead to and from them. The beneficial effects of Frootoids are evident at once by the disappearance of headache, the head becoming clear, and a bright, cheery sense of perfect health taking the place of sluggish, depressed feelings, by the liver acting properly, and by the food being properly digested.

Frootoids are the proper aperient medicine to take when any Congestion or Blood Poison is present, or when Congestion of the Brain or Apoplexy is present or threatening. They have been tested, and have been proved to afford quick relief in such cases when other aperients have not done any good at all. It is of the utmost importance that this should be borne in mind, for in such cases to take an ordinary aperient is to waste time and permit of a serious illness becoming fatal.

Frootoids act splendidly on the liver, and quickly cure bilious attacks that antibilious pills make worse. Many people have been made sick and ill by antibilious pills that could have been cured at once by Frootoids. People should not allow themselves to be duped into contracting a medicine-taking habit by being persuaded to take daily doses with each meal of so-called indigestion cures that do NOT cure. Frootoids have been subjected to extensive tests, and have in every case proved successful in completely curing the complaints named.

A constipated habit of body will be completely cured if the patient will on each occasion when suffering take a dose of Frootoids instead of an ordinary aperient; by so doing the patient will require doses only at longer intervals, and will so become quite independent of the necessity of taking any aperient medicine.

Frootoids have only lately been placed on the Australian market. Leading Chemists and Storekeepers are now stocking them. Retail price, 1/6. Ask for them locally, and so encourage business in your own district. If your Chemist or Storekeeper has not got them ask him to get them for you. If not obtainable send direct to the Proprietor, W. G. HEARNE, Chemist, Geelong, Victoria.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

The Famous Remedy for

COUGHS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, & CONSUMPTION,

Has the Largest Sale of any Chest Medicine in the World.

Those who have taken this medicine are amazed at its wonderful influence. ITS HEALING POWER IS MARVELLOUS. Sufferers from any form of BRONCHITIS, COUGH, DIFFICULTY OF BREATHING, HOARSENESS, PAIN or SORENESS IN THE CHEST, experience delightful and immediate relief; and to those who are subject to COLDS ON THE CHEST it is invaluable, as it EFFECTS A COMPLETE CURE. It is most comforting in allaying irritation in the throat and giving strength to the voice, and it neither allows a Cough nor Asthma to become chronic, nor Consumption to develop. Consumption has never been known to exist where "Coughs" have been properly treated with this medicine. No house should be without it, as, taken at the beginning, a dose is generally sufficient, and a COMPLETE CURE IS CERTAIN.

INFLUENZA AND BRONCHITIS.

TEN YEARS SUFFERING WITH A TERRIBLE COUGH AND WASTING AWAY. COMPLETELY CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—Twelve years ago I had a severe attack of Influenza and Bronchitis, and for ten years was suffering with a terrible cough and was wasting away. I had medical attendance, and tried various medicines recommended, but without success, until, on my daughter's recommendation, I used Hearne's Bronchitis Cure, with the result that it completely cured me, and I am perfectly free from any cough now.

E. ASTALL, 116 Shields-street, Flemington, Melbourne.

DRY, HACKING COUGH FOR TWELVE MONTHS.

RELIEVED AT ONCE, AND COMPLETELY CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. OTHER TREATMENT TOOK NO EFFECT.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—For twelve months or more I had a dry, hacking cough on my chest that used to trouble me terribly at night time. I was told it was a touch of Bronchitis. I tried different sorts of medicine, which took no effect, so I tried your Bronchitis Cure, which, I have much pleasure in informing you, relieved me at once. It has completely cured my cough. I am sure anyone can depend on your medicine for a thorough and immediate cure. I remain, yours truly,

DAVID MATTHEWS, Modewarre, Victoria.

BRONCHITIS.

A SUFFERER FOR YEARS CURED BY ONE BOTTLE OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. NO OTHER TREATMENT DID ANY GOOD.

Mr. Hearne. Sir,—My daughter, 12 years of age, had a very bad cough that had been a great trouble to her for years. I tried every cough remedy I could get, but not one of them seemed to do her any good. Then I tried one bottle of your Bronchitis Cure, and she has never coughed since she finished it. I am glad to say the effect has been wonderful. Yours, etc.

J. BATSON, Homebush, Sydney, N.S.W.

ASTHMA.

TWO CHILDREN IN ONE FAMILY CURED TWO YEARS AGO BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. IN THE BEST OF HEALTH NOW. HAVE NEVER HAD A SIGN OF THE ASTHMA SINCE.

Mr. Hearne. Dear Sir,—It is with pleasure I can say that my two children, whom you treated two years ago with your medicine for Asthma, are keeping in the best of health. They have never had a sign of the Asthma since. I always keep a bottle of your invaluable Bronchitis Cure in the house now.

(Mrs.) L. EDGELL, Smeaton, Victoria.

TERRIBLE COUGH CAUSED BY MEASLES.

IMPROVED IMMEDIATELY AND QUICKLY CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

Mr. Hearne. Dear Sir,—Please send me by return post one large bottle of your Bronchitis Cure, for which please find payment enclosed. I had a terrible cough caused by measles. It was tearing me to pieces. I chanced to have a small quantity of your Bronchitis Cure, took one dose, and improved immediately. I like to always have some on hand. It is well worth a testimonial on account of what it has done for me, and you are at liberty to make use of what I have written. This is not the first time it has done me good. Yours truly,

G. B. HOOK, "Hillslea," Clyde, Victoria.

BRONCHITIS.

A SUFFERER 73 YEARS OF AGE. THOROUGHLY CURED BY TWO BOTTLES OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. IMMEDIATE RELIEF—EFFECT WONDERFUL.

Mr. Hearne. Sir,—I have been very ill with Influenza and Bronchitis. A friend of mine persuaded me to try your Bronchitis Cure. The first dose gave me immediate relief, and after taking the second bottle I am thoroughly cured. Its effect on me has been most wonderful. I am 73 years of age. I trust you will make use of this statement by publishing it for the benefit of humanity generally. Yours most respectfully,

THOMAS B. TREZISE, Reedy Creek, Victoria.

SEVERE BRONCHITIS.

COMPLETELY CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. IT ACTED LIKE MAGIC.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—It affords me very much pleasure to give you an unsolicited testimonial as to the great merits of your wonderful Bronchitis Cure. I can say without hesitation that as a chest medicine it has no equal. Having had Bronchitis in a severe form it completely cured me, and now in the winter months if I at all contract a cold on the chest it gives me instant relief. I have also proved its efficacy with members of my family, whom it has always cured of coughs, colds on the chest, also sore throats. It has acted like magic. Sir, you are deserving of the best thanks of the community for introducing to suffering humanity such a valuable medicine. I remain, gratefully yours,

W. DUNCAN, 22 Normanby-street, Windsor, Victoria.

ASTHMA.

RELIEVED BY TWO DOSES OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—Having been a sufferer from Asthma, I have much pleasure in stating that your Bronchitis Cure afforded me great relief after taking two doses only. I have since proved its efficiency in quickly curing a bad cold, and altogether my chest feels stronger. I can strongly recommend it as the best medicine for chest complaints and coughs, as I have tried them all. Thanking you for the benefit that I have received. I am, Dear Sir, yours faithfully,

D. BEATTY, Hume's-buildings, 65 Willis-street, Wellington, New Zealand.

COUGH.

DISTRESSING AND HACKING COUGH COMPLETELY CURED BY A BOTTLE OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—Last winter my youngest son Herbert, who is rather weak on the chest, had a dry, distressing, hacking cough, which troubled the poor little fellow very badly at night time. I tried many so-called panaceas, without any appreciable effect. But after using less than a bottle of your Bronchitis Cure I am pleased to say that the child was cured and is now quite well, all symptoms of the cough having entirely disappeared. I have had much pleasure in recommending your magical medicine to my friends. Believe me to be, yours very gratefully,

R. SHERIDAN KNOWLES, "Lilliesleaf," Union-street, Windsor, Victoria.

CONSUMPTION.

TOO ILL TO LEAVE HIS BED. A COMPLETE CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—I am writing to tell you about the wonderful cure your medicine has effected in my case. About three years ago I began to cough. At first the cough was not severe, but it gradually got worse, and I became very weak and troubled with night sweats, pain in my chest, and great quantities of phlegm. On several occasions there was blood in the expectorated matter. I had been treated by a doctor, who pronounced my case to be consumption, and various other treatments had been tried, but without benefit. It was at this stage that I heard of your Bronchitis Cure, and sent to you for a course of the medicine. When it arrived I was too ill to leave my bed, but I commenced taking it at once and gradually improved. I am glad to say that the two lots of medicine you sent have effected a complete cure, for which accept my very best thanks. Yours gratefully,

J. BLAIR, Westminster Bridge-road, S.E., London.

SUFFOCATING DRY COUGH FOR TWELVE YEARS.

ENTIRELY REMOVED BY FIVE DOSES OF HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE. NO OTHER TREATMENT COULD EVEN EASE IT.

Sir,—My wife was for twelve years a sufferer from most distressing, suffocating, dry cough, that could not be removed or even eased by any remedy, doctors' prescriptions and patent medicines having been tried; but I am happy to state that the cough, pain in the chest, and difficulty of breathing, etc., were entirely removed by the fifth dose of your Bronchitis Cure. I remain, Sir, yours most respectfully,

WILLIAM CROCKETT, Baker's Swamp P.O., via Dripstone, N.S.W.

A FIVE YEARS SUFFERER.

CURED BY HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE.

Mr. W. G. Hearne. Dear Sir,—Kindly send me one large bottle of your Bronchitis Cure. I am more than pleased with the results of your wonderful medicine, as a small bottle cured my little girl, who had been suffering for five years, and now I do not feel safe to be without it. I remain, yours respectfully,

AGNES F. KENNEDY, Bethanga, Victoria.

Beware of Imitations! The great success of HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE has induced a number of unprincipled persons to make imitations, each calling his medicine "Bronchitis Cure," with the object of deceiving the simple-minded, and so getting a sale for an imitation which has none of the beneficial effects that HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE has. Consequently it has become necessary to draw your attention to this fact, and to request you in your own interests to be particular to ask for HEARNE'S and to see that you get it.

HEARNE'S BRONCHITIS CURE—Small Size, 2/6; Large Size, 4/6. Sold by Chemists and Medicine Vendors, and by the Proprietor, W. G. HEARNE, Chemist, Geelong, Victoria. Forwarded to any Address when not obtainable locally.

NOTICE.—Hearne's Bronchitis Cure No. 1A does NOT contain any poison within the meaning of the Act. It is equally beneficial for the youngest child and the most aged person.

SCIENCE NOTES.

THE NATURE OF ATOMS.

A prominent feature of the proceedings of the physics section of the British Association was a discussion on modern views of the atom. In opening the debate Professor Rutherford remarked that insight into the intimate structure of the atom represents an advance of the last decade, and he contrasted the complexity of the atom as we know it with Dalton's conception of it a century ago as a sort of miniature billiard ball. Yet it was Faraday who laid the foundations on which the physicist of to-day builds, for he showed that the passage of electricity through solutions took place on charged ions, and thus suggested an intimate connection between atoms and electricity, a connection that turns out to be identity. Before there was any experimental evidence that the atom was not a simple unit, but itself an aggregate of units, Larmor and others had worked out theories of its real nature as a point at which some difference in the ether was set up—a vortex, a centre of intrinsic strain—and since electricity itself was at the same time looked upon as a manifestation of ether the conceptions of the two things, matter and electricity, were obviously converging. The next step taken by J. J. Thomson was to show that atoms have an electrical structure: that they are made up, in fact, of immense numbers of negatively charged particles with a mass about the one-thousandth that of an hydrogen atom, held together by a positive charge in some way still not understood. Thomson demonstrated the existence of these particles, which are now familiar to us as the "electrons" of the cathode ray, as the beta-radiation of radio-active bodies, and so on; and, according to Thomson's view, an atom is simply a number of concentric rings of such particles, held together in temporarily stable conformations by positive electricity as by a cement. No positive electron, however, has ever been isolated. Sir Oliver Lodge, continuing the discussion, admitted that at so remote a point as the electron the physicist was "skating over thin ice," but he was ready to champion the electron theory of matter, and showed briefly how it accounted for the existence of such properties as mass, inertia, radiating power, atomic instability as in radium, the periodic relation between atomic weight and properties, peculiarities of spectra and the Zeeman effect. Tested at all these points, the electron theory comes out unscathed, and stands as one of the greatest advances ever made by science. Larmor, endorsing these views, rightly remarked that radium and radio-active phenomena only afforded fresh material for a theory already existing before their discovery; though no discovery could have been more opportune. There is, therefore, practical unanimity as to the truth of the electron theory, and therefore as to the possible disintegration of matter into the electrons. Lord Kelvin alone proved inconvertible, repeating what he had said in a paper on the previous day to the effect that an atom once was an atom always. But this denial of the possible transformation of matter was exceedingly ill-timed, for Sir William Ramsay was about to bring forward fresh evidence against the old view and evidence of the most startling kind. It has been shown that the emanation from radium forms the element helium. In a forecast of a paper not yet published Sir William Ramsay tells us that when the emanation is dissolved in water he finds the inert gas neon is formed; if for the water is substituted a saturated solution of copper sulphate the main product is argon, and at the same time traces of lithium may be detected. Lithium was also found when pure copper and pure copper nitrates were used respectively. The suggestion is (1) that the emanation which normally aggregates into helium may in some circumstances form aggregates of higher atomic weight, neon and argon; and (2) that the radiation acting on the copper ions breaks up an occasional copper atom, degrading it to lithium, the simplest aggregate of electrons in the natural group with which copper is classed. Sir William Ramsay is too great an experimenter to risk his reputation lightly, and if he tells us there was no lithium in his solution, no neon, and no argon, we must take his word for it until further work is forthcoming. But if he is right it means that the dream of the alchemist is come true, and that the transmutation of metals may be a commercial process, perhaps while this generation still lives.

THE IRON AGE.

Another interesting discussion arose as to the place where the Iron Age began; but the archaeologists seemed a good deal divided in opinion. Professor Ridgeway holds the view that its first home was Central Europe, where he shows that iron was first used to decorate bronze, and later to form a cutting edge. This is in opposition to the general theory that the age of iron began in Africa. Professor Ridgeway, however, urges that no iron was used before 800 B.C. in Egypt, and that Libyan and Semitic use was still later. The problem is complicated by the fact that the Egyptians use the same word for haematite and for iron. Ridgeway explains that they used the former as a stone, long afterwards, transferring the name to the metal. A good deal has been said about a very antique iron industry in Uganda; but according to this authority it began there only 400 years ago. Japan first used iron about 700 A.D., and China about 400 B.C.; but even then bronze swords were in common use to 100 A.D. There was no general use of iron in Egypt before Greek times. Professor Flinders Petrie supplied the right key to the conflict of testimony. Occasionally masses of metallic iron are found native, and these worked—which is a very different matter from smelting an ore. A metal might thus be used sporadically long before much was known about it, and such use might arise in various localities quite independent of any common origin. In the case of bronze, there is evidence that it was known in Egypt before 4800 B.C.; but it did not come into general use until three thousand years later. So with iron; it was used in 4700 B.C., 4200 B.C., 3700 B.C., 1200 B.C., and 1100 B.C.; but no doubt this was the native iron referred to.

Another point which came before this section, for which one cannot afford a separate note, was the excavation in Sparta last year of the sanctuary of Artemis Orthia. This was the altar before which, according to a well-known classical story, the Spartan boys were whipped, occasionally, in later times, to death; though the Roman writers would seem to have exaggerated both the severity and antiquity of the custom which arose out of a rough horse-play, a kind of running the gauntlet, fitting enough to a race of schoolboys who anticipated the playing fields of Eton with a kind of football, rougher than Rugby, and in which biting was allowed!

THE EVOLUTION OF THE EYE.

Many organisms are sensitive to light without possessing any specialised eyes at all. This is the case with the common earthworms. So to speak, they see through their skin. The evolution of the eye began when some centres in the skin became more sensitive than others. Such specialised cells, extra sensitive to light, lead the way to the most primitive type of eye, a mere sensitive dot responding to light impressions, but forming no image. A further advance is the grouping together of many such ocelli, a method of evolution followed in the case of the compound eyes of insects. It is a matter of doubt whether such eyes form an image. In some cases they do, for Exner on one occasion took a photograph through the eye of a fire-fly. The earthworm detects only differences in light intensity; the flat-worms or planarians with a very simple eye form no image, but they add to the abilities of the earthworm some sense of direction. The cockroach, though more keenly sensitive, forms no better image. The vertebrate eye, of course, gives a clear image, which can be seen, for instance, on the retina of an albino rabbit when the eye is freshly removed. But the persistence of ancient methods is shown in the frog, which still has to some extent the power of seeing with its skin. It is remarkable that once the lowest vertebrate had fixed on his kind of eye the type remained fundamentally the same all through the vertebrate series.

THE SPEED OF LIGHT.

Light travels at about 186,000 miles a second, and is a wave-motion in the ether. But all the waves are not the same size. Vibrations of greater wave length affect us as red, of shorter as violet, white light being the complex effect of all the wave-lengths together. A question which formerly was much discussed was whether or no all light waves had the same speed, i.e., whether red light, for instance, travelled at exactly the same rate as blue. According to the undulatory theory, there should be no difference, but a direct experimental proof was formerly thought desirable, and in 1855 Uriah A. Borden gave the Franklin Institute of Philadelphia 1000 dollars for a prize to be given to any resident of North America who would furnish it. It is not a little remarkable that this prize has languished almost half a century, no claimants having been able to satisfy the judges until Dr. Paul Heyl came forward the other day. He has not completed the problem, but he has shown that the short ultra-violet waves travel at the same rate as those of the visible spectrum—which amounts to proving the point. His method is most ingenious. Algol is a double star eclipsed every 69 hours by a dark companion. His light therefore undergoes a periodical change in intensity. As it takes 30 years for light to come to us from him any difference in rate for different wave lengths would be sure to show itself. With a transparent diffraction grating Dr. Heyl took photographs with the ultra-violet light, invisible to the eye, and compared the variations shown by the plate with those observed by the eye. Obviously if the ultra-violet rays travelled faster or slower than the rest the time of least brightness, as shown on the plate, would differ from the time of least brightness as seen by the eye. After two years' work Dr. Heyl failed to detect any such difference, and if it exists it must be less than one in 250,000. An indirect proof that the ether transmits all waves at the same rate has been given by others. It is noted that Jupiter's satellites are precisely the same colour before and after eclipse. If, however, the blue rays travelled faster than the red, the satellite should appear red when it disappeared, and blue when it re-emerged, for in the first case his red rays would be the last to reach us, and in the second his blue rays would be first. Nothing of this kind happens within the limits of planetary distance; but we should not be justified in accepting this as a proof that it could not happen over the enormously greater stellar distances; and this is the proof Dr. Heyl has supplied. Light of all wave-length therefore travels through ether at the same rate. So it does in air, or else we should have no such thing as white light; but this statement may not be absolutely true. On the other hand, when light has to pass through a prism it practically undergoes a retardation different for different wave lengths, with the result that the white light is sorted out into the colours of the spectrum.

IN THE GARDEN.

CONCERNING ROSES.

Most amateurs have now completed the planting and pruning of roses; many of the established varieties are already budding strong, and show signs of good flowers to come. If the young shoots are too crowded, disbud all the weakly ones, and take out any suckers that appear, or they will use up the sap that ought to go to the formation of flowers.

Roses from pots may be planted all the year round if the weather is favourable, but in any case, if the soil is dry, give the plants a thorough watering, after which stir the ground around the plants. Roses, being strong feeders, will take almost any amount of manure, but, whatever sort is used, it should be thoroughly decomposed, while those used as topdressings in summer may be fresh as obtainable, so that the trees may derive the full benefit from the juices which will be gradually washed down by rain, and in autumn it will be in a fit state to fork under. Never manure the roots when planting, but a good mulching with manure round the plants will have the effect of keeping the soil moist, and will also prevent the ground caking and cracking, and allow the water to soak in rapidly. Light sandy soils are not so suitable for growing roses as good deep loam with a clear subsoil, but if some clay or stiff loam is incorporated, and well worked in the bed, they will do well. Good show blooms are, however, obtained from sandy soil, but require much more manure and attention than those grown in heavier soil. Bonedust is a valuable fertiliser, and should be forked lightly into the soil. Liquid manure is very beneficial, particularly if applied a few weeks before the blooming time, and it should be liberally administered. Nitrate of soda will be found very efficient to bring forward blooms when the buds are already formed, but it is rather severe treatment, and must be very judiciously used. Guano is not recommended.

The green fly, or aphis, will now be found very troublesome, and as the insect lives by suction of the sap, the young shoots become much debilitated by its attack unless promptly checked. A decoction of tobacco makes a good insecticide, but, better still, soft soap and quassia chips. A quarter of a pound of each to two gallons of water will give the required strength. The quassia chips will require boiling for 10 minutes, the water then passed through a strainer, the soap dissolved in it, and the solution allowed to cool. Apply with a fine syringe, and if the first application be not effectual, repeat it at intervals of one day until it becomes so. The fly will then probably not give further trouble throughout the summer. Scale insects and red spider are both very difficult to deal with, as the one is protected by its scale, the other by its web. For the former, kerosene, with soft soap and water, applied with a brush, as unless the covering is removed the insect remains unhurt. The same difficulty presents itself in the case of the red spider, which will always be found under the leaf, the first indication of its attacks being the rusty appearance of the leaves. If only a few leaves are attacked, it will be best to cut away the branch bearing them. A rather strong decoction of tobacco applied with a sponge will generally be effectual.

When caterpillars attack bush roses they may be destroyed by pinching the leaves in which they are ensconced, making sure that the enemy does not drop out of the leaf before the pinch is administered, or by cutting off the leaf or buds, and allowing them to fall into a basket or other receptacle. Climbing roses are more difficult to reach, but a pair of scissors on a handle similar to those used in gathering grapes might have a small basket or tin box fitted to it, so that when the leaves or buds were cut the caterpillars fell out, and they would be captured. These caterpillars curl up and fasten the leaves together in such a manner that no insecticide will reach them. After pruning the trees the shoots cut off should be burnt, as they may have eggs on them. When plants wither and fade without any apparent cause, an examination should always be made of the earth round their roots, when grubs or caterpillars will generally be found attacking them.

Roses are often pruned, manure added to the soil surrounding their roots, and nothing more. It is, however, quite as necessary to carefully look over them after growth commences, as it is to prune, if good symmetrical shrubs are desired. On a careful selection of the best and most favourably placed shoots at that period depends their future. Many dormant buds often start into growth that are positively injurious if allowed to remain. A judicious thinning out of shoots too thickly placed to develop with advantage should be strictly adhered to by all to obtain the "Queen of Flowers" in her best and most lovely form.

CACTACEOUS PLANTS.

Although there are no plants that will bear more rough usage, endure a greater range of temperature, and live longer with so little attendance, the majority of the Cacti in Australia are not grown at all, and any out-of-the-way corner is generally considered good enough for them. Both in England and the United States, however, there has been a growing interest taken of late years in the smaller and more beautiful forms of the cactus family. The hedgehog cactus is one of the most handsome and curious sections of the vegetable world. They are remarkable for beauty of form, while the flowers are usually large and brilliantly coloured. The flowers frequently open for several days in succession, and have not the defect of "sudden death" so common to other members of the family. The flowers are produced from near the apex of the younger tubercles at the upper end of the stem, and are borne just above the cluster of spines. They abound chiefly in Mexico, and are found mostly in arid, stony, and rocky places, with very little soil for their roots. Some of the hedgehog species have spines of remarkable length, which give them a very peculiar appearance. As a rule these plants are quite capable of taking care of themselves in the struggle for life. In one species the flowers are straw yellow, and from 3 to 4 inches in diameter. In another, named Echinocactus hexodrophons, a very curious cactus, the head is very woolly, and the same radial spines are arranged in the form of a star, with a strong central spine. The flowers stand well about the plant, and are very attractive, being of a pale-rose colour. This plant is somewhat dwarf, often not more than 4 or 6 inches when five or six years old. The Elephantideus is one of the finest of a family remarkable for delicacy of design. In some cases they resemble an exquisite piece of mechanism, finished with the greatest minuteness and accuracy; others look as if they had undergone a kind of crystallisation, their whole surface appearing as if frosted over, or covered with the finest gossamer. The lovely variety has flowers of a dark rose-carmine colour, very beautiful. Like most of the family it is very dwarf, but it is an elegant little cactus, and very ornamental if grown in pots.

The most suitable compost for these singular and yet beautiful forms of vegetable life is one-half light turfy loam, one-quarter sandy peat, the remainder made up of coarse sand, lime rubbish, and small pieces of crock. It should be fairly dry when used. As most of the plants flower in the spring, after the sun has given out its power, they should not be repotted until that period is over. After carefully turning them out of the pots, remove the drainage, and such portions of the soil as will come away readily, take off all decayed roots, but do not disturb the solid root ball. Use a pot one size larger, and occupy quite one-quarter of the depth with the drainage crocks, for a mass of solid soil likely to hold too much moisture round the roots is certain to destroy the plant. It is not necessary to repot every year.

PORTULACCA GRANDIFLORA.

This plant was originally introduced from Chili during the early part of the last century. Since its introduction a vast improvement has been made; several double varieties have been produced of great diversity of colour, from pure white to deep crimson. These are very beautiful annuals when grown under suitable conditions. They revel in the hottest and sunniest positions, and in most gardens such places can be found for them. It is useless to place them in any shady spot. The amateur who grows them will be amply repaid, for when the sun is bright and strong, and the flowers fully expanded, one can scarcely conceive the dazzling and brilliant effect produced by their floral display. They delight in a calcareous, gravelly, and porous soil, and do well on rockwork, but must be in full sunshine to display their beautiful colours; they will, however, succeed fairly well in any common garden soil; avoiding cool, draughty positions, an ordinary dry season will not harm them. In growing the Portulacca it must be borne in mind that the flowers will not expand except under strong sunshine, in cloudy weather they appear to be at rest, but when we do see them at midday in bright weather they fully compensate for this.

In order to get the plants in flower during the hottest months of the year it is best to sow the seed at once, prick off into boxes, keeping them in a dry position, to prevent them damping off, afterwards transplanting them into the positions intended for them. They can also be sown in the open ground where they are to remain, thinning the seedlings as required.

BUSHHOUSE, ETC.

It would be a good thing if bushhouses were more largely increased, for they are of all houses for flowers most useful for the amateur of limited time and means, and when well managed are very interesting and pleasing. These structures should now have placed in them many of the hardier plants, and if they are repotted and well looked after they are sure to be satisfactory. Fuchsias, begonias, etc, will be much at home in the bushhouse, provided there is not too much shade. See that hanging and basket plants are supplied with soil. Azaleas, pelargoniums, etc, coming into flower should be supplied with weak solutions of liquid manure. If the liquid is very dark in colour it will be too strong, and must be diluted until it is quite a pale colour. Use the syringe freely when the air is dry to all plants except those flowering.

Put in the first batch of single dahlias, they flower early, and are invaluable for decorative purposes. Plant them in a good rich soil. Put in another batch of gladioli. A good plan with these bulbs is to place a few at six-weeks' intervals, then a succession of flowers can be had through a good portion of the year; they require a light rich soil to grow in. Iris Germanica and its varieties are extremely showy, and grow to great perfection in our climate; they have been aptly termed the amateur gardener's orchids, so varied in colour and extremely interesting are the individual flowers. No garden should be without a collection; they require well-drained, moderately rich soil to thrive well.

Nearly all spring flowering plants of dwarf habit show to much greater advantage when massed, together in beds than scattered through long borders. Pansies require a liberal amount of water during the dry weather. Keep them mulched with well-rotted manures. These plants are gross feeders, and require plenty of stimulants to develop size and quality of flowers.

The number denotes portions. If ordinary garden earth is used, one portion of old sifted stable manure should be added.

Azaleas and camellias are generally potted when they have finished flowering; evergreens generally when there is no tender growth upon them; seedlings, as soon as strong enough from the seed-box; bulbous plants when dormant.

NATIONAL ART GALLERY.

In addition to a new portrait subject by G. F. Watts, R.A., there is now on view at the National Art Gallery a collection of Japanese curios and objets d'art lent by his Excellency Vice-Admiral Sir Wilmot H. Fawkes. The Oriental exhibits will be found in a show case in the Old Masters' gallery, and will amply repay inspection. There are some finely wrought incense burners. Mention may be made of one that appears to be covered by a spider's web, with the insect busily spinning his silken threads from the centre. Another shows a mortal struggle between two lions, but as the king of beasts is a stranger to that part of the world, the Japanese idea of one is represented, bearing the head of a dragon. Many Tsuba, or hand-guards for swordsmen, are shown in exquisite designs, and there is a section devoted to Kadsuka and Kogai—that is to say to the "handles and blades" with which tradition reports, the Japanese warriors of old used to pierce the ears of the slain in order to ascertain whether they were really dead. Some quaint little medicine chests will be admired. These are little boxes carried round the waist (like the watch of modern times) with cords attached to them from which hang charms. Many specimens are exhibited of the minutely modelled figures which form these "charms." Some skilfully carved groups in ivory, notably one of burly wrestlers in a fateful embrace, will also be admired. The new portrait by Watts is entitled "Alice," and was contributed by the executors of that famous painter. It represents a simple little rustic girl in a basket chair, with the warm red-brick wall of an old house, up which a vine is growing, as background. The painting is not as fine a one as the Tennyson in the same court, but it shows the clear glance of childhood with great sincerity of expression and assured technique on the part of the artist. Occasional visitors to the gallery may like to be reminded that about the middle of next week the fine paintings lent by the Union Club during the past month or two will be withdrawn. The list includes Vicat Cole's "A Summer's Day on the Arun," presented to the club by the Hon. James White, "Trawlers," by C. Napier Hemy, A.R.A., presented by the Knox family in memory of Sir Edward Knox, Kt., for many years president of the club, and Ernest Croft's (R.A.) "Farm of Mont Saint Jean" during the battle of Waterloo, presented to the club in 1885 by the brothers Dangar. It may be added that the handsome vestibule at the main entrance of the gallery has been much improved during the week by the addition of some top lights, which serve to reveal beauties formerly obscured.

THE COMET DANIEL.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—In Mr. Gale's letter, in your issue of 23rd, he states that in his opinion the comet did not exhibit any special brightness, other than that required by recognised theory, when seen in the same direction as the galaxy (the Milky Way). He will excuse me, I hope, if I say this is somewhat vague. Mr. Tebbutt stated that the theory called for a gradual increase of brightness from July 18 onward. In reply I pointed out that the Red Hill Observatory photos from August 1 to August 11 showed the greatest brightness to have been on August 5, after which date there was a gradual decrease until August 11, when the observations were discontinued, the comet having become so faint. Mr. Gale deals with the comet's appearance subsequent to August 11. Does he mean that the theory had failed up to that time, but afterwards began to operate? If so, I must say that the theory is a very pliable one. Another gentleman known in astronomical circles writes me that theoretically the comet should have continued to brighten until early in September, and he goes on to give an explanation why it did not do so, an explanation which is apparently satisfactory to himself. He would be pleased, or surprised, to find that Mr. Gale found the nucleus to be intrinsically much brighter on September 1 than at any earlier period.

Mr. Gale must forgive me if I maintain that my observations, supported by those of other people, showed that the comet was at its best about August 17 to 20, when it was in the Milky Way. It was then quite a different object to what it was on August 11, and it gradually declined after August 20. I may add that it was showing at its brightest at a time when it had to contend against the light of a bright moon. The moon was full on August 23. I am, etc.,

POULTRY.

Questions relative to fancy or commercial poultry keeping, diseases, etc., should be addressed to "Ancona," "Herald" Office.

Perplexed.—There is nothing which will grow quicker for shade in poultry runs than the common castor oil. In the first season, according to conditions, they grow from eight to a dozen feet, the broad leaves on their many spreading branches affording the best of shade. Some theorists tell us the berries are poisonous. This, however, is erroneous. Several of the healthiest flocks of fowls in the State are at present located under the welcome shade afforded by the castor oil tree, the seeds of which are often eaten by the fowls.

"Abbotsford."—The ailment was abdominal dropsy. Successful operations have occasionally been performed on fowls for this not rare disease, but even when successful the fowl may again contract it, the cheapest cure being to kill the fowl. It is difficult to determine the cause.

Importer.—It would be risky recommending any particular English breeder from whom to purchase. Perhaps the safest plan would be to send your money to the secretaries of the clubs, who no doubt, would see you get good value. The secretary of White Orpington Club is Frank Bloomer, Stourbridge, Worcestershire; Black Orpington Club, V. B. Johnstone, Ryhall Hall, Stamford, Lincolnshire. In addition to the English price there will be about one pound per bird for freight and feed.

Botany.—The Agricultural Department on application will send you an article on fowl cholera, based on the latest scientific investigations. There is actually no cure for cholera, the remedial measures being more in the way of preventing its spread, and suggestions as to means of keeping the healthy birds from becoming infected.

The cool chambers at the Government Export Depot opened for the reception of eggs at the beginning of the month. Close on 2000 cases of 36 dozen each are now deposited, or about 500 cases more than at the same period of last year. With eggs a full penny per dozen higher than in last September, many thought there would be a considerable falling-off in cool storage quantities. Poultry-breeders are, however, well aware that high prices in the plentiful season mean extremely high ones in the scarce time, consequently those who can afford to remain out of their money for a few months have a certainty of a profitable speculation. Quantities of eggs are also stored at other city freezing works.

Messrs. S. Ellis and W. Brown, of Botany, have rejoined the directorate of the Poultry-farmers' Co-operative Society, Ltd. The society is now in a flourishing state, the consignments of products increasing weekly.

The sixty pens of fowls competing at the "Sydney Morning Herald" and "Sydney Mail" egg-laying competition at Berowra put up good work for the week which ended on Thursday evening last. J. Sweeney's white Wyandottes, S. P. Dart's and A. D. Craig's white Leghorns doing best with 36 for each pen, quite a number following with 35 each. G. Wright's Orpingtons lead with 671, followed by A. H. Padman's white Leghorns with 664, forty eggs separating the second and third places. The week's laying was a record for Berowra, the details of which appeared in yesterday's issue.

Mr. R. H. Harris, of the "Australian Hen," forwards a compact little work, entitled "The Poultry Book for Australasia." There is a good deal in the book that is neither new nor news, and a lot that is both, and should the present or prospective breeder put but a moiety of the given advice into practical operation he should do well with his fowls. The author departs from the beaten track of "a fortune from fowls," bluntly telling his readers that the occupation requires a long, severe apprenticeship, and careful study, and that the division between success and failure is so vaguely marked that a few mistakes may turn the former into the latter. As an auxiliary to the farmer, the dairyman and orchardist, poultry-breeding is specially recommended.

Some weeks ago it was mentioned in this column that the representative of a London house was in Sydney soliciting consignments of eggs to London. The present week a member of a Melbourne exporting firm has been attempting arrangements here for the purchase of ducklings for the English market, consignments to commence next month. The firm is a reputable one, and is largely engaged in the rabbit export trade. However, unfortunately for the poultry exports in comparison with the rabbits, the latter have only to be caught, being self-reared, and fed free by the landholders, while the poultryman has to purchase every ounce of food for his ducklings, and at times like the present at a cost which even the enhanced local price will scarcely pay him, much less the sixpence per lb. dead weight offered for those suitable for England. What with poor hatchings, high-priced cereals, and a good local demand, it is probable there will be no exports to England until January next.

The importation of large American bronze turkeys to this State within the past few years is having the expected effect of putting size into the many flocks to which they have been introduced. Within the past few weeks several consignments have been treated at the Government Export Depot, individual gobblers weighing up to 26lb alive, while hens of 13lb were not uncommon, one of the latter going to 15½lb. It is a great pity those referred to were not retained and disposed of for stock birds for ensuing years, as specimens of equal quality and weight for stock purposes could not be landed from America under 10 guineas.

What are termed milk chickens have become a fashionable dish in the London season. These are birds only a few weeks old, and when killed and dressed weigh but 6oz to 8oz each. They come largely from abroad, English breeders refusing to kill their chickens so early. The birds being so young are very difficult to pick without tearing the skin, and in France, from which the English supply is drawn, a quarter franc is paid for the plucking. They are wrapped separately in grease proof paper, packed lightly in boxes, and consigned to West End poulterers, where they realise from 1s 6d to 1s 9d each retail. The months of demand are April, May, and June, and as there are great quantities of small chickens here in January and February, a small consignment of these might be sent, and should it be even a comparative success it would prove an outlet for the Leghorn cockerels, which at the period mentioned, when marketed locally, have at times eaten their heads off.

At the National Poultry Conference, lately held in England, Miss N. Edwards, of Coaley Poultry Farm, Gloucestershire, read a paper on "Opportunities for Women in Poultry Breeding." Miss Edwards said this work for women, if properly managed, proves a pleasure with wide interests, and a source of profit. Its unparalleled advantage as a work for women are that it can be carried on at home, is a sure road to health, and makes work possible for those who are broken down by sedentary employments. The paper referred to the want of thrift in English villages compared with smaller communities abroad, especially in France, where almost every cottager and person kept a few fowls, it being this general poultry-keeping throughout the country which accounts for its great extent in exports of poultry and eggs. Miss Edwards said that women contemplating poultry-keeping on a large scale as a business should be enterprising, active, energetic, methodical, with good business capabilities, and have a thorough knowledge of the work, and not be afraid of wind or weather. Frequently the uninitiated think that money is easily made out of poultry in some magic way, at the cost of very little work. But there are few roads to riches or comfort by this easy method, and this erroneous idea is the cause of so many failures. Beginners are led to expect impossibilities, and become weary of the work before the enterprise has had time to succeed. All the big businesses of whatever sort were begun in a small way, and of all others poultry-keeping for profit should be commenced in a like manner. Miss Edwards, in reference to her own business, of which she had 13 years' experience, said she found a combination of fancy and utility the best. The business has first to be built up by advertising; afterwards when on a good basis recompendations and advertisements bring the business. Every beginning is difficult, but once the initial difficulties are overcome the work is one in which fresh interests are constantly awakening, and on account of the variations in the seasons and demands, it never becomes monotonous.

The New York Experimental Station has issued a bulletin giving an account of experiments carried out with the view of answering the question, "Will poultry thrive on grain alone?" or, in other words, will the cheap protein of peasmeal, oatmeal, wheat, maize, bran, or linseed meal answer instead of animal meal and similar products. Experiments were made with chickens, pullets, cockerels, and ducklings, and the results of these would appear to prove conclusively that part of the protein must be drawn from animal sources to secure the best results. With ducklings in particular some form of animal food, in addition to skim milk or curd, seems essential for the maintenance of health and vigour. Several experiments were made, the details of which are given in the bulletin referred to, and the results show that the gain per lb was made with less expense with meat than without it. Moreover, chickens receiving animal meal reached 2lb in weight five weeks before the others; 3lb in weight more than eight weeks sooner, and three pullets of the lot began laying four weeks earlier than among the grain-fed birds. The second lot of chickens gave the same results, except that the differences were not so striking. With ducks, the results with those receiving animal meal were somewhat startling, as these were far and away ahead of the others in every respect. In rapidity of growth and in cost of production, the protein supplied by animal food gave much more economical results than rations drawing most of their protein from vegetable sources.

Baby's Perfect Food.

BABY'S FOOD, to be absolutely perfect, must be free from starch, because a young infant cannot possibly digest anything starchy. Mellin's is the one food guaranteed starch-free.

BABY'S FOOD, to be ideally perfect, must be as rapidly, and easily, and WHOLLY digestible as is Nature's own sustenance—mother's milk. Mix Mellin's Food with fresh cow's milk and you have a complete and ideal substitute for healthy mother's milk.

BABY'S FOOD, to be entirely perfect, must lend itself to quick and easy preparation. Mellin's Food is peerless in this respect. It requires no cooking whatever. Simply add milk and water as directed, and you have a perfect food made to perfection IN ONE MOMENT.

WE can produce the voluntary testimony of 20,000 parents and 2000 British doctors, each one of whom declares it to be an absolutely perfect nourishment for a baby from birth upwards.

Among the many honours won by Mellin's are those awarded at the Christchurch Exhibition, which were as follows:—

MELLIN'S FOOD: GOLD MEDAL.
MELLIN'S LACTO: GOLD MEDAL.
MELLIN'S FEEDING BOTTLE: SILVER MEDAL.

LAW REPORT.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 27.

IN CHAMBERS.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring.)

UNION CONTRIBUTIONS.

A WIFE'S CLAIM.

Hotel, Club, Restaurant, and Caterers' Employees' Union v Ronneberg.

Mr. Edmunds, instructed by Messrs. Murphy and Moloney, appeared for the claimant, Alice Ronneberg. The union named, who were the execution creditors, were represented on Wednesday, but did not now appear. It appeared that William Ronneberg, a member of the union, got into arrears with his contributions to the extent of £2 16s 6d, and the union obtained an order from the Arbitration Court for payment of the amount. Ronneberg failed to pay, and execution was issued, and certain furniture was seized which Mrs. Ronneberg claimed as having been purchased by her out of moneys left to her by Mr. Blake, her former husband. Evidence having been given by the claimant, his Honor gave judgment in her favour. He also directed the execution creditors (the union) to pay claimant's costs, and also those of the sheriff.

EQUITY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice A. H. Simpson.)

UNIQUE WILL.

Beard v Hart and others.

Mr. Maughan, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, appeared for the plaintiff, Samuel Beard; Mr. Bethune, instructed by Mr. M. E. A'Beckett, for the defendant, Sarah Ann Beard, an insane patient; and Mr. Wyndham Davies, instructed by Mr. A. B. Davies, for the defendant, Elizabeth Hart. This was an originating summons for the purpose of obtaining from the Court the construction of the will of the late William Beard, of Wardell, Richmond River. The testator in his will said, "I give and bequeath as follows:—After payment of my just debts it is my desire that all my real and personal property shall be given to my son, Samuel Beard, with the following conditions:—That he is to support my wife, his mother, as long as she lives, and should she desire to leave him to allow his mother 5s per week as long as she lives; also to support my daughter, his sister, Sarah Ann Beard, as long as she keeps herself quiet, but if he finds that he cannot manage her he is to give her £10 sterling, and let her go and do for herself." According to the affidavit of plaintiff his mother, Sarah Beard, died on September 4, 1904, and Sarah Ann Beard was now an insane patient. He also said that he had paid the £10 mentioned in his father's will to the Master in Lunacy. Doubts having been raised by the Registrar-General as to whether plaintiff was absolutely entitled to the real estate of testator, he was desirous of having the question determined by the Court.

His Honor, after hearing affidavits and argument, declared that plaintiff was absolutely entitled to the real estate, discharged from the liability to maintain his sister, Sarah Ann Beard.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and juries.)

Mr. Pollock was Crown Prosecutor.

ALLEGED PERJURY.

JURY DISAGREED.

Rosetta Cussell, a middle-aged woman, pleaded not guilty to a charge that on May 27 last, before Mr. Justice Simpson, in the Divorce Court, she did falsely swear that she never misconducted herself with the co-respondent to the suit in which the accused's husband petitioned for a divorce from her.

Mr. Walker, instructed by Mr. H. L. Tress, appeared for the accused.

The jury, having been locked up over night, were unable to agree, and the panel was discharged.

The accused, who was allowed bail, was remanded till the next Court.

ALLEGED LARCENY.

Solomon Levy, a young man, was arraigned upon a charge that he did, at Sydney, on July 22, steal one box and eighty collars, the property of F. Lassetter and Co., Ltd. The accused pleaded not guilty, and was defended by Mr. J. W. Abigail.

It was explained that the value of the lace collars exceeded £60.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty, and the accused was remanded for sentence.

POLICE COURTS.

ASSAULT.

RYAN AGAIN BEFORE THE COURT.

SENT TO GAOL FOR SIX MONTHS.

The charge preferred against Sydney James Ryan, an athlete, for assaulting Maud Dickenson on September 11, was resumed yesterday at the Water Police Court before Mr. A. N. Barnett, S.M.

Mr. James, instructed by Mr. Quinlan, appeared for the complainant.

Mr. Barnett said that the case had been adjourned for the purpose of arriving at an understanding, but defendant, who appeared in person, said that he intended to go on with the evidence.

After further evidence,

Sydney James Ryan, the defendant, residing at Crown-street, Woolloomooloo, stated that the day prior to the assault he saw the complainant in King-street, and asked her to send the children to him to go with him to a matinee the following day. On the Wednesday he waited for the children for half an hour, but they did not come. He then went to Captain Webster's, and rang the bell, without reply. He left and met the complainant later in Bayswater-road. He asked what was her reason for not allowing the children to go to him, and she said that she would not allow them to go until he paid the amount owing under an order of the Court—£3 2s 6d a week. He denied having assaulted her at all that day.

To Mr. James he said that he could not say how much he owed her under the order, something over £200, but he never intended to pay it.

Mr. Barnett found the assault proved, and asked defendant whether he would consent to be bound over to keep the peace.

Defendant said that he could not get anyone to go surety for him, so he would leave it to the magistrate to do what he liked.

Mr. Barnett said that he was satisfied that so long as defendant was not bound over by some strong measure in a heavy sum, he would continue to molest the complainant, who was not his wife. He therefore had only one thing to do, and that was to sentence him to six months' imprisonment, with hard labour.

As defendant was leaving the Court he indulged in some language, which called from the Bench the remark that unless he was silent he would have him again brought before the Court, and give him further punishment.

EVADING STAMP DUTY.

At the Water Summons Court yesterday, before Mr. W. M. Macfarlane, S.M., Wm. Smith, proprietor of premises at Manly, was proceeded against upon an information alleging that upon payment of £5 to him he did divide the amount paid, with intent to evade the payment of stamp duty. Mr. Mant, of the Crown Law Department, prosecuted. James Meeks, the keeper of a shooting gallery at the Corso, Manly, rented premises from the defendant at £5s a week. He paid the defendant one day £5 in sovereigns, being four weeks' rent then due. Witness paid defendant's man, and four receipts were given to witness.

The defendant stated that he made receipts out for moneys every week, and if the money was paid the receipts were given. On this occasion four weeks' rent was paid at once, and the four receipts were accordingly given.

Mr. Macfarlane fined the defendant £2, with 6s costs, or in default 14 days' imprisonment, and allowed a month for payment, to enable the defendant to make any application he might consider necessary.

FILTHY PREMISES.

Herbert Payne was yesterday, at the Central Summons Court, proceeded against by Inspector Duncan, of the City Council, for suffering filth to remain on his premises. He was fined 10s, with 6s costs.

Frank Nicholson also pleaded guilty to a similar charge. It was stated that defendant had allowed three weeks' accumulation of garbage, which was emitting an offensive smell, to remain on the premises. He had been cautioned previously. Defendant was fined £2, with 6s costs, or in default one month's imprisonment.

Richard Reynolds pleaded not guilty, and was fined 10s, with 6s costs, on a similar charge.

FACTORIES ACT.

Before Mr. Donaldson, S.M., yesterday, at the Central Summons Court, Henry Dose, occupier of a factory, appeared on an information alleging that he failed to comply with the provisions of the Shops and Factories Act, in so far that he did not report an accident which happened at his factory to the proper authority. D. I. Taylor (Inspector under the Act) stated that an employee of defendant's lost the ends of some of his fingers while working a surface planing machine, and that defendant had failed to supply the necessary written report. Defendant, who pleaded guilty, said that he was unaware that he had to follow a prescribed course. He was fined £2, with 12s costs, or in default three weeks' light labour.

For a similar offence, Arthur Tooth, occupier of a factory, pleaded guilty. A fine of £2, with 7s costs, or in default three weeks' imprisonment, was imposed.

PUBLICANS' LICENSES TRANSFERRED.

The following applications for transfers of publicans' licenses were granted on Thursday at the Central Licensing Court:—May Stewart to Helena Millington, Rozelle Hotel, Darling-street, Balmain; Thomas Grant to Cornelius Heane, Hotel Victory, King-street, Newtown; Maria Priestley to James Brodie, London Hotel, Darling-street, Balmain; Elizabeth Coe (administratrix of C. W. Jones) to herself, Hughenden Hotel, Goulburn-street, city; Leontine J. Briquet (administratrix of Leon Houreaux) to Auguste Briquet, Rocklily Hotel, Rocklily, Manly; George E. Small to James M'Taggart, Aquarium Hotel, Manly; James Gallagher to Mary Walsh, Star Hotel, Argyle-street, Sydney.

SEAMEN IN TROUBLE.

Thomas Scull, 48, Frederick Jones, 21, and Alexander M'Farlane, 19, seamen, were charged at the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. Barnett, S.M., that being lawfully engaged seamen on the British registered vessel Thornlie Bank, they were guilty of wilful disobedience to lawful commands on September 26. They all stated that the rigging of the vessel was rotten, and that was the reason they disobeyed orders. Each of the accused was sentenced to 10 days' imprisonment, with hard labour.

ALLEGED THEFT OF SCRIP.

BROTHERS IN CONFLICT.

At the North Sydney Summons Court on Thursday, before Mr. F. S. Isaacs, S.M., Alexander Aberdeen Blackman proceeded against Jervis George Blackman upon an information alleging that on April 30 he stole scrip certificates for 1625 shares in the Mulyan Creek Gold-mining Company, Ltd., of the value of £812 10s.

The accused was committed for trial at the next Quarter Sessions. Bail was allowed.

A MOTORIST FINED.

At the Water Summons Court yesterday, before Mr. W. M. Macfarlane, S.M., G. Jerstrup, of Rose Bay, was proceeded against for negligently driving a motor car on September 2. The evidence was to the effect that Constable Worth was a passenger on a tramcar, between Liverpool and Bathurst streets, going towards Circular Quay, and defendant was driving a motor car in the same direction. In front of the tram a vehicle was standing close to the kerb. Defendant drove between the vehicle and the tram, and in doing so struck the conductor, who was on the footboard, causing him to fall towards the driver of the tram. Mr. Scott, who was sitting on the front seat, caught hold of him. Defendant did not stop his car.

Defendant said he was chauffeur for Dr. Hatten, of Watson's Bay, and had a long experience in driving cars in Sweden, London, and Paris, extending over four years. When the tram passed him he was going slowly, and two carts forced him over to the tram. He was afraid the tram would run into him, and he put on a little more speed and got out of the way. After that he did not think anything was wrong, nor did he feel the car touch anything. The horse and cart would have jambed him on the tram if he had not passed it. Witness was going at his second speed—not more than seven or seven and a half miles an hour. He stopped at Stanley's, and the constable spoke to him and told him that he (witness) had passed the tram too quickly, and had hurt the conductor's foot.

A fine of £3 was imposed, with costs, £2 1s 6d, or in default one month's gaol.

COUNTRY HOSPITALS.

ANNUAL CONFERENCE.

The second annual meeting of the Country Hospitals' Conference Board was continued in Vickery's-chambers, Pitt-street, yesterday, Mr. R. T. Keys, vice-president, occupying the chair.

INTERRUPTED TRAINING.

A motion from Lismore was agreed to as follows:—"That the Australasian Trained Nurses' Association be requested to so amend their regulations so that probationer nurses who have been forced to leave a training school through ill health or other sufficient reason may, on resuming their training in another training school, be credited with the time spent in the first-mentioned, instead of being forced to commence de novo, provided the association be satisfied that the training has been resumed within a reasonable time."

A PROTEST.

On the motion of Mr. Biddulph (Bourke), it was decided:—"That this conference respectfully protests against the reported proposal of the Premier to appoint a board to allocate the Government grant between the various hospitals, with the object of withholding such subsidies from institutions which have surplus moneys in hand, as it appears to this conference that it is essential for the efficient and provident management of a hospital that it should, if possible, have at least one, and, if possible, two years' upkeep in hand as a reserve fund."

FORMATION OF A UNION.

On the motion of the chairman (Muswellbrook) it was decided to form a union, to be called "The Country Hospitals' Union of New South Wales," the objects of which will be:—"To watch over and protect the rights and privileges of country hospitals, to take action in relation to any subject, or to any legislation affecting their interests; to bring about such a union of these hospitals as will enable reasonable influence to be brought to bear in any desirable direction; to bring about uniformity of rules, as far as practicable; to use all suitable means to collect and disseminate all kinds of useful information, calculated to assist and benefit these institutions, and to take united action in any other matters of mutual interest."

In moving the resolution the chairman said such a body would be one to which appeals could be made, and its position would be recognised by the Minister. A further consideration was that the Nurses' Association would be subordinate to it, because of the nurses being the employees of the hospitals.

FURTHER RESOLUTIONS.

It was resolved, on a motion from the Tweed, —"That the Government provide suitable accommodation for alcoholics in connection with police stations, or elsewhere than at country hospitals." Carried.

A proposition from Inverell, that the Government should subscribe towards the cost of pauper funerals, was affirmed.

It was also decided, on a motion from Inverell, that where an old age pensioner died in a hospital before his instalment was actually due, the amount accrued should be paid to the hospital.

On the motion of Mr. J. H. R. Noble (Penrith), it was resolved that all country hospitals should be empowered to insure their employees so that in case of sickness the institution would be compensated for loss of services and other expenses.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:—President, Mr. R. T. Keys; vice-president, Mr. F. G. Crouch; secretary, Mr. Arthur Bloore.

The conference concluded with the customary votes of thanks.

TROUBLE ON THE SCHWABEN.

GERMANS AND ENGLISHMEN.

ATTACK WITH PIECES OF IRON.

TEMPTATION OF HIGHER WAGES.

At the Water Police Court yesterday, before Mr. A. N. Barnett, S.M., 14 English firemen on the German steamer Schwaben, lying at the Circular Quay, were charged with deserting from the vessel. The whole of them pleaded guilty.

Officers of the ship stated that at Bremenhaven the vessel shipped a crew and a complement of firemen, the men before the Court filling the places of others who had left. A strike was pending at the time, as a result of which the German firemen left in a body, and refused further work. A fresh number were sent for in England, and the 14 accused were placed in the vacancies caused by the Germans. As Englishmen, they demanded higher wages, and received them, and signed an agreement for the voyage to Australia and back. When the boat arrived at Sydney, quarrelling took place between the seamen and firemen, which developed into an open rupture, and the 14 accused left the vessel in a body, taking their goods with them.

The magistrate inquired of an officer if it were true that the men had come to the assistance of the vessel on the other side of the world, to which the reply was made that they were well paid for it. They were receiving more money than the men they replaced, and when they left they took all their goods with them.

Inspector M'Vane stated that he believed that higher wages were procurable in Australia than in Europe, which was a great temptation to the men to leave. Each of the accused had money owing to him.

Acting as spokesman for the lot, one of the deserters stated to the Bench that the whole trouble arose through the conduct of the German sailors, who knocked the firemen about, with the result that they all bore marks of the onslaught.

The Bench: How many German sailors are there on board? Seven, who attacked the firemen with pieces of iron, and the accused were in fear for their lives. There were 18 English firemen on the vessel.

The Bench: But, surely, 14 Englishmen are not frightened of seven Germans?—Well, you see, your Worship, we did not want to break the law, and render ourselves liable to six months' imprisonment.

The fireman, continuing, said that the sailors got the firemen in the forecastle on Monday night, and attacked them with pieces of iron, and that was the only reason for their leaving the vessel.

Mr. Barnett said that he did not understand how seven Germans could knock about 14 Englishmen in two hours, and occasion them to desert, and he wished the accused would give him their true reason for leaving.

Inspector M'Vane said that drink had something to do with the trouble.

Mr. Barnett: Is it not a fact that higher wages are procured here?

Inspector M'Vane: Yes; seamen were in great demand just now here and at Newcastle, and, no doubt, the temptation to get higher wages was the cause of the desertion.

Mr. Barnett, addressing the accused, said that they had been engaged to take the place of German firemen who had struck work for higher wages. They had signed an agreement for the round voyage, but when they reached Sydney they deserted in a body. It was risky work; but, in undertaking it, they knew the penalty and must take the consequences. He sentenced each to one month's imprisonment, with hard labour.

THE SMOKE NUISANCE.

FUEL OR MACHINERY?

CITY COUNCIL DETERMINED.

Several cases of persons allowing thick black smoke to issue from their chimneys for more than the prescribed time, viz., three minutes in the aggregate in the half-hour, came before Mr. Donaldson, S.M., yesterday at the Central Summons Court. The proceedings were at the instance of Inspector Duncan, of the City Council.

Hugo Smith, engineer of the Strand Electric Lighting Company, was the first defendant. He pleaded guilty.

Mr. Waldron appeared for the City Council; and Mr. F. A. Davenport represented the Strand Electric Lighting Company.

Inspector Duncan informed the Bench that thick smoke had issued from the chimney for a period of 11½ minutes. The company had been proceeded against on four or five occasions, on the last of which the maximum penalty was imposed.

Mr. Davenport directed attention to the fact that at the beginning of the year, since the matter was brought before the attention of the company, steps had been taken to abate the nuisance complained of. Upwards of £1000 had been expended in installing machinery, which, however, had not proved entirely effective. On July 17 of this year, a cable had been forwarded to England for an expert representative of the contractors. Since then, the company had paid fines. The expert had arrived, and everything possible was being done, and he would ask that the matter stand over, pending the result of operations. The fines were being paid by the contractors. "Everything possible was being done that money or anything else could do to abate the nuisance." He submitted that the prosecutions bordered on persecution. There were other places in the city which offended; yet no notice was taken of them.

Mr. Donaldson: The last time I presided at this Court the expert was expected to arrive.

Mr. Davenport: The expert arrived on September 13.

Mr. Waldron asked that the highest penalty be imposed. He resented the suggestion that favouritism had been shown by the City Council. As a matter of fact, two companies in which the Lord Mayor was on the directorate had been proceeded against.

Julius Geldert, expert engineer, stated that he had arrived in Sydney from England on September 13 for the purpose of abating the nuisance complained of. He had come in response to a cable.

The Bench: Are you acquainted with the process which it is endeavoured to put into effect?

Witness replied that he had had 19 years' experience in similar processes. The firm he represented had undertaken a great number of similar works, and had always been successful. In about six weeks he thought he would be able to overcome the difficulty.

Mr. Donaldson stated that he did not think that the case was one which admitted of the reduction of the penalty by the Bench. He fined defendant £10 and costs, or in default two months' imprisonment.

In the same court, and for a similar offence, William Allen, fireman at Cormack's cooperage, Darling Harbour, pleaded guilty. He was fined £5, 6s costs, or in default one month.

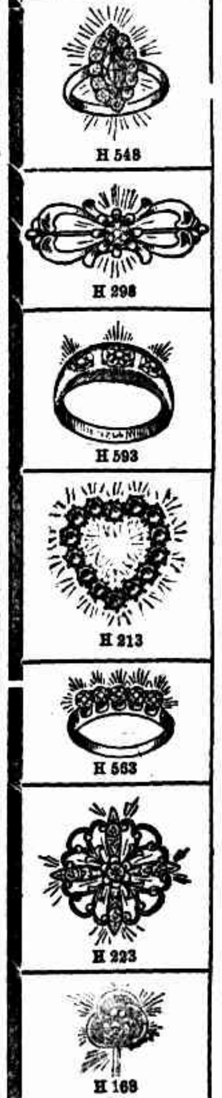

Alexander Davidson, engineer to Riddell Bros.' factory, pleaded guilty, and was fined £5, 6s costs, or one month.

W. Simpson, in charge of the furnaces of the Imperial Arcade Electric Lighting Company, also pleaded guilty. Defendant had been fined on previous occasions. He was ordered to pay £10, 6s costs, or two months.

NEW CUTTER AT LOWE'S.
MR. J. V. DURAND ENGAGED.
The rapid strides made by Messrs. W. LOWE and CO. in the Tailoring Trade are nothing short of phenomenal; each month sees bigger results and more new Customers made. To give an idea of the Trade done, the fact that Five Cutters are continually engaged speaks volumes. Messrs. LOWE and CO.'S standing as First-class Tailors commands at all times the best skill available in the Tailoring Trade, particularly the Cutters. The most recent addition to their Cutting Staff is Mr. J. V. DURAND, who is well known as a highly skilled man in the Art. Mr. Durand's thirty years' experience in London, Chicago, Melbourne, and Sydney, is at the disposal of their patrons (together with that of four other First-class Cutters); and as they are building up a very solid Tailoring Business, they no doubt intend to jealously guard it, and employ every effort to give the fullest satisfaction to their Customers. Mr. LOWE states one of the big features of their great success in this line is due to the fact that they cater for everybody; whether it may be a Two-guinea or Five-guinea Suit is required, every justice is done; and the saving in their Prices talks louder than anything else for such Superior Tailoring. Messrs. LOWE and CO. advise all gentlemen requiring Outfits for the V.R.C. Racing Carnival to order early, so as to avoid delay, as they are very busy; therefore, orders coming in now will have fair time for execution; and they state that they have opened up a very fine range of High-class Fancy Suitings for Race occasions.
LOWE and CO. make a feature of American Style Clothes, and as they are rapidly coming into vogue here, Smart Dressers will do well by consulting Messrs. LOWE and CO. as regards their future Orders.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

EDUCATION IN SHEEP.

EXPERIMENTS ON THE COAST.

The lectures which Mr. Alfred Hawkesworth, the wool expert of the Technical College, is delivering at Armidale, Tamworth, and other northern towns are apparently being received with much favour. Mr. Hawkesworth has the confidence of the wool-growers of the State, and is widely recognised as a judge of the British breeds. Expert classification is to-day doubly important, because of the enhanced value of every class of fleece, and on this point alone the Technical College demonstrators should be worth close attention. But it is on the question of the mutton breeds and their crosses that Mr. Hawkesworth will probably be found most interesting. In the old sheep districts he should be able to assist flock-owners with valuable suggestions, and it is to be regretted that he has so little time available for such work. Under the new agricultural regime, which is so auspiciously marked by the Premier taking up the reins of administration, it is to be hoped that our experts will be placed in more direct touch with the farmers. At present the available staff is so busy in the departments and on the various Government farms that there is little time for running about the country addressing meetings, and if more lectures are to be delivered further appointments will have to be made. Probably the first fact that will strike Mr. Carruthers will be that the Agricultural Department is both undermanned and underpaid. An increased annual expenditure of a few thousands would make the whole outlay on the service much more productive to the men on the land. At present we have a big machine with half of its wheels and parts idle for the lack of a little belting.

Mr. Hawkesworth's northern tour suggests the advisability of the Government making an earnest experiment with British sheep on the coast. Already we have a few coastal farmers trying the hardy British breeds on the rich dairying country, and some success is reported. A few sheep are kept at the Wollongbar farm, near Lismore, but the department has never given the matter much attention. If it is proved that mutton sheep will thrive on the seaboard, the profits of the industry would very seriously challenge those derived from dairying. Richmond River country, which will carry a cow and more to the acre, would return a nice cheque from mutton and wool, and on all the coastal rivers the conditions would be somewhat similar. The gross proceeds from sheep would be heavy, and the labour and expense would be as nothing when contrasted against the drudgery of dairying. Extended trials may prove discouraging, but the venture is certainly one in which the Government should lead. At present very few coastal men know anything at all of sheep and wool production, and as they are our most conservative settlers they are not likely to take the initiative and start experiments. Mr. Hawkesworth would do well if he delivered a couple of lectures on the coast, and set out clearly the chief features of the British breed industry. He could discuss the characteristics of the various breeds and the class of country on which they thrive, with comparisons between our coastal lands and the native home of the sheep in England. The dairy farmers might be expected to appreciate information as to the sheep-carrying capacity of their lands, and would have their interest awakened by the lecturer's estimate of what land of a given cattle capacity might be expected to return if stocked with healthy sheep. The saving in labour could be shown clearly.

Without doubt information along these lines would arouse curiosity, and probably lead to experiments. And at very little expense the Government could go much further. At the Berry, Wollongbar, and Grafton farms it would be a simple matter to conduct comparative experiments between sheep and dairy cattle. If land was not available some could be rented for the purpose. Too many of the State farm demonstrations are shorn of value because of the impossibility of ascertaining a few facts about the cost of production. Experiments cannot be made to pay, but having extended experiments to field practice the farm managers should be able to advise farmers as to the likelihood of profits. Coastal sheep experiments could be made to serve a double purpose; they could show the adaptability of the animals to the coast, and simultaneously test their profits against dairy cows. The keeping of records would be a very simple matter. It is not desirable that the men on the coast should be dependent upon a single industry, and Mr. Carruthers might at once take in hand a highly useful trial that offers so few financial or other obstacles.

THE VETERINARY SURGEON IN THE SHOW RING.

At the recent Melbourne Show considerable interest was aroused in connection with the rejection by the Government Veterinary of the draught stallion Timekeeper. Timekeeper had been awarded champion prize, and in accordance with a rule of the Agricultural Department had to be passed by the Government Veterinary as sound. The stallion had recently been imported at a price, it is said, of 1000 guineas, and the rejection of such an animal naturally created a sensation. It was stated that the owner had in his possession two certificates of soundness, insisted upon before the stallion was finally purchased in the old country. Two Melbourne veterinaries were also said to have examined the horse and given certificates of soundness.

At the time Mr. Kendall, the Government Veterinary Surgeon, refused to give any reason for his decision. The following letter and report have now been made public, giving Mr. Kendall's side of the question:—

"Melbourne Veterinary College,
"Fitzroy, Sept. 24, 1907.

"To the Hon. the Minister of Agriculture.

"Sir,—I have been requested by the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria to forward to you the first portion of my report to it referring to the disqualification of the draught stallion Timekeeper.

"In pursuance of this request, I have the honour to enclose the portion mentioned.

"Referring to the statement in the concluding paragraph, I may add that the evidence therein mentioned is contained in a letter sent by Messrs. James Forshaw and Sons, of Carlton-on-Trent, near Newark, England, dated July 16, 1907, to a leading stockowner in Tasmania. It says: 'Montgomery purchased a useful-looking dark-coloured horse in London called Timekeeper. He was rejected by the veterinary inspectors for unsoundness. He was bought by Montgomery, we understand, for report.'

"Though not requested to do so, I also enclose full copy of my report, thinking that you should have the whole document before you.

"I have the honour to be, Sir,
"Yours most obediently,
"W. T. KENDALL, M.R.C.V.S."

[COPY.]

To the President and Members of the Council of the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria.

Gentlemen,—In view of the strong feeling shown, and intense interest taken in the result of my examination of horses to which the champion prizes were awarded at the show, I herewith submit the following report:—

The only instructions I received in regard to my duties were contained in a letter from the society's secretary, dated August 26, 1907, to the following effect:—

"I desire to intimate to you that you will be required to pass as sound the horses and ponies, etc., to which champion prizes were awarded at the show, to comply with the requirements of the Government."

In accordance with these instructions, I examined all the competing animals submitted to me, and gave my decision at once to the stewards in the respective classes. Of the horses submitted for examination for soundness nine failed to pass, and in no instance where I was privately and confidentially asked by the owner did I refuse to state the cause of unsoundness. My reasons for declining to announce to the council the cause of unsoundness in the case of the draught stallion Timekeeper were as follows:—

1. It was not made clear in my instructions whether I was responsible to the society or the Department of Agriculture, and until that point had been settled by yourselves I was in a dilemma as to whom the report should first be made.

2. My plain duty was to see that the recipients of the champion prizes were free from unsoundness—not to publicly condemn the property of any exhibitor.

3. I considered it only fair to any exhibitor who wished to check my verdict by any further veterinary examination to withhold my report, so that such examination should be made without bias (from hearsay evidence) on the part of such veterinary surgeon.

Having been assured that I am responsible to the society, and to the society only, I have now no hesitation in announcing that the cause of unsoundness in Timekeeper is "ringbone."

It may be of interest to state here that on Friday evening, the 6th instant—three days after my decision was given—just as I was coming into the council-room, I unexpectedly obtained documentary evidence, which I now possess, that a draught stallion of the same name and description was purchased in England for export, after having been rejected by the veterinary inspectors for unsoundness.

I may further state that before placing the imported draught stallions for the society's prize the judges requested me to inspect the four selected horses, and that I passed none of these as sound.

As an outcome of my experience on the showground, I would respectfully submit that the time has arrived for the society to grapple with the question of unsoundness in a bold and effective manner, as has been done in Great Britain and other countries. To put the matter before you plainly. Is it wise for the Royal Agricultural Society of Victoria to continue to give its hall-mark to palpable counterfeits, and restore lost reputations to stallions that have been refused Government certificates? If so, Victoria will continue to be the dumping ground for rejects from Great Britain and elsewhere.

While such a policy obtains the agricultural societies are offering premiums to unsound horses, and the number will increase by compound proportion. As an evidence of what the result has been in the past, I may state that 75 per cent. of the horses in this city are unsound, and half of these are unsound from hereditary causes.

The remedy is simple, and in order to put the matter in concrete form I offer to your consideration the following outline scheme:—

1. All horses selected for prizes by the judges to be submitted to veterinary examination before being placed—reserves being held to take the place of rejected animals—this to apply to all classes of horses. While the selected horses are being examined in a special yard, the judges could be going on with the next class, so that no time would be lost.

2. A special yard—say along the railway fence—30ft wide, and as long as the space will permit, fenced in with a high iron fence, with an open shed at each end, should be provided for an examination yard.

3. One honorary veterinary surgeon to be appointed to conduct examinations for each ring. Horses and ponies requiring measuring to be measured by the veterinary surgeon appointed to the ring in which they are shown.

4. Cards with numbers corresponding to the catalogue number of the exhibits should be provided, so that the veterinary surgeons may strike out the number of any rejected horse. These marked cards to be sent under cover to the judges. The veterinary surgeon to keep duplicate or counterfoil, with cause of unsoundness written opposite numbers of rejected exhibits. Such cards to be handed to the secretary in sealed envelope at the conclusion of the examination, and not to be opened except by order of the council.

To show the good effect of such examination, I may mention that when the Shire Horse Society of Great Britain commenced the veterinary examination of all prize-winners 17 years ago, 38 per cent. of the horses were rejected for "side-bone" alone, while last year there were only 2 per cent., and one family notorious for side-bone has been completely wiped out of the show-rings.

In conclusion, I may state that if the society will provide the yard, as suggested—the expense will not be great, and it would do well for a saleyard—I am prepared to organise an efficient honorary veterinary staff, and see to the carrying-out of the work in an effective and expeditious manner at the next show.

I am, etc., W. T. KENDALL, M.R.C.V.S.,
Hon. Vet. Surgeon.

Melbourne Veterinary College, Sept. 16.

THE WOOL TRADE.

PREPARING A RECORD OPENING.

The only auctions in Australasia this week were those held in Adelaide on Thursday last, when 20,964 bales were offered to the largest attendance of buyers that has graced the auction room in the southern capital; bidding was keen, and values for super wools were 15 per cent. above, and for good wools, lambs, pieces, and bellies 10 per cent. above the rates ruling at the corresponding sales last year. A very large clearance was effected. In the Sydney market, business has been confined to sales by private treaty; these have been on a small scale, as the bulk of the wools are being held for the auctions, which begin the weekly season on Monday next. The business that has been transacted has been on a level with the firm rates ruling at the auctions last week. Practically all interest is focussed on the wools now being opened up for the auctions next week; wool is in store in quantity, not only from the north-west and west, but also from the south-west; in fact, the quantity of Riverina wool to be offered next week is not likely to be exceeded in any subsequent week this season. Attractive catalogues have been prepared, and the very large attendance of buyers that will be present will find free scope for their operations. There is no talk of limitation of offerings to-day, as last year; there is no "bear" movement to drag the market down, and there is no talk of an increase in this season's clip as compared with last year. On the contrary, so far as this State is concerned, there is every reason for expecting that there will be a shortage. Wool is arriving very freely, and in far greater volume than that at this time last year; but this is merely indicative of early shearing, and not a greater quantity. Although only three months have passed of the present statistical year the increased receipts of wool in Sydney compared with last season are over 65,000 bales. Shearing did not really commence in New South Wales till last month; yet operations are proceeding apace, and the probability is, if fine weather continues, that this will be the speediest selling season that the market has experienced. The offerings next week are a record for the opening series, many of the brands to be brought forward are complete; and buyers with large orders to fill will be able to get to work from the very start.

INCREASED BUYING STRENGTH.

This selling season promises to open and be carried through even more successfully than the last, for the simple reason that trade throughout the world is stable; wool stocks are low; no increase is probable, and supplies are well within the demand. Pity it is, then, in a situation so favourable for realisation, that the wool-growing season has been so adverse in two-thirds of this State. From estimates very carefully compiled by Dalgety and Co., Ltd., and dealt with at length in yesterday's "Herald," there is a prospect of a shortage of 40,000 bales. This is counterbalanced in so far as the Australasian output is concerned by increases in Queensland, South Australia, and Western Australia aggregating 44,000 bales, leaving a nominal estimated increase of 4000 bales. If the present very dry weather continues for any length of time, the shortage in this State may be larger, for sheep are dying that otherwise might have been shorn. However, increase or shortage, the supply is well within the demand, and, judging from the absence of stocks abroad, and the briskness of trade in manufacturing circles, it is probable that the wool world could have lifted this season's clip at last year's rates, even if the output in New South Wales had increased in the same ratio as Queensland or South Australia. The buying power that is now concentrated in Sydney, and the eagerness which is being evinced in the wools now in store, all point that way. It is noteworthy in connection with the operations of buyers in the Australian centres, and especially in the Sydney market, that there is this season a considerable addition to the buyers' ranks from Yorkshire houses. Their list this season runs up to 29 representatives, as against 35 from France, 30 from Germany, 30 from within this State, and 25 from Belgium. A contingent of 90 buyers representing Continental houses is very formidable; little wonder, therefore, that Yorkshire is every year realising the necessity of increasing its strength at the Australian auctions, where three-fourths of the clip and the best portion of it is now offered.

CURRENT SYDNEY QUOTATIONS.

The following quotations give the rates ruling for the principal descriptions of staple as forward up to the public sales last week:—

HEAVY WOOL ARRIVALS.

Upwards of 31,308 bales of wool have arrived in Sydney by rail during the past six week days, as compared with 15,300 bales during the corresponding period last year. There has been very little interruption to shearing, and there is no difficulty in transport "across the black soil plains." The only wools likely to be tardy in arriving at any centre are those that are sent down the Darling River to Melbourne. Possibly the lowness of that stream may divert some of the wools to this port. How swiftly the wool is arriving this season as compared to last may be seen in the fact that the aggregate increase by rail and boat to date is over 65,000 bales. The comparative quantities for the week are as follow:—

Sept., 1907	Bales.	Sept., 1906.	Bales.
21	5,198	22	1,800
23	5,002	24	2,083

26	5,862	27	3,042
27	4,680	28	3,3307
Totals	31,308		15,300

NEXT WEEK'S ROSTER.

Ten firms of selling brokers will submit catalogues aggregating about 34,000 bales next week, in the following order:—

Monday, Sept. 30.—(1) Hill, Clark, and Co.; (2) Schute, Bell, and Co.; (3) John Bridge and Co., Ltd.

Tuesday, Oct. 1.—(1) Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance Co., Ltd.; (2) Pitt, Son, and Badgery, Ltd.; (3) Co-operative Wool and Produce Co., Ltd.

Wednesday, Oct. 2.—(1) Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Ltd.; (2) Dalgety and Co., Ltd.

Thursday, Oct. 3.—(1) Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Ltd.; (2) Pastoral Finance Association, Ltd.

LONDON AND ANTWERP SALES.

With 91,000 bales at the current London wool sales, as compared with 102,000 for the corresponding series last year, the market could not, in the face of the statistical position, be other than a firm one. On the opening day the selection was not a good one, crossbreds were in the ascendant; very little merino wool was included in the offerings. Crossbreds formed the bulk of the withdrawals at the July series, and are not in strong demand. Later, when a better representation of merinos was offered a rise of 7½ per cent. on the closing rates of the previous series was reported. Strenuous efforts are doubtless being made to keep the limits down in view of the opening of the Australasian season. The Antwerp sales, which opened on September 17, and closed on the 20th, were spirited, especially as the sales progressed. Merinos were in strong demand at an advance of five centimes per kilo, but crossbreds were neglected. Of the 10,957 bales of River Plate wool offered 6193 were sold.

BRADFORD TOPS STRONG.

According to our cable message of yesterday the Bradford top market was going strong, there was improved inquiry, and crossbreds—both 46's and 40's—½d per lb higher than last week. At the corresponding period last year the "bears" were hugging the market strongly, selling forward in anticipation of lower wool values, and generally paving the way for what ultimately proved to be a slide on very thin ice. They are uninclined to pursue the same tactics this year, for there is very little, if any, prospect of an increase in merino wool from Australia this season. The prospect of an increase last season took super 60's and common 60's to 26d and 25d per lb, respectively, through "bear" tactics, but after September tops responded to wool values, and they steadily advanced, with occasional fluctuation to present high rates. How quotations compare to-day with last year and two years ago may be seen as follows:—

	Sept. 27, 1907.	Sept. 20, 1907.	Sept. 28, 1906.	Sept. 29, 1905.
Super 60's	29	29	26	27
Common 60's	28	28	25	26
Forty-sixes	17½	17	18	19
Forties	16½	16¼	17¼	17

With regard to the market on August 23 last the "Observer" remarked that raw material was animated. Merinos were moving at late full rates, with a tendency in favour of sellers. For fine crossbreds there was a strong and steady demand; 56's were comparatively neglected, but 46's and all grades below were active, with an advance amounting in some cases to a full ½d over the previous week's rates. English wools were buying, and holders were asking material advances.

WHAT TOPS MEAN TO GROWERS.

The top market is the reflex of the wool market, for wool in the raw state is only ready to be scoured, and then spun into lengths or counts, such as 70's, 64's, 60's (super and common), 56's, 46's, 40's, and so on. As the bulk of good merino spins from 60's to 64's, the quotation for a standard super 60's top is given in the Bradford market. This top or count means that the wool when spun into skeins, 560yds long, will require 64 skeins or hanks to weight 16oz. Length of fibre with fineness gives the spinning quality, and it is this length of staple that will play such a big part in the prices secured for this season's clip. A super 60's top is obtained from a longer and better coloured staple than the common 60's, the quality otherwise being equal. The highly skilled classer of wool knows that length gives more spinning character to any top. Length, colour, soundness, and evenness of quality are the most valuable features of well-classed wools, and buyers this season will be more keen than ever in competing for such lines. Short-stapled wools will be comparatively plentiful, and it particularly behoves those wool-growers who have good length of staple to have the fleeces carefully handled, paying regard to condition and length, for it may mean ½d to 1d per lb more when it comes to be competed for in the saleroom. A Bradford spinner says that good average merino suits the general run of manufacturers, because it is neither too fine nor too coarse, and because the price generally is a middle one. Fine fabrics of a soft handling nature are produced out of good 60's, and the trade consequently focusses its attention on wool that will spin that count.

SYDNEY WOOL RECEIPTS.

The receipts of wool by rail yesterday totalled 4680 bales, aggregating 31,308 bales for the past six week days. Yesterday's consignments included lines from such centres as Mudgee, Grenfell, Wyalong, Narrandera, and Parkes, as well as Moree, Coonamble, Condobolin, and Burren Junction. Upwards of 651 bales were received yesterday by boat, as compared with only 70 bales on the corresponding day last year. The receipts for the season to date by boat and rail are as follow:—

	Bales.
By rail—
From July 1, 1907, to Sept. 27, 1907, at Darling Harbour railway station	148,500
Corresponding date last season	91,446
Increase	56,054
By boat—
From July 1, 1907, to Sept. 27	25,166
Corresponding period last season	16,163
Increase	9,003
Aggregate increase by rail and boat	65,057

SYDNEY WOOL SHIPMENTS.

During the past week six vessels have cleared the Sydney Customs for the United Kingdom and foreign ports with an aggregate of 19,219 bales of wool, making a total of 85,996 bales since the beginning of the present statistical year. The vessels, with quantities and destinations, for the week are as follow:—

	Bales.
Wilcannia, for London, Sept. 20	3,121
Oruba, for London, Sept. 21	816
Marere, for Dunkirk and London, Sept. 21	5,791
Australind, for London, Sept. 23	3,006
Prinz Waldemar, for Kobe, Sept. 24	144
Berwick Castle, for London, Sept. 24	6,341
Total since last review	19,219
Total Sydney and Newcastle, from July 1, 1907, to Sept. 27 last	85,996
Corresponding period last year	60,090
Increase to date	25,906

BUTTER FREIGHTS.

The Victorian Butter Factories Co-operative Company, Limited, of which Colonel W. B. Pleasents is manager, have issue a circular to factories. In this they point out that while the new arrangement breaks down the rate of freight, it also gives the advantage of liberty to use the fast and regular mail services, which was denied to them under the last contract. After stating the principal terms of the contract, which have already been published, the circular proceeds as follows:—

"Several of the large shippers from Sydney and Melbourne have already declared their preference for our low freight as against even mail rates.

"Our contractors give us a free hand to make a contract with the mail companies alone, whenever they see fit to come to terms with us. They only stipulate that in return for their assistance in this fight we shall not make a contract with any of the cargo lines of steamers for our surplus without giving them (the F.-H.-S.) the opportunity of coming in on similar terms.

"If, instead of exacting penalty rates, the five lines' combine sees fit to quote cutting rates, our contractors are prepared to reduce their rates to meet such competition.

"It may be difficult, perhaps, for factories to understand how such a satisfactory arrangement has been brought about. Summing up the situation, it practically means that the F.-H.-S. lines, incensed at being shut out by the five lines' combine, have allied themselves with us for the purpose of breaking up such combination.

"They wisely calculate, in the first place, that the quantity of butter which their low rate will enable them to secure will fully compensate them for what they may have to pay out through our insurance fund. They also reckon that in the face of this new development the five lines' combination cannot hold together for many weeks, and they confidently anticipate that the mail companies will shortly consent to give us all we have been fighting for, namely, a satisfactory rate of freight for their own fast services, and the right to deal with our own surplus as we, and not they, see fit.

"As our present contract is now expiring, will you be good enough to at once instruct us as to your wishes. Personally, we have no hesitation in advising you to ship by the F.-H.-S. lines, or at all events, by all their boats which are timed to reach London before the end of the year."

ARTESIAN WELLS ON CANCELLED LEASES.

IMPORTANT PROPOSAL.

The Improvement Leases Board has arrived at the following conclusion:—

"In cases where artesian wells furnish a supply of water more than sufficient for the requirements of a cancelled or expired lease, we advise that trusts should be formed in order to prevent waste, and at the same time to furnish adjoining holdings with water at a fair annual rental.

"The Improvement Cancellation Act enables us to give tenant right only in improvements, but, in the case of artesian wells, we think that compensation of this nature does not equitably meet the requirements of the situation where large sums of money have been expended in obtaining a plentiful supply of water.

"We, therefore, suggest that the former lessees be paid a fair valuation for all artesian wells that could, without loss to the State, be utilised for trust purposes."

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

BURROWA.

BURROWA.—The weather for the second day of the show was perfect, and there was an excellent attendance. The principal winners were as follows:—

Best trolly stallion: T. Bray. Best gelding or mare, tried in buggy on ground: F. J. M'Cormack. Single heavy buggy and carriage gelding: W. H. Parkman, 1; T. Oxley, 2. Buggy geldings or mares: T. M'Cormack, 1; W. H. Parkman, 2. Weight-carrying hackney, up to 14st: A. P. Wade, 1; J. Tate, 2. Gentleman's hackney: J. Besnard, 1; T. M'Cormack, 2. Lady's hackney: J. Besnard. Pair hackneys, ridden by lady and gentleman together: T. M'Cormack, 1; J. Besnard, 2. Springcart gelding or mare: E. L. Oxley, 1; A. Gibbons, 2. Trotting gelding or mare: James English, 1; Alston Bros., 2. Tandem riding race: Fred. Davison. Best sire under 15.0 for polo stock: D. Wilson. Pony stallion, under 14.0: H. O'Hara. Single galloway, in harness: T. M'Cormack, 1; D. Wilson, 2. Pair galloways, 14.2 and under: W. Parkman, 1; D. Wilson, 2. Single harness pony or mare: R. Davison. Pair buggy ponies, 14.0 or under: R. Davison, 1; W. Parkman, 2. Single harness pony, 13.0 and under: J. Besnard, 1; H. Chew, 2. Pair buggy ponies, 13.0 and under: R. Davison. Pony, 14.0 and under, ridden by boy under 12 years: R. Marino, 1; J. Besnard, 2. Trotting pony, 14.0 or under: A. West. Maiden hunters: R. Davison, 1; T. M'Cormack, 2. Hunter contest jump: A. Thorn, 1; A. Wade, 2. Jumping, not less than 10st up: A. Wade, 1; A. Thorn, 2. Lady driver: Mrs. T. Gibbons, 1; Miss Cameron, 2. Pony hunter: R. Davison. Best lady rider: Miss Anderson. Lady rider, special prize: Miss Barber.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

COLLARENEBRI.—There is plenty of grass on most runs throughout the district, but it is very dry, and severe losses from bush fires are almost certain this summer. The town has been enveloped in smoke for several days, showing that the bush fires have already made a start.

DENILIQUIN.—The outlook for summer feed is so unpromising that a number of pastoralists have already taken steps to rent country in more favourable districts. One firm has already leased 40,000 acres of grass in Victoria for sheep, and more is being sought. In view of the prospects in all parts of Riverina at present, and the fact that unless heavy rain falls immediately, thousands of sheep must be trucked away, in addition to those already booked, it is considered an opportune time for both the Victorian and New South Wales Railway Departments to make special concessions for stock being sent away for grass. Numbers of special stock trains have been sent south lately for grass, in addition to the unusually heavy drafts forwarded from the district immediately round Deniliquin to market. Heavy rains are needed for the crops at once. Owing to the dry winter, the wheat crops are very short, and the recent spell of warm weather has had a very injurious effect.

GUNDAGAI.—Shearing will be general in this district in a fortnight's time. Redbank, the largest shed in the district, has started under the contract system. The earliest shed in the district, Whitticker's, of Jellingrove, finished this week. The clip was much lighter than last year, and this promises to prove the general rule in the district. Labour is likely to be plentiful. Shed hands are very numerous, but shearers are being inquired for.

SOUTHERN COAL TRADE.

WORK AT THE MINES.

WOLLONGONG, Friday.

The coal trade has been well sustained this week, most of the mines having worked practically full time. At Wollongong the shipments were all for Sydney, as follow:—Mount Kembla, 1380 tons; Currajong, 1100 tons; Governor Blackall, 1500 tons; Karrara, 420 tons; Palmerston, 500 tons; Herga, 400 tons; Malachite, 670 tons; and Sphene, 150 tons. At Port Kembla the shipments for Sydney were:—Palmerston, 500 tons; Herga, 250 tons; Marjorie, 1200 tons; Mount Kembla, 500 tons; and Sphene, 400 tons. The steamer Kasembe loaded 3000 tons for Vancouver, and the Corio 2350 tons for Adelaide. Next week the steamer Sandown is expected for 6700 tons, and the Ballochmyle for 6000 tons.

The westerly gales in the early part of the week did not delay loading operations. The damage to the chute done by the steamer Katuna has been repaired. The coke trade has also been very brisk, all the works putting in full time. The steamer Karitane loaded 1030 tons at Port Kembla during the week for Tasmania. The Age is expected next week for 500 tons.

The Australian Smelting Company are pushing on with their works at Port Kembla. Tenders are being invited by the Minister for Works for the construction of a jetty intended to serve this company and the Electrolytic Refining Company. The structure will be located between the Mount Kembla Coal Company's jetty and the breakwater.

The harbour quarry is now showing a fine face of stone, and the quantity being got out for use in the breakwater has considerably increased.

In view of the scarcity of water, general satisfaction is expressed at tenders being invited by the Department of Public Works for carting the water pipes intended for the Port Kembla water supply. The work will be carried out by day labour, and it is expected a start will be made next week.

Extensive improvements are being carried out at Mount Kembla Colliery. Another new boiler has been installed, and several new coal-cutting machines and hauling motors are also to be introduced.

The recently-formed sick and accident fund now has a membership of 120. The officers elected by the miners' lodge at the last meeting were as follow:—Chairman, R. Wilson; secretary, J. Russell; treasurer, S. Kirkwood; deputy, W. Parsons; check weighman, P. Brownlee; auditors, H. Cottell and F. Challenger; scrutineers, F. Brownlee and J. Drysdale; pickman, W. Johnson; committee, W. Ray, H. Cottell, D. Lewis, N. Hennes, S. Walker, and D. Punton.

The question of increasing hewing rates is the principal topic in mining circles. The men strongly object to the differential rates offered by the coal-owners as being altogether too low. It is generally admitted that the miners are entitled to a rise in view of the healthy state of the coal trade, and the ultimate result of the miners' lodges regarding the acceptance or otherwise of the delegates' recommendations is anxiously awaited throughout the district.

HEWING RATE AND WAGES.

HELENSBURGH, Friday.

The monthly meeting of the Helensburgh branch of the Illawarra Colliery Employees' Association was held at the Centennial Hall last night. There was an unusually large attendance, including the general secretary (Mr. T. R. Morgan). The delegate board minutes were considered and adopted, which means the endorsement of the proposal to request a general rise in wages and the hewing rate of ten per cent. from October 1. Several complaints were made regarding dusty pillars and inadequate air, and a deputation was appointed to interview the manager on the question. Regarding the alleged black-listing, the manager (Mr. J. Seymour Rowe), declined to receive a deputation, or give any explanation of his conduct in refusing to employ the miner in question. The general secretary offered to interview the manager on the matter, and the offer was accepted.

The scale of payment for slack has been a bone of contention at the Metropolitan mine for years past, and it was strongly urged at the meeting that an early endeavour be made to get a reasonable rate for the slack, which "forked coal" makes during transit from the coal face to the pit bank. The present rate received by the miner is one penny for 20 tons, and it was asserted that the market value of this slack at present is 5s 6d per ton.

The general secretary outlined the present aspects of the district coal trade. On the basis of the existing agreement between the owners and the employees, contracts had been entered into by the owners at rather low rates but he stated that a good deal of coal was being sold at a considerably increased price, and he had no doubt whatever that the general advance of 10 per cent asked for would be readily granted.

OUR SOLDIER SHOTS.

THE MUSKETRY RETURNS.

The annual musketry returns of the militia and volunteer forces for the year 1906-1907 were issued yesterday. Amongst the militia the 2nd A.L.H. Regiment got the best regimental figure of merit, with 175 points. The University Scouts, with 169 points, made the best showing amongst the volunteers. Following are the detailed particulars of the shooting:—

Amongst the rifle clubs, Randwick comes out with the best figure of merit, viz., 154. This figure cannot be compared with those obtained by the military, for the musketry conditions provided for the civilians, and the soldiers are entirely dissimilar, and are distinctly in favour of the latter body.

SOCIAL.

His Excellency the Governor and Miss Rawson were amongst the large and enthusiastic audience at the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, when the citizens of Sydney tendered Signor Hazon a farewell concert. During the evening his Excellency presented Signor Hazon with an address from the people and a cheque for £600. A gold watch and framed portraits of members of the Amateur Orchestral Society were also presented to Signor Hazon on behalf of that society.

Invitations have been issued to a garden party at the State Government House on Thursday, October 10.

With the summer heat, summer clothes were quickly brought into requisition, and muslins and laces were to be seen on many. The new muslin dresses have frequently five or six tucks, the sleeves come to the wrist, and V-shaped lace vests adorn the bodices, and with these are worn black hats or white hats with black feathers. Long lace or silk coats, on dit, are to be worn at the races over chiffon dresses. Most of the coats have rather wide ribbon run through. Parisians seldom use veils nowadays, and avoid ruffles and boas, it is said. However, we shall soon see for ourselves all the newest fashions and fancies, for the dressmakers have been kept busy during the past weeks preparing many handsome dresses to be worn at the spring meeting of the Australian Jockey Club, which opens at Randwick next Saturday. Invitations have been issued by the club to afternoon tea at the course on Wednesday next, the visitors having been invited to inspect the new grandstand and other improvements.

Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Kennerley Rumford are expected to arrive in Sydney this morning by the express from Melbourne, and we feel sure the distinguished singers will meet with as hearty and enthusiastic a welcome here as they did in the southern capital. Upon their arrival in Sydney Madame Clara Butt and Mr. Rumford will take up their residence at Fairlight, Edgecliff-road. A reception will be given by the Premier (Mr. Carruthers) in honour of the distinguished singers next week. Madame Clara Butt has been made an honorary member of the Women's Patriotic Club, in Sydney.

An enjoyable "at home" was given at St. James's Hall on Monday evening by the members of the Women's Patriotic Club, the entertainment being organised to raise funds to defray the expenses of moving the club to its new rooms in Moore-street. An excellent programme had been prepared, which unfortunately, through some reason or another, did not begin until nearly 9 o'clock, making it too late for many of the visitors to remain for the whole of the numbers. Mr. R. J. H. Jenkins gave a short and interesting address upon the aims and objects of the club. A selection from the "School for Scandal" was cleverly acted in the costume of the period by Miss Rose Seaton as "Lady Teazle," and Mr. E. Norris as Sir Peter Teazle. A comedietta in one act, by the members of the Histrionic Society, entitled "For Papa's Sake," by Mel. B. Spurr, was performed by Mr. F. Wilson as "Harry Matthews," Mr. C. A. Rolfe, "Colonel Best"; Mr. Roy Bartlett, as Tozer (a servant); Miss Eleanor Sutherland represented Mrs. Harry Matthews, and Miss Amy Dellas "Suzette" (her maid). All the performers acquitted themselves most creditably, and the piece was thoroughly enjoyed. The Myagah Orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Garling, played several selections, and Miss Madge Hellmrich and Miss Burke contributed songs. Amongst those present were Mrs. Christian, Mrs. Marks, Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Antill, Miss Amy Sherwin, Miss Gertrude Palmer, Mrs. Holmes, Mrs. Rutter, Miss Ranken, Miss Gladys Bowker, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. V. Broughton, Miss Margaret Harris, Mrs. Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. Stinson. Refreshments were served in the basement hall at the conclusion of the programme.

The beautiful Chatswood oval presented an animated and gay scene on Wednesday, September 18, when the Barker College annual sports meeting was held. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Carter had invited a large number of friends to be present, and also many relations of his pupils. The Bavarian Band played, and the pretty oval was gaily decorated with flags and banners. The visitors were entertained at afternoon tea by Mr. and Mrs. Carter. Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Hill, Mrs. Shepherd Laidley, Mr. and Mrs. H. Chisholm, Dr. and Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. C. G. Wade, Mrs. Hinder, Mrs. Roxburgh, Mr. and Mrs. Minter, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Wilkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Cowper, Miss Ada Duguid, Mrs. L. A. Wade, Mrs. Hawkins Smith, Mrs. A. Rouse, Mr. Petersen, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Walker, Mrs. Bell, Mrs. W. Traill, Mr. A. Tooth, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Summers, Mrs. Frankl, Mr. C. J. Henty, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fisher, Captain and Mrs. M. Williams, Rev. J. and Mrs. Watson, and Mr. and Mrs. W. Warden. The Hon. C. G. Wade, Mr. W. Balcombe, Mr. A. G. Bloomfield, Mr. C. J. Henty, Mr. C. Summers, Mr. E. W. Hill, and Mr. A. B. Wilkinson acted as judges.

The Glaciarium has proved a great attraction in Sydney during the past two months, and many women who scarcely could ever be induced to take any exercise, are now amongst the most frequent skaters, and most thoroughly enjoy themselves on the ice. It is quite a social rendezvous, and "teas" are more frequently given at the Glaciarium at present than anywhere else. Much interest is being taken in the forthcoming carnival, and "teams" are to be seen daily practising for the different events.

A plain and fancy dress ball was held by Miss Scott's pupils in St. George's Hall, Newtown, on Friday evening, September 13, and proved a most enjoyable and successful function. There were about 220 young people present, who looked picturesque in their fancy dresses. Messrs. J. Hutchison, C. Elphinstone, E. Gray, and W. B. Lloyd acted as masters of ceremonies.

In aid of Mrs. Allen Taylor's fund for the Thirlmere Consumptive Home, a sale of work was held at Ellerslie, Darlinghurst, on Tuesday last, which was formally opened by Miss Margaret Harris. The bazaar was well attended, and the fund should be considerably augmented by the proceeds taken during the afternoon and evening. Miss Margaret Harris was presented with a bouquet of flowers by Mrs. Allen Taylor on behalf of the committee.

At the Burwood School of Arts on Thursday, 19th inst., Mr. and Mrs. J. Montague Sandy gave a dance, and entertained about 150 guests. The hall was artistically decorated with blue and white muslin and palms and greenery, the supper tables being decorated with daffodils and blue cornflowers. Mrs. Sandy wore black mousseline de soie over glace silk, and carried a bouquet of red carnations. Miss Sandy was in pale blue chiffon glace, with trimmings of silver passementerie and sequined chiffon; Mrs. Percy Vaughan, rose pink net; Mrs. Graham Vaughan, pale blue; Mrs. Troup, black lace velvet over white; Mrs. F. Stonier, white satin, bolero, and trimmings of sequined Spanish lace; Mrs. Blaxland, black; Mrs. A. Myles, blue floral mousseline de soie; Mrs. G. Grimm, white satin; Miss Esme Sly, pale blue chiffon over pink; Miss Beale, pale blue crepe de chine; Mrs. Harwood, the Misses Francis, Misses Bettington, Kent, Dawson, Carter, Richards, Pring, Pearl Wilshire, K. and W. Smith, Burnell, Chalmers, Traill, M'Wharnee, Dunning, Forsyth, Messrs. J. M. Sandy, L. and H. Sandy, P. Vaughan, Graham Vaughan, Troup, F. H. Stonier, Dr. Blaxland, Dr. R. H. Jones, Messrs. Holborow, Baass, Gemmell Smith, Moodie, Turner, King, Bull, A. Myles, G. Grimm, P. Pring, and Norman Morse were amongst those present.

The Masonic ball at Goulburn on Friday, the 20th, given in aid of the Freemasons' Benevolent Institution, was a pronounced success, there being many dancers, and the dress-circle was crowded with spectators. As the Masons wore their insignia, the spectacular effect was enhanced. P.G.S.W. J. G. Moon officially opened the ball. After supper during the Masonic Lancers the ladies wore the regalia of their patrons. The hall decorations were most artistic, palms, imitation flowers, coloured drapings, and emblems of the craft being cleverly used. The stage arrangement was particularly admired, and the supper tables, profusely decorated with yellow daffodils, intermixed with snowdrops and violets. Messrs. J. W. Daniel and J. Somervaille were the secretaries, and the Ms.C. were Messrs. T. F. Meyer, A. A. Lake, S. Smith, and W. H. Baxter. Valuable help in carrying out the ball was given by several ladies on the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Barnett entertained a number of friends on Wednesday evening at their residence, Highbury, Old South Head-road, Waverley, the occasion being the celebration of their silver wedding. The guests numbered about 80, and during the evening Mr. J. Herman, on behalf of assembled company, presented the host and hostess with a silver salver and tea service, and also an illuminated address, to which was affixed the signatures of their friends. Mr. Barnett, who was much surprised at the handsome gifts, responded suitably; the Rev. P. Philipstein expressing a wish that they would all be there to celebrate the golden wedding.

The system of cot endowments, which is so popular at the Royal Alexandra Hospital for Children, is again claiming the attention of the ladies throughout the various suburbs. The idea of each district annually maintaining a cot at a cost of £35 per year, in which poor children from the respective districts may be sent, with a knowledge that the money has been subscribed by the residents, seems to lend an impetus to the movement. Within the last few weeks three additional cots have been provided for, and several others will be completed before the close of the year. The ladies of Annandale, with the Mayoress of that district (Mrs. W. Wells) as president, Mrs. Fenton hon. secretary, and Mrs. James Stuart hon. treasurer, and a committee of 60 ladies, appealed to the residents, and as a result £60 was forwarded to the hospital. Mrs. F. A. Benson (Mayoress of Ryde) presided over a meeting at the local council-chambers for the purpose of endowing a cot for the Ryde district, and with Mrs. Harold Freeman as hon. secretary and Mrs. Best hon. treasurer, over £35 was collected for a cot. Mrs. Toohey convened a meeting of Wahroonga ladies, and with Mrs. C. G. Wade as president, Mrs. S. W. Moore hon. treasurer, and Mrs. Brooks hon. secretary, secured the sum of £37 for the support of a Wahroonga cot. Chatswood and Leichhardt are also endeavouring to endow cots of their own at the hospital. We hope the time is not far distant when each suburb shall point to its endowed cot at the hospital as a token of the sympathy the residents have for suffering children.

On Wednesday an enjoyable petit bal was given at St. James's Hall, Phillip-street, by Mr. and Mrs. Roberts to their friends and pupils. The gathering was a representative one. The arrangements were under the direction, supervision, and control of Mr. Roberts. After an adjournment to the supper room a presentation from the lady pupils was made to Mrs. Roberts. Rev. Carr Smith stated that it gave him peculiar pleasure to have been chosen to make the presentation. Mrs. Roberts appropriately acknowledged the gifts.

A pretty wedding was celebrated at St. Mary's Cathedral on Tuesday, September 10, when Miss Leila Fitzgerald, eldest daughter of Mr. M. J. Fitzgerald, of Waverley, was married to Dr. Harrie Donovan, eldest son of Mr. W. Donovan, "Shenley," Waverley. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father Kennedy, O.F.M., who also celebrated the nuptial Mass. The bride wore a beautiful dress of white chiffon glace silk, made in the Empire style, and a white crinoline hat, trimmed with ostrich feathers. Her shower bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern was the bridegroom's gift, as was also the gold Nellie Stewart bangle which she wore. The bridesmaids—Miss Bay Fitzgerald and Miss Cora Donovan—were dressed alike in pale blue Shantung silk, trimmed with floral glace silk and guipure lace; and hats of tuscan straw, trimmed with pink flowers. Their bouquets of pale pink roses and ferns were presented by the bridegroom, who also gave to Miss Fitzgerald a gold bangle, and to Miss Donovan a gold and pearl brooch. Mr. Frank Broughton was best man, and Mr. Norman M'Killop groomsman. After the ceremony a reception was held at Baumann's, where Mrs. M. J. Fitzgerald entertained about 50 guests, and Dr. and Mrs. Donovan received the congratulations of their friends. Amongst others present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Donovan, Dr. John Donovan, Misses J. and Vera Fitzgerald, Master Stanley Fitzgerald, and Masters O. and B. Donovan.

The marriage of Mr. Walter J. Clark, fourth son of Mr. James Clark, of Razorback, with Miss Gertrude S. Woodward, eldest daughter of Mr. J. Woodward, Picton, took place at St. Mark's Church, Picton, on Wednesday, September 18, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. W. J. Roberts. The bride wore white floral silk, trimmed with lace and chiffon, and a wreath and veil, also a gold watch and chain, the gift of the bridegroom. The Misses Mildred Woodward and T. Clark acted as bridesmaids, and were dressed alike in cream voile, trimmed with buttercup and eau-de-nil ribbon respectively, and white hats to match. The bridegroom presented them each with a gold bangle. Mr. Owen Clark was best man. After the ceremony about 25 relatives and friends were entertained at the wedding breakfast, served at the residence of the bride's parents.

A wedding was celebrated at St. John's Church of England, Molong, on September 18, when Miss Flora Neilson, eldest daughter of Mr. John Neilson, of Molong, was married to Mr. Ralph Snelling, youngest son of Mr. L. J. B. Snelling, of Staumore, Sydney. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion, and the service was full choral. The Rev. Canon Alldis officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. E. Homfray. Special music was also rendered by the church choir. The bride was dressed in white figured silk, with Valenciennes lace and insertion and bebe ribbon. She also wore a wreath and veil, and carried a shower bouquet. Her present from the bridegroom was a silver jewel case. There were four bridesmaids—the Misses Susie and Stella Neilson (sisters), and the Misses Doris and Winnie Snelling, nieces of the bridegroom. The two former wore frocks of pink floral muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and pink velvet, with crinoline straw hats, trimmed with white ribbon and pink roses. The two latter were dressed in white muslin, trimmed with embroidery and insertion, and white silk hats. Each of the bridesmaids wore a pretty gold brooch, the gift of the bridegroom. Mr. J. E. Snelling was best man, and Mr. C. R. Robertson Cowan groomsman. After the ceremony a reception was held in the School of Arts, where about 80 guests sat down to the wedding breakfast. Afterwards Mr. and Mrs. Snelling left by the mail train for Sydney. The bride's travelling dress was grey mousselin de soie and black velvet ribbon, worn with a blue felt hat with blue ribbon and heliotrope chrysanthemums.

A wedding was celebrated by Rabbi Cohen at the Great Synagogue, Elizabeth-street, on September 4, when Mr. John Cantor, second son of Mrs. L. Cantor, Liverpool-street, Paddington, was married to Miss Eva Clarke, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, late of Redfern. The bride wore a handsome white chiffon taffeta, with a yoke of embroidered silver tissue, trimmed with lace, silver cord, and silver roses, also a Honiton lace veil and wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a bouquet of white flowers. Mr. J. Cantor acted as best man. The bridesmaid, Miss A. Samuels, wore a pale blue silk, and a pale blue straw hat trimmed with ribbon, blue hyacinths, and roses, and carried a bouquet of pink hyacinths. She also wore a gold-mounted comb, a present from the bridegroom. The Misses Beryl Howison and Hannah Goldberg, nieces of the bride, acted as trainbearers, and wore white silk dresses and hats to match. They carried crooks mounted with bunches of snowdrops and red carnations. The bridegroom presented each with a gold brooch. After the ceremony a reception was held at Baumann's Cafe. Later in the afternoon Mr. and Mrs. Cantor left for the Jenolan Caves by motor, the bride travelling in a pale blue Sicilian dress, and a hat of blue crinoline straw.

St. John's Church of England, Mudgee, was crowded with spectators on Thursday, September 12, to witness the marriage of Mr. H. J. M'Pherson and Miss Sara Hazeltine. The ceremony was conducted by the Ven. Archdeacon Dunstan. The bride wore a sequin dress over white chiffon glace, also a veil and orange blossoms. She was accompanied by three bridesmaids, two of whom were her sisters—Misses Fanny and Daisy Hazeltine—who wore frocks of fine white French muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace and insertion. They wore wreaths of pale pink roses, and tulle veils of paler pink, fastened in the hair with silver butterflies, and carried bouquets of pink roses. Miss Ethel Hazeltine was the third bridesmaid, and was dressed in white muslin, and wore a bonnet of white lace, and carried a basket of flowers. The best man was Mr. Herbert Clarke. The church was artistically decorated, three arches being formed in the middle aisle, the one under which the bridal pair stood having a wedding bell, the second a white satin shoe, and the third a small floral bell. After the ceremony the party proceeded to the residence of the bride's father, where the wedding breakfast was served. The happy couple left by the evening train for Sydney on their honeymoon. The bride's travelling dress was a blue cloth tailor-made coat and skirt, with a white bell-shaped chip hat, trimmed with heliotrope and pink roses. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a gold ring set with a straw-coloured diamond, and his presents to the bridesmaids were gold bamboo bracelets and bouquets.

The marriage of Miss Lena Emily Bradbury, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bradbury, to Mr. Thomas A. Frost, was celebrated at St. Aidan's Church of England, Annandale, on September 14. The Rev. F. W. Reeve officiated. The bride's dress was of white Japanese silk, with Court train, the bodice made kimono style, and, like the train, daintily trimmed with point lace and net. She wore a veil, over a coronet of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of freesias, lilies of the valley, and orange blossoms. Miss E. Gommesen and Miss E. Williams were the bridesmaids, and wore dresses of white silk muslin, trimmed with Valenciennes lace, with pink floral sashes; hats trimmed with pink floral ribon and bebe roses, and each carried a bouquet of apple blossoms, roses, and carnations. Mr. Charles Sanger was best man, Mr. S. Bradbury groomsman. The bridegroom's present to the bride was a handsome gold watch and chain and a massive gold curb bangle, whilst the bridesmaids were the recipients of gold brooches set with pearls and rubies. About 80 guests attended the reception, at the residence of the bride's parents, Avoca, and were afterwards entertained at a wedding tea:—Mr. and Mrs. Alldworth, Mr. and Mrs. Barlow, Mr. and Mrs. Bonner, Mr. and Miss Borley, Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, Miss Byrne, Mr. and Mrs. Capon, Miss Clifton, Mr. Clutton, Mr. and Mrs. C. Cohen, Mr. Dalley, Mr. de Limon, Mr. W. Dawson, Captain Denny, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Gercken, Mrs. Gommeson, Miss Gommeson, Mr. and Mrs. Greaves, Mrs. Hadow, Mr. and Mrs. Hamer, Misses C. and L. Jones, Mr. Kinkade, Mr. and Mrs. Lennon, Mr. and Mrs. Ludowici, Mr. Lyndon, Mr. and Mrs. Macleod, Mr. and Mrs. Mingaye, Miss Mitchell, Mr. Mulholland, the Misses Munday, Mr. and Mrs. Nesbitt, Mr. Nicholls, Miss Ollerenshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Page, Mr. Philips, Mr. and Mrs. Pile, Mr. and Mrs. Pont, Mr. and Mrs. Poole, Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Preston, Mr. Ramsay, Rev. F. W. Reeve, Mr. C. Reeve, Mr. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. Ross, Mr. Chas. Sanger, Mr. Shaw, Captain Smith, Mr. and Miss Taft, Mr. and Mrs. Upton, Miss Usher, Mr. and Mrs. F. Walters, Mr. Waring, Mr. and Mrs. Whitehouse, Mr. and Mrs. Widerstrom, Mr. C. Williams, Miss Williams, Mr. and Miss Yates. The bride's travelling dress was a cornflour blue cloth coatee and skirt, trimmed with cream silk braid, and hat of white satin straw, trimmed with silk and a white bird.

At St. James' Church last Tuesday evening, September 24, the marriage was solemnised of Miss Violet Stuckey, youngest daughter of the late Mr. George Hamilton Stuckey, of Tintaldra, Upper Murray, and Mr. William Frederick Jackson, son of the late Very Rev. Dean Jackson, County Mayo, Ireland. The Rev. George Carver performed the ceremony, and the bride was given away by her brother-in-law, Mr. Sydney Clarence. The bride's dress was white chiffon glace, the skirt falling in pleats, trimmed with silver, and the kimono bodice, composed of Brussels net, embroidered with silver thread. She also wore a wreath of orange blossoms, and a Brussels lace veil, and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley, tied with silver streamers. The bridesmaid was Miss Ellie Hume, whose frock was of pale pink silk ninon, worn with a picture hat of pale pink silk tulle. She carried a bouquet of dark red roses, and wore a chain and pendant, the bridegroom's gift. Mr. Dudley Gibson was best man. A reception was afterwards held by the bride's sister, Mrs. John Hume, at 137 Macquarie-street. The bride's travelling dress was a cherry-coloured linen coat and skirt, and a tuscan straw hat, trimmed with cherries. Amongst the invited guests were Miss Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Macgregor, Mrs. Sydney Clarence, Mr. and Mrs. George Cochran (Melbourne), Mr. and Mrs. Gibson (Goulburn), Dr. and Mrs. W. Chisholm, Mrs. and the Misses MacCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Campbell, the Misses Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Middleton, Mr. and Mrs. Ewan Frazer, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Chisholm, Mr. and Mrs. A. MacCarthy, Messrs. Harold and Douglas Gilchrist, Mr. Douglas Campbell.

The following account of a Yorkshire wedding will be of interest to the Australian relatives and friends of the bride and bridegroom. At the Church of St. John the Divine, Thorpe, Sowerby, Yorkshire, England, on Thursday, August 15, the marriage took place of Miss Constance Priestley (Primrose) Rawson, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Selwyn Rawson, The Haugh End, Sowerby, with Mr. William Alexander Charles Lloyd, only son of the late Captain Walter Lloyd, R.N., and Mrs. Lloyd, of Cowesby Hall, near Thirsk. The officiating clergy were the Rev. E. Brierley, of Thorpe, and the Rev. J. W. F. Walker, of Sowerby. The service was full choral. The bride was given away by her father, and wore white satin with silver and pearl embroidered chiffon, the bodice being draped with the chiffon, and some seventeenth century Brussels lace. Her veil was the same as used by her mother and grandmother at their weddings, and she carried a lovely bouquet of white Harrisii lilies and lilies of the valley, her wreath being of orange blossom and white heather. The bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy F. Rawson (sister of the bride), Miss Susie Lloyd (cousin of the bridegroom), Miss Beatrice Malachi, Miss Dorothy Bethune, and Miss Florence Jones (cousins of the bride), and Miss Marjorie Nugent. Their dresses were of soft white muslin over glace silk, made in empire style, and their white Romney muslin hats tied round the crowns with wide pink ribbon velvet, and bows in front, were very simple and picturesque. They carried bouquets of pink carnations and asparagus fern, and wore diamond and ruby brooches, gifts from the bridegroom. A large reception was held at The Haugh End after the service.

A marriage was celebrated at St. Paul's, Chatswood, on Saturday, September 21, between Mr. William Bardsley and Miss Gertrude Evans, second youngest daughter of Mr. David Evans, of Chatswood. The Rev. H. G. Howe performed the ceremony, and the church was prettily decorated with palms and white spires. The bride's dress was of white mousseline de soie over glace, trimmed with Malines lace and insertion, with chiffon roses on the bodice, and down the front panel of the skirt. She wore a coronet of orange blossoms under a hand-embroidered tulle veil (the work and gift of her sister), and carried a bouquet of white flowers, which, with a cable bracelet, were gifts from the bridegroom. The bridesmaids, Miss Ruth Evans, sister of the bride, and Miss Nellie Bardsley, sister of the bridegroom, were dressed in mauve crepe de chine, with white hats, and carried bouquets of pale pink roses, and asparagus fern, which, with an amethyst brooch and pendant respectively, were gifts from the bridegroom. Mr. Harry Gore was best man, and Mr. E. Gore groomsman. While the register was being signed, Miss Ruth Evans sang Allitsen's "Song of Thanksgiving." A reception and the wedding breakfast took place at Willoughby Town Hall, where the numerous wedding presents were displayed. Mr. and Mrs. Bardsley afterwards left for Cowan, where the honeymoon is being spent on a house boat. The bride's travelling dress was cinnamon brown voile, trimmed with chiffon velvet, and cream applique outlined with pale blue, and a pale blue hat, trimmed with pale blue tulle, and a long shaded brown feather.

ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement is announced between Mervyn Hanbury Lowther-Clark, eldest surviving son of the late Mr. Frederick Clark, D.L., and Florence Nellie, eldest daughter of Mr. E. R. Wheeldon, of Iona, The Avenue, Petersham.

RAGGED SCHOOLS.

Yesterday afternoon the children of the Brisbane-street Ragged School were given their annual treat. The chair was taken by the Rev. R. S. Patterson, there being also present the Revs. J. G. Southby, James Buchan, and Mr. T. P. Reeve. About 50 of the children, some of them mere babies, gave an excellent entertainment under the supervision of Miss Patterson (head mistress) and Miss Bowie. The children gave a very creditable rendering of songs and hymns. Their efforts, especially those who were designated "infants"—little tots who could hardly lisp—were much appreciated. Subsequent to the entertainment the most important function, so far as the children were concerned, was performed. This embraced the presentation, by Mrs. H. C. Dangar, to each child of a gift. The treat is an annual one, and the gifts are supplied by Mrs. Dangar and Mrs. Charles Smith. Mrs. Charlton is also a contributor.

RHEUMATIC AND GOUTY AFFECTIONS

(By "Origin.")

The unnatural retention of uric and biliary poisons in the blood produces a group of complaints which inflict upon humanity long-continued suffering and intense pain. The most common of these complaints are rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica, and neuralgia. The kidneys and liver are the organs upon which nature has imposed the task of extracting from the blood certain matter which is being continuously manufactured in the body, owing to the wasting of the tissues. It is as necessary to life that the wasting of the tissues must proceed uninterruptedly, as it is that the substance of the body must be regularly renewed by the food we eat, the water we drink, and the air we breathe. It is equally necessary to health that the waste matter should be expelled from the body continuously, for its presence in the blood entails disease or death.

The treatment of rheumatic and gouty affections by the outward application of liniments, ointments, and embrocations is seldom productive of much lasting benefit. They may afford temporary relief in some cases, but they do not reach the seat of the disorder. The only way in which health can be permanently restored and pain permanently removed is to strike at the root of the evil by taking measures to ensure the regular action of the kidneys and the liver. When these organs are performing their allotted task naturally and freely, uric and biliary poisons pass through the ordinary channels from the system as rapidly as they are secreted, and any suffering caused by the presence of such poisons in the blood necessarily ceases.

This is the reason that treatment of rheumatic and gouty affections by Warner's Safe Cure is so successful. Warner's Safe Cure is a specific remedy for disorders of the kidneys and liver, and acts immediately upon those organs. Not only is its remarkable curative effect directly demonstrated in cases of Bright's disease and other kidney and liver derangements, but its curative action is exhibited also in rheumatism, gout, lumbago, sciatica, neuralgia, gravel, stone, bladder troubles, indigestion, biliousness, impure blood, anaemia, and all disorders caused by the retention of uric and biliary poisons in the system, simply because those disorders are overcome when the kidneys and liver are restored to health and natural activity.

Many sufferers will be glad to learn that Warner's Safe Cure is now issued in a concentrated form. Warner's Safe Cure (Concentrated) is non-alcoholic, and is sold at 2s 6d per bottle, containing the same number of doses as the 5s bottle of Warner's Safe Cure.—Advt.

THE COMMONWEALTH PARLIAMENT.

THE SENATE.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The President took the chair at 10.30 a.m.

IMMIGRATION.

Senator WALKER (N.S.W.) asked what steps were being taken by the Government to encourage a continuous stream of desirable immigrants. He directed attention to the low passenger fares advertised by the Queensland Government.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL replied that a small sum was expended on general advertising last year, and a much larger sum was on the Estimates for the coming year.

PRIVY COUNCIL APPEAL.

The PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, in reply to Senator NEILD, said the cost of sending to London the secretary to the Attorney-General's Department in connection with the Baxter Income Tax case appeal to Privy Council, was £650, including the cost of the discharge of the secretary's duties in Australia during his absence. The amount directly involved in the appeal was a comparatively small one, but the case involved important constitutional issues, and seriously affected the status of the High Court. It was not considered that the passing of the Judiciary Act Amending Bill affected the prosecution of the appeal.

NEW WORKS AND BUILDINGS.

The debate was resumed on the second reading of the New Works and Buildings Appropriation Bill.

Senator NEILD (N.S.W.) moved the following amendment:—"That this Senate, while at all times ready to vote supply for public services, declines to proceed with consideration of appropriation for the new Works and Buildings Bill until satisfied that the Government will not commit the Commonwealth to the leasing of certain property in London without first obtaining the consent of Parliament."

Senator DOBSON (Tas.) said it was extraordinary that any business man should go to London as Sir William Lyne had done, and not come back fully equipped with information about the land and offices he proposed to acquire. The project had not been launched in conjunction with the States, as it should have been. It appeared to be the idea that bricks and mortar were to bring immigrants.

Senator FINDLEY (Vic.): You want to have immigrants come without being able to find out what the wages and conditions were here.

Senator DOBSON to Senator Findley: You won't get them by putting a lie in my mouth.

The President called the members to order.

Senator W. RUSSELL (S.A.) said the Government was coming to the House with a proposal to spend God knows how much on this project. (Laughter.) They might have a worse Government soon, though he was not sure that they could—(laughter)—but the result might be a proposal to spend half a million or even a million on the buildings.

Senator NEEDHAM (W.A.) said the amendment was tantamount to a vote of want of confidence in the Government. Some members would like to crucify the Government on the cross of economy. Canada and New Zealand spent a great deal of money in advertising their resources and possibilities.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL said, in reference to Sir William Lyne's statement about the Senate, that the Treasurer had been misunderstood. His action was a right one. It was simply to obtain information for Parliament, and the Treasurer had not the least intention of slighting the Senate. The object of the cable was to let people at the other end know that the Government was moving. The cable next said that if the conditions were found suitable, an offer would be made, and that offer, if made, would probably be for the whole of the Strand frontage, with a depth of 66ft, and this would enable the London agent to make the London County Council a proposal.

Senator TURLEY (Q.): Will you submit an offer to Parliament before you make it?

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL: Nothing would be done until the Senate was consulted. The Government had been criticised severely, notwithstanding that matters had been carried out with prudence and caution. The amendment was a flank attack on the Government, which in the House of Representatives would have been considered as a want of confidence motion. (Oh, oh.) It was an endeavour to humiliate the Government, and it was extremely regrettable that it had been made a party matter in this way. Could they not throw aside this contentious party spirit, and deal with the matter on its merits? He appealed for the amendment to be withdrawn. The Senate could deal with this particular item on its own individual merits in committee.

Senator NEILD applied for leave to withdraw his amendment.

Senator TURLEY objected, and the amendment was put to the vote, when it was negatived on the voices.

The bill was read the second time. Several clauses were dealt with in committee, and progress was reported.

ADJOURNMENT.

The Senate rose at 4 p.m.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Speaker took the chair at half-past 10 o'clock.

EXAMINATION OF CADETS.

The MINISTER FOR DEFENCE, in reply to Mr. Hutchison (S.A.), said that he had sent communications to all the commanding officers of cadets, in order that no child should be permitted to enter a corps who was not physically fitted for the work. He would consider the question of a full medical inspection of the cadets at an early date.

THE SHIPPING COMBINE.

Mr. Sinclair (Q.) moved the adjournment of the House to call attention to the operations of the shipping combine, and the report of the debate will be found in another column.

NEW RABBIT DISEASE.

Mr. CHANTER (N.S.W.) asked the Treasurer whether his attention had been called to an article stating that Dr. D. S. Jordan, president of the Leland-Stanford University, had written to some person in Sydney stating that he chanced to be on board of an Australian-bound vessel upon which a sheep-breeder of New South Wales was bringing over a shipment of legs of diseased rabbits from Oregon for examination in Australia. Would the Treasurer cause an immediate and searching inquiry to be made into the matter, with a view to preventing any new disease being imported into Australia until it was amply demonstrated that the disease was not communicable to other forms of animal and bird life, and would the Treasurer ascertain the name and address of the New South Wales sheepbreeder who was importing this new disease into Australia? He further asked whether the Treasurer would at once cause instructions to be issued to all Customs officers to be particularly watchful in preventing any such disease being introduced until it had been made legal to do so.

The TREASURER replied that the whole matter would form the subject of a very careful inquiry by the Government.

THE OPIUM TRAFFIC.

The MINISTER FOR CUSTOMS, in reply to Mr. Donald Thomson (N.S.W.), said that an order had been issued indicating the quantities of opium deemed sufficient for the ordinary annual requirements of an average chemist's business, and the wholesale distributors, who were the holders of departmental licenses to import opium for medicinal purposes, had been informed that the department expected them to exercise discretion with regard to the supply of opium to retailers, and to keep under notice any excessive of demand which might seem questionable. Periodical inspection was made of the distributors' books, and explanation of the same asked as to any supplies apparently in excess of the legitimate requirements. If in any case it was proved that a licensed importer had disregarded reasonable precautions in the distribution of opium, the Government would not hesitate to cancel the license. The co-operation of the State Governments had already been sought. The Victorian Legislature had passed an Act dealing with the matter, and it was hoped that similar action would before long be taken by the other States.

SCRIPTURE-READING REFERENDUM.

The TREASURER, in reply to Mr. Edwards (Q.), said that the Prime Minister had sent a letter to the Premier of Queensland, stating that as the State election would take place about the same time as the next Federal election he did not think that it would be wise to entertain the proposal that a referendum on the subject of scripture-reading in Public schools should be taken on the occasion of the Federal elections.

AN EXPLANATION.

Mr. CATTS explained that the reason for crossing the chamber during the division on the Judiciary Bill a few days ago was that owing to his inexperience he did not know that the motion was tantamount to a vote of censure. He disagreed with the action of the Government, and sympathised with the motion, but he had to choose the lesser of two evils. His vote on that occasion was not given under caucus direction. (Laughter.)

ADJOURNMENT.

The House at 4.15 p.m. adjourned until 3 o'clock on Tuesday next.

THE CHURCHES.

The Archbishop of Sydney on Sunday morning preached in the Cathedral, and inducted as Precenter the Rev. E. N. Wilton. In the evening he preached at St. Mary's, Waverley. On Tuesday morning he administered the Holy Communion in the Cathedral, in the afternoon delivered his presidential address at the opening of the synod of the diocese, and has presided at its several sessions during the week.

The Bishop of New Guinea was unable on Saturday last to continue his journey to Samarai, via Cairns. He hopes to leave Brisbane on the 8th prox., but must be guided by the advice of his physician.

Cardinal Moran administered the sacrament of confirmation at St. Joseph's Church, Camperdown, on Saturday last. To-morrow he will administer confirmation at St. Bede's, Pyrmont.

The Cardinal presided at a meeting of the diocesan consultors which was held at St. Mary's Presbytery on Thursday.

Rev. Dr. Brophy, of Dubbo, has been presented with £20 to defray some of the expenses connected with the recent Catholic jubilee celebrations.

Cardinal Moran will open St. Patrick's fair, in the Parramatta Town Hall, this afternoon.

The Bishop of Sale, Dr. Corbett, is the senior priest of Victoria, and with the exception of the Archbishop of Brisbane, and the Venerable Arch-priest Sheehy, of Sydney, is the senior priest in Australia. Dr. Corbett was appointed parish priest at St. Mary's, St. Kilda, by the late Archbishop Goold in 1867, and was consecrated Bishop of Sale in St. Mary's, St. Kilda, on August 25, 1887.

The Presbyterian charge of Gloucester-Barrington is to moderate in a call to a minister.

The standing committees of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales are to begin their meetings in the Church offices on October 7.

Rev. G. M. Torbett, M.A., of Port Macquarie, and Rev. T. Scott Neil, of Maclean (Presbyterian ministers), are at present on a holiday visit to Sydney.

The Cessnock-Abermain Presbyterian Home Mission station has been raised to the status of a sanctioned charge.

Rev. W. R. Milne (Presbyterian minister), and Mrs. Milne, had a very hearty send-off at Broken Hill, and were the recipients of valuable tokens of the goodwill of the people.

Miss Macgregor and Miss Daley, two missionaries from the Presbyterian Church in New Zealand, were present and addressed the meeting of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Association held on the 19th inst.

The general quarterly meeting of the Girls' Auxiliary of the Presbyterian Church of New South Wales was held at the Church offices on September 17, when Miss Annie Thomson presided, and Miss Fell gave a most interesting address on the Shanghai conference.

A new Presbyterian Church has been opened at Walgett, and is called the "Scott Memorial." It is said to be the most imposing structure in the town, well designed, with a view to the trying nature of the climate handsomely furnished, and set off by a stained glass window of great beauty erected by Mr. A. E. Scott, of Gingie, in memory of his father.

A magnificent pipe organ was lately presented to the Presbyterian congregation at Kiama by Mr. G. L. Fuller.

The General Assembly of Australia, which met in Adelaide, has closed its sittings, and most of the ministers will return to New South Wales in time for next Sunday's services.

On three successive Fridays in October the Presbytery of Sydney will perform three inductions. On October 4, Rev. F. Barclay, of the Valley, Brisbane, Q., will be inducted into the parish of Hurstville, vacant by the translation of Rev. R. Kay, M.A., to Germanton. On October 11, Rev. H. McEwan, of Beaufort, Victoria, will be inducted to the Ashfield parish, vacant by the resignation of Rev. J. Auld, M.A., a year and a half ago. On October 18, Rev. J. Marshall, formerly of Pymble, will be inducted into the newly-formed parish of Canterbury-Rosedale. It is chiefly owing to the labours of Mr. Marshall that the new parish is in a position to have a settled minister.

Rabbi Cohen, owing to severe sudden illness, was unable to take part in the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles last Sunday. He officiated on Monday, but was over fatigued with the exertion, and had to desist.

The Rev. A. B. Davies, who has been an inmate of Charlemont Hospital, is progressing favourably.

The Rev. A. B. Wolinski officiated at the first night service on Sunday last of the Feast of Tabernacles.

A communal succah has been erected and artistically decorated by the ladies of the Jewish Girls' Guild. The children of the Sabbath and Sunday schools will attend the afternoon service next Sabbath.

Commissioner Howard, of the Salvation Army, has been reappointed foreign secretary in place of Commissioner Booth Tucker, who has sailed for India.

Messrs. G. H. Browne and J. P. Garmong have just closed a highly successful evangelistic mission in connection with the Church of Christ, Merewether (Newcastle).

A gospel mission was closed last night in connection with the Church of Christ meeting on Bunnerong-road, Lilyville; Mr. Thos. Hagger was the missioner. Quite a number of converts have been baptised.

A number of converts have recently been baptised in the chapel of the Canley Vale Church of Christ. W. H. Wooster is the evangelist there.

The federal conference of Churches of Christ in Australasia, which has just closed its sittings in Adelaide, was most enthusiastic. The next federal conference will be held in Sydney in 1909, and as that year will be the one hundredth anniversary of the foundation of the Christian Association of Washington, U.S.A., and the issue of "The Declaration and Address" by Messrs. T. and A. Campbell and Fathers, the conference will be a special one. A Sydney committee has been appointed to plan and arrange for a fitting celebration.

At the annual meeting of the Sydney Female Missions Home, held on Thursday afternoon, it was shown that during the past year 198 persons had been admitted to the home, and at its close only 18 adults and 6 children were in the care of the matron, the remainder, after receiving every assistance and care, having been returned to friends, provided with employment. The cost per head, not reckoning the little ones, was £2 11s 8d. The present officebearers are:—Mrs. E. Lloyd Jones (hon. secretary), Mrs. W. E. Hawkins (hon. treasurer), Mrs. R. W. Hardy, Mrs. Von der Heyde, Mrs. Llewellyn R. Jones, Mrs. W. F. Litchfield, Mrs. C. H. Myles, Mrs. John Pottle, Mrs. A. J. Riley, Mrs. A. Stewart, Mrs. C. B. Stephen, Mrs. J. G. Thompson, Mrs. W. Walker, Mrs. W. G. Whiting, and Mrs. G. L. Hill (matron).

The Wesleyan Methodists in North Yorkshire are using the motor for reaching outlying places in the interests of home and foreign missions. The car has neither decorations nor arresting colour, but it has attracted considerable attention in the 15 towns and villages at which it has stopped in the tour from Ripon to Scarborough. The party included experts, who had ready all the facts of local support from which to urge their pleas for more prayer and more money.

The English Wesleyan Missionary Society's annual report is in every way a remarkable document. The revival of missionary enthusiasm which has marked the past year in the churches has had its influence on the foreign churches, and resulted in an increase in the membership and general operations, and also in a remarkable increase of contributions from the foreign districts to the parent society. The foreign districts raised locally £165,822, and sent in addition to the Mission House at home the sum of £30,092, which is even a larger sum than that contributed by the home churches. In fact, for every pound raised in Great Britain and Ireland another pound and more is raised in the mission field itself. The total income for 1906 is £308,307, being an increase of £38,747 on the year. The expenditure, with the accumulated deficiencies of former years, is £197,874, leaving a surplus for extension of £10,433.

Mr. Evan Roberts, the leader of the religious revival in Wales, who for the last two years has been obliged to abstain from taking part in any public services owing to the weak state of his health, is progressing favourably towards convalescence. It is said that he hopes shortly to enter upon his work again. He is "convinced that the Holy Spirit is calling him again to his work," and he expects, in the house to gain strength, to start shortly a series of services at Rhoslanerchrugog, near Wrexham.

The "Universe" states that Pope Pius X has issued an official order suspending all pilgrimages until the end of September. This will affect, among others, the great French national pilgrimage under the leadership of the Coadjutor-Archbishop of Paris, which was due to arrive on September 20. As regards later pilgrimages, including the English pilgrimage in October, the Pope has reserved his decision.

Next year the first Christian Endeavour Society started in Great Britain will attain its twenty-first birthday, and the event is to be celebrated by a visit from Dr. Clark, the founder of the Endeavour movement. On returning to the United States from a campaign in South America, Dr. Clark found awaiting him an invitation from the British National Council and he has just replied to it that he will cross the Atlantic in the early part of next year. The first British C.E. Society was founded at the Hightown Congregational Church, Crewe, and the movement spread thence until at the present moment there are 10,162 societies in the United Kingdom, and there is hardly a town or village which has not one or more of them. The society has penetrated almost every Christian denomination, and a great effort is to be made in connection with Dr. Clark's visit to extend it to bonds still further by a "National Increase Campaign."

Welshmen are naturally jealous of any attempt to break the force of Welsh tradition or weaken the spirit of Welsh nationality. It is not surprising, therefore, that there should be an angry outburst at the alleged anglicising influence of Lampeter College. It is said by those who are intimately acquainted with the college that the establishment is practically pledged to kill Welsh nationality. English professors, English services, and an English "spirit" are at work to render of non-effect the very few Welsh services that are allowed by the courtesy of the authorities. The indignation is increased by the remembrance of the fact that the college was founded for the purpose of training Welsh curates for the Welsh Church, and is financed by endowments drawn from Wales. One correspondent says: "It is a gross anomaly that the college should not only be manned by unsympathetic outsiders, but used as a means of stifling Welsh feeling and flouting Welsh national sentiments."

The twenty-fourth anniversary of the Sydney Women's Prayer Union was held at the Bible Hall, Pitt-street, on Wednesday. Mrs. E. J. Ward presided, and there was a very large attendance of members and friends. In her opening remarks, Mrs. Ward gave a brief resume of the organisation since its inauguration by Mrs. Hampson 24 years ago. The report read by the secretary showed that the meetings had been well attended during the year, and much blessing had resulted from the united prayers of the members. They had several branches, viz., Sydney, Glebe, Balmain, Petersham, Paddington, and Leichhardt. It was expected that the Burwood branch would shortly be reorganised. The financial statement read by the hon. treasurer, Mrs. D. H. Chisholm, showed a balance in hand. The evening was filled up with addresses and musical items.

THE "LONE HAND."

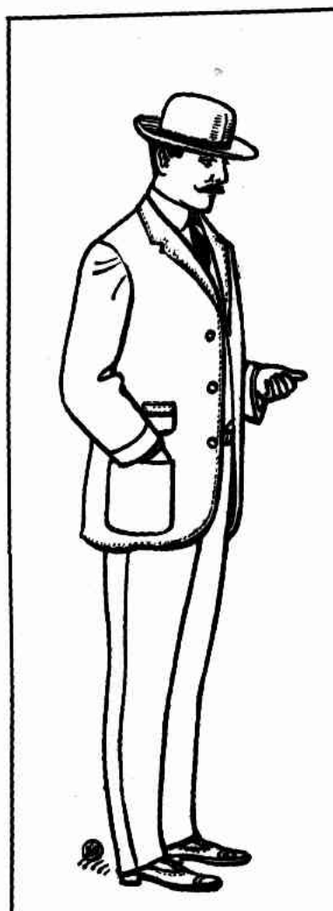

The October number of the "Lone Hand" again reveals the improvement both in literary matter and illustration, which has marked the succeeding issue of this magazine. The cover is an attractive bit of colour-work by Violet Quaife, and the frontispiece a well-printed reproduction of a weak and flabby water-colour by E. E. Mims. An article around which considerable interest will hinge is that on the Mitchell Library, by Bertram Stevens. The Australian wool industry is dealt with from a new standpoint by the late Francis Myers; and the leader of the Federal Labour party, Mr. J. C. Watson, contributes an article on the Northern Territory, which deals with the possibilities of this great area constructively. Mr. Watson's contentions, one of which is that dairying would be at once profitable, are bound to arrest attention, even on the part of those less sanguine. The history of the "Bulletin" is taken up this month by Mr. W. H. Traill, who relates several amusing incidents of the early tribulations of this newspaper. In fiction the number is exceptionally strong. Edwd. Dyson continues his ludicrous sketches, "Two Battlers and a Bear," and stories appear above the well-known signatures of Ethel Turner, Arthur Adams, Frank Morton, Alice Grant Rosman, G. Elbury, and "Robert Hap." Albert Dorrington relates some incidents of literary London; and Hugh M'Crae, F. R. Morton, the late V. J. Daley, E. Fisher, Roderick Quinn, and Arnold Wall are responsible for contributions in verse. Pictorially, the most striking feature of the magazine is Norman Lindsay's pen-and-brush work illustrating a verse from the Apocrypha. Though suffering severely in reproduction, these must be reckoned among the finest drawings this artist has turned out. Another feature of the number is the series of caricatures accompanying an article on the recent art exhibitions in Melbourne and Sydney. These drawings by Will Dyson are most delightful, but uncomplimentary, portraits of the various leading artists in this city.

READY - FOR - SERVICE SUITS.

OUR OWN MANUFACTURE.

We want our Ready-for-Service Suits to be as well known as they deserve to be.

If every man knew as much about them as we do, we would not be able to satisfy the demand.

These are not the every-day kind of garments. They are our own manufacture, the materials being specially imported by us.

We have made these Suits up of the latest fabrics landed and unpacked before the new duties were imposed.

We have incorporated into them the styles of the moment, and carry a sufficient number of sizes to enable us to fit most men.

PEAPES' TWO-GARMENT SUITS

A splendidly-made Suit, comprising Coat and Vest for Summer wear. In high-class, well-designed Flannels, in striped effects, with light, medium grey, dark grey, and blue grounds. The Coat is unlined, to facilitate washing, and to ensure coolness, and has a long roll-collar.

PRICES FOR COAT AND VEST, 25s, 30s, 35s.

PEAPES' THREE-GARMENT SUITS.

Absolutely the latest style, both in materials and cutting. The fabrics are handsome Tweeds and Indigo Serges, in textures to suit the Australian summer. The Coat has the new lapel, and the Vest is cut a little deeper than that of last season—the Trousers slightly closer fitting. The materials are greys and browns, with various effects introduced, the colours being the popular blues and greens interwoven—the most correct patterns for the season.

PRICES, 35s, 42s, 45s.

THE BAPTIST UNION.

SOCIAL REFORM.

The annual session of the Baptist Union was continued yesterday. A devotional service was held in the morning, the Rev. C. B. Way, of Casino, presiding, and at its conclusion the Rev. J. Urquhart, of London, gave an address on "Current Religious Topics." The Revs. J. Parker, A. Masters, C. Pickering, A. G. Gordon, and H. C. Hughes took part in the discussion.

A letter was read from the Rev. W. M. Cartwright, declining to accept the £25 honorarium voted him on the previous day for his services as editor of the "Baptist."

A communication was received from the Parramatta church recommending that the pastor, the Rev. M. J. Worboys, be appointed a chaplain to the Parramatta asylums. A letter was also received from the Rev. M. J. Worboys, giving reasons for the appointment. Some discussion took place on the receipt of these communications, and the Rev. E. Price submitted a motion declining to accede to the request made. The motion was carried.

AUSTRALASIAN BAPTIST CONGRESS.

The Rev. A. Metters, in a short address, traced the history of the proposed Australasian Baptist Congress, and said there were several reasons why one should be held. For one thing it would give the Ministers an opportunity of becoming acquainted with each other, and they were now far apart. It was proposed to hold the first one in this State, and a ministers' committee would be appointed in each State. He moved, after a short discussion,—"That a committee be appointed with full power to act in the event of the other States approving of the congress being held in Sydney in 1908, and financial arrangements proving satisfactory." The motion was carried.

LOCAL EVILS.

On the motion of the Rev. E. Price a motion was carried to the effect that it was incumbent upon the Church of Christ to attack the fearful social evils which exist in our midst, devote its energies to the securing of drastic and effective legal measures for the removal of the causes of these evils. The resolution also recognised that these causes were largely under human control, and recorded that the assembly wishes for the Public Morals Association and kindred agencies the Divine blessing and much success.

THE LIQUOR TRADE.

The Rev. E. Price also moved,—"That this assembly in both places on record its gratitude to God for the awakening of interest in the drink question, as evidenced in the local option polls just taken in this State. Putting together the votes cast for no-license and those given for reduction it shows that the large total of 249,329 was reached, or 46,089 in excess of the total votes recorded for the continuance of the traffic. If the result had been determined by a majority alone, the traffic would have been swept away. The assembly congratulates the Alliance on the success it has attained, and expresses the conviction that the propagandist work should be strongly continued, that thus at the next poll a still larger and more pleasing victory may be won." The motion was seconded and carried.

"MARRIAGE SHOPS."

Rev. Jas. Barker moved,—"That this assembly hereby expresses its strong condemnation of what are known as matrimonial agencies, believing them to be a fruitful cause of immorality and a degradation of the sacredness of the marriage bond. It also requests the Government to take active measures to restrict the perform

For ever with the Lord.

COLEBROOK.—In loving memory of dear dada, Edward A. Colebrook, whom God called Sept. 29th, 1903. For sterling worth and stanchness none could excel. Deeply regretted and keenly missed by his adopted son, Bert. Colebrook.

COLEBROOK.—A tribute of unfailing love to the memory of my darling dada, Ned Colebrook, late cab proprietor of Redfern, who passed peacefully away Sept. 29th, 1903, after a very short illness (pneumonia), aged 56 years.

The dear old face I loved lies low,
His fond true heart is still,
The hand I often clasped in mine
Lies low in death's cold chill.
Little I thought when I kissed you good-bye
'Twas earth's last parting between you and I.
I miss you; I mourn you in silence unseen,
But love the memories of days that have been.

Oh, my darling dada, sincerely mourned, and oh, how sadly missed by his only daughter, Myra, Mrs. Ernest Fuller.

IN MEMORIAM.

GOODIN.—In loving memory of my dear mother and our grandmother, Frances Goodin, who departed this life 28th September, 1905. Inserted by her loving son and grandchildren.

HOW TO FRAME OUR COLOURED PICTURES.

Having got your pictures, the point arises: What is the best way to frame them? We refer, of course, to "HIS FIRST SHOT" and "THE DROVER'S FAREWELL." The art of framing makes a persistent call upon one's taste. How often we see pictures framed in such a way that the frame holds our attention, whereas it should help the canvas, instead of violently throwing it into the shade. The eyes should irresistibly be drawn to the picture, and if the frame interposes itself we may be sure that something is wrong. Very frequently the best and most tastefulframing may be the very cheapest—and this applies to "The First Shot" and "The Drover's Farewell." If elaborate framing is wanted, and nothing else will please, we gratefully withdraw in the interests of the framers. But to get a delightful effect at quite a nominal price we make this suggestion: Select a one-inch or 1½-inch dark oak frame, and a common brown-paper 3½-inch mount—the same colour that shopkeepers use or a shade darker. As an alternative to the brown mount use dark grey—the dark oak frame will suit either. And note the following: There is a great array of splendid pictures in the "Sydney Mail Annual"—some on the inside pages are charmingly coloured. The principal feature is the glorious scenery of New South Wales, but other States are represented. From the hour its issue begins a strong demand is assured. It is an ideal Number to post away to friends and relatives abroad. There is no change from the postage of past years.

WITH TWO COLOURED SUPPLEMENTS.
READY SATURDAY, OCTOBER 5.
ONE SHILLING.—THE SYDNEY MAIL ANNUAL.

NEWCASTLE ILLUSTRATED.

The issue of the Sydney Mail on Wednesday next will illustrate Newcastle and some of the tourists' resorts within easy reach of it. The double-page pictures will include a magnificent panoramic view of the city and harbour. There will be many other striking views. Port Stephens, Lake Macquarie, and other places are well represented. The views of the shipping are interesting, the most notable picture being "A Forest of Masts," showing deep-sea sailers waiting for berthing space. There are also mining pictures. Ordinary street scenes are dispensed with, the object being to show that the city has some charming surroundings, while in itself there is a strength, solidity, actual greatness, and capacity for development that must impress any visitor. Many handsome pages are devoted solely to pictures of scenery; others show some of the principal business-houses. By the people of Newcastle the issue will doubtless be retained as a souvenir of their city in 1907, and all our readers will find in the number some beautiful pages.

THE ASIATIC REVIVAL.

The valedictory remarks of the retiring Japanese Consul-General, Mr. Iwasaki, possess a double claim to interest. Events have moved with a giant stride from the situation of but a few years ago, to a point when such a farewell as the ceremony of the other day, to a holder of the office of permanent representative of an Asiatic Power in Sydney, was possible. But those few years have covered the period of other revolutions besides that which this implies. Fifteen years ago the "yellow peril" and the awakening of Asia were but academical questions to all but the few who took the trouble to be interested in the forward policy of Japan. Only here and there a student or a philosopher like Professor Pearson looked beyond the present into the future, speculating intelligently if on insufficient data on the consequences that might follow if by the touch of some magician's wand the East should emerge from its sleep of centuries, and re-assert the forgotten activity of a manhood once virile and aggressive enough. The inertia of the East, and the enormous advantage wielded by Western civilisation in the shape of great navies and the possession of modern engines of warfare, held Asia in check until Japan finally broke the spell, and broke it by virtue of her own innate expansive force. She showed that it was possible not only for an Eastern Power to acquire a great navy and army, and to equip and train both up to the highest limit of modern effectiveness, but that it was also possible for an Asiatic people to wield the peculiar forces of Western civilisation as well. It is hardly 40 years since Tokio imitated Westminster and Washington in establishing constitutional government and a deliberative Parliament on the lines of the House of Commons and Congress. After that everything was possible in time, and the army and navy, fighters and strategists, national finance, industrial and commercial expansion, all came into being, and were found ready for effective service when they were required. To be sure national spirit, a proud and intense patriotism, and the long tradition of war were there also. From these sprang the host of armed men that poured upon Russia in Manchuria, and from these, too, sprang the great commanders and Elder Statesmen, such as Ito, Oyama, and Togo.

But if it was open to Japan to do all this, why should not other Asiatic Powers do the same? China is far larger than Japan, its resources and population are vast in comparison, and it is not unimaginable that the time may come when Japan will appear insignificant beside her. Yet that enormous aggregation of humanity and all its latent forces moves slowly. Is this due to the lack of such a forward movement of national uplifting as that which made itself felt in Japan from the moment the Constitution was proclaimed, appealing to every citizen with its gift of share in the management of public affairs, and a personal part in the process of national development? There is good reason to believe that this is so. There are other national forces in Asia besides Japan and China, though only Japan has come into line with Europe so far. Some are fettered by subjection to a superior Power, such as India. Egypt is another instance of the same kind in Africa, though for the purposes of the present consideration that country may be fairly enough bracketed with the forces of Asia. Persia is a nation with independent power of initiative still remaining to it in a certain measure. So is Afghanistan. If all these Asiatic elements, or any of them, once acquired the right and habit of self-government on what are known to the thinking mind of the West as constitutional lines, it becomes quite conceivable that the same spirit which awakened Japan might stir the great heart of Asia as a whole. The curious feature in this connection is the fact that these people appear to be making this interesting and portentous discovery for themselves. Even in Peking we hear of a new policy of constitutional government under some form of representative Parliament. At Teheran the Persians have something of the sort on the way also. The seething masses of India are beginning to clamour with articulate voices for a Parliament of their own, and the National party in Egypt wants Parliamentary institutions as badly as Russia demands its free Douma.

The importance of this agitation lies in the fact that it may represent the first stage in that process which is one day to stir Asia again and make its people an aggressive force in the world. "It would be idle to pretend that there are not many grave and important questions pending," Mr. Iwasaki told his hearers the other day, when he referred to the value of the ties of friendship between Britain and Japan in the "immediate interests of both empires, and also in the even larger interests of the progress of civilisation and the preservation of peace throughout the whole world." It is some years now since Sir W. W. Hunter, in his introduction to the "History of British India," pointed in the same spirit to that "great settlement of European spheres of influence in Asia which, if we could see right, forms a world-problem of our day." Captain Mahan, in his essays collected under the title of "The Problem of Asia," is insistent on the same point. But it is not a new discovery. The possibilities of the Asiatic future became grimly apparent from the date of the Japanese victories in the naval war with China in 1894, and the movement of annexation by the Powers was a rough-and-ready way of acknowledging the conditions of the problem, and preparing to meet them. But the war with Russia showed that this movement had come already far too late, and Japan then taught a lesson to all the latent national forces east of the Nile which is nowhere more severely felt than in the unrest in India. For ourselves here in Australia the day has gone by forever when we can pretend to believe that the question involved has no practical interest for us. We are, indeed, the people most acutely interested outside Asia itself. Ours is the nearest territory, and the first to be influenced by any Asiatic upheaval. More than that, whenever that period of disturbance comes, we in Australia stand to be affected most and longest. Two military or naval Powers in Asia would upset the balance of the East and of the Pacific, and in that event we should have to face the chances of being the least protected. Without being alarmist, these considerations are practical and weighty enough to compel attention and force us to keep our house in order. We need awakening as much as any of the Asiatic peoples, and it is time for Australians to consider for themselves whether we are to wake up of our own accord, by sheer impulse of vitality, as Japan did, or wait until we are kicked into life, like China.

PIUS X. AND THE MODERN WORLD.

During the month of August there appeared in the "Times" two articles from M. Sabatier which purported to contain an account of the first four years of the Pontificate of Pius the Tenth. The writer is a French Protestant, who became famous as the author of a life of St. Francis, and in the writing as well as in the spirit which drove him to choose such a subject gave a proof of his appreciation of one of the features of the Church most attractive to its critics. The Church, which has so often been on the side of aristocratic and despotic Governments, is in itself in its essence the greatest of all democracies. The humblest priest sprung from the humblest parents has been enabled to rise to a position in which he is secure of the reverence and obedience of a great proportion of civilised mankind. It is a symbol of the spiritual union of humanity. Throughout its history, though its rulers have been the enemies of knowledge, its agents have been carrying a message of enlightenment to a multitude whose life without their aid might have had little human about it. M. Sabatier, in the very eloquent conclusion to his articles, shows how the present Pope is an example of the qualities to which his Church gives the widest scope. Of peasant origin, he has had no especial training in scholarship, and no experience of diplomacy. His work lay among the poor about the Lagoons of Venice, where he gained none of the reputation which has fallen to others who were among his rivals for the Papacy. His distinguishing virtues were piety, humility, and diligence. According to M. Sabatier they have made him the most fascinating figure of the present day.

At the same time they appear to have made it probable that his reign will be one of the gravest danger to the authority of his See. Virtues that were sufficient for the work of a priest or a bishop have proved to be by themselves inadequate armour for a Pope. Piety and humility have assumed the form of opposition to all the works of men, to the irrepressible spirit which drives them to attempt to verify faith by knowledge, and to everything like a compromise between the traditional authority of the Papacy and the demand of a modern democratic Government. There has been, it is said by other critics than M. Sabatier, the same tendency throughout the last four years since the Pope's election. In every country in Europe there is a dispute, either open or latent, between the supporters of his actions and the other Roman Catholics, who, while deeply attached to that Church, hesitate to take sides in a conflict between authority and knowledge. In France, Germany, and Italy there has been growing up a line of division among Roman Catholics which separates them from each other when politics, science, or religion is being discussed. In France conflict has been carried on around a mingling of political and religious considerations. The war between the Church and the State has been going on ever since the inauguration of the Third Republic. The Church has since then been the hope and the encouragement of the Royalists, as its leaders were in the Conventions the advocates of the re-establishment of the kingdom. Under a succession of Prime Ministers it became a question, so it was declared, whether a hostile Power was to continue to exist within the State, having at its command the powers of influencing the mind of future generations. The answer to that question was never in doubt, and has long since been given. The old position of the Church in the State has been destroyed.

There remains the difficulty of settling the lines on which the temporal and spiritual powers are to work for the future among a people who have never been able to adapt themselves to any form of Protestantism. It is in his treatment of this question that the Pope has shown his weakness both as a diplomatist and as a judge of the needs of his subjects. The Bishops by a considerable majority have recognised that among the French Roman Catholics there has now grown up an attachment to the Republic as warm and sanctified by the same associations as their attachment to the Church. They have been themselves influenced by the impulse of patriotism, which has increased at the same rate as the democratic movement in France. They have noticed its progress among their people, and have shown their anxiety to avoid forcing them to a choice between the Church and their country. The Pope and his advisers have, as we have heard, refused to take the line of conciliation. The Bishops have been ordered not to act on their own decision, and the Pope, in spite of remonstrance from the most eminent French Churchmen, has decided not to summon another Episcopal meeting. The result has been not merely to make the terms of compromise more difficult to arrange. It has been within the Church itself to set the keenest and most unselfish element in opposition. When the Liberal Roman Catholics in 1870 saw the infallibility which they claimed for the Church abandoned to the Pope, together with the sole legislative authority, they declared that their only hope lay in the Episcopate. Lord Acton declared then that the Episcopate was exceedingly helpless. It has proved itself to be so still. In Italy and Germany, as well as in France, the most influential of the priests are in opposition to the authorities, joining in the great movement for social advancement which has marked the last 30 years. Many of the priests in the time of Garibaldi joined in the war for the freedom of their country, and men of the same stamp are taking part to-day in the movement for its social and moral regeneration.

The attitude of the Pope, however, has had the effect of alienating these men and their troops of followers. At the beginning of his reign he seemed inclined to encourage the co-operation of the Church and the State. Italian Roman Catholics were no longer forbidden to vote at the elections, and the late Cardinal Svampa was allowed to do homage to the King at Bologna. In four years it has been seen that this change of attitude was merely apparent; it is only when the Roman Catholics will co-operate with the Conservatives that they are allowed to take their part in politics. The best example of the Pope's conduct in relation to any attempt to extend the bounds of knowledge has been given in the recent Encyclical. If men's actions could be predicted from their beliefs, and if the human need for inquiry were not insatiable, this document would prove the Church to be the most formidable enemy of liberty, as well as of science, throughout the world. It is an edict of the Inquisition, the highest of all the Roman congregations, condemning 65 propositions "in order to hinder the errors which are spreading more widely among the faithful from taking root in their minds, and so impairing the purity of their faith." It mentions no writers by name, but is obviously intended to refer to the works of the Abbe Loisy, of Father Tyrrell, and of Edouard le Roy. Briefly summarised, it is an intimation to all who wish the Church to take account of the discoveries of science, or who attempt to apply the spirit of free inquiry to its teachings, either to take back what they have said, or to share the fate of Dollinger, and be exiled from the Church. To the outside critic it seems as if the authors of such a document are condemning themselves to the loss of the future. There can be only one end to a conflict between authority and truth, between tradition and science. A force of resistance, however great its strength, cannot prevail when all who do the work of the world are on the other side.

To-day's "Herald."—Mr. Lucy regards the work of the Parliamentary session as good. He notes, not without a chuckle, that Birmingham is displeased with the new Lyne tariff. The history of the Deceased Wife's Sister Bill is touched upon now that that ancient and unpleasing controversy is off the Parliamentary paper. A special representative of the "Herald" has just returned from the Murray Valley, where he has been studying the question of railway development, and in the first of three articles he sketches the geographical and settlement problem. In view of Dr. Jameson's appeal to the Cape electors, a sketch of this famous South African personage will be of particular interest. A Western Australian describes the Coolgardie water scheme—a vast and truly national work which had it been accomplished in America would have been trumpeted to the world's ends. The serious lesson, however, is that it is not enough to make water plentiful, it must be cheap from the start, and that is the lesson for Barren Jack also. "In the Garden" deals principally with roses, but attention is also paid to cacti. No gardener who has seen a really fine collection of these plants will underrate their decorative value or the ease with which they may be cultivated. A paper on "Nesting Time" will bring back many recollections to those who have the luck to be bush-bred.

Public Service Association.—A deputation from the Public Service Association waited upon the Minister for Works yesterday afternoon with the object of obtaining assistance to secure better premises. It was pointed out that the objects of the association were broad, and that its operations were governed by loyalty to the Government. The Public School Teachers' Association were much in the same fix, and if suitable rooms were obtained they would come in with the Public Service Association, thus practically forming one body. Replying to a question put by Mr. Lee, the deputationists said that if the Government would put up suitable premises the association would be prepared to pay a fair rental. It was stated that the fifth floor of the Challis House in Martin-place would temporarily meet the needs of the association, and that it would be prepared to pay the Government £3 a week for it until the way was clear for putting up the permanent structure contemplated. Mr. Lee said he would put all the points raised before the Premier, and ask him to give them his earnest consideration.

The Weather.—Showers fell yesterday on the northern coast of New South Wales. Elsewhere fine and pleasant weather prevailed generally in this State. More frosts occurred in some districts on Thursday night. Among the lowest temperatures were—Nimitybelle 5 degrees, Rockley 29, Hay 30, Bowral, Molong, and Kiandra 31. The high pressure area on Friday had expanded forwards over Queensland, but its central part remained practically stationary, and barometers showed a slight fall over the greater part of the mainland. Over Tasmania and the Victorian coast the decrease in pressure had been much greater. Fine weather may be expected generally, with variable winds.

An Annotated Judgment.—The Law Court buildings, like those devoted to the purposes of legislation, are so frequently being patched up that the carpenter's hammer and stonemason's chisel sometimes form a far from agreeable accompaniment to the proceedings. In the Equity Court it is a trying matter under most favourable circumstances to catch more than the tenor of oral decisions by the Bench, and yesterday the difficulty was accentuated by the operations of an artisan outside. Parties interested in the judgment were probably able to catch only a word here and there, which gave no indication of the conclusion arrived at by his Honor. As for the rest, it was absorbed by the energy of the artisan, who, oblivious of everything but his work, managed to effect what in the parlance of the ring would be termed a "complete knockout." The official law reporter, on being asked how he managed to take down the oral judgments, sententiously replied, "I don't."

City Fish Markets Inquiry.—The Town Clerk was much gratified with the result of his visit to Wollongong, in connection with the city fish markets inquiry. The evidence he obtained from the six witnesses he examined he regards as a valuable contribution to the subject, and quite justified his visit. Should fishermen in other districts desire to give evidence, and communicate the fact to Mr. Nesbitt, he will, if at all possible, make arrangements to visit the particular district.

Imprisoned in a Lift.—At the Queen Victoria Markets yesterday afternoon five persons had the unique experience of being imprisoned in a lift suspended in mid-air. Shortly after 4 o'clock the lift at the northern end of the building, containing two women and three men, was ascending, and when near the top the mechanism failed, and a sudden stoppage was the result. For nearly half an hour the occupants were confined in the cage, and while in this unappreciated predicament were compelled to submit themselves to the gaze of a large number of unsympathetic onlookers. Eventually the boy crawled out of the door, and, clambering up the well, contrived to adjust the defective machinery and release the prisoners.

Steamers Leaving To-day.—The P. and O. liner Victoria will be despatched from Circular Quay at noon to-day for London, via ports. She will have a large number of passengers from the States, and the cargo is composed chiefly of wool, meat, and butter. The Taiyuan will leave for Manila, China, and Japan; and the N.D.L. liner Schwaben, with a large cargo of Australian products, will sail for European ports, leaving Adelaide on October 3. Bound to Queensland ports are the Aberdeen liner Marathon, the Bombala, Buninyong, and Marloo; to Melbourne, the J.M.S. Kumano Maru and Cooma. The Riverina will be despatched to Melbourne, Adelaide, and Western Australia. The Maheno will leave at 5 o'clock this afternoon for Wellington and The Bluff. The Monowai will resume running, and goes to Lyttelton and Dunedin. The Tyser liner Mimiro will leave for New Zealand ports, and the Chanda will sail early to-day for Melbourne.

Baptist Union Annual Sermon.—In connection with the Baptist Union of N.S.W., the Rev. Alexander Gordon, M.A., of Victoria, last night preached the annual sermon at the Stanmore Baptist Church. There was a very large attendance. The text was:—"I will pour out of My Spirit upon all flesh, and your sons and daughters shall prophesy, and your young men shall see visions and your old men shall dream dreams." The preacher gave a powerful and instructive discourse on the need of being filled with the Spirit. He pointed out that the result thereof would be a large increase of spiritual power, which was one of the great wants of the hour. If this need were realised in all Churches much good would ensue and many problems be solved. At the conclusion of the sermon was a communion service presided over by the Rev. J. C. Tinsley.

Bill-posters and the City Council.—A deputation, appointed at a public meeting, waited upon the Lord Mayor (Alderman Thomas Hughes) at the Town Hall yesterday, to protest against the enforcement of the by-laws, recently gazetted, governing bill-posting in the city. The deputation, which was introduced by Ald. Lawrence, and supported by Ald. Fitzgerald and O'Connor, pointed out that a license fee of £2 2s was an injustice; it should be either reduced to a minimum or done away with altogether. It was also contended that there was no justification for taxing the workman, as in other instances, such as the plumbers under the Water and Sewerage Board, only the employers had to pay a license. The average earnings of the men were from 25s to 35s per week, so that they could not afford to pay even a small license fee; and if the other municipalities followed the example of the City Council, and compelled them to pay a license, only the big firms would be able to carry on. The Lord Mayor, in reply, said the regulations, as gazetted, were in force from September 4. They had received long and careful consideration, both in committee and in council, and it was idle to ask that they should be repealed now. The object of the regulations was to obtain control over the individual bill-posters, not to get revenue out of them. He considered the license fee was high, and might be reduced to 10s, as suggested by Ald. Lawrence. Personally, he thought bill-posting in the city should be done away with entirely, as an outrage on civilisation, but he quite recognised that he could not have his own way in the matter. He regarded the regulations as a fair compromise.

South African Fruit Trade.—During last year, according to a report received by the Minister for Mines and Agriculture from Mr. Valder, Commercial Agent in South Africa, the South African colonies imported 650,912lb of Australian canned fruit, valued at £8072, of which New South Wales, however, supplied only £537 worth. Dried fruits amounting to 16,806lb, valued at £238, and fresh fruit valued at £5766 were also imported from the Commonwealth, while the jams and jellies supplied by Australia amounted to 1,266,202lb, valued at £18,250. Unless great improvement is made in the quality of South African jam, Mr. Valder says, the trade in imported jams will be maintained, and even extended. It is now recognised that the Australian jams are the best in the market, and the trade last year in them would have been much greater only that our manufacturers advanced the prices in consequence of the difficulty of obtaining good "jamming" fruits.

The Snow Leases' Gamble.—With reference to the gamble in snow leases reported in the "Herald" a few days ago, it was ascertained at the Lands Department yesterday that up to date 29 such leases, aggregating 95,000 acres, have been applied for. Snow leases may be granted at the discretion of the Minister, but most of the land so available has been held under the more insecure tenure of annual leases, which, as a matter of course, involves a lower rental. The annual lessees have the right to convert their holdings into snow leases, and some of them have done so. The Act contemplated in some degree the present rush, as provision is made to the effect that an annual lessee cannot be dispossessed without having received one month's notice. Snow leases have a currency of seven years, and apply only to land which is above the snow line, and which has no special value except in dry seasons. It is fit for pastoral purposes only for four to five months in the hottest years. The only restriction imposed under the Act is that no lessee can hold more than two snow leases. Considering that the area available is limited, the Lands Department officials state that they fail to see how the difficulty which has apparently arisen this year could be avoided.

Tram Conductors' Bags.—With reference to a complaint made in the "Herald" a few days ago relative to the inconvenience occasioned to tramway conductors on account of the heavy bags they are required to carry, from information furnished by the Tramway Department it would not appear that the weight is excessive. The bags weigh under 2¼lb, and the ticket case when full weighs under 1½lb. A bag which was weighed, containing a full ticket case and more than the average cash for a day's taking, turned the scale at 6¼lb. Generally, the conductors appear to recognise that the bags are necessary in connection with their work, and have not complained.

From Monday the following tramway timetable alterations will be brought into force:—A half-hourly service will be run on the La Perouse line from 6.5 a.m. to 7.5 p.m., from Circular Quay; and on the Manly line steam trams will be substituted for horse traction, later trips being run. On the Kogarah-Sans Souci line the 5.11 a.m. tram from Sandringham and 5.33 a.m. from Kogarah will be discontinued, and commencing from Sunday an additional Sunday tram will leave Kogarah for Sandringham at 6.56 a.m., connecting with 6.25 a.m. train from Sydney for convenience of bathers.

Last Wednesday morning a fire broke out in premises in Kent-street. It was reported that the fire occurred in the rooms of Mr. Mark Golomb. The official report, however, states that the fire occurred on the first floor of the building, while Mr. Golomb's premises, which were on the second and third floors, were only slightly damaged by heat and smoke.

Lindeman's, Limited, are forwarding Cawarra wines to Britain on October 26, and will deliver orders to any address in Great Britain at Sydney prices.

The question "Shall we Train our Youth for War or for Brotherhood?" will be considered at a public meeting at the Meeting House of the Society of Friends in Devonshire-street, near Elizabeth-street, on Sunday, at 7 p.m.

A meeting of the United Protestant Demonstration General Committee was held at the Protestant Hall, Castlereagh-street, last evening. There was a large attendance, presided over by Brother C. C. Chandler (vice president). The various delegates submitted progress reports in connection with the forthcoming demonstration, to be held at Clifton Gardens, and general matters of detail were discussed.

In connection with the band concerts at the Sydney Cricket Ground this afternoon and night, a special service of trams will be run from Circular Quay and Western Railway Gates, commencing at 2, and again in the evening, commencing at 6.50.

In the past one shilling, with a poundage of a halfpenny, has been the minimum amount for which a postal note could be obtained, but sixpenny postal notes, with a poundage of a half-penny each, are now on sale. These notes, it is pointed out, will prove of great convenience to persons wishing to remit broken amounts in excess of 5d and under 1s, as postage stamps up to the former amount may be affixed to any postal note and payment obtained for the value of the note and the added stamps.

A collision occurred yesterday in Alfred-street, North Sydney, between a tramcar bound for Milson's Point and a lorry drawn by one horse and loaded with old wood blocks. Just as the tram was nearing Fitzroy-street, the lorry, which had managed to get into the gutter, was drawn suddenly across the tramline, with the result that before the driver could bring the car to a standstill the collision occurred, the horse and lorry being completely overturned and the wood blocks scattered over the roadway. The car was damaged in the side panels, but the horse did not appear much the worse for its unique experience. The damaged car was taken to the Ridge-street shed.

"Constant Traveller" complains that the Richmond, Windsor and Penrith trains have to be disorganised in order to allow the Mountain train to reach Sydney at 8.45 a.m. He suggests that influence has brought this about.

"A Sufferer" suggests that a holiday train might be run to the various holiday resorts on the Western line, beyond the Mountains shortly after 1 o'clock on Saturdays for the convenience of those who cannot travel by the train on Friday evening.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

His Excellency the Governor and Miss Rawson and suite will this evening attend the performance at the Theatre Royal. On Monday next his Excellency will be present at Professor Leacock's lecture at the University. On Tuesday his Excellency and Miss Rawson will give a dinner party at Cranbrook. On Wednesday Miss Rawson will preside at the annual general meeting of the Fresh Air League at the Town Hall, and in the evening his Excellency will dine with the 2nd Australian Infantry Regiment. On Saturday next his Excellency and Miss Rawson will be present at the A.J.C. races, and in the evening will attend Madame Clara Butt's concert.

Mr. Lawrence Campbell will leave Sydney to-day by the R.M.S. Victoria for Melbourne, in order to take up his duties as sole elocutionary adjudicator at the Grand National Eisteddfod of Australasia, which opens at Ballarat on Monday next. Mr. Campbell will be absent a fortnight.

Mr. J. W. Rutherford, who for 17 years had charge of the bookbinding-room at the Sydney School of Arts, and who recently retired, was on Thursday last presented by the secretary (Mr. W. M. Fairland), on behalf of the staff, with an illuminated address.

A movement is afoot to publicly recognise the services of Mr. S. J. Law during the 13 years he represented the Rozelle electorate in Parliament. A meeting of the Balmain portion of the electors was accordingly held in Sherland's Hall on Thursday night, when Mr. [illegible] Gray presided, and there was a good attendance. Speeches eulogistic of Mr. Law were delivered, and it was resolved to raise funds by public subscription for the purpose of presenting him with a suitable testimonial. Twenty guineas was subscribed in the room. Mr. J. Leask was appointed secretary to the movement.

Miss Tittell Brune and Madame Carreno are among the passengers booked by the steamer Miowera, which will leave Sydney on Monday for Vancouver, via Brisbane.

Mr. R. D. Jones, Chief Inspector of Stock, who is on leave of absence, was recently presented at the Stock Branch with two purses of sovereigns—one from the head office staff and district stock inspectors, and the other from the inspectors on the Queensland border. The presentation was made by Mr. Jas. D. Stewart, M.R.C.V.S., Government Veterinary Surgeon.

To-day being the 44th anniversary of the birth of his Majesty the King of Portugal, Dom Carlos I., the consular flag will be hoisted at the Royal Portuguese Consulate, and by all the consular representatives of the foreign Powers in Sydney.

The death is announced from Adelaide, of Mr. Joseph Fisher, one of the pioneer colonists of South Australia, at the age of 72. Mr. Fisher was in the early days one of the proprietors of the Adelaide "Register" and "Observer."

THE COMMONWEALTH.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPORTERS.)

MELBOURNE, Friday.

There is no disguising the fact that the only party in the House of Representatives that has been consistent throughout in its advocacy of the early disposal of the tariff question is that seated on the cross Opposition benches. Other sections of the chamber have perhaps protested with louder voices against the delay, but their actions have been strangely at variance with their professions. Ministers, with the knowledge that their political existence ends with a settlement of the fiscal question, welcome any development that tends to prolong the life of the Government, and to-day another opportunity was afforded them by the direct Opposition. Sir William Lyne last night, with assumed pleasure, intimated that at last the way had been paved for the tariff schedule, the consideration of which would be commenced on the assembling of the House of Representatives this morning. Within a few minutes of meeting, however, the adjournment was moved by an Oppositionist to call attention to the alleged deepsea shipping combine and its contract with butter exporters.

The Treasurer feigned disappointment, but that his grief was by no means genuine was evidenced by the fact that twice he willingly acquiesced in an extension of time, with the result that the whole day was occupied in debating this matter. Those who participated in the discussion included the leader, the deputy leader, and five other members of the direct Opposition, the Treasurer, the Minister for Customs, and five other Government supporters, and the leader, deputy leader, and four other members of the Labour party. Those who alone refrained from speaking were the cross-bench Oppositionists led by Mr. W. H. Irvine, who appealed to the Government to proceed with the tariff. With but one solitary exception, not even an interjection was made from cross Opposition benches, so that nothing should occur which would prevent the speedy termination of the question under discussion.

The debate very soon resolved itself into one concerning the relative merits of socialism and anti-socialism, and Sir William Lyne went very far with the Labour party in its demand for a Government-owned line of mail steamers. It is true that he did not openly declare his advocacy of that policy, but he adduced arguments in its favour, which were intended to impress his Labour masters, and apparently had the desired effect. He promised to impose very stringent conditions in connection with the new mail contract, tenders for which close next week, and implied that the Prime Minister intended to introduce some startling innovations in regard to rates of freight.

The extraordinary spectacle of Labour members denouncing one combine and defending another was witnessed in the House of Representatives to-day. One member of the party unguardedly attacked the Newcastle coal vend, but he was very quickly silenced by his colleagues, who, with a united voice, declared that the trust was an excellent one. The Treasurer remarked that the coal vend received support from a quarter which surprised him, but he was reminded that in this case the workers participated in the increased prices extorted from the public. Labour members then devoted their attention to the shipping combination formed with identically the same object in view as the coal vend, and with wrathful indignation alluded to the companies concerned as robbers. The impression left on the unsophisticated mind at the conclusion of the day's business was that the socialists have no objection to trusts of any kind, providing they are permitted to share in what they describe as the plunder.

AUSTRALIA IN LONDON

CONDITIONS OF LEASE AND BUILDING.

£14,000 A YEAR RENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A further debate took place in the Senate to-day regarding the Federal Government's proposal to acquire a block of land in the Strand, London, for offices. The discussion was on the second reading of the new Buildings and Works Appropriation Bill, in which there is the sum of £1000 towards the construction of the building. An amendment was moved on the second reading in connection with the London offices matter, but it was defeated. A further discussion will take place on the item in committee next week.

On Wednesday Sir William Lyne sent a cable to the Commonwealth representative in London, Captain Collins, asking for information as to the conditions appertaining to the Strand site, and the building conditions. In the course of the debate in the Senate to-day, the Vice-President of the Executive Council read the following reply:—"Referring to your cable of September 25, the property reverts to the freeholder in 53 years. The council must, by Act of Parliament, sell in 1959. As to the time to commence building, the council will meet any reasonable proposal. The rates and taxes amount to one-third of the rack rent. This is arrived at by the amount of ground rent added to 4 per cent on the cost of building. I question if the Government is legally liable, but the Government here make voluntary equivalent payments. The building conditions, which will be forwarded by to-morrow's mail steamer, are not onerous, but the design must harmonise with the accepted design Victoria (meaning probably the design of the Victorian Government's building). Would suggest a firm offer as follows:—Annual rent at the rate of 15s per ft super for land, with frontage to the Strand extending from the Victoria site up to the extreme east corner, with a minimum depth 65ft to any part of the land, and with a greater depth either in centre of the land or at the eastern corner, with additional frontage to Aldwych, with the object of space for a central hall for 99 years from Christmas next, or from a date to be arranged. Payment of rent as mentioned in my telegram of July 5, subject to agreement for lease, and subject to the building and other restrictions and architectural treatment being accepted by Government; also provided that the light to the north windows was reasonably protected, and with the option of purchasing the freehold at any time during the lease or renewal at the expiration of the lease on reappraisement." The arrangement for the rent quoted in the cable, the Vice-President of the Executive Council explained, was: First year nil, second year one-fourth, third year one-half, fourth year three-fourths, fifth year full.

Proceeding, the Vice-President of the Executive Council said he took the telegram to mean this: Supposing the Government took 13,000ft and put the maximum at 15s, the rental would be £9750. Under those circumstances, plus 4 per cent. on what was expended on the building, if the building cost say, £80,000, that would be £3200, making £12,950. One-third of that would be the amount to be paid in rates and taxes, which would come to £4315, so that the total rental with rates and taxes would be £17,265. The commitment of the Government was not to exceed 15s per ft, and it was for Parliament to determine what the building was to cost. The £1000 was put on the Estimates simply to enable Parliament to authorise the Government to negotiate and close with the offer in London. It was thought the land could be obtained at 13s 6d, but it would not be beyond 15s, as stated.

A GIRL'S FABRICATION.

PROFESSES MOTHERHOOD.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

About five months ago a 16-year-old girl called on several ladies connected with charitable institutions in Collingwood, and stated that she was destitute. The girl told several ladies that she was an orphan, and was given some money. She subsequently informed the ladies that she would soon become a mother. Nothing further was heard of the girl's movements until three weeks ago, when she told a constable that she was in destitute circumstances. The officer took her to the Abbotsford Convent, and she was admitted to that institution. A few days previously two boys had found the body of a newly-born child, and as the result of their inquiries the police arrested the girl. She was charged with concealment of birth. She made a statement to the effect that she had been operated upon by a nurse. She could not say whether the body of the child found by the boys was her child. Dr. M'Gillicuddy was called in by the police, and he certified that the girl's statement relative to her maternity was an utter fabrication. The result was that the charge of concealment of birth was withdrawn, and the girl was committed to the care of the Neglected Children's Department.

ANGLO-RUSSIAN TREATY.

WELL RECEIVED IN RUSSIA.

GERMANY OFFICIALLY FRIENDLY.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The forecast of the "Times" correspondent at St. Petersburg that the Anglo-Russian convention would be received without a single unfavourable comment by any important section of the Russian press is confirmed. The "Bourse Gazette" of St. Petersburg remarks that a convention dealing with European questions should be the logical sequel of the convention on Asiatic affairs.

In official circles in Berlin the attitude of the German Government is described as in friendly agreement with the treaty, since Germany's commercial interests in the Persian Gulf are not affected, in view of Great Britain's maintenance of the "open door."

CANDID GERMAN VIEW.

NO REASON FOR SATISFACTION.

The "Deutsche Tageszeitung" of Berlin writes that by the conclusion of the Anglo-Russian convention the last stone has been laid to the building of the British coalition policy. From the standpoint of Germany's Imperial interests Germany has no reason to feel satisfaction when two other Powers arrange their differences which in given circumstances might be most useful to Germans.

CAPE POLITICS.

PREMIER'S MANIFESTO.

A CALL FOR UNITY.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Dr. Jameson, Premier of Cape Colony, and leader of the Progressive party, in a manifesto to the electors on the dissolution of Parliament, asks for a mandate to amend the Constitution to prevent the blocking of supplies. He claims that the Progressive party by conciliation has obliterated racial differences.

Dr. Jameson announces that the party will drop the name of progressives, and will form a moderate party, to be named "the South African Unionist party," whose four planks will be:—(1) Development of South African products and industries; (2) equal rights for all civilised men; (3) union of European races; (4) union of the South African colonies.

The manifesto adds that the first step in federation or unification with a prospect of early union must be taken at the next Customs and Railway conferences with the other colonies.

GOOLD'S LATEST CONFESSION.

MURDER NOT PREMEDITATED.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Goold, in a fresh confession to the magistrate at Monte Carlo, concerning the murder of Madame Levin, stated that he and his wife being without resources determined to rob someone. He did not intend to kill Madame Levin, but merely to stun her. He tried to fell her with a kitchen pestle, but her unexpected resistance led him to stab her.

On Mrs. Goold being confronted with the confession she declared that she had nothing to reply, and fainted.

RIOT AMONG RAND CHINESE.

POLICE WOUND FIFTEEN.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

A riot occurred among Chinese coolies engaged on the Witwatersrand Deep mine owing to the reluctance of those about to be repatriated to make up the time they had lost through unauthorised absence.

The police fired on the rioters, wounding 15.

LAUNCHING OF THE ASTURIAS.

STARTS FOR SYDNEY IN JANUARY.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

The Asturias, 12,500 tons, of the Royal Mail Packet Company, to be used in the Orient Royal Mail line to Australia, has been launched at the yards of Harland and Wolff, Belfast. She will sail for Sydney on January 24.

The dimensions of the Asturias are:—Length, 535ft; beam, 62ft; and with her tonnage of 12,500 she will have a refrigerated space of about 125,000ft. She is one of the new A class of liners, which include the Aragon, Amazon, Araguaya, and Avon. They have all sumptuous accommodation suites de luxe, state cabins, single berth rooms, magnificent saloons, and social hall. The Asturias, in addition, has some new features, such as elevators, to carry passengers from deck to deck. The furnishings and decorations of the saloons and of the cabins are most artistic.

MAMMOTH LINER.

RICH SILVER MINE SOLD.

A CANADIAN PROPOSITION.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

Reuter's correspondent at Ottawa states that the La Rose silver mine, the richest in the Cobalt district, has been sold to an English syndicate for £10,000,000.

La Rose, otherwise known as Timmins, leases are situated to the north-east of Cobalt Lake, Northern Ontario.

AUSTRALIAN TARIFF.

ENGLISH MERCHANTS' PROTESTS.

THANKS FOR PREFERENCE.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

A large meeting of the Australasian section of the London Chamber of Commerce and of others interested was held yesterday to consider the Australian tariff. Mr. F. Faithfull-Begg, vice-president of the section, presided, and among those present were Mr. Taylor, of Turnbull's; Mr. S. L. Dore, of Baldwin's; Mr. C. Martin, of Parson's; Mr. C. Hopton, Mr. E Tredwen, Mr. L. Sandall, Mr. O. Campbell, Mr. W. Kent.

A resolution was passed protesting against the imposition of further duties on British goods, which duties, despite the financial support accorded Australian industries by merchants and investors, have seriously harmed the manufacturing industries of the United Kingdom. Other resolutions stated that "preference to British goods, though small, is thankfully received, in the hope that it will be shortly increased; that the sudden levying of the new duties, especially on goods bought before the new tariff was operative, will cause considerable inconvenience and loss in Australia and Great Britain unless the time for levying the duties is postponed."

REACTION PREDICTED.

The "Daily Chronicle" writes that resolutions such as those passed by the Australasian section of the London Chamber of Commerce only confirm the present Commonwealth Government in the belief that its tariff policy is right. It wants prohibition, not protection. Soon there will be a reaction, brought about by dear prices, stagnation, and decline in railway business, not by British traders' protests.

CAPTAIN COLLINS' REPLY.

Captain Collins, the representative of the Commonwealth in London, has fully replied in the "Times" to the statement made by a writer under the title, "Zollverein," regarding the Australian tariff.

SWISS MILITARY SYSTEM.

STUDY RECOMMENDED TO BRITISH FORCES.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

British members of the House of Commons, lately in Switzerland inquiring into the military system of the Republic, have issued a report, which is signed by all except five Labour members. The report highly praises the military system, stating that it contains features which the British regular and auxiliary forces might with advantage study.

Service in the national force of Switzerland is compulsory and universal, with few exemptions, except for physical disability. Those excused or rejected pay certain taxes in lieu. Liability extends from the 17th to the 50th year, actual service commencing at 20. The first 12 years are spent in the first line, called the Auszug, or Elite; the next 12 in the Landwehr, and the remaining six in the Landsturm. The initial training is very short. It is carried out in recruits' schools, and the periods have hitherto been from 42 days for the infantry, to 80 days for the cavalry. The further training, called repetition courses, has been ten days every year for the cavalry, and three weeks every other year for the infantry and artillery, while the landwehr men have three trainings of one week each in their 12 years' service. After much pressing on the part of the Swiss general staff, the periods of initial training have been increased to 65 days for the infantry and foot artillery, 75 for the field artillery, and 90 for the cavalry. The repetition courses have also been slightly extended.

TRANSVAAL POLITICS.

PACKING THE COUNCIL.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

General Botha, the Transvaal Premier, is accused of packing the Legislative Council by replacing two of its members, who were given lucrative posts, with his own nominees, thereby consolidating the position of the Government in the Upper House as in the Lower House.

A CONFESSION DISBELIEVED.

THE ESSEN MURDER.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

Despite his confession, Alfred Land, a clerk, at Essen, has been acquitted of the charge of murdering Miss Madeline Lake, an Englishwoman, in a wood near Essen in October last. In February last Land surrendered himself to the police, having confessed to committing the murder.

Miss Lake, of Richmond, Surrey, was murdered in a wood near Essen, on October 2. She had been shopping with a friend, and when they separated Miss Lake, despite the warning of her companion, decided to continue her way home through a gloomy wood called the Stadtwald. She did not reach home, and next morning her body was found, she having evidently been strangled. The murder was most brutal. Robbery was not the motive of the crime, and within the previous week there had been three cases of assault on women in the same locality. Miss Lake was 39 years of age.

THE WOOL SALES.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

At the wool sales this afternoon there was keen competition for all descriptions, and prices were in favour of sellers.

Sept. 27.

At the wool sales yesterday prices of the clips mentioned were:—Gear, 11⅛d; Elo-Grave, 11½d; Irerangu, 11⅞d; Alma, 14⅞d; Cordillo, 21½d; Eroungella, 23½d.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

HYDRO-MOTOR VOYAGE.

LONDON, Sept. 25.

M. Pomeroy's hydro-motor travelled from the Seine to the Bosphorus, where it was wrecked. The crew was saved.

[During the late motor-boat races, open to the world, and held at Monaco, several of these flat-bottomed light little craft took part. Owing to their build, great speed was expected from them, but nothing sensational transpired. Indeed, several of them in the rough seas experienced anything but a good time, and not a few went very near sinking. Perhaps the best performance put up by this class of boat recently was that accomplished by Ricochet Nautilus last month, which covered a course of 30 kilometres in the Seine in the fast time of 36m 4⅗s, or a speed of over 30 miles an hour. Her greatest speed was as high as 38 miles an hour.]

AMERICA CUP.

LIPTON CHALLENGE DECLINED.

AMERICA INSISTS ON A RACING MACHINE.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The New York Yacht Club has declined Sir Thomas Lipton's challenge to race for the America Cup on the ground that any proposal to limit the size of competing boats is a violation of the terms of the America Cup Trust. The New York Yacht Club, however, is prepared to accept a challenge on the old lines.

Sir Thomas Lipton is extremely disappointed, since he issued the challenge under the universal rule which American yachtsmen established, and under which they, as experienced builders of a particular type of boat, would have had a great advantage over inexperienced British builders.

Sept. 27.

The resolution of the New York Yacht Club declining the challenge of Sir Thomas Lipton commits the club to the building of a racing machine.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt in the course of an interview said that he favoured the building of the largest boat permissible, and remarked: "Call the boat a freak, anything you like, but we cannot handicap ourselves even if our boat is only fit for the junk heap the day after the race."

Sir Thomas Lipton, in the course of an interview in New York, made it clear that he had a feeling against racing with "freak" yachts, and said that he had come to America resolved to get a change made in the rules governing the international races, or else withdraw from the sport altogether. By the new rule of measurement the yachts would be of the rational type, and not mere racing machines.

MOORS SUE FOR PEACE.

SULTAN CONSULTS WITH THE FRENCH.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

Abdul Aziz, Sultan of Morocco, has sent an official to Casablanca to consult the French authorities there. Some of the Meniouna tribes are negotiating at Casablanca for peace.

FORTIFYING CASABLANCA.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

The French troops are encircling Casablanca with strong fortifications.

The Madukra and other powerful tribes have decided to continue the struggle. Most of the tribesmen who have submitted appear afraid to surrender.

CHINAMAN'S FREAK.

TEN POUNDS FOR EIGHTEENPENCE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Considerable excitement was caused at Benalla to-day by the extraordinary behaviour of a Chinese storekeeper named Ah Sam Bet. He obtained a number of £10 notes from the bank and hung them on a string in the window of his shop. Placed prominently in the window, there was a large notice announcing that the notes were for sale at the following advantageous rates:—One for 1s 6d, two for 3s, six for 6s, one hundred for £4 10s. Sergeant Keegan walked into the shop, but could not see anyone, nor could he make anyone hear apparently. Finally he noticed something which looked like the muzzle of a pistol barrel protruding from a newly-bored hole in the shop door. Looking behind the door, the officer found the proprietor sitting there with a revolver in his hand. The revolver was aimed to "cover" the shop window, and it was evident that Bet was prepared to make matters unpleasant for anyone who ventured to interfere with the valuable goods displayed therein. Keegan promptly demanded the revolver, but the Chinese refused to give it up, and the officer had to take it from him by force. The weapon was found to be loaded in six chambers. Immediately he was disarmed the Chinese took the bank notes out of the window, put them into his pocket, and walked out of the shop, leaving the sergeant in charge.

When questioned as to his conduct, Ah Sam Bet said that recently he had had two diamond rings stolen from him, and that if anyone had attempted to approach the spot where the notes were exposed he intended to shoot. Ah Sam Bet has been a resident of the town for nearly 30 years, and has always been regarded favourably by the inhabitants.

A BAND OF GIPSIES.

COMPLAINTS FROM COLLARENDABRI.

SETTLERS FEARFUL.

COLLARENDABRI, Friday.

[illegible] of gipsies are travelling down the river from Queensland, causing uneasiness among the settlers, as well as the townspeople, en route, especially where there are no men about. Their impudence is unbounded. The females are dressed up in gay-coloured dresses. They ask if you want your fortune told first of all, and as soon as you produce the coin they slip it into their pockets and clear without making any pretence of telling your fortune. If you don't happen to have any silver they suggest a piece of meat, if a butcher, or a tin of fish if a grocer. Or they will go into a store and order, say, 10s worth of goods, and as soon as they are served they ask the storekeeper to have his fortune told. If he refuses they say they won't take the goods; if he consents they take the goods as the price of the "peep into the future."

The importunity of the Syrian and Indian hawkers is not a circumstance in comparison with the above. The hawkers do make some pretence of earning a living by working for it, but the gipsies simply live on their "cheek" and the fears of the settlers. They travel in vans with good horses, and each man appears to have a large family—about 20 or 30—all being trained up in the arts of begging.

THE PEREGRINE CASE.

HIGH COURT DISMISSES APPEAL.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Judgment was to-day given by the High Court in the appeal brought from the Full Court of New South Wales, involving the proper interpretation to be put upon certain negotiations which took place during the Russo-Japanese war for the purchase of ships on behalf of the Russian Government. The action was one in which Howard Smith and Sons, Ltd., owners of the steamer Peregrine, sued Varawa, agent of the foreign shipping combination, then acting on behalf of the Russian Government, for damages for breach of agreement to purchase the Peregrine for £28,000. The case was tried before a Judge and jury, and the Judge at the trial directed the jury that the documents disclosed a completed contract between the parties, and the only question for them was the assessment of damages. The jury thereupon assessed the damages at £10,000. Defendant then appealed to the Full Court of New South Wales, which came to the conclusion that there was never a contract concluded between the parties, and they therefore entered judgment for the defendant. Plaintiff appealed from this decision to the High Court, and to-day it unanimously upheld the decision of the Full Court, and dismissed the appeal.

MORRISSEY'S SNAKES.

QUESTION IN THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Senate to-day,

Senator STEWART (Q.) repeated his question of the previous day as to whether the Government would take any steps to test the alleged snake poison antidote of one Morrissey.

The VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL said the matter could be hardly considered as a Federal one. If there were any bona-fides about Morrissey's claim, there were State officials who would no doubt not overlook them. He did not think, however, that there were many who thought that a warrant for serious consideration had been established in this particular case.

VEND CONTRACT.

REMARKABLE DOCUMENT

RESTRICTIONS UPON PURCHASERS.

NO RESALE FOR EXPORT.

NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN COALS AFFECTED.

We have obtained a copy of the Coal Vend's contract note and of the terms and conditions attaching thereto.

"The document is of itself unmistakable evidence that the Interstate Shipping Combine is one and the same as the Northern Coal Vend," an authority remarked; "and it is also abundantly clear that the southern district collieries are under the influence of the combine."

The document is as follows:—

No. ....

CONTRACT NOTE FOR SYDNEY TRADE (Shore and Bunkering).

MEMORANDUM OF AGREEMENT made this .... day of .... 190 ...

BETWEEN .... (hereinafter called the vendor) of the one part and .... (hereinafter called the purchaser) of the other part. WITNESSETH that the vendor agrees to sell and the purchaser agrees to purchase .... tons .... coal of the description at the price and subject to the terms and conditions hereinafter mentioned. Delivery of such coal to be taken in as nearly as possible equal .... quantities extending over .... months ending .... 190.., and payment to be made in cash without any discount at the vendor's office at ....

Insert "in net cash" or "within thirty days from date of each shipment," or "by monthly settlements."

Quantity in Tons.	Description.	Price per ton of 2240lb, f.o.b. at Newcastle.
......	Large	shillings and ...... pence
......	Engine	shillings and ...... pence
......	Small	shillings and ...... pence

TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

1. Should any duty or charge upon coal be imposed by the Parliament of the Commonwealth or of the State of New South Wales, or by any other authority who is empowered to levy the same, or should any wharfage rates be imposed on coal loaded at Newcastle, then the amount of such duty, charge, or rate shall be added to the above-mentioned contract price.
2. No allowance shall be made for wastage, and the purchaser shall accept the Government weighbridge weights at Newcastle as conclusive.
3. The purchaser undertakes that the coal so purchased will not be resold to, or delivered by him, directly or indirectly to any gas company, or be exported beyond New South Wales as cargo.
4. The vendor shall have the option of supplying in fulfilment of this contract either .... coal or any coal from the Newcastle or Maitland collieries of a similar grade.
5. The purchaser shall not resell any of the said coal c.i.f. at Sydney, or at the purchaser's own yard, depot, or hulk at a less price than that abovenamed, with the addition of a minimum freight of 2s 3d per ton, and all legitimate charges added, including wharfage, cartage, and landing charges.
6. In the event of the purchaser committing a breach of this agreement the vendor shall be at liberty to cancel the contract and refuse to deliver the balance of coal not taken thereunder, but shall nevertheless be entitled to recover from the purchaser for the coal previously delivered and for any damage sustained by such breach.
7. In the event of any war, strike, lockout, or inevitable accident which shall interfere with the carrying out of any of the engagements of the vendor or purchaser, such party, respectively, shall, to the extent of such interference, be freed from compliance with such engagements.
8. In the event of any strike, lockout, or inevitable accident, which shall cause a cessation of operations at collieries in either the Newcastle, Maitland, or southern districts, whose total outputs for the immediately preceding twelve months shall amount to at least one-fourth of the output for the same period of the district in which they are respectively situated, then it shall be lawful for the vendor, at the end of five days, after notice to the purchaser of intention so to do, to suspend deliveries under this contract until five days after the cause of such suspension shall have wholly ceased. In the event of Great Britain being involved in war, or interfering by armed forces in the affairs of any other nation, the vendors may terminate this contract at any time thereafter on giving five days' notice in writing to that effect; but such determination shall not prevent the vendor from recovering for coal supplied previously thereto. During the five days severally hereinbefore mentioned the vendor shall not be bound to supply coal to a greater quantity than one which bears the same proportion to the total quantity sold under this contract as the period of five days bears to the whole period of the contract.
9. All vessels receiving coal on behalf of the purchaser in terms of this contract shall be loaded in regular turn according to the custom of the port of Newcastle.

(Signed) ....

"There can be no mistaking the fact," remarked the same authority, "that these documents (vend contract note and agreement) prove beyond any doubt that persons outside the combination cannot do any business. What good is it of anybody buying coal, when he is not allowed to resell it for export as cargo? The purchaser being prevented from reselling c.i.f. in Sydney, is deprived of the option of going outside the interstate combine for freights. The whole conditions are such as to be absolutely prohibitive to business outside the combination. If a man has a colliery of his own, and be outside the vend, he cannot expect to carry on for any length of time selling below vend prices. Rather than permit of this underselling, the vend would put down a colliery close by to work the same seam, and run that man off the market by selling similar coal at considerably less per ton. Thus, the vend not only regulates its own output and prices, but exercises, at the same time, an influence over the output from collieries which are not in it. Through the interstate shipping combine the vend has a far-reaching effect. For instance, Southern coalowners, for the most part, will not quote or sell coal unless they are satisfied where it is going, what price the purchaser is getting for it, and for whom it is being shipped. The man might put up a dummy to have the coal landed for him, but, if he does, the rate of freight will be such as to render the business unprofitable. The Melbourne Steamship Company is supposed to be outside the combine. But, the fact remains that it is said to have refused to carry coal when the consignee would not say which colliery coal it was from or for whom it had been purchased."

As showing how far the interstate shipping industry is wrapped up in the collieries, our informant went on to say that as a matter of fact, Captain Webb, managing director of Huddart, Parker, Proprietary, Limited, is a director of the Seaham colliery. The Adelaide Steamship Company has lately put £50,000 into the South Bulli Colliery Company. This will enable this company to have the use of the southern jetty at Kembla Bay. The Howard Smith Company, Ltd., is agent for, and practically controls, the Caledonian Company's collieries—West Wallsend, Waratah, Killingworth, and Aberdare. M'Ilwraith, M'Eacharn, and Co., Ltd., is largely interested in Bellambi and South Bulli collieries.

VEND SUPPORTED BY LABOUR MEMBERS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the House of Representatives to-day,

Mr. O'Malley (Tas.) said he desired to call attention to an interview in the press with Mr. Scott Fell on the subject of the coal combine. If the combine could directly rob the people, it would mean that the prices of every commodity would be raised to the consumer. When a combine entered into a conspiracy to plunder the public, they signed no documents. He desired to ask whether the Treasurer would provide in the amending Anti-Trust Bill that a combine, which had its head office out of Australia, should not escape the law; also would he appoint a Royal Commission to investigate the question of the steamship combine and the colliery vend, so that they could get the responsible men on oath, and get their evidence?

The Treasurer replied that he had not had time to read the interview carefully.

Mr. Watkins (N.S.W.): There are possibly two sides to the question.

The Treasurer: Possibly. I notice that this vend or combine is being supported by certain persons whose support has caused me some surprise, though I know the reason for it.

Mr. Joseph Cook: Does the hon. member refer to the coalminers' lodges?

The Treasurer: I do not know whether they are called lodges.

Mr. Watkins: There is an automatic system governing prices. Those concerned in the coal trade were starved whilst they remained separated.

The Treasurer: There is an automatic arrangement.

Mr. Joseph Cook: It is a very useful one.

Mr. Watson: No one objects merely to regulation of prices.

The Treasurer said that in Newcastle wages were automatically increased in relation to the increase in the price of coal, but a combine should not be allowed to the serious injury of the public. A combine which raised the price of coal required by every manufacturer and every householder was a serious interference with public interests.

Mr. Watkins: It might be a natural rise.

The Treasurer said he would ask the hon. member to give notice of his questions.

Mr. Poynton (S.A.): Well, don't give opinions before you know all about it.

Mr. Wilks: Combines are wrong when the other follow is licking you.

QUESTIONS IN THE SENATE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

In the Senate this morning, Senator Millen directed the attention of the Government to statements by Mr. Scott Fell as reported in the morning papers concerning the coal combine. He asked if they would be placed before the Crown Law officers.

The Vice-President of the Executive Council said the Crown Law Department was already actively engaged in inquiries on the subject.

Senator Millen pointed out that in the reports the gentleman referred to offered to supply them with information.

Senator Best replied that undoubtedly he would be welcome.

THE PAGE MILLIONS.

CLAIMS OF THE CROWN.

A WONDERFULLY RICH ESTATE.

Some particulars were published in the "Herald" yesterday regarding the formation of a syndicate in Sydney to assist Mr. Morris in his claim to the Page estate, in England. The task is a gigantic one, inasmuch as the British Attorney-General has decided to declare the estate escheat to the Crown.

The London "Tribune" last March contains the following:—

The nation's title to the Page estate is likely to be considered shortly by a House of Commons Committee. Several Liberal and Labour members are interesting themselves in the matter, and the fact that the documents in this extraordinary case are at present being examined by the Chancellor of the Exchequer and the Attorney-General leads those who are advocating the claim of the Crown in this matter to hope that the Government may take action.

The claim, which is now being made on behalf of the national Exchequer, is unique in the history of property. Vast interests and almost fabulous sums would be involved if the case came to an issue. The Page estate has an area of 60 square miles, stretching north and west from the Marble Arch. It comprises about a third of the County of Middlesex, whole suburbs of London, and some rural bits of Hertfordshire.

Harrow is the natural centre of this huge and enormously-valuable tract, and its extent may be gauged by drawing a line from the Marble Arch up the Edgeware-road through Hendon to Elstree Station, across to the outskirts of Rickmansworth, thence to a point a few miles south of Uxbridge, and back to Hyde Park by Southall, Acton, and Notting Hill. The whole of the land within these boundaries, with certain insignificant exceptions, is comprised in the Page estate, and its annual value runs into millions. It contains some of the finest residential districts in the West End of London, and an extra suburban area which will be enormously developed within the next few years, in addition to several historic Middlesex manors and rural tracts towards the borders of Bucks and Herts, where the soil yearly yields a heavy toll.

Many of the present occupants of the property are, of course, quite innocent as to the alleged weakness of the title. There can be little doubt that such claimants, when they appear before the Select Committee, will have their titles confirmed, and this will at once take a big slice out of the goldfield which the Crown is claiming. On the other hand, there are stated to be a large number of persons at present in the occupation of freehold and leasehold property on the Page estate who obtained the land for less than its value, and took with it the risk of the escheat to the Crown.

In certain specific cases it is alleged that large plots have been disposed of at a fifth of their value on these conditions. Those buyers who obtained land with their eyes fully open to the possibility of the escheat may not satisfy the Select Committee in the claim they will undoubtedly make to continue in possession of the property. The question of compensation may be raised, but the Crown will have a very strong position, and may assume proprietorship in such cases.

A considerable part of the estate, despite the abundant buying and selling of the last 80 years, is still in the possession of the trustees, and in the case of escheat that, presumably, would at once fall to the Crown. It is interesting, too, to note that the leases for the handsome mansions fronting on Maida Vale (they were for the unusually short period of 50 years) are all falling in—a circumstance which would give the Crown immediate possession. Among the many interesting and historic properties the title of which will probably be sifted by the Select Committee are Harrow rectory, the playing-fields at Harrow School, Twyford Abbey, Wembley Park, Sudbury Priory, and Oxley Woods.

The Select Committee will undoubtedly unravel a remarkable history, and bring to light some extraordinary proceedings.

The history of the Page estate opened with the suppression of Kilburn Priory by Henry VIII. and closed, so far as the Page family was concerned, in 1829, when it is claimed to have escheated to the Crown for want of heirs to the last of the line. There is a curious local legend which makes the nuns who are being ejected from the priory exclaim that those who were about to profit by their expulsion would attain the summit of their ambition and disappear. The event is the legend's justification. The Page family acquired the Kilburn Church lands from Henry VIII. and proceeded to build up, generation by generation, the enormous possessions which it is now sought to obtain for the nation. The family finally died out.

The first Page—"Ye Noble Richard Page," as he is described in a document of those days—made a good bargain with the Defender of the Faith, after the King had dispossessed the Knights of St. John of the Kilburn lands which he had transferred to them upon the suppression of the priory. The Pages grew in influence and wealth so rapidly that they soon had five families of landowners settled in different parts of Middlesex—at Harefield, Uxendon, Hendon, Harrow, and Edgeware. Then came the steady decline of the family and the gradual accumulation of the whole of the property into the hands of the last of the Pages, one Henry, who died without heirs in 1829.

This Henry Page, together with his brothers who predeceased him, appears to have devoted little attention to the estate. He lived in London, and left the administration of his third of Middlesex in the hands of his solicitors. Trustees have been in possession of the estate ever since the death of Henry Page, and the claim now put forward is that the whole of the lands escheated to the Crown in the absence of an heir-at-law, and should be enjoyed by the nation accordingly.

Portions of the estate have been constantly sold during the last half-century, and the title of the vendors has been frequently challenged—in one case recently with success—Stanmore Grange being withdrawn from the market after its sale by auction had been announced.

But Twyford Abbey has been sold to the Royal Agricultural Society and Wembley Park to the Tower Company without any redress of the alleged grievance, and it is asserted that much of the estate which is now in other hands has been disposed of at a fifth of its value, the buyer taking the risk of the escheat to the Crown. This, however, was not the experience of Dr. Clifford and the Westbourne Park trustees, who, having acquired a plot of land for an extension of their chapel at its full value, now learn, to their surprise, that it is part of the Page estate.

If the title of the trustees and present owners of the many fragments into which the estate is now divided is to be seriously disputed by the Government, there will be a cause celebre, for scores of well-known people would be involved. It is alleged, however, that former Lords of the Treasury have been too deeply involved in the Page estate to assent to Crown action. If, however, the Government are persuaded to have the legal title sifted, the case would be undoubtedly complicated by a host of private claimants, one of whom, a connection of the Pages by marriage, has already sent a statement of his case to every member of the House of Commons. A few years ago, too, a lady made a spirited protest at Wembley Park and Harrow School with the object of establishing her claim to those well-known estates.

FATALITY AT BROKEN HILL.

TWO MINERS KILLED.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Two miners, Geo. Anderson Sinclair, and Wm. Schmidt, were killed in the 1215ft level on Block 10 mine last night. While barring down, a portion of the hanging wall came away, falling on the men. Sinclair was Schmidt's son-in-law. He was a member of the A.M.A. They were expert men. They had left the depot only a couple of minutes before.

CHAOS ON THE WHARFS.

ACTION BY MASTER CARRIERS.

MELBOURNE METHODS ADVOCATED.

The higgledy-piggledy condition of the wharf traffic and the arrangements for the transportation of goods in the most important business centres of Sydney, when investigated yesterday, showed that they were not only a source of danger to life, but a lamentable exposition of incapacity on the part of the administrators of this important section of the city's industrial affairs. Streets blocked with heavy vehicles under no distinct control, wharfs bestrewn with goods piled into an indistinguishable mass, lines of lorries and carts waiting to load or unload, foot passengers bewildered by the dimensions of the traffic, and the total lack of system in its guidance.

The volume of traffic at the wharfs has of late years increased enormously, but there has been no attempt upon the part of those interested in this particular branch of the commercial work of the city to devise methods of keeping abreast of the times. The imports to-day are twice as heavy as they were 20 years ago, when Sydney had to depend largely upon sailing ships, which took a fortnight to unload 2000 tons of cargo. To-day with the aid of four or five slings the same quantity may be discharged in 24 hours. Within a week or two from 5000 to 6000 tons of cargo is dumped out of the vessels' holds to a wharf, and the shed is filled to overflowing, while upon the approaches to the wharf and shed (which are for the use of vehicles) piles of cargo may be seen. In one or two instances feeble attempts have been made to classify the goods, but in the majority of cases they are thrown down promiscuously.

A merchant has a consignment of 10 cases of goods branded alike. He passes entries. It may take him a day or two to get those entries through, owing to the congestion of business at the Customs-house. In the meantime the cargo has been dumped on the wharf. The merchant, having got his entries through, instructs a carrying firm to take delivery. The carter tries to find the goods. No assistance is given him. He is told to look for his goods. He finds one case here and another under some other person's goods, but he is very likely unable to find the remainder. They are in the heap somewhere. After wasting two hours or more he gives the job up in despair, and determines to come back some other day. He then discovers that his horse and cart have been blocking the road for two hours, and it is with an extra amount of skilful navigation that he works his way out of the maze. But this carter is only one of the many hundreds who daily have the same experience. The result is a perfect and continuous block, which seriously hampers business.

The shipping companies say, "It is no business of ours to systematically stack other people's goods ready for the carters. We must get the stuff out of the ship. We allow the consignees 48 hours to pass entries, and after that our responsibility is over. The consignee is responsible." Then the stevedore is appealed to, and he says, "I am not paid to systematically stack the goods as they come out of the ship. All my men have to do is to get them on the wharf. If we are paid a little more for stacking properly we will do it, but not otherwise." The merchant says he has got nothing to do with paying for the stacking of his goods in one place. If the goods get wet through not being covered up," he says, "the carter is responsible. If he does not pay the damage he will get no more work from us." Competition is keen among the carrying firms of the city, and rather than lose custom they will often pay for damages to packages through no fault of their own or of their carter's. A carter may waste half the day looking for a few packages on one of the crowded wharfs, and return home with perhaps only half of what he was sent for. His employer says, "I am not paid by the merchant for all the time you have lost in looking for those packages; you will have to work overtime to make it up." Hence the whole burden caused through the lack of method in dealing with the removal of goods from the wharfs falls upon the carters.

The worm has now turned. The Master Carriers have had to respond to the demands of the Carters' Union to pay for all overtime, and now the carriers are going to pass the increased burden on to the merchants, who from Tuesday next will be charged for all unnecessary delays in loading and unloading at the wharfs. But the stevedore realises that, after all, he is the man who can set things in order, and he is rather pleased at the idea that he will probably get, say, 6d or 1s per ton more for classifying and properly stacking goods on the wharf as they come out from the ship's hold.

The Master Carriers' Association hopes that the merchant and shipping firms will be forced to come to some arrangement to turn chaos and confusion into order and system.

The position in Sussex-street regarding evening, when hundreds of drays are lined up waiting their turn to get into a wharf, is deplorable, but it could be rectified by the traffic officers preventing drays from standing about for hours blocking the whole thoroughfare.

At the railway goods sheds there are not enough porters to cope with the rush of vehicles between 4 and 6 p.m. The result is that carters are found loading trucks, being glad to do anything to facilitate matters and get away. The traffic officers are conspicuous by their absence at the railway, and confusion here also reigns supreme.

The Master Carriers' Association point to Melbourne, both in respect to the railways and the wharfs, as an example of what can be done in the way of proper methods for handling cargo. That the Sydney methods are antiquated, and that there is a loss of proper control, is recognised by all who engage in the work, and there is a strong feeling all round that something requires to be done to bring about a thorough reorganisation of the whole business.

SALVANA THE CYCLIST.

MELBOURNE-SYDNEY CYCLE RECORD.

A. Salvana, the Burwood cyclist, who is making his third attempt on the above record, at present held by E. Pearson, looks as if he will accomplish his task this time. He sent the following wire yesterday, dated Yass, 4 p.m.:—"Arrived here 4 p.m. Everything going well; self and bike excellent; expect to arrive in Sydney at 2 o'clock, Saturday."

PROFESSOR ON PUGILISM.

THE "KNOCK-OUT BLOW."

The unusual incident of a University professor giving an illustrative demonstration of the "knock-out" blow (says the Melbourne "Age") was witnessed at the athletic school of Messrs. Dan Creedon and Geoff Moriarty.

By means of a skull, Professor Osborne showed how a blow on the point of the chin had the effect of shaking up the fluids with which the three arches below the temple are filled in such a way that the nerves were prevented from transmitting to the brain the message concerning the disaster. Practically the same thing happened. Professor Osborne said, in the case of a knock-out by a solar plexus hit. Boxing, said Professor Osborne, was one of the finest of sports, and less harm was likely to happen to the devotee of it than to the follower of almost any other sport.

THE NEW DOMINION.

"POINTS ON THE CHART."

WHAT THE DOMINION MUST STEER BY.

WELLINGTON, Thursday.

Speaking on the elevation of New Zealand from the rank of colony to a dominion, Sir Joseph Ward said one of the points on the chart by which they must steer was the preservation of the purity of the race. They should resist to the last man any invasion of any Eastern-born nation, which, by mixing, would produce a race of half-breeds. They should maintain the scale of justice between man and man in the wide field of industrialism; adjust their laws and public opinion so as to elevate their regard for honest labour, and so increase their self-respect and the self-respect of every worker. They should create by every proper means a widespread social sentiment which respected a man for what he did, and not for what he inherited—a social sentiment before which idleness and wasteful extravagance should shrink away ashamed.

The reference to the exclusion of aliens was received with loud applause.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The Premier, Mr. Price, in answer to greetings from New Zealand on the eve of the change of its designation from colony to dominion, replied:—"South Australia heartily congratulates New Zealand on the attainment of its improved status in the Empire, and the proud title of dominion. Best wishes for the continued happiness and prosperity of your people and Government."

NEW MELBOURNE THEATRE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

A new theatre is to be erected in Russell-street, between Bourke-street and Little Collins-street. Plans of the building have been prepared, and passed by the Board of Health, but are hung up, owing to a small discrepancy in the measurements. As soon as certain existing leases in Russell-street run out at the end of the year the work will be commenced, and the building will be completed by next July.

ALLEGED SHIPPING RING

QUESTION OF BUTTER FREIGHTS.

DEBATE IN PARLIAMENT.

GOVERNMENT URGED TO TAKE ACTION.

SIGNIFICANT REPLY BY SIR WILLIAM LYNE.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The whole of to-day's sitting of the House of Representatives was occupied in discussing the action of the five steamship companies which have entered into contracts with certain exporters of butter, and at times the debate became very animated. The question was first introduced by

Mr. THOMAS (N.S.W.), who asked the Treasurer whether his attention had been called to a statement that a rise in butter freights was contemplated. It was said this would mean that the butter companies would have to pay £50,000 or £60,000 per annum. It was also stated that if the contracts were made to send butter by the steamers of the Federal-Houlder-Shire line, the companies would have to pay 3d per lb on any butter they might want to send by the mail steamers.

Mr. WATSON: That means an extra 8d.

Mr. THOMAS: Would the Treasurer order the fullest inquiry into the matter, so that all information might be available when tenders for the new mail contract were dealt with by the Government? Would, he further asked, an assurance be given to the House that no tender would be accepted by the Government until the House had had an opportunity of considering the whole question.

The TREASURER replied that it was a very serious matter, but he had not had time to make inquiries. He, therefore, asked that notice of the question be given.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

Mr. SINCLAIR (Q.), one of the members of the Opposition, then moved the adjournment of the House, to call attention to the existence of a shipping combine and its effect on the community.

Mr. WATSON (N.S.W.): Has that corner just discovered it? (Laughter.)

Mr. PAGE (Q.): I thought you were anti-socialists over there. (Laughter.)

The requisite numbers of members having risen in their places,

Mr. SINCLAIR said that one of the lines of steamships in the combination was subsidised by the Federal Government to carry the mails to London and elsewhere, and having in view the fact that tenders for the new mail contract would close in a few days, he urged the Government to consider the serious nature of this combination. There should be power under the Anti-trust Act to deal with this combine, which was detrimental to the public interests. (Hear, hear.) He reviewed the history of the negotiations between the butter exporters of Australia and a combination of five oversea steamship companies, and said that as one of the delegates to the conference held in Sydney, he was acquainted with the whole subject. The exporters had been fighting the combine, and not merely talking about it. (Hear, hear.) The position to-day was that the Orient Company had further intimated that the freight for butter by the steamer Orient and other vessels to follow would be 3s 2d per box to non-contractors; while to those who had signed the contract the charge would only be 2s 6d per box. This last move was calculated to bring the butter shipper more than ever within the grip of the combine—(hear, hear)—and the object was to try to break down the only opposition which now existed to the combination, namely, the Federal-Houlder-Shire line. (Hear, hear.) If exporters applied for space in the mail steamers they were compelled to enter into a contract to ship the whole of their butter by mail steamers, or to give those companies the right to ship it by any line of steamers they nominated. The effect of that would be to leave butter exporters in the hands of the mail companies and the White Star, Aberdeen, and Blue Anchor lines. He was asking for justice to the producers of Australia. (Hear, hear.) He wished to say nothing detrimental to the companies carrying mails for the Federal Government. He admitted that the Orient Company had done splendid service for Australia, and he would be sorry to see that company go out of the Australian trade. He wanted to know what the Government proposed to do, and urged that conditions should be imposed in the contract for the proposed new mail service, tenders for which closed in a few days, which would prevent a recurrence of the monopoly for the next 10 years. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. THOMAS (N.S.W.): That is socialism. (Laughter.)

Mr. SINCLAIR: You can call it what you like. I call it common sense. (Cheers.)

Mr. THOMAS: Would you limit these provisions to butter freights?

Mr. SINCLAIR: Certainly not.

Mr. THOMAS: Would you include passengers?

Mr. SINCLAIR: At present butter concerned him more than any other line of freight.

Mr. MACDONALD (Q.) said that legislation in America had failed to break down combines, and, as far as he could see, the only remedy for this state of affairs was the establishment of State-owned lines. (Labour cheers.)

Mr. CHANTER (N.S.W.) admitted that the question was of sufficient importance to justify a temporary delay in proceeding with the tariff, for something should be done at once.

Mr. WATSON said that as far as the butter producers were concerned, there was no doubt that they were being distinctly robbed by oppressive rates imposed on them by the over-sea shipping companies. The Labour party had for years been engaged in pointing out the evils which resulted from these shipping combines. (Hear, hear.) All the developments of late were in the direction of further and further concentration, and greater and greater combination, with a view to exacting improper prices and freights from the public. The same remark referred to the coal combine, which had not only raised the price of coal, but had limited the number of people to whom it would supply the product. All these indications proved that some steps out of the ordinary—some steps away from the rut previously followed—must be taken to meet the case. (Hear, hear.) The effect of the mail companies and other steamship lines entering into this combination to exact improper and unreasonable freights—

Sir JOHN FORREST (W.A.): But are they doing it?

Mr. WATSON: He thought there was very little doubt about it. The proposal of this combination to impose fines amounting to 8d per box on butter on those who would not sign the contract was a serious interference with trade. (Hear, hear.) The position was that if a man did not sign a contract with this combination—

Sir JOHN FORREST: You mean if he is a non-unionist? (Laughter.)

Mr. WATSON: Such a man was compelled to pay a fine. He had always been doubtful as to the effectiveness of the anti-trust regulation, but in any case no law could be made by Parliament to control the oversea trade. Other methods must be attempted if they intended to give facilities and provide for fair rates for sending our produce abroad. (Hear, hear.) As far as our oversea trade is concerned, they could not touch even the fringe of the question by anti-trust legislation. The coastal shipping combine in existence to-day should demand their first attention, and he felt that the inevitable result of the action of these five oversea steamship lines would be to drive the Commonwealth, and that very soon, into considering the expediency of purchasing boats of their own.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.W.): Not at all.

Mr. WATSON: Some men would not be moved to take any action by anything that occurred.

Mr. JOHNSON: There is another method.

Mr. JOSEPH COOK (N.S.W.) said that it was the bounden duty of the Government, as guardians of the Constitution, to see that they did not subsidise a company which treated citizens of the Commonwealth unequally. (Hear, hear.) There was no socialism about that. (Opposition cheers.) Equal treatment and equal opportunities were the rights of all citizens.

Mr. KING O'MALLEY (Tas.): Why, that is socialism. (Labour cheers.)

Mr. JOSEPH COOK: All that they asked for was a fair field and no favour for butter shippers.

Mr. HUTCHISON (S.A.): How are we to get that?

Mr. JOSEPH COOK: All that was asked for was that in future the citizens should receive the benefits of the subsidies which were paid by the Commonwealth.

Mr. FISHER (Q.) said that the only remedy against the evils of a shipping ring was for the Commonwealth and the States to combine and conduct a shipping service of their own.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.W.): That is nonsense.

Mr. FISHER urged that the wool, timber, ore, and wheat producers were entitled to as much consideration as the butter exporters. He was not sanguine as to the efficacy of the anti-trust legislation, and therefore there was no other course to pursue but to run their own vessels.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH (N.S.W.) said he would not have spoken but for the somewhat ludicrous picture which had been presented of Mr. Watson posing in that Chamber as an advocate of reasonableness in trade and commerce. There was an old picture of the devil reproving sin—(laughter)—and he had been very much struck with its application to the member for South Sydney. (Laughter.) Mr. Watson, in the role of an opponent of the tyranny of organisation, was ludicrous, for he was the head of a body of men who [illegible] on tyranny—the leader of a special and a would-be preferable class that would live at the expense of the community as a whole if it could do so. ("Hear, hear," and dissent.) It seemed utterly ridiculous. (Hear, hear.) There was no body of men in this country less entitled to talk of combination and tyranny than was the Labour party. (Opposition cheers.) They had lived on it for 16 years, and were living on it now. (Dissent and "Hear, hear.")

Mr. BATCHELOR (S.A.): But for your tyranny we would not be here.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH: It was more striking in Parliament of men who professed to legislate for the people equally. He knew of a case of a member of a trade-union who had been so heavily fined by the body to which he belonged that it was necessary for him to sell the very beds from under his children to pay the amount extorted. ("Shame," and dissent.)

Labour members: He must have been a bad case.

Mr. BRUCE SMITH: The leader of the Labour party was trying to humbug the people, but the people were beginning to find his methods out. Mr. Watson was now whittling away the policy of his party. He (Mr. Bruce Smith) would be one of the first to help to prevent any tyranny by any absolute monopoly in trade or commerce. ("Hear, hear," and derisive Labour laughter.) He had done his best in the trades-halls of this country, and perhaps it might be news to some. (Hear, hear.) The Labour men were most inconsistent, for the decisions of the Wages Boards were ignored by the working classes. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. SPENCE (N.S.W.) said that breaches of awards by employers were more common than breaches by workers. If Parliament decided to take any action in regard to the butter freights they must also regulate all freights in fairness to other classes of producers. He therefore urged that they should go the whole hog, and build a line of steamers for themselves. (Hear, hear.)

Mr. REID (N.S.W.) said that most members must admit that they were not competent to discuss such an intricate question as that connected with shipping combinations and their trade. He believed that as far as the two mail companies were concerned no dividends had been paid out of the Australian trade. On the contrary, whatever profits might have been made in other parts of the world, he understood that for years past these mail companies had been running here at a dead loss. It seemed ridiculous, therefore, to refer to these companies as greedy, and wishing to consume the producers. Private enterprise, it appeared to him, had been able to solve this question in a more practicable way than Parliament could, because he observed that the farmers' representatives had completed arrangements under which their butter would be carried to England at the low rate of 1s 10d per box of 56lb. The farmers of Victoria were perfectly satisfied with arrangements made with the Federal-Houlder-Shire line, and therefore private enterprise had to some extent solved its own difficulties. (Hear, hear.) Some members talked as though butter exports would employ a fleet of steamers all the year round. As a matter of fact nearly the whole of the butter was exported within four months, which meant one trip each of the 16 vessels. That was not a gigantic proportion on which to found a line of Government steamships. (Hear, hear.) When once a State line was established it would have to compete with the whole of the shipping companies in the world. (Hear, hear.) He thought that in making a socialistic experiment they had better take a less arduous task than that. (Laughter.) To attempt to compete with the whole shipping strength of the world would be one of the most desperate enterprises that the Commonwealth could take on. (Hear, hear.) If socialism was to be tried they had better try it first on shore under more promising conditions than they could at sea—(laughter)—because they were the owners of the Australian soil, but they were not masters of the ocean-way. It must not be forgotten that the companies in question were compelled to provide special facilities for the export of butter. The Labour party itself was a political combine, while the trades-unions were the biggest combine in Australia, and had actually refused to work alongside other men as though they were lepers, and this was after they had signed a contract in Sydney to work amicably with non-union men. Those who denounced combines among shipowners must be prepared to denounce combines among workers. Personally he admitted that the unionists had as much right to combine as the shipowners. There was no difference in principle. If any of these trusts used their power for the purpose of sweating labour or crushing honest competition he would treat them the same as a sneak thief. (Hear, hear.)

The TREASURER, after reviewing the steps taken by the Government to come to an arrangement with the States without success on the subject of cool storage, said that the Government was anxious that no monopoly should exist, and as the Cabinet would in a few days be called upon to deal with a new mail contract he had no doubt that the Prime Minister (Mr. Deakin) would take the matter under discussion into his very serious consideration before accepting any tender for a new service. (Labour cheers.) The Government was not going to be put in a hole over this matter—"hear, hear")—and if the Government could not get the service carried out at a reasonable rate they would have to take into consideration other lines of action.

Mr. KING O'MALLEY: That is the talk—a steamship line.

The TREASURER: I do not say that, but we are not going to be blocked again. (Hear, hear.) From a constitutional point of view the Government had just as much right to run a steamship line as a railway. (Labour cheers.)

Mr. JOSEPH COOK: But are you in favour of that?

The TREASURER: The railways were competed against by a shipping ring round the coast, and that prevented him passing the Interstate Bill. There was no question about this competition; and the States, too, were competing with each other. He had already said that if any vend or combine was doing any serious injury to the public as a whole he would be against them.

Mr. JOSEPH COOK: So are we all.

The TREASURER: Those on the other side of the Chamber shouted, "So are we all," but he would like to see them dare to take any action. The leader of the Opposition had had an opportunity, but did not take it. (Laughter.) He denied that the harvester legislation to protect the workers was a failure. The Anti-trust Act was an effective one, but was rather cumbersome, and all that was required was to shorten the method of procedure. The Government proposed to simplify the course required to be taken. Speaking for the Government, he hoped that nothing would take place in connection with any arrangements that would lead to the boycott of those persons who did not send their produce by the lines in question. He felt that the temper of the House was such that if a policy of this kind were pursued it would not rest until some action was taken.

Mr. JOHN THOMSON (N.S.W.) hoped that the Government would be able to regulate the freights to some extent.

Mr. JOHNSON (N.S.W.) said the Labour members to be consistent should support the shipping combine. He was opposed to any combination that interfered with the liberty of the individual, whether it was a combination of employers or employees.

Dr. MALONEY (Vic.) said no member of the House was prepared to defend the shipping combine.

Mr. STORRER (Tas.) said if the shipping companies would not give proper concessions to the exporters of the Commonwealth it should run ships of its own.

Mr. THOMAS (N.S.W.) said that never in the course of his life had he advocated that the Labour unions should be close corporations, and would oppose any trade-union that closed its books. The same principles should be applied to employers.

Mr. WILKS (N.S.W.) was opposed to State-owned vessels, but he thought that freights should be regulated.

Dr. SALMON (Vic.) said the discussion had considerably strengthened the hands of the Government.

Mr. WISE (Vic.) thought the Government would be justified in taking a determined stand.

The MINISTER FOR TRADE AND CUSTOMS said that the House would not tolerate a combine against producers, and if the existing legislation was not sufficient to meet the case, the House, he was convinced, would be prepared to extend the powers. (Hear, hear.) He did not object to combinations for fair business purposes.

The motion for the adjournment of the House was negatived on the voices.

THE BUTTER FREIGHTS.

STATEMENT BY MR. ANDERSON.

THE CONTRACT PROVISION.

SOUND BUSINESS ARRANGEMENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Mr. David Anderson, general manager in Sydney of the Orient Company, is at present in Melbourne. Referring to-day to the freight rates for butter fixed by the mail and White Star group of companies, Mr. Anderson stated that combined action on the part of those companies was brought about at the special request of representatives of the butter trade. "It has been asserted that these rates are too high," said Mr. Anderson, "but I maintain that having regard to the service and rates charged elsewhere they are reasonable. I may say frankly that the old rates were fixed under the stress of great competition, and were unremunerative. [illegible] the service now arranged greater facilities are offered for prompt and regular delivery, and in fixing the remuneration for this we are only seeking to earn a living wage. Greater obligations have been thrown on the steamship companies by the Merchants' Shipping Act of Great Britain. Coal has increased in price. In Australia the conditions all round have increased the cost of our service, and the new freight rates for butter will only give us a fair and reasonable profit. In respect to the shippers who sign our contract we intend to carry every pound of their butter before we make provision to take a single ounce from outside, however attractive outside rates may be. It is only fair that this should be done. It would hardly be fair to carry butter at the same rate for those who do not sign our contract, as for those who do. We do not ask the contracting parties to guarantee a certain quantity of cargo. The output depends on the season, and so definite quantities cannot be contracted for ahead. On the other hand, we reserve our space until five days before leaving Sydney. In other words, we give butter preference over all other perishable produce close up to the sailing date. If space cannot then be filled we have to turn round at short notice and find other cargo. It is only sound business, therefore, to afford reasonable preference to those who agree to send all their cargo with us."

THE TARIFF.

COMMENDATION FROM WESTERN AUSTRALIA.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR THE GOVERNMENT.

THE MINES AND THE TARIFF.

PERTH, Friday.

At a meeting of the Western Australian Chamber of Manufactures last night the following letter was received from Messrs. Silverthorpe and Adair, engineers, Kalgoorlie:—"We are the largest manufacturers of and dealers in machinery in the State. Our foundry plant is capable of employing 700 men. At the present we only have employed 120. In my opinion, the tariff will not press so heavily on the mining industry as freetraders seem to think. Five of the largest Kalgoorlie mines are carrying on five separate foundries, all well equipped with good working plant, which necessitates each mine carrying large quantities of supplies and expensive separate supervision. The mines, by having one large foundry, controlled by the whole of the mines, could do all the work at a saving of 15 per cent. They would not only require less than half the present foundry plants, but they could easily manufacture at the mines 75 per cent. of all their requirements at cheaper rates than could be obtained under the freetrade tariff. The mines possess special advantages, as they have got large quantities of machinery going to the scrap heap. About 15 per cent. of their requirements can be supplied from this source by being converted into new machinery, and I consider there is enough second-hand machinery on the goldfields to fulfil all the demands for the next two years, and at a price not much over the cost of freight from foreign countries. I am more in touch with working miners than any other man in Western Australia, a great majority of whom are protectionists, and are in favour of protecting and fostering every Australian industry against the world."

The following motion was carried:—"That this chamber tenders its congratulations to the Prime Minister and his Government on their policy of protection, and heartily endorses the policy of preferential trade with New Zealand and the Empire."

BRISBANE, Friday.

The employees of Dath, Henderson, and Co., timber merchants, to-day decided unanimously to support a movement requesting the Federal Parliament to maintain the present duties on timber. The Queensland Electrical Association, at a meeting on Thursday, expressed the opinion that the present tariff was prohibitive, and adopted the report of the New South Wales Electrical Association as expressing the views of the Queensland Association.

TAX ON ILLUSTRATED BOOKS.—Messrs. Cassell and Co. have written again to the Comptroller of Customs with reference to the taxation of illustrated books:—We beg respectfully to protest against the action of your department in taxing the following books published by us:—First, "The Nation's Pictures;" second, "The Luxembourg and The Louvre," in volume form; third, "The King's Empire;" for, in making these publications dutiable, we believe that the spirit of the law has been violated. The first two books contain representations of works of art, and duty may have been charged on this ground; but the third work is in quite a different category, for it is a description of the British Empire in all its ramifications, embellished with illustrations from all parts of the globe; and if the decision to charge a duty amounting to 27½ per cent. on this is to stand, it will be extremely difficult to draw the dutiable line on books. It appears fairly evident from the above examples that a commencement has been made to tax all books containing pictures, whether such are for children or adults; and this reading of the new tariff will mean placing a duty upon practically every book imported, for few works nowadays are published without some illustrations. This logical deduction has only to be mentioned to prove that the action taken by your department in the above instances is a wrong one. Once commence taxing picture books, and all books with pictures will be taxed. The taxing of picture books was never contemplated, we venture to assert, by the framers of the tariff.

SCHOOL DESTROYED.

INCENDIARISM SUSPECTED.

PEAK HILL, Thursday.

The Public School at Mingelo, five miles from Peak Hill, was burnt to the ground at 10 o'clock last night. The school is a detached building, the nearest house being 50 yards away. Nothing was saved, the building being in flames before the fire was first noticed. Improvements to the extent of £50 had just been completed, the inspector having passed the work only the day previous to the fire. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary, and an inquiry is to be held. This is the second time the Public school at Mingelo has been destroyed by fire, the previous occasion being 13 years ago. The teacher, Mr. F. Yabsley, is making arrangements to continue the school in private premises.

PARTY PRIVILEGES.

FRANKING COMMUNICATIONS.

QUEENSLAND LABOUR MOVEMENT.

BRISBANE, Friday.

Referring to the matter of franking letters, telegrams, etc., Mr. Barber to-day denied that the Labour party was desirous of increasing the salaries of members, and said there was not a member of his party who would not oppose the increase. There was a feeling, however, that the pay of members should commence from the day after election, instead of from the day the writ was returned. Some of the members considered that the pay should go on, even after the dissolution, and until a successor was appointed, because the member had to work for the constituency. Mr. Barber made it clear that in asking that the salary should commence from the date of election, they did not desire it to apply to this Parliament. At the same time, what they did think was that in the matter of franking telegrams and correspondence, Queensland State members should at once be given the same privilege as State members elsewhere in Australia, and also members of the Federal Parliament. A proposal to amend the Constitution to enable the salary to commence from the day of election in the case of future Parliaments, would be submitted shortly. The Opposition considered the proposal at this week's meeting, when they decided they could not give any support to such a proposal.

W. SANDFORD, LIMITED.

LITHGOW, Friday.

The prospectus of William Sandford, Ltd., has aroused a deal of interest, and it is generally recognised by local people who are fully acquainted with all the conditions surrounding the industry that the venture will prove a sound investment when the Federal Parliament has had the opportunity of extending encouragement to the iron and steel industry; but certain material advantages which are embodied in the prospectus are not, perhaps, fully understood by outsiders. Among these are the merging into the company of the Eskbank Estate and Eskbank Colliery Estate, including an area of 406 acres of valuable building land, which as the town grows is likely to be still further enhanced in value. The estate was originally much larger, but a good deal of land was sold by Mr. William Sandford, and an idea of the present value of the estate may be gained from the fact that an area of about four acres sold during the last few months realised the splendid return of nearly £1000 an acre. If this value be taken as a basis it will be seen that the 406 acres which are included in the assets of the company represent a security of more than three times the value of the shares it is proposed to issue to the public. The company own some of the finest building land in the town, and are also proprietors of property in the main street. With the prospects of Lithgow becoming the chief centre of the iron industry in the Commonwealth, the value of this land is sure to [illegible].

GOLF.

OPEN AND AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIPS.

BOTH WON BY HON. M. SCOTT.

EXTRAORDINARY INCIDENT.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The two chief events of the year in Australian golf were played to a finish on the Royal Melbourne links at Sandringham to-day, when further honours fell to the undoubted champion of Australia, the Hon. M. Scott, but not until he had survived the ordeal of a protest. In fact, the protest was the sensation of the day, and the merits of the play were quite lost sight of in the general discussion as to whether Scott should or should not be disqualified.

In driving-off a ball from the tee, after completing a hole, the players are confined to a certain space, marked by two small iron discs on the turf. They may play from any point two clubs' length behind the line of these discs, but not from outside either disc. After the first of two rounds for the championship the discs at all tees were shifted a few feet to a fresh piece of turf, and a box, which holds sand and water, is invariably placed on the right of the teeing space. This box had been shifted to its usual place on every teeing ground but the twelfth, where with the discs changed it stood on the left of them. Scott, coming up to the teeing ground from the left front, as all players do after holing out at the eleventh green, was misled by the position of the tee, and drove off from a space which with the discs removed was no longer technically a teeing ground, though part of the same prepared square of turf. East, who was playing with him, at once drew attention to the mistake, and as there was some doubt as to the proper course to follow Scott drove a second ball from the same space, but he decided afterwards to continue his play from the first drive, which was in the worst position of the two. It was purely a technical mistake, from which it was impossible for the player to obtain any benefit. The position would be exactly illustrated with two billiard tables placed side by side. Scott, who habitually drives from 150 to 250 yards, hit off his ball from the baulk of one table instead of the other, and in space the width of the table fairly represents the distance by which he was out of position. There is no doubt whatever that other players made the same mistake as Scott, but the slip was not noticed, or if noticed attention was not drawn to it, for the sufficient reason that it was a matter of no consequence either way.

The rules of golf seem to indicate pretty clearly that a player who drives from outside the discs must be disqualified in stroke play, though in a match where the score is counted by holes his opponent would simply have had the option, if he thought fit, of asking him to drive another ball from the correct spot. Why the penalty for a mistake should be so serious in one kind of play, and so trifling in the other, is one of the mysteries of the game.

The members of the green and match committee having heard the facts, about which there was no dispute, asked a number of the players engaged in the match, both amateur and professional, whether, from the unusual position of the sand-box at this particular teeing-ground, a player was likely to be misled. The general opinion was that it would be easy to make a mistake, and the committee, in view of the fact that the teeing space was not clearly defined, and players were apt to be misled, dismissed the protest against Scott, who, on the merits of his play, had deservedly won both the open and amateur championships of Australia for the year.

The weather was rather unfavourable, as most of the men had to come home against a fairly strong wind, with occasional showers. Scott played two good rounds of 82 and 81, and, curiously enough, repeated at his 36th hole the same mistake as on the previous day, by driving short of the hedge and then into it, the hole costing him seven strokes in each case. His driving was a bit better than on Thursday, but the cleek was again his best club. There is no doubt as to his right to the title of champion of Australia.

Soutar's recovery was one of the features of the day. At the second hole in the second round he was repeatedly in trouble, but he kept his heart up, and got second place, with eight strokes worse than Scott. Carnegie Clark, who commenced badly, improved considerably, and was third in the open championship, a point behind Soutar.

Last year Clark won the open championship, with Soutar second. In the previous year they were placed Soutar, Scott, and Clark.

The amateur championship was again the triumph of form, for Clyde Pearce, the young Tasmanian, played well and evenly all through. Waters had a very bad round in the morning, and a very good one in the afternoon, when he went out in 34, an achievement which has not been beaten during the last two years.

The leading scores for championships were as follows:—

SHEARING SHED BURNT.

GREAT LOSS OF PROPERTY.

SHED HANDS' NARROW ESCAPE.

NARRABRI, Friday.

A large shearing shed, 180ft by 78ft, together with a complete shearing plant, including 16 Wolseley machines, and a great amount of stores, were completely destroyed by fire at 3 o'clock this morning.

The structure had timber walls, and the roof carried three tons of iron, the building being valued at about £600. The shed is situated at Cooma, Narrabri, and was the property of Mr. J. Blayney, but recently leased by Messrs. Young and Co., shearing contractors, who owned the shearing plant, and have put through about 50,000 sheep for various owners. Shearing contracts were almost completed, and at the time of the fire 16 shearers and 14 shed hands were sleeping on the premises, only just escaping with their lives.

Nothing was saved, and one man lost £13 in notes. The shearing plant, flooring, tables, etc., were insured in the North Queensland Office for £300, the hay was insured for £200, £100 each in the Atlas and Alliance offices, and the shed was insured for £200 in the Caledonian Office.

FOR CHARITY.

TAX ON SPORTS AND AMUSEMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Cabinet to-day approved of the draft of Mr. Bent's new charity bill. The Premier stated that power was contained in the measure for a sports and amusement tax. He intended to apply his taxation proposals to 13 subjects. These included all kinds of sports, including racing, amusements, carriages and buggies not used for business, sporting licenses, and shooting and fishing licenses, so much per cent. on the revenue of local bodies exclusive of interest, motors, bicycles, and other things.

THE BAKERY DISPUTE.

NO FRESH DEVELOPMENTS.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Nothing further was done to-day to bring about a settlement of the dispute in the bakery trade. The employers state that they will be able to man shops fairly well on Sunday if a strike occurs, and by Wednesday all the vacancies will be filled. The passages to Melbourne of 30 bakers had been paid by the Master Bakers' Association, which will stick to these men, no matter what happens.

It now appears probable if a strike is declared to-morrow night by the men, it will be directed against only those who are unwilling to pay £2 14s a week. The Cabinet considered the question to-day, and the matter will be further discussed on Monday.

DIOCESAN SYNOD.

MOORE THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE.

"REVENUE FROM PEWS UNDESIRABLE."

The session of the synod of the diocese of Sydney was continued at the Chapter House, Bathurst-street, yesterday, under the presidency of the Archbishop, Dr. Saumarez Smith.

CHURCH CO-OPERATION.

Mr. J. A. L. Perry moved that the following be the committee in connection with church co-operation:—Revs. Canon Archdall, S. S. Tovy, and Luke Parr, and Messrs. T. C. J. Foster and J. A. L. Perry.

The motion was agreed to.

"CHINESE SUNDAY."

Rev. E. H. B. Claydon moved to place on record thanks to the Almighty for the successes attending one hundred years of missionary effort in the Chinese Empire, and that, in view of the proposed "Robert Morrison Centenary," to be held in Sydney on November 25, the Archbishop be requested to invite all the clergy of the diocese to observe November 24 as "Chinese Sunday."

The motion was seconded by the Rev. Canon Vaughan, and agreed to.

ELECTIONS TO VACANCIES.

General Synod: Rev. S. S. Tovey. Provincial Synod: Ven. Archdeacon Gunther, Revs. Canon Bellingham and S. S. Tovey. Standing committee: Mr. F. B. Wilkinson. Church of England Grammar School council: Revs. E. Lampard and W. A. Charlton. Church society: Messrs. H. B. Cowper, C. B. Brownrigg, W. Crane, W. B. Johnson, W. E. Toose, W. Russell, H. B. Allard, C. C. Capper, T. C. J. Foster, F. Sparke, A. Whetton, and D. W. Roxburg.

MOORE THEOLOGICAL COLLEGE.

Rev. S. S. Tovey moved to refer to a select committee a proposal to consider and report on the desirability of enlarging the constitution of Moore Theological College. Though there were trustees, there was in reality but one guiding spirit.

Canon Archdall moved as an amendment to refer to the select committee a proposal to consider and report on the possibility and desirability of modifying the constitution and governing bodies of Moore Theological College and of St. Paul's College within the University of Sydney.

Rev. S. S. Tovey said he did not like the amendment, but he could not object to it.

Rev. Canon Jones did not think it desirable to interfere with the constitution. He would find more trouble using his persuasive powers on a board of 12 than upon three trustees. Mr. Spurgeon said that it was a good thing to have committees of two—with one in bed. (Laughter.) Dealing with a remark that Moore College turned out one type of clergymen, he (Canon Jones) named the Revs. Canons Vaughan and Hough and the Revs. A. G. Stoddart and R. J. F. Russell, who certainly did not represent any one particular type. (Applause.)

Rev. S. S. Tovey, in reply, said there had been principals of Moore College with whom they had not been satisfied, and there might be again. If his motion were not acceptable, there ought to be an addition to Canon Archdall's amendment thus: "And that such committee be requested to consult with the trustees of Moore College, council of St. Paul's College, or a committee thereof, and report."

Canon Archdall said he had no objection.

The amendment was carried, with the addition of the words suggested.

CHURCH SITTINGS.

Mr. D. P. Evan Jones moved,—"That the system of obtaining revenue by the renting of pews or sittings is an objectionable method of Church finance; and that this synod is of opinion that all sittings should be free and unappropriated."

Mr. Chisholm seconded the motion.

Canon Archdall moved as an amendment,—"That the system of obtaining revenue by the renting of the pews or sittings is, generally speaking, an undesirable method of church finance; and that this synod expresses the hope that the parochial authorities will seek to make all sittings free in every church in which they may do so in accordance with the provisions of section 27 of the Sydney Church Ordinance."

Mr. W. B. Johnson seconded the amendment.

The amendment was accepted.

CURATES IN CHARGE.

Rev. T. Hillhouse Taylor moved,—"That the president be requested to obtain the opinion of the Chancellor as to whether a curate in charge of a district not within the limits of a parish is "a clergyman licensed to a separate cure of souls in this diocese," and should therefore be summoned by the Bishop to the synod of the diocese, together with representatives of the district, as provided in the Constitutions Act Amendment Act of 1902."

The motion was agreed to.

WIDOWS AND ORPHANS' FUND.

Rev. G. D'Arcy-Irvine moved, and Mr. Beaver seconded, and it was agreed,—"That the trustees of the Clergy Widows and Orphans' Fund be empowered and requested to pay the pensions and allowances of the widows and orphans every three months instead of every six months."

RESCUE WORK.

Rev. H. G. J. Howe moved, and it was agreed to,—"That this synod places on record its appreciation of the work of the Church Rescue Home, and recommends the clergy of the diocese to help it by bringing the rescue work before their congregations and giving them an opportunity to contribute."

MISSION HALL.

Mr. W. E. Toose moved,—"That in the opinion of this synod it is desirable that immediate steps should be taken to establish a church mission hall and offices (centrally situated) where synods, public meetings, and other functions connected with the Church may be held, and that a special committee be appointed to procure all information and report at the next session of synod, the committee to consist of Rev. Canons Vaughan and Boyce, Revs. S. S. Tovey, H. G. J. Howe, and Dr. Houison, Messrs. Wilfrid L. Docker, W. M. Fairland, J. S. E. Ellis, and the mover."

Mr. Watson seconded the motion, which was agreed to.

The synod concluded its deliberations shortly after 11 o'clock.

HEBBURN COLLIERY DISPUTE.

AN ABORTIVE CONFERENCE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

Messrs. P. Bowling and Curley, executive officers of the Colliery Employees' Federation, had a conference to-day with Mr. Livingstone Learmonth, general superintendent of the A. A. Company, owners of the Hebburn colliery, in reference to the dispute between the miners and proprietors, which had laid the colliery idle. Mr. Learmonth asked the officers if the miners were willing to resume work in the pit pending an inquiry to be made by a committee. He said there was no need to fear danger, as the mine was free from gas. Mr. Bowling asked if the safety lamps would be removed, but Mr. Learmonth declined to do this. The officers then said the miners would refuse to work under these conditions, and the conference was therefore abortive.

Mr. Peter Bowling, president, and Mr. A. Lewis, secretary, visited Weston yesterday, and paid out £1500, being the sum represented by a 2½ per cent. strike levy for three weeks made by the federation for the assistance of the Hebburn employees who are idle.

SENTENCED TO DEATH.

RAILWAY PORTER'S CRIME.

DUBBO, Friday.

At the Circuit Court yesterday Reuben Henry Ward, porter at the Nyngan station, was charged with a capital offence on a woman, a waitress, aged 24. The evidence for the prosecution was that on the night of June 16 accused went for a walk with the woman. As it came on to rain they took shelter in a railway carriage. There Ward, having closed the door, caught the woman by the throat and committed the offence complained of. She lost consciousness, and remembered no more till June 18, when she woke up in Nyngan Hospital. Accused, when arrested, said that the woman was a consenting party. When giving evidence the woman was very hysterical, and sobbed violently. At the close of her cross-examination she fell out of the witness-box, and had to be carried from the Court. A doctor was summoned to attend to her.

The Chief Justice, having summed up this morning, the jury, after about six hours' deliberation, returned a verdict of guilty.

His Honor said he was not called upon to make any remarks on the case. Prisoner had had a fair trial, lasting five hours. Continuing, he said:—"Far be it from me to say the verdict is an improper one." After passing sentence of death in the usual form he recommended prisoner "between this time and that fixed for execution, if it be fixed, that you prepare yourself for that which may happen to you, but that will rest with the Governor and the Executive." Prisoner broke down on hearing the sentence, and the young woman Smith, as Ward was being removed to gaol, started screaming, and went into a fit. Finally she was removed to the hospital.

THE RYDALMERE CASE.

As a result of the assault he received at the Rydalmere church recently, Constable Howard has had one of his eyes removed at the Prince Alfred Hospital. The operation was performed early in the week, and the patient is doing well, [illegible] he will not be able to attend court on Monday.

COUNTRY NEWS.

PRESENTATION TO MR. H. D. MORTON.

BERRY, Friday.

The Agricultural Society and residents of the district honoured Mr. H. D. Morton at a complimentary picnic on the show ground on Thursday in recognition of his services to the society and district. Among the guests were the Premier (Mr. J. H. Carruthers) and Mr. C. G. Wade (Attorney-General), Mr. Cohen, M.L.A., Dr. John Hay, and visitors from all along the coast. In the afternoon Mr. F. M'Intyre, president of the Agricultural Society, presented the guest with a magnificent chest of silverware as a slight recognition of his services to the society.

The Premier and Attorney-General both testified to the excellent worth of their guest as a citizen.

Miss Lewers presented Mrs. Morton with a pearl brooch on behalf of the ladies. A programme of sports was gone through, and a complimentary concert held at night.

AN M.L.A. HONOURED.

MUDGEE, Friday.

An enthusiastic demonstration was made by the Liberals of Hill End and Tambaroora yesterday. Mr. Robert Jones, M.L.A., on going there to return thanks, was met about four miles from Hill End, and escorted into town by over 100 people. At night, after Mr. Jones had delivered an address, a largely attended social gathering was held, when cheers were given for Mr. Carruthers and Liberalism.

THE CHURCHES.

ARMIDALE, Friday.

A bazaar promoted by the pupils of the Ursuline Convent, to assist the Sisters in connection with the additions recently made to the institution, was held during Monday and Tuesday evenings. The opening ceremony was performed by Bishop O'Connor. The proceeds realised between £150 and £160.

LIVERPOOL, Friday.

The annual tea and social in connection with All Saints' Roman Catholic Church was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday, and attracted a large gathering, including visitors from the localities adjacent, all denominations being represented. Dancing was continued till the small hours, Mr. Williamson's band supplying first-class music.

BOURKE, Thursday.

The annual children's concert, in connection with the Bourke Superior Public School, took place last night. It was a decided success, from every point of view.

BOWRAL, Friday.

Major-General Hoad, Inspector-General of the Commonwealth Military Forces, accompanied by his staff, Captains O'Brien and Holman, inspected the members of the Bowral H Company, Second Australian Infantry Regiment, in the School of Arts on Tuesday evening.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

The Amalgamated Miners' Association has voted £20 to the Brewery Employees' Union to assist it in the legal action concerning the validity of the union label. The association has decided to ask Messrs. Cann and Griffith to move the adjournment of the Legislative Assembly over the Hewitt v Norton case.

The annual competition of the Australian Natives' Association was opened in the Town Hall last night.

CLIFTON, Thursday.

Dr. J. L. B. Dixon, district colliery doctor for the past seven years, and Mrs. Dixon were entertained by their friends in the Clifton Public Hall last evening. Dr. Dixon was presented with a massive marble clock, and Mrs. Dixon with a handsome solid gold watch.

All the local collieries are working well, large consignments of coal and bulk coke being despatched from the South Clifton collieries. Coal Cliff colliery is also working full time.

DUNGOG, Thursday.

Another outbreak of fire occurred at Skillen and Co.'s Royal Exchange Stores.

A movement is on foot in Dungog to consider the best means of recognising the valuable Parliamentary services rendered to the electors of Durham by Mr. Walter Bennett.

FORBES, Friday.

At the Town Hall last night a large and representative gathering was held, for the purpose of saying good-bye to Dr. Cox, who has relinquished practice, and is leaving for a trip to Sydney, owing to ill-health. Mr. R. E. B. Reymond, ex-Mayor, occupied the chair. A number of speeches were made, sincerely regretting the departure of such a worthy professional man. A purse of sovereigns was then presented.

GOULBURN, Friday.

Mr. J. W. Grovenor, manager of the Goulburn branch of the City Bank, has been presented by his fellow-members of the Goulburn Club with a handsome silver tea and coffee service, to mark the occasion of his marriage.

GUNNING, Friday.

Mr. D. R. Hall, M.P., has notified the Shire Council that £160 has been included in the Estimates for additions to the local post office.

MOLONG, Friday.

The Premier (Mr. J. H. Carruthers), who was to have opened the Manildra show next Wednesday, has signified his inability to do so, on account of Parliament opening on the same day.

Mr. A. Gardiner, who unsuccessfully contested the Orange seat at the recent State elections, has been entertained by his Molong supporters and presented with a gold sovereign case.

QUEANBEYAN, Friday.

In the Protestant Hall on Tuesday night the supporters of Colonel Ryrie, M.L.A., tendered that gentleman a banquet. There was a large attendance, Mr. A. J. Studdy presiding, having on his right the guest, and on his left Mr. A. Ryrie, father of Colonel Ryrie. A large number of apologies were received, including one from the Premier, who wrote congratulating the colonel on his victory, stating also that owing to a prior engagement at Maitland he could not attend the function. Congratulatory speeches were made by the chairman and other gentlemen. The proceedings were of a very convivial character, terminating by the singing of the National Anthem.

At a meeting of the subscribers to the telephone exchange in Queanbeyan, held last night, Mr. A. J. Cunningham presiding, it was resolved to approach the Postmaster-General with a view of having an all night service established at the local post office.

WELLINGTON, Friday.

Miss Alexander, late teacher at the Burrendong Public School, has been promoted to a larger school near Sydney. Nobody has as yet been appointed in her place, and the school has been closed for a fortnight in consequence.

HOME RULE FOR IRELAND.

AN ACCEPTABLE MEASURE PROMISED.

LETTER FROM MR. J. REDMOND, M.P.

HOBART, Friday.

Mr. M. M. Ryan, president of the United Irish League, Hobart, has received a letter from Mr. John Redmond, M.P., leader of the Irish Parliamentary party in the House of Commons, acknowledging the receipt of the sum of £234, duly received by the treasurer in Dublin, from the treasurers of the Hobart branch of the league. Mr. Redmond adds, "Although your members and friends in communication with their kith and kin at home may feel disappointed at the first offering of self-government from the present Ministry, we have an assurance that a more acceptable and befitting measure of our rights will soon be forthcoming, and they may accept the assurance that until the people of Ireland enjoy equal rights to those in the self-governing colonies, the efforts of their representatives at Westminster will not be relaxed in striving to obtain it.

MURWILLUMBAH FIRE.

AMOUNT OF INSURANCES.

MURWILLUMBAH, Friday.

One contractor has ordered 250,000 bricks from the Bexhill Dry Press Company. The sawmill at Mooball is running a full 24 hours, in order to cope with its orders.

Aldermen Street and M'Ilrath have returned from Sydney, and report their interview with the Premier on matters connected with the fire as very satisfactory. Full particulars will not be disclosed till the council meeting on Wednesday next.

In addition to the rebuilding of the main street, several new shops will be erected at South Murwillumbah. The total number of insurance claims number 60, and they will all be disposed of this week. The amounts paid by the various companies will total £40,000.

A letter has been sent to the Premier, asking him to have the railway freight on timber between Lismore and Murwillumbah reduced by half.

COMMONWEALTH RIFLE MATCH.

SOUTH AUSTRALIAN TEAM.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The following riflemen have been selected from whom 12 will be chosen to represent South Australia in the Commonwealth rifle match, to be fired at Brisbane on October 12:—F. F. Bleechmore, F. J. Burgoyne, C. C. Castine, H. E. Fisher, F. H. Frith, R. H. Hall, J. T. Lake, T. P. M'Gillick, C. W. Mellor, A. E. Millican, Sergeant-Major Murray, H. Steinhardt, V. V. Roberts, and J. Williams.

NEWCASTLE.

SUSPENSION OF WORK ON BREAKWATERS.

FIFTY MEN THROWN IDLE.

NEWCASTLE, Friday.

The Government vote of money for the extension of the southern breakwater has been exhausted, and the work has perforce been discontinued. Representations have been made to the Government with a view to obtaining a further grant to extend this work, which even in its incomplete form has done much to increase the safety of the entrance for vessels in rough weather. The matter of the extension will have to come before the new Public Works Committee before a further vote can be obtained.

As a result of the suspension of this work about 50 men have been thrown out of employment at the Waratah quarries, from which the stone used on the breakwaters was obtained. The loss in wages on account of the discharge of these men amounts to £250 per fortnight. A large number of them will, however, have the opportunity of working on the construction of the 20-inch duplicate pipe-line, which is shortly to be constructed from Buttai to Wallsend, a distance of 11 miles.

COAL-SHIPPING TRADE BRISK.

LARGE OVERSEA EXPORTS.

The coal export trade has been very brisk during the week, and the cranes at the dyke and in the basin have been worked at full pressure to keep pace with the large orders for shipment both for foreign and interstate ports. The mines are, almost without exception, working full time, and as the vessels listed to arrive are exceptionally numerous for this season, ordinarily considered the slack season, busy times are before the collieries and the port for at least three months. The total quantity of coal exported from Newcastle during the week ended to-day amounted to 90,543 tons. Commonwealth and New Zealand ports took 50,418 tons, while 40,125 tons were sent to foreign ports. The West Coast ports of South America continue to draw large shipments from Newcastle, eight sailers leaving during the week, and carrying 22,000 tons. There were exported to San Francisco about 12,000 tons, and nearly 6000 tons to Manila. The harbour presents a busy sight with sailing vessels and steamers moored often two abreast along the wharfs. Seventy-five vessels, including 65 sailing ships, lay in port to-day.

Five sailing vessels sailed from Newcastle yesterday for oversea ports carrying a total of 12,000 tons of coal. The vessels were:—The ship Dimsdale, for Pisagua; the French barque Belen and the American four-masted barquentine Kohala, for San Francisco; the four-masted barque Semantha, for Valparaiso; and the American ship Jabez Howes, for Kahului. The Belen and Kohala should put up a good race to the Californian port, both being fast sailers.

CIRCUIT COURTS.

The sitting of the Circuit Court was resumed to-day before Mr. Justice Cohen. Mr. R. Cowan was Crown Prosecutor. John Henry Dalton, found guilty of receiving a quantity of bags at Singleton knowing them to have been stolen, was sentenced to three months' hard labour. Cecil Theodore Pinchen, who pleaded guilty on Wednesday to a charge of maliciously setting fire to a dwelling house at Cessnock, a person being therein, was sentenced to two years' hard labour.

CONGESTION IN THE HARBOUR.

Complaints have been freely made this week of delays occasioned to steamers in port owing to insufficient wharfage accommodation for inward cargoes. Yesterday the steamers Yarra and Barron could not obtain berths at King's Wharf, and had to go to the A.A. Company's Wharf. The Buninyong, from Brisbane, with 250 tons of cargo, was also unable to berth, and was doubled off the ship Flottbeck; while the Hobart was also delayed. The congestion is due to the inadequate wharfage accommodation. The Government some time ago approved of the construction of 1200ft of wharfage towards the Carrington Bridge, and money for the purpose was granted during the last brief session of the old Parliament. The congestion of shipping emphasises the necessity for the immediate commencement of the work, as delays such as those complained of mean loss to shipping companies, and act detrimentally to the interests of the port. Another factor has also conduced to delay of vessels shipping. Agents stated to-day that there was a scarcity of wharf labourers, and vessels could not be discharged with the usual despatch.

SMELTING RETURNS.

At the Sulphide Works, Cockle Creek, 1244 tons of ore were treated during the week, giving a return of 1965oz gold, 35,881oz silver, and 339 tons of lead.

COAL EXPORT TRADE.

The following vessels cleared at the Customs-house to-day:—A. D. Bordes, bq, for Iquique, with 3240 tons coal; Barwon, s, for Melbourne, with 4700 tons coal and 30 tons coke; Fort George, 4-m. bq, for San Francisco with 2815 tons coal; Oonah, s, for Hobart, via Sydney, with 920 tons coal.

The cargo comprises wool, meat, butter, skins, lead, and ore.

R.M.S. CHINA.

The China left Suez for Australia on September 26.

THE CHANDA.

The Chanda will leave Sydney early to-day for Melbourne, and is due back on October 4, when she will leave for Bombay.

THE GUTHRIE.

The steamer Guthrie arrived at Singapore at 7 p.m. on September 26.

MORESBY AT CAIRNS.

The steamer Moresby, from the Solomon Islands and New Guinea, arrived at Cairns yesterday.

THE TASMANIC.

The Norwegian steamer Tasmanic, from the Baltic ports, via Durban, arrived yesterday at Fremantle. The vessel will come to Sydney.

THE PERSIC.

The White Star liner Persic left Liverpool for Sydney on September 26.

BOMBALA'S FAST RUN.

The Bombala left Melbourne at 5.30 p.m. on Wednesday, rounded Wilson's Promontory 3.20 a.m. next day, and arrived at Sydney at 7 a.m. yesterday, the record being 37.30 hours from Gellibrand to Sydney Heads. From Gellibrand to Green Cape the time was 23 hours. Strong WSW gale and high sea, with heavy rain squalls, were experienced to Wilson's Promontory, the wind then veering to SW, and clearing to Gabo Island, thence moderating to port. The Bombala brought 101 passengers, and will leave for Queensland ports to-day.

THE BUNINYONG.

The Buninyong left Brisbane at 6 p.m. on Tuesday, and arrived at Newcastle on Thursday. A stay of 18 hours was made at that port. The Buninyong arrived at Sydney at 3.30 p.m. yesterday. She experienced moderate N winds and smooth seas for the first half of the voyage, and S winds during the latter part. The Buninyong will leave to-day for Queensland ports.

THE COOMA.

The Cooma, with 122 passengers, from Queensland ports, arrived at Sydney at 2.15 a.m. yesterday. She left Townsville on Sept. 20, and called at Mackay and Rockhampton. A splendid run of 28 hours 20 minutes was made to Brisbane. The Cooma left Brisbane on Wednesday, and experienced strong head winds and seas. She will leave to-day for Melbourne.

BARQUE EAST AFRICAN.

The barque East African, which arrived at Melbourne on Wednesday, brought a general cargo from Hamburg. Captain A. Johnston, who is in charge, has not been in Melbourne since 1883, when he was chief officer of the barque Sandacan. He reports that the voyage, although spun out to 108 days, was productive of a greater share than usual of adverse winds.

SCHOONER FRANK GUY.

The overdue schooner Frank Guy, for the safety of which some uneasiness was felt, arrived at Westport after a voyage of 37 days from Gisborne.

COAL CARGO SHIFTS.

During the voyage of the barque Louisa Craig (formerly named Peru), from Newcastle to Auckland the cargo of coal shifted during a southerly squall, giving the vessel a list of 2ft.

LOCH CARRON'S SMART TRIP.

The barque Loch Carron, which arrived in Port Phillip on Wednesday, made the trip from Adelaide in three days. The barque, which had a general cargo, left London on June 21, and reached Adelaide 88 days later. Running before winds such as sailors revel in, the vessel at times "reeled off" 15 knots an hour, and she averaged as nearly as possible 12 knots an hour from Cape Nelson to Hobson's Bay. Captain S. Clark, an old and popular identity of the Loch line, is still in charge of the Loch Carron, which vessel he joined as master 22 years ago.

NEW STEAMER FOR SPENCER GULF.

On July 26 Messrs. George Brown and Co., of the Garval shipyard, launched the steel screw steamer Karatta, which will come out to South Australia to the order of the Gulf Steamship Company for the Kangaroo Island trade. The Karatta is 176ft long, 28ft broad, and has a depth of 12ft, and on leaving the ways in the shipbuilding yard the steamer was christened by Mrs. C. Willcox, the wife of the chairman of the company. Mr. Brown, the head of the firm, remarked that the vessel would be capable of doing 12½ knots. It is expected that the new vessel will reach Port Adelaide in time to be put into commission for the Christmas traffic to the island and in the gulf.

THE WAKATIPU.

The Wakatipu, with 39 passengers, arrived at Sydney from Launceston, via Eden, at 5 p.m. yesterday. She left Launceston at 2 p.m. on Wednesday. A strong SW gale with heavy beam sea was experienced till passing Gabo Island, thence moderate N winds with moderate sea. The Wakatipu will leave on Wednesday for Launceston, via Eden.

WRECKED STEAMER MONTAGU.

The "bones" of the ill-fated Montagu, which was cast away on Lundy Island, Bristol Channel, over 18 months ago, are being carried away piecemeal by the shipbreakers. Some months ago a syndicate of South Wales adventurers purchased the wreck from the Admiralty for a lump sum, with a view to salving the enormous amount of iron and steel composing the hull. A large number of men were sent to Lundy Island, where they are housed in permanent buildings, and an aerial footway, over 500 yards long, was constructed from the top of the cliffs to the roof of the chart house on the wreck. It is down this footway that the shipbreakers pass every day on their way to their work. Work can only be carried on for a short time at low tide, as the main deck of the wreck is always awash at high water. Every day when the weather permits lighters are brought alongside the wreck—on the side below the footway—and piece by piece huge sections of the armour-plating are being removed from the mighty carcase and transferred to the shore.

NEW STEAMER FOR NORTH COAST COMPANY.

The North Coast S.N. Co., Ltd., in order to meet the requirements of the North Coast trade, has just placed an order for a further new steamer, to be built in Scotland, and it is anticipated that she will arrive at Sydney early next year.

THE BUCENTAUR.

The steamer Bucentaur was floated into the dock at Auckland on Sept. 17. The steamer went ashore on the main reef off Suva last month. About 10 plates will have to be taken out from the forward part, they having been considerably dented. The damage is principally on the starboard side.

MARINE DISTURBANCE.

A shock of earthquake was experienced at sea by the barque Onyx at noon on Sept. 7, whilst on the voyage from Surprise Island to Auckland. The barque at the time was in lat. 25.30deg. south, long. 160.20deg. east. The sea was much agitated around the vessel, which quivered fore and aft for about 10 seconds. It was at first thought that the barque had struck a rock. A few months ago, when the Norwegian barque Drammenseren was bound to Auckland from Malden Island, with a cargo of guano, she met with a similar experience.

ORIENT-ROYAL MAIL LINE OF STEAMERS.

The Thuringen left Bremen on Sept. 14 for Sydney, via Cape of Good Hope.

CANADIAN MAIL SERVICE.

The Moana, from Sydney, Sept. 2, arrived at Vancouver on Sept. 26.

Mr. Massey, leader of the New Zealand Opposition party, has given notice to ask the Dominion Postmaster-General, whether he will expedite matters in connection with the mails from Great Britain to New Zealand, via Vancouver, by arranging for a steamer to be at Suva in time to take over the mails upon arrival there, and bring them on to Auckland without delay.

DEFERRED EXPENDITURE BUDGETS.

The series of cunningly-devised Victorian deferred expenditure budgets has by no means come to an end, writes the "Banking and Insurance Record." The process of forming such a budget is simple enough. You underestimate the revenue, and at the close of the year show a large surplus and invite admiration. All the budgets framed by the present Treasurer of Victoria have been misleading. It is, of course, quite right and proper to exercise caution in estimating the revenue. Moreover, the run of good seasons has caused an expansion beyond anticipations. All this may be allowed, and yet the Victorian budgets of recent years may be regarded as farcical. When the surplus is shown appropriations are made for expenditure which ought to have gone into the previous year's account.

PASTORAL FINANCE ASSOCIATION.

The sixteenth annual report of the above association covers the year ended June 30. It discloses a profit of £10,983, which, added to £2196 brought forward, makes £13,179 available. Out of this sum £1982 has been paid as a rebate to wool-selling shareholders. £10,000 is being transferred to the reserve fund, and £1196 carried forward. Out of last season's clip 66,829 bales of wool were sold by the association at this centre, while from July 1, 1906, to June 30, 1907, 372,772 carcases of mutton and lamb were frozen and exported, bringing total shipments since the resumption of freezing work up to 850,000 carcases. The following comparison may be made of the chief figures of the two last balance-sheets:—

	Year ended June 30, 1906.	1907.

PROPOSED INSURANCE AMALGAMATION.

The confirmatory meeting of the policy-holders of the Mutual Life Association to consider the proposed amalgamation of that body with the Citizens' Life Assurance Company, Ltd., has been convened for October 21. In the circular addressed by the board to the policy-holders the following appears:—

The circular to members of August 20 last, and the agreement therein mentioned, were submitted to two counsel of the Equity Bar, Mr. Alexander Gordon, K.C., and Mr. George E. Rich, for their opinion, and they have advised that they are clearly of opinion that the surplus of profit arising from policies of the Mutual Life Association from time to time subsisting, as determined by actuarial valuation of the liabilities under such policies, is absolutely reserved for the policy-holders of the association only, and free from any contribution to the profits of the shareholders of the company; that the share of expenses to be contributed by the Mutual Life premiums is absolutely limited to 15 per cent. thereof and no more in the year 1908; for the four following years 12½ per cent. per annum and no more; and in subsequent years 10 per cent. per annum and no more; and that from a legal point of view the interests of the holders of policies in the Mutual Life Association are fully protected and preserved by the said agreement.

Some objections to the scheme continue to be made in Melbourne, but the criticisms are for the most part founded on faulty premises.

LAND PURCHASE CUM LIFE ASSURANCE.

Some few weeks back the question of house-purchase cum life assurance was discussed in this column. Now we learn that a development of this idea has been adopted by a local land-selling firm in connection with their land sales. Messrs. Henry F. Halloran and Co. announce elsewhere that their sale contract provides for the absolute transfer of the land to the purchaser's legal representatives, without further payment, in the event of death occurring after payment of one-half of the purchase money, while his representatives have the option of having the contract cancelled and receiving back the whole amount paid on account of the purchase money, should his death take place before one-half of his payments have been made.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLE NEWS.

No marked change has occurred in the position of the Bank of England during the past week, as disclosed by our cabled summary of Thursday's statement of that institution. The open market rate of discount for best three-months bills had eased 1-16d of 1 per cent. during the week. Consols have improved 5s, while among Australian securities very little change has taken place. Metals continue to exhibit irregularity. Spot copper has eased a further £1 10s on the week, tin £1 for spot, while three months has recovered 5s. Lead is 18s 9d better, and spelter 5s, while pig-iron has eased 2s 2d in a period of about 10 days. Bradford tops are firm, merinos being unaltered, while crossbreds have risen ½d during the week. There is somewhat of a reaction in the wheat market, due to heavy shipments coupled with the announcement of a heavier French crop than was anticipated. The butter market is advised as quiet but firm.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

The Australian Alliance Assurance Company notify the removal of their chief office to 23 George-street.

LONDON FINANCIAL CABLES.

Tea. The market continued very quiet. Private sales, reported, covered about 550 Ceylons at 7½d to 9½d and 940 Indians at 6½d to 10½d.

On Thursday, October 3, Messrs. Alfred Harvey and Co. will offer at auction 600 Ceylons on account of Gollin and Co. Proprietary, Limited.

Messrs. Fraser, Cither, and Co. will offer, also on October 2, 689 Ceylons and Chinas on behalf of Parbury, Henty, and Co., and 500 Ceylons on behalf of Thompson, Fraser, Ramsay, Limited.

Messrs. H. W. Carey and Co. will offer on October 4, 1217 Ceylons on account of Messrs. Gibbs, Bright, and Co., Brown and Co., Moses Moss and Co., and Deacon and Co.

Groceries.—Advances were registered in local maizenas and cornflours of ½d per lb, in oatmeal £2 10s per ton, and in split peas and pearl barley £1 per ton. Currants were also firmer, the market oversea having improved ½d per lb since the opening of the month. Current prices were equivalent to 5½d for Provincials and 6d for Amalias landed in store here. Dates were in fair demand, and sales of 100 boxes were reported on a basis of 3½d, and 200 others at 3½d to 3¾d. 400 trays of muscatels were sold to arrive on private terms; 300 boxes of Jordan almonds on private terms, also 10 boxes of the same at 2s 6d. Mildura sultanas went at 6½d for Three Crowns, and up to 7½d for extras. Evaporated apples were quoted at 7½d and 7d in bulk, with sales reported on the lower basis; the same in cartons brought 8d. Apricots were sold at 11d to 11½d, peaches at 11½d, and 4d more for extra quality; pears 10½d. In sardines, Tref. halves, which had been selling at 6s 8d and 6s 7½d during the past week or two, were, owing to the scarcity, being relieved by a shipment from another State, quoted down to 6s 6d, at which price 100 cases were sold. 100 cases of quarters went at 4s; 50 cases of ordinary halves at 4s 4½d, and 100 cases of quarters at 2s 6d. All salmons are in light supply, Karluk Horseshoe being worth 7s for talls. Scroll flats were worth 9s 10½d, and halves 6s 3d; Geems 9s 3d for flats, and 5s 9d talls, and 6s for halves. Whitebait was asked for, and sales aggregating 150 cases were reported at market rates. Imported candles were quiet, Goudas selling in distributing parcels at 8d, D.R.Js. at 7s 3d, Schiedams at 7½d. Imported milks were also quiet, orders being more or less of the "instalment" description, pending the determination of the tariff. A market sale of 10 tons of canary seed was reported at £14.

Chemicals.—Most lines were quiet. Sales, however, were reported of 15 tons of sulphur on spot and to arrive, at £7 15s; 50 casks of "N" rosin went at £12 15s; for "G" grade the price stood unaltered at £10 15s. Two tons of tartaric acid crystals sold at 11½d, 2 tons of cream of tartar at 9½d, and 15 tons of whiting at 65s. Five tons of Calcutta linseed were quitted at £10 15s.

Oils.—Linseed oil was quoted at 3s 5d to 3s 7d for B.'s in market parcels; in distributing lots, 3s 5½d and 3s 7½d were being asked, with second grades 1d under. Station oils and tar were in good demand at usual prices; but other oils were very quiet, quotations, however, disclosing no change.

The Colonial Oil Company are quoting: Snowflake kerosene, 12½d per gallon; Pratt's benzine, 1s 2½d; Pratt's naphtha, 1s 5½d; Pratt's motor car spirit, 1s 5½d; Pratt's gasoline, 1s 11½d.

The British Imperial Oil Company, Limited, quote as under:—"Silverlight" kerosene, in cases, 10½d; "Shell" (Mota) brand benzine, 1s 2½d; "Shell" (Mota) brand naphtha, 1s 5½d; "Shell" (Mota) brand motor car spirit, 1s 5½d; "Shell" (Mota) brand gasolene, 1s 11½d.

Metals.—Business was dull. Ten tons of galvanised hoopiron sold at £16 10s, 100 boxes of XXX tinplates at 25s 6d, and 300 boxes of 20 x 14's at 17s; 150 cases of Kelly's axes went at 47s; German No. 8 black wire had fair sales at £8 15s, and 10 at £9 7s 6d, while for the corresponding gauges galvanised, £11 5s and £11 15s were obtained. White Cross wire was quoted at £12 5s and £12 10s. 350 tons of old railway chairs sold on private terms.

Jute.—Woolpacks sold down to 2s 8½d; but this line is beginning to experience better inquiry. Branbags continued to be quoted at 5s, but were without attention. Cornsacks were without movement. Uganda and Islanda shipments were nominally quoted at 6s, and might have been got at less; but the market was apparently clear of buyers. For later shipments reasonable quotations stood at about 6s 2d.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 4080 bales of wool were manifested to arrive by rail.

BREADSTUFFS.

The market was very quiet, buyers generally being indisposed to operate at anything much better than 4s 3d, while holders manifested little desire for business below 4s 4½d. A sale of a small parcel of 700 bags was, however, reported at 4s 4d.

Flour was firm at £10 for city standards and £9 10s for first quality country makes, and 5s less for secondary qualities. About 200 tons of export business was done with Java at a concession on current market rates.

WHEAT STACKS AND LOADINGS.

On September 21 the wheat stacked at country railway stations numbered 291,881 sacks, being a reduction of 28,370 sacks on the week. A year ago the stackings aggregated 242,884 sacks. At the date last returned the stacks were distributed as follow:—

Station.	Sacks.	Station.	Sacks.
Temora	24,482	Finley	1,680
Gidginbung	5,754	Hay	411

Ganmain	5,072	Darling Island	22,377
Matong	2,574
Berrigan	15,??	Total	291,881

During the week ended September 21 the number of sacks of wheat despatched from country stations on all lines was, according to the Railway Department's return, 20,223, of which 17,068 were loaded on the Southern line, 2142 on the Western, and 1062 on the Northern. This brings the total loadings up to 2,067,177 sacks, as compared with 2,835,544 sacks for the corresponding period of the season previous.

At Darling Harbour yesterday 131 tons of wheat and 60 tons of flour were manifested to arrive.

LONDON MARKET CABLES.

SHEEPSKINS.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

At the periodical sales of sheepskins held yesterday, 4400 bales were offered, and practically the whole of the catalogues were sold. There was a full attendance of buyers, with fair competition. Compared with last auction, merino combings were ½d dearer, merino clothings unchanged, while fine crossbreds were ½d dearer and coarse crossbreds ½d lower.

WHEAT.

There is a slight reaction in the wheat market owing to heavy shipments combined with an official estimate of the French crop of 33,700,000 quarters, which leaves a surplus of 9,000,000 quarters over internal requirements. The American markets are firm, owing to the large demand for Europe, and reports that frost has seriously damaged the Canadian crops. Cargoes are firm, with few offering. Victorian for September-October shipment is held for 41s. Australian on spot is quoted at 40s 6d to 41s 6d ex warehouse. New Zealand short-berried is nominally quoted at 38s to 39s, and short-berried at 39s to 40s.

FLOUR.

There is more inquiry for flour. Patents are quoted at 27s to 27s 6d per sack on the London market.

GRAIN FREIGHTS.

Grain freights from Australian ports are firm. There has been a South Australian fixture for November-December sailing at 26s 3d.

BRADFORD TOPS.

The Bradford market is firm, with an improved inquiry. Super 60's are quoted unchanged at 29d, common 60's unchanged at 28d, 46's ½d higher at 17½d, and 40's ½d higher at 16½d per lb.

BUTTER.

The butter market is quiet, but firm. There have been a few sales of choicest Victorian and New South Wales salted at 112s, and unsalted at up to 116s. There is no demand for stored.

METALS.

Closing quotations are:—

Copper.—Spot, b £66 5s, s £66 10s, a fall of £1 10s on the week.

Tin.—Spot, £1 lower on the week at b £165 15s, s £166 5s, three months, 5s higher on the week at £163 15s, s £164 5s per ton.

Spelter.—5s higher on the week at b £20 15s, s £21 5s per ton.

Pig Iron.—55s 9d per ton, a fall of 2s 2d since September 18.

SUGAR.

Eighty-eight per cent. German beet sugar is quoted 1d higher at 10s, and first marks granulated unchanged at 11s 9d per cwt. f.o.b. Hamburg. The market is quiet.

SILVER.

LONDON, Sept. 26.

Bar silver is quoted to-day 2s 7 1-8d per ounce standard, a fall of 1-16d during the week.

WOOL AND SHEEPSKINS.

Goldsbrough, Mort, and Co., Limited, have received the following cable from their London office, under Thursday's date:—Wool: Supplementing our telegrams on opening night of series, we now particularise as follows—The market is strong, and prices show an advance of 5 per cent. for greasy merinos, and for scoured merinos an advance of 7½ to 10 per cent., as compared with last series. An improvement is shown more particularly on medium and inferior sorts. Crossbreds: For the finer grades prices are in favour of sellers, while slipes are frequently 5 per cent. cheaper, and crossbred lambs show an advance of 5 per cent. as compared with last series. Sheepskins: At sales held to-day prices show an advance of 5 per cent. for full-wooled merinos, and for short-wooled an advance of 2½ per cent. Fine crossbred remain unchanged, and coarse crossbreds are 2½ per cent. cheaper, as compared with rates ruling last auctions.

Harrison, Jones, and Devlin, Limited, beg to report having received from their London agents, Messrs. Sanderson, Murray, and Co., the undermentioned cablegram, dated London, 26th September, 1907:—"The market for merino sheepskins has advanced ½d, and the fine crossbred is firm. For other descriptions the market has declined ½d to ½d."

The Australian Mortgage, Land, and Finance Co., Ltd., received the following cable from their London office:—"Sheepskins: Compared with the last series, prices at to-day's auction sales were ½d per lb higher for full-woolled merino, ½d per lb higher for half-woolled merino, ½d per lb lower for crossbred and coarse crossbred."

INTERSTATE MARKETS.

ADELAIDE, Friday.

The wheat market continued quiet to-day, with values unaltered at 4s, no parcels changing hands. Flour is selling freely. Bran and pollard were held for 1s. Oats going for export were sold at 2s 9d. Butter was steady at 10d to 11d for top quality. Eggs, 11½d.

BRISBANE, Friday.

The market was dull to-day. The leading prices on offer were as follow:—Chaff, lucerne, prime 4s 7d and 5s, mixed 4s; lucerne, ensilage, 3s; lucerne hay, prime 5s 9d; maize, 2s 8d to 2s 9d; potatoes, prime 4s 3d to 5s 6d, sweet 1s 6d; barley, 2s 3d; chickwheat, 3s 6d; pollard, 4s 6d; eggs, ordinary 6½d to 6¾d, special 7d to 7½d, large supplies and brisk demand; butter, 9d to 10½d.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

Wheat was firm at 4s 3½d to 4s 4d. Prime sold to 4s 4d. Flour was rather quiet at £10. Bran sold at 1s ex rail, some millers quoting 1s 0½d delivered. There was good business for export at 1s. Pollard was quoted at 11½d to 1s. Algerian oats were firm, but business was less active. Milling, 2s 10½d to 2s 11d; feed, 2s 9d to 2s 10d. Maize ruled at 3s 6½d to 3s 7d. PRODUCE MARKETS.

TRADE IN SUSSEX-STREET.

THE SPURT IN MAIZE.

As the rain of the early part of the week drifts further into the past without being followed by substantial showers, the tendency of values is to firm more and more. Yesterday maize furnished a case in point, while on Thursday 3s 4d was the top figure asked, with the resumption of business holders took a very firm stand, advancing in cases to 3s 6d.

On the authority of a prominent Sussex-street merchant, it was stated that the true inwardness of the situation lay as follows:—A group of Melbourne operators, which has recently been successful in cornering the southern maize market, has just been attempting to get control of the Sydney supply. How far they were felt must remain matter for conjecture. But yesterday morning several maize speculators, to whom the Melbourne party might have belonged, found before proceeding far in their buying, that they had secured the bulk of the available grain. The apparent contradiction afforded by the heavy wharf stacks was explained by the fact that much of the latter had been sold, and another heavy percentage had been bought for holding by Sydney firms, only a moderate balance being available for the day's transactions. The speculators therefore felt strong enough to jump the price of the commodity, 2d, being confident that, with a Queensland dry weather market, absorbing Wallangarra grain, and short supplies coming from the north coast, they would be able to unload before the market broke. The price of flat red maize in Melbourne yesterday afternoon was 3s 6½d to 3s 7d, a figure which may not unreasonably be expected in Sydney. It should, however, cause retailers no concern, unless they are foolish enough to undertake a little plunging on their own account. The most strenuous booming of the maize market to 3s 9d will be of no avail when the right opposite factor turns up. Yesterday the trade appeared wise enough to stick to its current policy of buying strictly down to customers' requirements, resisting the temptation to leave a margin for a possible rise. River arrivals remained at the short figure of 7000 odd bags last week, equal to about the supply for some weeks past. A creditable informant stated that prime red maize was scarce on the Macleay, and generally the coastal growth, as far as can be judged, is only a two-thirds crop. The Sydney market is now in the uniquely strong position of being relieved of Victorian and Queensland competition, owing to the general dryness, but this also means that good rain in any one of the three States will inevitably depress values in the other two.

Sales were actually disclosed yesterday at 3s 6d, while it was mentioned that a line of weevily grain, at which buyers smiled a week ago when 3s 1d was asked, went to-day for 3s 4d. Whether the spurt will be maintained is an open issue, but there could be no question as to its being a sellers' market yesterday morning.

High levels were reached at the railway, where Maitland lucerne brought over £6 and small bales made up to £5 17s 6d. It did not strain the imagination to conceive of better samples than those sold. In the city sale inquiry was made for prime Adelaide chaff at £5 10s, while Victorian cuts were not purchasable under £5 5s. Mill offals were also in a strong position.

Current quotations were:—

FEED-GRAIN AND OFFAL MARKET.

Barley.—Victorian; Cape, 2s 10d bus.

DAIRY PRODUCE.

About an average volume of business was done in dairy produce lines.

The regular Friday arrival of river eggs was not in excess of market requirements. In addition, owing to the operations of biscuit bakers, stocks showed a tendency to clear promptly, and in some cases the previous top figure was improved by a farthing. Southerns were worth to 8½d, and suburban to 9½d.

At the afternoon auction all classes were stronger by about ½d.

No change in values on fair business was reported in other commodities.

AUCTION SALES.

Buyers turned up in good numbers at the railway yards, and a good sale resulted. For the 30 trucks of mixed produce offered bidding was animated, and 22 lots were disposed of. For good quality produce a firm demand was manifested, but inferior sorts provoked little competition. Of the 11 lots of chaff submitted 10 were disposed of at firmer rates. The slight drop in values on account of Tuesday's shower has been amply made up. Extra prime oaten chaff realised 5s 3d, a fine lot from Hackett, of Perth, topping the market. Prime wheaten realised 5s 1d, good 4s 8d to 4s 11d, medium 4s 2d, 4s 3d, rough 3s 5d to 3s 11d. Lucerne showed enhanced values, some soft new hay in small bales, from Porter, East Maitland, bringing 6s 1d, medium small bales old summer hay brought 5s, prime large bales sold for 5s 2d, medium 4s 7d. Potatoes sold slowly at 1s 8d to 2s, and turnips found buyers at 3s to 3s 3d large, small 2s 6d.

MUNICIPAL RATING.

A preliminary meeting of the Rating on Unimproved Land Values League was held at the School of Arts on Thursday, Alderman J. A. Ryan (Dubbo) presiding.

Mr. J. R. Firth said that as the enrolment in connection with the forthcoming municipal and shire elections was proceeding apace, it was necessary that the constitution of the league be formally decided, so that work of education and organisation might be effective. It was vitally necessary that the provisions of the law relating to rating be widely known.

Mr. B. Richards said that time was short to educate the public on the qualification for the franchise, and the different rating provisions, seeing that November 24 was their limit. Only some municipalities were printing the necessary statutory declaration, while others were leaving it to the electors themselves—a totally unfair responsibility. The Government should compel all municipalities to have the necessary declaration form printed.

Mr. P. C. Stevens said that the work of getting the league under way required the utmost expedition if it were to properly direct the tide of public opinion along the channels of real reform. No Act of recent years paved the way for fundamental changes in our methods of government as the Local Government Act.

The following are the temporary office-bearers:—President, Alderman J. A. Ryan (Dubbo); treasurer, Mr. J. R. Firth; joint secretaries, Mr. P. C. Stevens and Mr. W. Stace Lloyd; vice-presidents, Aldermen W. J. Pearson, H. Linthorne, and Oakley, Mr. W. Buckingham, and a committee of 14.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

THE SHARE MARKET.

A quiet market was experienced yesterday morning, and the amount of business done was on limited lines.

In the copper section the only transaction recorded was in Budgery Mines (paid) at 4s. Silver shares furnished transactions in British Broken Hill (old) at 25s, Broken Hill Junction North at 32s, Broken Hill Proprietary at 66s, and Sulphide Corporation at 13s 3d and 13s.

A small amount of business was done in tin shares, sales being booked in Gilmore Tin at 6s 4d and 6s 4½d, and in Vulcan Tin at 6s. The feature of the market in gold stocks was the large number of transactions in Mount David. They opened at 5s 3d, moved to 5s 4d, and then eased back to 5s. Harden Gold Mine were weak at 18s.

The afternoon showed no signs of animation in either copper, silver, or gold shares, whilst tin stocks were neglected. In gold stocks, Mount Davids receded to 4s 11½d, as the result of "bear" operations.

MINING NOTES.

The Mount Magnet silver mine (Tas.) has declared a dividend of 1s per share, payable on October 23.

The Yerranderie Silver-mining Company has declared a dividend of 1s 6d per share, payable on October 9. The transfer books close on October 3.

Mr. H. F. Helder announces that he is starting business as legal manager and accountant at No. 6 Yaralla-chambers, 109 Pitt-street.

The shaft of the South Budgery copper mine, Hermidale, is down 194ft, and timbered 174ft. The country passed through last fortnight showed very little change, except that more quartz is making.

The Cope's Creek Central Tin-dredging Company was last week engaged sluicing, chiefly on overburden. A fair quantity of average ground is being treated. The boxes were run down on the 16th instant.

London quotations dated September 26, received by the B.H. Proprietary, give the official quotation for silver at 2s 7½d, whilst the buying quotation for lead was £21 10s; company's shares, 65s 6d; and zinc, £21.

The New Hillgrove Proprietary mines will, in a day or two, start to crosscut for the lode from the No. 12 level. Good progress is being made with the construction work at the Styx River, and also in connection with the Eleanora mill.

The Association No. 1 dredge has completed the formation of a dam across the river, and water is now raised sufficiently to permit opening out a new face into Racecourse Flat. This is being proceeded with. The dredge will not stop to clean up to-day. No. 2 dredge is working well in good average ground.

Private cables state that amongst the sales quoted on the London Stock Exchange on Thursday were the following:—Briseis, 11s 3d (m); Chillagoes, b 6s 3d; Sulphide Corporation, s 13s; Great Cobar, Limited, b £7 12s 6d; Mount Elliott, b 60s; and Boulder Perseverance, 6s 6d (m). Copper was quoted at £66 7s 6d, a rise of £1 12s 6d per ton.

At the Buppe copper mine, Canbelego, the shaft is down on the underlay 61ft, and vertical 115ft. Carbonates of copper, both blue and green, are still showing in the country passed through. This lode outcrops on the surface, and is now proved to the foregoing depth, from which it appears to be a very large ore body, and a permanent one. The footwall of the lode is quartzite, and the hanging wall silurian slate.

The eastern crosscut at the 180ft level of the Great South Peak gold mine, is in hard blue slate country, intermixed with quartz stringers. All the faces and floors are showing rich-looking gossan, the last few feet of the drive presenting a healthy appearance. The manager thinks he will have to drive further than his original estimate (20ft) to cut the big lode body that should come down from the 100ft level.

The manager of the Blayney Copper Mines and Smelting Company, reporting on the 23rd instant, states that the water was lowered 38ft for the week, and is down 273ft. The total quantity baled was 420,000 gallons, and the assay value of the water was 32lb of copper to 1000 gallons. The 180ft level was retimbered 20ft, and rails laid to 182ft from the shaft. The De Bone shaft is down 182ft, and the crosscut at the 177ft level was advanced 6ft.

Reporting on September 19, the manager of the Gilmore Tin Mining Syndicate states that there is no change in the lode at No. 1 level of the Dolly Gray shaft. At the No. 2 level, a winze is going down on fair stone. In the Midas section the overhand stope is producing good stone; whilst the winze from the 90ft level is all in high-grade ore. Some 111 tons of ore have been sent to the mill, and 310 tons are at the Koorboora battery awaiting crushing.

The Brilliant and St. George United Company (Charters Towers) reports a crushing of 462 tons for a yield of 376oz of smelted gold. Cyanide bullion to the value of £649 was recovered. The manager reports having struck a formation at 932ft in the Hope lease. It was followed by an influx of heavy water, which has caused sinking operations to be suspended for the present. The Quinn's Block Company has washed up a crushing of 294 tons for a yield of gold worth £1102.

The owner of the Waratah gold mine, Mr. C. G. Ramsay, states that he has given an option to Mr. S. Rennie, of Young, to take out 150 tons of ore on payment of a 5 per cent. royalty, two-fifths of the net profits to be paid, if work is continued and power given to float a company on an approved share capital, and other terms. Two bulk tests were made at the Clyde works. One parcel of 2 tons 14cwt of stone assayed 3oz 11dwt, and yielded 2oz 13dwt 5gr smelted gold per ton. The other, of one ton, assayed 3oz 12dwt, and yielded 2½oz smelted gold. Four tons seven hundredweight from one mullock heap sent to the Cullinga battery yielded £17 14s worth of smelted gold; while two lots sent to the Wyalong works, one of 3 tons, after deducting usual 10 per cent., yielded 1oz 8dwt per ton, and the other, of 4 tons 15cwt., less usual 10 per cent., yielded 2oz 10dwt 18gr per ton. The ore channel is between 2ft and 3ft wide, with only a pyritous quartz vein of about 4in of ore on the surface, increasing to over 12in at 46ft depth. The gold is worth £4 per ounce. The fissure is said to be in the same line of country as the Harden group of mines.

GREAT COBAR, LIMITED.

The output of the Great Cobar, Limited, for the past four weeks, was 16,400 tons of ore for 1050 tons of matte, containing 350 tons of copper, 1160oz of gold, and 6300oz silver. The return for the four weeks ended August 2 was:—15,722 tons of ore treated for 384 tons of copper, 1100oz gold, and 6100oz of silver.

BARRIER MINES.

BROKEN HILL, Thursday.

The Central mine's new mill is commencing to do better work. Last week it treated over 4000 tons of crudes for over 700 tons of concentrates. The slimes plant is also doing better work, turning out high-grade concentrates and making particularly good metals recovery. About 120 tons of slimes is daily being treated.

The Block 10 mill last week treated 2763 tons of crudes, assaying 14¼ per cent. lead, 13½oz silver, and 19.4 per cent. zinc, for 446 tons of concentrates assaying 61.4 per cent. lead, 32.3oz silver, and 9½ per cent. zinc.

THE ZINC CORPORATION.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Good progress is being made with the erection of the Zinc Corporation's No. 1 plant. Twelve grinding pans have been installed, and a set of Huntington mills is being put in to treat the residues from the pans. The foundations for the Elmore plant are being prepared. The Elmore machinery is now on the way from England. The plant will have a capacity of 500 tons of tailings daily. The works now in progress will be completed before the end of October.

SHORTAGE OF RAILWAY TRUCKS.

MINING OPERATIONS RETARDED.

BROKEN HILL, Friday.

Several of the mines are again complaining of shortage of railway trucks to take away products, and complaints to the South Australian Railway authorities receive no satisfaction. Although the traffic from Broken Hill has enormously increased during the past year there has been no appreciable increase in the rolling stock.

Mr. Hebbard, manager of the Sulphide Corporation, states that his company has lost heavily, the losses aggregating thousands of pounds, through the inability of the railway to take away the mine's products. Zinc has been sold at £21 and £22 per ton, instead of £23 and £24, through missing the market. The concentrates on hand continue to accumulate, with apparently no possibility of relief. Last week the production was 2805 tons, but trucks were only available for 2411 tons. The accumulation now totals over 5700 tons. If a regular supply of trucks were available the mine could keep up a regular supply of the product week by week, but this it is unable to do under the existing circumstances.

WATTLE FLAT FIELD.

LITHGOW, Friday.

A report from Wattle Flat states that the Big Oakey Company is sinking a shaft on the massive lode. As far as the shaft has gone, there is no change in values. The Little Oakey has been doing developing work, and is now piling up stone for crushing. Davis and mate have a good lot of stone at grass awaiting crushing. Mr. Sullivan is still pegging away on the old Frenchman's reef doing developing work. Hartley and Co. are going down on what looks a very promising reef. Campbell and Jacobs are prospecting a show where good specimens were got in the old days. Atherton and Son, of the old Queenslander, are carting stone to their battery on Oakey Creek, and will start crushing in a day or two.

MOUNT BISCHOFF TIN MINE.

LAUNCESTON, Friday.

The condition of the north alluvial face of the Mount Bischoff mine continues very satisfactory, while the new lode on the north-east wall of brown face is carrying remarkably good tin. Bench No. 11 is producing very fair ore, and No. 2 is also yielding dirt of good average grade. Vigorous prospecting work is to be started on both the Wheal and Bischoff sections. A strong outcrop has been discovered on the north-western side of the Mount, and can be traced for a considerable distance. This will be opened up. Work will also be resumed on the North Valley. Two feet of good quality ore material are being stoped in No. 3 adit on the Wheal section, while at No. 6 adit a winze is to be sunk on a lode formation 2ft wide.

LONDON SHARE MARKET.

LONDON, Sept. 27.

On the Stock Exchange yesterday quotations of Australian mining ventures were:—Broken Hill Proprietary, b 65s, s 67s 6d; British Broken Hill, b 24s 4d, s 25s 7d.

NO. 7 DISTRICT BADGE.

The competition for the best shot badge in No. 7 District took place at Randwick on Wednesday, the conditions being eight shots at 200, 500, and 600 yards stationary targets, and eight shots at 300 yards at the disappearing target. The result of the shooting was as follows:—R. Mason (Portland), 125; M. H. Treadmond (Lithgow), 122; and A. E. Palmer (Wallerawang), 116.

WINDSOR, Thursday.

Following are the prizewinners for quarter ended September, 1907:—Res. J. W. Ross, 177; L. C. Peck, 173; Jno. Gray, 171; R. Waters, 170; C. F. Mortley, 167; J. W. Chandler, 164; T. Cross, 162; A. Moses, 149.

The eighth quarterly shot of the Windsor Rifle Club, held on Wednesday last, at 600yds and 900yds, resulted as follows:—Res. Waters, 56; Peck, 54; W. Ross, 53; C. Mortley, 52; Gray, 47.

THE POWER OF PRODUCTION.

A MENTAL FORCE.

There are probably few people who have not, at some time or another, exclaimed, when viewing a great achievement in Art, in Literature, in Science, or in Business: "Why did not I do that?" The question is capable of teaching us a good deal concerning the secret of the power of production. Why did I not do that? It is simple, but I did not think of it. Why not? Give the matter consideration, and the answer is plain. It did not occur to you. The other man thought of it, and justly gets the reward. There are so many simple things, and so many rewards; yet so few people think of these simple things. Now, if instead of dismissing the matter, we really give it our attention, the first thing which we must grasp, the fundamental principle underlying the whole subject, is the fact that all production, no matter what its character, originates in the brain; and in the use of the brain lies the true difference between individuals.

Many people are led astray by the idea that because they have not had a university education they are naturally limited as regards thought; and others are equally as far astray in thinking that because they have received an education above the average they are therefore naturally fully equipped to deal with any subject and all subjects without effort. This is a fallacy, and one that we are so prone to accept that it is doubly dangerous. The specific distinction between an educated and an uneducated man is in the power of reflection; the memory of the former has been trained, that of the latter has been left wild.

The successful men in Art, in Literature, in Science, and in Business are the men who think. Thinking with a definite purpose in view is the glory of the mind. Perceiving the reasons of one fact, we correctly infer the reasons why other facts should be found, and it is by fixing the intellect on a subject, and by bringing within our knowledge all the facts that by any possibility relate to that subject, in order to elucidate it, that discoveries are made, improvements devised, and the individual enabled to rise superior to his fellows.

Such being the case, the nature of memory, and the part it plays in the affairs of everyday life, are points well worth considering. There are many who imagine memory to be simply the faculty on which we rely for the storage of a certain amount of knowledge, to enable us correctly to answer questions set at examination, and to be certified as possessing so much knowledge. But is that all? By no means. There are two equally important functions in the memory. The first is the ability to acquire, the second is the ability to recall, and it is upon the second that we rely for thought. The trained memory brings before the mind all the facts that in any way relate to the subject we may be considering, and on the way in which the memory acts, true or false, so will our decisions be. We have the material—knowledge—but each individual must do his own building.

There is just scrambling room for the many in the crowd; there always is, and always will be, plenty of room at the top. There is a great demand for good men in every profession, avocation, and walk in life, but they must be thinkers, builders, men who use their knowledge for improvement. There is little use for the mere possessor of knowledge; there is a great demand for those who use it. To the man with a trained memory, not only is the acquirement of knowledge an easy matter, but, and by far the more important, the use of the knowledge so acquired opens up a way for him to rise from the ranks. In addition to reception we must have the ability to turn reception into production. Train your memory if you wish to succeed; competition is keen, and you cannot afford to handicap yourself by neglecting to train the faculty on which you most depend for advancement. It is not economy to try to save a little time and expense when that time and expense would equip you with the only power that ensures success.

The System of Memory Training in successful use over the whole of the civilised world is the Pelman. Not only has the possibility of training the memory been demonstrated, but the training has already resulted in complete success in some thousands of cases. Pelman Schools, from which the System is taught by postal lessons, have been established for several years in England, Germany, France, America, and South Africa, and now added to these is the Pelman School of Australia, recently opened in Melbourne.

Those wishing to receive particulars of the Course of Instruction should address an application to "The Secretary of the Pelman School of Memory Training, Stock Exchange-building, Melbourne." The absolute simplicity of the Course is one of its greatest recommendations, and anyone who is able to read and write cannot fail to grasp the Lessons and apply them in a practical manner. A man with a good memory learns more, applies his knowledge more profitably, and works with greater ease and facility than the man with a bad memory, who finds learning laborious and long, because he does not learn intelligently.

A bad memory may be either inherited or acquired. It may be due to insufficient attention or lack of concentrative power, or to any one of numerous other causes, but be its origin what it may, the worst memory is made good by the Pelman System, whilst a memory already good rapidly becomes phenomenal with the aid of its simple and practical rules.

SPORTING.

THE TURF.

The Hawkesbury Race Club caters for metropolitan racegoers at Clarendon, near Windsor, this afternoon; Victorian sportsmen assemble at Moonee Valley, where the Melbourne Hunt Club holds its September meeting; South Australian Tattersall's Club brings off its spring meeting at Morphettville; and Brisbane sporting folk will have an outing at Albion Park.

Mr. H. Chisholm's Martini-Henry mare Pretence has produced a filly foal to Newhaven, and will this season be mated with imported Orzil.

Ambassador was yesterday struck out of the Park Stakes, in connection with the Hawkesbury Race Club's Spring Meeting.

The scratchings recorded yesterday in connection with the A.J.C. Spring Meeting were Corzil, out of the Derby; Moet, out of the Breeders' Plate and Gimcrack Stakes; and Courier and Fingal out of all engagements.

Among the visitors who have signified their intention to be present at the A.J.C. Spring reunion, are his Excellency Sir Harry Rawson (all four days) and his Excellency Admiral Fawkes. The Victorian visitors include Messrs. L. K. S. MacKinnon, A. Yuille, Agar Wynne, and W. H. Croker, of the V.R.C.; Colonel Campbell (V.A.T.C.), Harvey Paterson, and J. V. Smith; the Tasmanian contingent includes Messrs. W. A. Finlay (Tasmanian Racing Club) and T. Gatenby (Tasmanian Turf Club), while among the New Zealand sportsmen are Messrs. J. C. N. Grigg and J. F. Buchanan, of the Canterbury Jockey Club committee.

Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co. announce that they will hold a sale of blood stock on October 14, at their yards, Randwick.

Nominations for the half-dozen events on the card for the Spring Meeting of City Tattersall's Club must be lodged with the secretary, Mr. Frank Walton, before 4 p.m. on Monday next, the 30th instant, a fixture which those interested should not overlook. The added money totals £700.

Owners and trainers of racehorses are reminded that final forfeits for the A.J.C. Derby, Epsom Handicap, the Metropolitan, Breeders' Plate, and Gimcrack Stakes fall due at 4 p.m. on Thursday next, and all horses remaining in over that hour become liable for the full stake.

A sale of blood stock will be held by Messrs. William Inglis and Son, at Payten's Newmarket stables, Lower Randwick, on October 31.

HAWKESBURY RACE CLUB.

SPRING MEETING.

An enjoyable outing for metropolitan sporting folk is provided this afternoon by the Hawkesbury Race Club at Clarendon, and the programme for the occasion foreshadows interesting sport. Advices from the scene of action state that the tracks are in good order, and that the management has made due preparation for visitors in the catering and all other departments. The special transit service by rail includes trains starting from the Central Railway Station at 10.16 a.m. (horses and attendants), 11.13 and 11.50 a.m. (mixed), 12.22 (first-class), and 1 p.m. (mixed), while the sport commences at 1.55 p.m. The Flying Handicap is the first to engage attention, and, at the weights, Bobs, Violet Cup, Lisnarte, and Maori Girl appear to have the best prospects, and the places may be filled by Maori Girl, Bobs, and Violet Cup. The Intended, Fez, The Shades, Orange, and Wee Willie seem to have the settlement of the Stewards' Mile among them, and the judge may declare for Fez, The Shades, and The Intended. A large field is promised for the Park Stakes, and the most likely to show prominently in the contest are Shiloh, Metal King, Kolpata, Astron, and Bride's Veil, while the situations may be occupied by Shiloh, Kolpata, and Astron. The pick of the candidates for the Spring Handicap appear to be The Shades, Fez, Fanshawe, Welcome Trist, and King's Cross, and the numbers may be hoisted for Welcome Trist, The Shades, and King's Cross. Graphic, Kirriner, London, Wee Willie, and Becky read as well as anything in the Highweight Handicap, and Wee Willie, Graphic, and Becky may pass the judge as named. The Hunters' Steeplechase, with which the meeting winds up, seems to be a good thing for Unanderra, and he may experience most trouble from The Breaker and Burnima. The programme is subjoined:—

VICTORIAN SPORTING NOTES.

MELBOURNE, Friday.

The Sandown Park stewards on the 11th inst disqualified the mare Seafoam, the rider, W. Kaeson, and the trainer, F. Forbes, for 12 months on the ground of suspicious practices in the Jumpers' Flat Race. H. Mort, the owner of Seafoam, and Kaeson and Forbes appealed to the V.R.C. committee, who reversed the decision to-day. Kaeson, however, was fined £10 for not observing the riding-out rule. Forbes, for a reason not officially stated, was also fined £10.

Miss Bobby has been scratched for the Toorak Handicap, and The Amnesty colt for the Debutant Stakes to be run at the V.A.T.C. Spring Meeting.

ASHFIELD BOWLING CLUB.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Ashfield Bowling Club was held on Thursday. The report disclosed the most successful season from a player's point in the club's history. The blue ribbon of bowls, the coveted Pennant trophy, was at last gained by the club. The Rawson trophy was won for the second time, and one more victory will secure its final possession. Matches with visiting teams included victories against four rinks from New Zealand, and against a like number from Victoria.

The club championship was won by Mr. A. Noakes, the runner-up being Mr. N. D. H. Hopson. The president's handicap fell to Mr. J. Sheather, who was followed by Mr. J. G. Bisset; Messrs. Swain, Dunlop, G. A. Byon, and Davies won the vice-presidents' trophies; the pairs went to Messrs. Sheather and Martin; and the single to Mr. Hopson. In all matches played the Ashfield Club scored 5275 points against 4963 by its opponents. The club's receipts amounted to £397 1s 4d, and its expenditure to £4 to 4d less than that amount.

The election of officers resulted as follows:—President, Mr. G. Watson; vice-presidents, Messrs. T. Blundell, S. H. Cary, T. Day, J. Harrison, E. Richards, and D. J. Schofield; committee, Messrs. J. Entries will close on the post, as many members expected to start have not yet handed in their names.

MOTOR BOATING.

The Motor Boat Club of New South Wales will hold its opening run of the season to Dodd Island on November 16. The members' boats will rendezvous close to the island, and it is expected that several events for launches will be run off.

The Motor Boat Club, at its meeting last week, decided to inaugurate a race, entitled the Motor Boat Championship of Australasia, this year. The prize will be a silver cup, valued at £25. The entry fee will be £5 5s per boat. The first race will take place in the beginning of 1908, on Sydney Harbour.

The coming season promises to be an extremely lively one in the motor launch business. All the Sydney builders are rushed with work. Among the new boats just completed is a 30ft cedar hull, by W. Holmes, for Mr. G. H. Bener, of the N.S.W. The boat is finished throughout in polished cedar. It has a bent glass front screen as a protection against spray. This may be swung, enabling access to the front deck, and be unshipped and stowed when desired. It also has a folding hood of bent wood, with supports of polished brass. The motor is a two-cylinder 6-h.p. 20th Century Standard, equipped with all latest improvements. It is finished in crimson enamel and polished bronze. In trials this boat showed a speed of 9½ miles.

Mr. Goddard, the Lavender Bay builder, is just putting the finishing touches to a 30ft hull for Mr. E. Cowlishaw. This hull is of kauri, finished in white enamel, and is equipped with a 4-h.p. Simplex motor.

A substantial 25ft hull is also under construction by Pritchard Bros. for the Fisheries Department, and is being equipped for open sea work. A 6-h.p. 20th Century Standard motor will be installed.

W. Ford has under construction a 25ft hull for Mr. Haywood, and as this gentleman has designed a number of successful hulls for motor boat enthusiasts, the lines he is adopting in this boat should be up-to-date. It is to be fitted with a 4-h.p. Simplex marine motor, and is expected to show a fair turn of speed for a full cruising boat.

All the Sydney agents report large numbers of inquiries for marine motors, and in order to be in a position to give prompt delivery of complete boats, The Knowles Co. are placing orders for 25 hulls, of 20ft, 25ft, and 30ft sizes, to be put under way at once, by Sydney's leading builders.

AUSTRAL MEETING.

The Austral meeting will take place this year in the Melbourne Cricket Ground, on December 7 and 14. The race was first run on the M.C.C. Cricket Ground, and continued to be a source of pleasure and attraction to thousands of the public for over 17 years. In order to mark their reappearance on the M.C.C. Ground the club is offering £100 for a novelty to be run in conjunction with the Austral.

CONTINENTAL CYCLING.

"Major" Taylor made his last appearance before a Parisian audience on August 22 in a series of best of three match races against Gabriel Poulain, the ex-world's champion, and much to the surprise of the critics beat the Frenchman at his own game, winning two in succession.

GAS AND PETROL ENGINES.

The enormous development that has taken place in recent years in the use of internal combustion engines has been due primarily to two causes, viz., the evolution of the gas-producer (of the suction and pressure types), and the motor vehicle for pleasure and industrial purposes.

It is difficult to indicate in what direction future improvement is likely. It is improbable in general practice with large gas engines that more than 1000 horse-power will be developed in one cylinder. Some authorities look for advancement in the direction of compounding.

At the recent meeting of the British Association, at Leicester, Mr. Dougall Clerk stated that at no previous time have the gas and oil engine builders had so many orders in hand, and never before had these motors been applied so successfully to so many different purposes. The larger part of the gas engine industry is occupied with motors under 100 h.p. per cylinder. The turnover in Britain at present of such engines is at the rate of 300 per week.

FOOTBALL.

BRITISH ASSOCIATION FINAL.

SECOND-GRADE RUGBY FINAL.

In spite of the warm weather at present followers of football, will have a good programme placed before them at the newly-acquired Rugby ground at Epping, Forest Lodge. There is a school game (Association) at 1 p.m., the second-grade Rugby Union final will take place between Newtown and Glebe at 2.30 p.m., and Pyrmont and Broadmeadow will wind up the B.A. Gardiner Cup final. An unusual variety of football will be given. In the B.A. final the contestants have had to win three matches to qualify, and they are very evenly matched. Broadmeadow is a Newcastle team.

N.S.W. LEAGUE'S FINAL.

The challenge final of the league competition, Newtown v Sydney, which should have been played to-day, is deferred for a week, as there is no ground available.

LAWN TENNIS.

STRATHFIELD TOURNAMENT.

Entries close to-day for the metropolitan championship tournament at Strathfield. As usual a very large entry is already assured. A glance over the championship entries reveals the fact that with the exception of W. A. Gregg, who has removed to the country, there is no notable absentee. The doubles holders are A. B. Jones and G. W. Wright, and there are many notable combinations from which the challengers may spring. Doust and Puckley, Kilston and Campbell, S. T. Jones and W. Clark, Rice and C. Anderson, and Parker and Bowker are among those likely to show up prominently. The singles should on paper bring forth a duel between Rice (champion of Australia) and Parker (the present holder of the metropolitan championship), but it is too early to prognosticate with any certainty.

SYDNEY CLUB.

This afternoon the final round of the double championship will be played at the Sydney Cricket Ground, when A. B. Jones and G. W. Wright will meet S. Doust and E. Pockley. As there will be no challenge round, the winners will secure the title. All the players are in splendid form, and a fine contest may reasonably be expected.

SAILING.

PRINCE ALFRED YACHT CLUB.

The following programme of races has been determined upon for the coming season by the committee of the Prince Alfred Yacht Club:—
November.—2nd, opening rendezvous; 16th, Rawson Cup; 30th, Petrel Cup.
December.—14th, Basin Cup; 21st, championship; cruiser handicap.
January.—25th, Marshall Plate.
February.—8th, championship; 22nd, Jersey trophy.
March.—7th, championship, cruiser handicap; 21st, general handicap.
Motor boat rendezvous at a date to be fixed.
Easter: Rendezvous.

SYDNEY DINGY CLUB.

Under the flag of the Sydney Dingy Club, handicaps for 10-footers, 8-footers, and yachts' dingies respectively will be sailed this afternoon, these being the opening races of the club. Clark Island will form the starting and finishing point for the three races, and patrons will have the option of viewing the contests either from this picturesque spot or from the club steamer Lady Napier. The courses, entries, etc., are as follows:—

10-footers. Course: Round Watson's Bay Pilelight and Shark Island.—N.S.W. (T. Kell), Waratah (T. Keddie), Australia (W. Durning), Estelle (W. Johnson), and Britannia (R. Iveson), scr; Weka (F. Harry), and Jessie (W. West), 1½m; Ensign (F. Petherbridge), and Moray (D. Murray), 2m; Arthur (W. Brett), 2½m; Olga (M. West), 3¼m; Pheasant (T. Tait), 5m. 8-footers.—Course, round Shark Island Twice; Zephyr (W. E. Clark), scr; Australian (P. Edwards), 1¼m; Leila (P. Schultz), 2m. Yachts' dingies—Course, round Shark Island: Awanui, Culwulla, Caprice, Akarana, Saionara, Sunbeam, Heather, and Terry.

The club steamer is timed to leave Stephen-street, Balmain, at 2.30, Pointpiper 2.25, Darling-street 2.45, and Fort Macquarie at 3.15.

The first open-boat race of the season is set down for decision next Saturday under the auspices of the Sydney Flying Squadron. Entries close on Monday evening.

SWIMMING.

REDFERN CLUB.

The Redfern Swimming Club held its annual meeting at the club rooms, 209 Cleveland-street, Redfern, on Wednesday night last. There was a large attendance of members. The balance-sheet showed the largest credit balance since the club has been in existence, and the outlook for the coming season promises to be even better than the past. The following officers were elected:—Patrons, Mr. J. S. T. M'Gowen, M.L.A., Alderman Todd (Mayor of Redfern); president, Alderman G. Howe; vice-presidents, Aldermen of Redfern, Messrs. T. Danks, T. Desrin, John Hunter, J. P. Wilson, H. V. Smith, P. Cloran, F. Pemell, Dr. Lodowici, C. Mason, J. Coates, Gibson, Phillips, Galligan, D. Jones, Balding, M. Field; captain, Mr. A. Wiseman; vice-captain, Mr. J. Kearney; starter and timekeeper, Mr. T. C. Roberts; judges, Messrs. E. Mullins, J. Purcell, M. Galligan; instructors, Messrs. W. Wells, R. Walsh; delegate, Mr. J. Kearney; recorder, Mr. H. Oliffe; handicapper, Mr. J. O'Hare; committee, Messrs. W. Watson, W. Wrian, E. Nathan, R. Nathan, P. Smith, J. Mostyn; hon. secretary and treasurer, Mr. J. Mitchell. The racing season will commence during October.

BILLIARDS.

AUSTRALASIAN CHAMPIONSHIP.

WON BY BELFIELD.

The match between Messrs. J. B. Belfield and E. L. Jacoby, the former amateur champion of N.S.W. and his opponent of Victoria, was continued yesterday afternoon and concluded in the evening, the result being an easy victory for the New South Welshman by 1128. The game was 3000, divided over five sessions of 600 each. At the end of the first half hour on Wednesday evening Belfield took the lead, and playing in masterly fashion, he never looked like losing. The Victorian was completely outplayed. Undoubtedly Belfield is the better player, but all the same Jacoby was not seen at his best. Occasionally he gave glimpses of form, which were far in advance of his general execution. He struck Belfield, despite the latter's illness, in his best form. Still, Jacoby had consistent bad luck.

This is the second year of the championship. In the first year Mr. H. Rumball (N.S.W.) beat Mr. A. H. Tricks (Victoria), and now Mr. Belfield is the holder of the championship.

The final scores were:—J. B. Belfield, 3000; E. L. Jacoby, 1872. The best breaks yesterday afternoon and evening were:—Belfield: Afternoon, 65, 73, 47, 42, 42, 52, 62; evening, 45, 43, 37, 49, 41, 56, 44 (unfinished). Jacoby: Afternoon, 39, 35; evening, 54, 33, 39, 39, and 30.

At the close of the game Mr. E. J. Boyle, on behalf of Messrs. Heiron and Smith, presented Mr. E. L. Jacoby with a pair of gold sleeve links in recognition of the visit, and Mr. Belfield was also presented with a pair of sleeve links on account of his record break. Both gentlemen suitably responded.

The match was controlled by the N.S.W. Sports Club, Ltd., and played upon a Messrs. Heiron and Smith standard table, with bonzoline balls.

CITY TATTERSALL'S TOURNAMENT.

The semi-finals of the above were played last night, with the following results:—"Emu" (rec 100) beat W. South (rec 135) by 20, L. Menser (rec 95) beat A. Maher (rec 70) by 15. The winners will play the final on Monday night, and the two losers will play off for third and fourth prizes.

ALLEGED OPIUM SMUGGLING.

Two Chinamen were charged at No. 2 police station last night with smuggling 15 tins of opium, valued at £23 10s. Plain-clothes Senior-constable Barnes and Constable Robertson arrested the men at the Central Railway station with the drug in their possession. The Chinamen were on their way to Moree.

The Professional Golfers' Competition at Kensington on the 7th ult was won by E. Popplewell, winner of the Easter Monday Competition at Leura. In both cases the ball he used was a Silvertown No. 6.—Advt.

AMUSEMENTS.

MME. CLARA BUTT'S SEASON.

Mme. Clara Butt, Mr. Kennerley Rumford, and their party will arrive here to-day by the Melbourne express, will be informally welcomed by representative musicians and friends at the Central Station, and will drive to their new home on the Edgecliff-road. The star contralto and her husband will thus enjoy a week of comparative leisure before their season actually opens, an event fixed for Saturday next at the Town Hall. The Messrs. J. and N. Tait are not able to quote the first programme, but Mme. Butt is almost sure to sing Gluck's great aria "Divinites du Styx," and Elgar's patriotic song "Land of Hope and Glory." The new English baritone will probably open with "Largo al Factotum" ("Il Barbiere di Sivigilia"), and both artists will join in the beautiful duet "Night Hymn at Sea" (Goring Thomas). The assisting artists will be Mr. Frank Merrick (solo pianist), Mr. Carl Barre (violinist), Mr. Arthur Godfrey (accompanist), and Mr. J. Edward Sykes (organist). Contemporary opinion is unanimous as to the volume and beauty of Mme. Butt's voice, and her season should on that account afford enduring memories. So far the advance booking at Paling's is progressing rapidly, and the fact that seats are being reserved for all the concerts (October 5, 8, 10, 12, and 15) testifies to the general confidence in the great reputation the singer brings with her from England. Recent events in Melbourne have shown that Mme. Butt's power to attract the public is as great on this side of the world as on the other. Her season had to be extended to eight concerts, and the general enthusiasm was so amply sustained until the end that the concert party will reappear in the Victorian capital during Cup week.

HER MAJESTY'S THEATRE.

In accordance with his scheme of frequent change, Mr. Andrew Mack now announces the last week of "The Ragged Earl" at Her Majesty's Theatre. The final matinee of this amusing piece, in which the Irish comedian figures so dashingly as the genial and adventurous Earl of Kildare, will accordingly be given on Wednesday. Next Saturday Mr. Andrew Mack will appear in "Jack Shannon" (with a holiday matinee on the Monday), and on October 12 he will produce "Eileen Asthore" for the first time. Large audiences continue to be the rule at Her Majesty's.

THEATRE ROYAL.

His Excellency the State Governor (Admiral Sir Harry Rawson, G.C.B.) and suite will witness the romantic military drama, "Her Love Against the World," at the Theatre Royal this evening. The new play, with its gorgeous martial costumes and animation of incident, moves brightly along, with Mr. Harcourt Beatty, Mr. Gaston Mervale, and Miss Madge M'Intosh in the principal characters. The last 12 nights (with Wednesday matinees) are now notified by Messrs. Meynell and Gunn, who have been encouraged by the present success to extend their dramatic season so as to produce "The Midnight Wedding" on October 12.

CRITERION THEATRE.

"Human Hearts," the new American drama produced by Mr. Edwin Geach at the Criterion Theatre, will now run out the month's season, as the final matinee is announced for Wednesday next, and the actual farewell for Friday evening. Mr. Ernest Leicester plays effectively the central character of the Arkansas blacksmith in this play, which provides exciting and pathetic episodes, showing the murder of which the hero is wrongly convicted, the revelation by the comic tramp of his exact knowledge of the real author of the crime, and the ultimate pardon and release of the innocent man.

"THE SOUTHERN CROSS."

Mr. William Anderson's dramatic company will return from their northern tour in time to reopen at the Criterion Theatre next Saturday with "The Southern Cross," a new Australian melodrama by Edmund Duggan, part-author of "The Squatter's Daughter." The new play, which will be performed for the first time upon any stage at Newcastle to-night, will include some beautiful and elaborate tableaux, notably "The Wreck of the Dunbar" and "The Eureka Stockade," and will provide parts for the full strength of the company, headed by Miss Eugenie Duggan.

PALACE THEATRE.

This evening the fifty-seventh performance of "Miss Lancashire, Limited," will be given at the Palace Theatre, where Miss Florence Baines and her new English company will make their farewell appearance in the musical farce on Tuesday evening next. "Our Mary Ellen" provides the comedienne with a character the rustic bluntness of which she illustrates amusingly, and her "Laughing Song" is encored nightly. Next Wednesday and Thursday Miss Baines will appear at Maitland, and she will then travel north as far as Charters Towers. Mr. Claude Whaite has arranged for a Christmas season at Bendigo.

THE "YELLOW PERIL" COMPANY.

On Saturday next, at the Palace Theatre, Mr. Charles W. Taylor will open his Australian tour with Albert Newcomb's four-act Anglo-Chinese drama, "The Yellow Peril," which proved highly successful during the recent season in New Zealand. British social life in the East and Chinese customs will be depicted in relation to sensational incident and spectacular effect, and there will be a new company, which will include Messrs. Leonard Broderick, H. Diver, Misses Laura Roberts, Ross Conroy, Helene Bardette-Diver, and other artists. The plan will open at Paling's on Monday.

TIVOLI THEATRE.

This afternoon and evening, at the Tivoli Theatre there will be the new biograph tableaux, showing the French motor contest on the Dieppe Circuit, with the sensational overturning of a car. Miss Nellie Kilburn reappears, and Mr. Jack Russell has returned. The star attractions still include Price and Revost in their mirthful tumbling act. Hayman and Franklin will present a new farcical skit, "A Suit for Divorce." Mr. Fred. Bluett, Ernesto, and Monahan and Sheehan, are in a strong programme, and Miss Lottie Kay is prominent. The Molassos, continental cyclonic dancers, will be the holiday attraction next Saturday.

NATIONAL AMPHITHEATRE.

This afternoon and evening the Messrs. Brennan's new programme at the National Amphitheatre will include the De Castro Brothers, aerialists and Chinese impersonators, in their revolving ladder act, Frank Karno, bouncing comedian, the Rowell Sisters, and the famous French Motor Race of 1907 at Dieppe, depicted by the biograph. Raleigh and May, Jack Kearns, Maggie Fraser, Denis Carney, and a long list of artists will also appear.

WONDERLAND CITY.

Mr. William Anderson is putting the finishing touches to his plans for the reopening of Wonderland City next Saturday night. The resort will be illuminated by the increased electrical power on Wednesday night, and all the new machinery of the various mechanical devices will then be set in trial motion. Saturday's new programme will include such costly and elaborate novelties as "The Rivers of the World," a subterranean boat voyage with weird and beautiful effects, a flying machine, an open-air skating rink, a working model of a coal mine, and various entertainments. Mr. L. De Groen will conduct the Vice-regal Military Band, and there will be a special tram service.

MISS CARRIE LANCELEY.

The parents of Miss Carrie Lanceley have just received a highly satisfactory cablegram from their daughter, the Sydney soprano, dated from London:—"Engagements: October, Queen's Hall, Alhambra, Alexandra Palace, and Gramophone Company." The first probably refers either to the Chappell Ballad concerts or the Orchestral Promenades, the second to the Sunday League concerts, and the third to an oratorio appearance. As the young singer only left Australia during the present year, her advancement has been rapid.

MR. FRANK DOWN'S MATINEE.

So many really good voices were brought forward at Mr. Frank Down's matinee musicale at Paling's Concert Room yesterday that amateurs were reminded of similar events a decade ago, when the "voice market" was in an especially fruitful condition. Amongst the most prominent of those who appeared was Miss Greta Hale, a soprano, with a sympathetic voice of considerable power, whose well-judged rendering of the Gounod-Bach "Ave Maria" proclaimed her a singer of experience. The tempo was rather too deliberate, owing apparently to the lead of the violin obbligato (Miss Leila Hammond), to which Mr. Down supplied the piano accompaniment. Miss Mildred Goodall displayed a particularly tuneful soprano voice in "With Verdure Clad," and although her eager style was not quite in accordance with oratorio traditions, in other respects the interpretation charmed. Miss Belle Foxon sang "Elizabeth's Greeting," with feeling for the dramatic character of the music, and here again the voice was agreeably resonant. Miss Dorothy Solloway, a mezzo-contralto with "temperament," who will improve upon the promise of yesterday, Miss Margaret Dallen, a contralto of heavier quality, who needs more animation, and Miss Leila Hammond, a careful violinist with a fair amount of tone, all assisted with acceptance. Mr. S. Gilbert won applause in the tenor "Song of Waiting" (Wright), and Mr. C. A. Rolfe, a bass-baritone, with a fine voice already favourably known to the public, strengthened the programme with "Infelice." In response to a hearty encore, the young singer added Wadham's "Come to Me." Mr. J. Edward Sykes was the principal accompanist at the matinee, which attracted a crowded audience.

MR. ERNEST TRUMAN'S CONCERT.

This evening Mr. Ernest Truman will give an organ recital and concert at the Town Hall, at which the assisting artists will be Miss Kate Hancock and Mr. Wm. A. Robyns. The list of organ pieces will include the vorspiel to "Lohengrin," the "Marche Funebre et Chant Seraphique" of Guilmant, Dubois' "Marche des Rois Mages," the Magic Fire scene which closes "The Valkyrie," and "Allegretto, Vivace, Prelude, and Fugue" (Truman).

SYDNEY LIEDERTAFEL CONCERT.

On Wednesday evening next the Sydney Liedertafel will give their 142nd concert at the Town Hall, when Mr. Arundel Orchard will conduct part-songs new and old. The principal assisting artists will be Mr. Lawrence Godfrey Smith (pianoforte), Mr. W. G. Bentley (saxophone), and Mr. A. Bertram Flohm (recitation). The galleries will be reserved for ladies and non-smokers.

"FRESH-AIR LEAGUE" ENTERTAINMENT.

A new and original comedy-drama from the pen of Mrs. Shand, of North Sydney, will be produced under the title of "The Nihilist," at the Palace Theatre next Wednesday night. This amateur performance will be in aid of the funds of the Fresh-air League. The plan is at Paling's.

CANTATA AT CHATSWOOD.

The Northern Suburbs Musical Society will perform Cowen's cantata, "St. John's Eve," on Monday evening, at the Chatswood Town Hall. Mr. H. H. Rice will conduct, and Florence Osborne (soprano), Emma Bussmilch (contralto), G. Kilburn Heron (tenor), R. J. Nield (baritone), and W. J. Coad (leader of orchestra) will assist.

SYDNEY HOSPITAL CONCERT.

On Monday, October 14, a concert will be given at the Y.M.C.A. Hall, under Miss Gertrude Palmer's direction, in aid of the funds of the Sydney Hospital. "In a Persian Garden" will be rendered by Mme. Grace Miller Ward, Miss Ethel Liggins, Mr. James Crabtree, and Mr. Percy Herford, and another favourite pieces, the "Beethoven Quartet in E flat," by Miss Dora Ranclaud, Mr. V. Jansen, Mr. Bryce Carter, and Miss Palmer. Misses Edith Bunting, Aileen Neill, and Mr. A. B. Flohm will assist, as well as Misses Bruce Smith, N. and L. Playfair, F. Helmrich, and F. Thurlow.

QUEEN'S HALL—LONDON BIO-TABLEAUX.

At Queen's Hall, both afternoon and evening to-day, the London-Bio Tableaux entertainments directed by Mr. Clement Mason will include the sensational French motor car race on the Dieppe Circuit, with cars running 100 miles an hour, "Beauties of Niagara," "The Life of a Trotting Horse," and humorous and dramatic subjects, with music by the "Elect Ladies' Orchestra."

VICTORIA HALL PICTURES.

Both afternoon and evening at Victoria Hall, Pitt and Park streets, the American Picturescope Company will exhibit new tableaux of current events, chase subjects, and humorous and dramatic stories, accompanied by incidental music.

BOYLE'S SINGING CLASS.

A new term of Mr. Boyle's singing class commences on Wednesday evening next at the Hunter-street Studios. A separate class will be formed for beginners, former students being promoted to the advanced division.

CLAY'S VAUDEVILLE COMPANY.

This evening, at the Royal Standard Theatre, Mr. Harry Clay's Vaudeville Company will be joined by Miss Nellie Leslie (serio), and there will be new illustrated songs, new moving pictures, and an entire change of programme. The entertainment will be repeated at Petersham on Monday, Balmain Tuesday, and then Newtown, Waverley, and North Sydney.

THE HAYMARKET HIPPODROME.

At the Haymarket Hippodrome to-night, Mr. Cole's Bohemian Dramatic Company will produce the American mining drama, "The Miner's Secret." The drama is an interesting one, and a special cast has been arranged. A matinee will be held this afternoon.

PUBLIC SERVICE MUSICAL SOCIETY.

The Public Service Musical Society will give the second concert of their season at the Oddfellows' Temple next Friday night, with chorus and orchestra under Mr. W. I. B. Mote, and Miss Grace Powys as accompanist. Amongst those assisting will be Miss Annie Perry, Messrs. Victor Cohen, E. J. Baumann, and Emil Sommlich.

"THE NOMADS" CLUB.

"The Nomads," a recently formed amateur musical and dramatic club, have arranged for the production of Audran's comic opera, "Olivette," and the first rehearsal of same is called for next Thursday evening in Queen's Hall, at 7.30. The opera will be well mounted, and as leading amateurs have joined the club, a successful performance should result.

SEAMEN'S INSTITUTE CONCERT.

On Thursday night, at the Seamen's Institute, Mr. and Mrs. Griffen Foley arranged an interesting programme for the sailors. Mrs. Griffen Foley's songs included Miss May Pettifer's "Moonlight." Part songs were rendered by members of the Gregorian Choristers, and Miss Annette Kerr played violin solos. Miss Lilian Frost was the accompanist.

BESSES O' TH' BARN.

There was a satisfactory attendance last night at the Sydney Cricket Ground, when the Besses o' th' Barn, assisted by massed bands of the N.S.W. Band Association, gave a performance. Apart from the drawing attraction of the "Besses," the fact that the proceeds at last night's concert were to be devoted to this splendid organisation doubtless contributed to the attendance. The programme opened with the march, "Death or Glory" (Hall), in which the massed bands joined. The audience did not stint applause, but it was evident that they had come to hear the "Besses," and when the overture "Poet and Peasant" (Suppe) was played, the recognition which greeted it left no doubt. In response to continued marks of appreciation, the band as an encore rendered "The Turkish Patrol." A selection of Rossini's works met the taste of the audience, as also did a selection from Gounod's "Faust." The programme concluded with English, Irish, Scotch, and Welsh airs. The final performances will take place this afternoon and evening, and Monday evening. The famous band will leave on Tuesday for Hobart.

OXFORD WORLD PICTURE COMPANY.

The World Picture Company will submit an entire change of bill at the Oxford this afternoon and evening. The subjects, comprising 10,000ft of film, will all be shown for the first time, and, it is promised, will be a fine collection.

RAILWAY DEPUTATION.

In reply to a deputation, the Chief Commissioner of Railways, stated that the 5.15 p.m. express from Sydney to Moss Vale could not conveniently stop at Ingleburn and Minto, as requests for other stoppages would soon follow, and the train would lose its character as an express. In regard to the extension of the 9.30 p.m. Liverpool train to Campbelltown, Mr. Johnson said that the traffic did not justify the extension. With reference to accelerating the 4 p.m. train from Campbelltown, the only way would be to run the train through to Sydney. If the Commissioners could be shown that there would be sufficient traffic to justify this they would consider it.

LIBERAL AND REFORM LEAGUE.

The St. Peters and Camdenville branch of the Liberal and Reform League met last night at the St. Peters Town Hall. The president (Mr. H. Austin) was chairman, and there was a good attendance. The object of the meeting was to keep the subject of reform before the members. Mr. H. Schooling was appointed hon. secretary. A programme was arranged of coming meetings, and several suggestions were drafted for submission to the central body.

SUDDEN DEATH IN A TRAM.

Mrs. Bannon, wife of Detective Bannon, died very suddenly about 11 a.m. yesterday. She and her sister and mother were on their way to visit North Sydney, and had travelled in an Alexandria tram to the terminus at Circular Quay. Mrs. Bannon had been complaining lately of not feeling well, and when she was alighting from the tram she remarked that she felt faint, and immediately swooned away. The Australian Ambulance were quickly in attendance, and conveyed Mrs. Bannon to the Sydney Hospital. On arrival there she was found to be dead, and the body was removed to the Morgue.

Remarkably striking pictures of the Murwillumbah fire appear in this week's issue of the "Sydney Mail."—Advt.

D.—INDIVIDUAL TUITION.
Class Tuition prescribes the same rate of progress for all. It ignores differences of aptitude and industry.
TRUE Individual Tuition ensures progress commensurate with individual aptitude and application.
Simply to provide facilities for each student to WORK by himself is not TRUE Individual Tuition. Nor is it sufficient simply to give each student his lesson singly. The teaching must be adapted to individual needs.
Individual Aptitude, Powers of Concentration and Perception, Strength of Reasoning Faculties, Memory, and other points must be carefully studied and catered for. Different students experience different difficulties. Each difficulty must be explained from each student's point of view.
This necessitates Special Systems of Instruction, and Specially Trained Teachers, who have Thoroughly Mastered their subjects.
The Very Best of Both and the Truest Individual Tuition are to be found at the SMITH PREMIER BUSINESS COLLEGE,
80 CASTLEREAGH-STREET (opp. Moore-street).

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

New South Wales Government Tramways,
Traffic Superintendent's Office, 61 Bridge-street,
Sydney, 20th Sept., 1907.

ARTHUR RICKARD, Esq.,
84B Pitt-street,
Sydney.

Sir,—With further reference to your communication of the 29th ult., respecting the tram service to Kensington, I beg to inform you that approval has been given for an even half-hourly service, to be run between the city and La Perouse daily, and the alteration will come into force on and from the 30th inst.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Yours obediently,
J. KNEESHAW,
Traffic Superintendent.

WATCH KENSINGTON GROW.

PRICE FROM £2 FOOT.

Already the rapid growth of Kensington has caused the Electric Tram service to become an improved one, as the letter printed above distinctly states. This improved tram service is going to still further increase the value of Kensington Land, for, remember, the magnificent allotments we are offering at Kensington are ever so much better and cheaper land than can be secured within other Tuppenny sections. It is beautifully level, just waiting to be built on. Land at Marrickville, 42 minutes from Sydney, is fetching £5 per foot; at Double Bay, 34 minutes Sydney, up to £8; Annandale, 31 minutes from Sydney, to £10; Bondi Junction, 29 minutes, and Glebe, 28 minutes Sydney, up to £12 foot.

KENSINGTON IS BUT 20 MINUTES FROM G.P.O., HAS A HALF-HOURLY SERVICE, AND LAND HERE IS BEING SOLD FROM £2 PER FOOT.

Streets Ballasted and Metalled, Kerbed and Guttered, Footpaths, Gas, Water, Torrens Title. Building Restriction of £300.

TERMS, FROM £2 DOWN, £1 MONTH.

Ten Shillings Foot Reduction to Purchasers Immediately Building.

ARTHUR RICKARD & CO., LTD.,

84B Pitt-street, Sydney, and Dowling-street, Kensington, Auctioneers, and Managing Agents for Kensington. Representative is at office on Estate each day from 12 to 5, incl. Saturdays.

IT MAY SEEM EGOTISTICAL, BUT WE MUST PERSIST IN POINTING OUT TO YOU
that UNHESITATINGLY we make the statement that our buildings are as perfect as it is possible to make this class of property, and are as good, if not better, than the Cottage constructed through the ordinary architect and builder. At HABERFIELD we have appointed a gentleman to the position of Architect for the Proprietary who is a MEMBER OF THE INSTITUTE OF ARCHITECTS, and who is acknowledged to be one of the most experienced Cottage Designers in this State. We have a gentleman superintending the actual constructing of the buildings who has managed in the past
THE LARGEST BUILDING UNDERTAKINGS IN THIS STATE, and who is acknowledged to be a man who is intimately acquainted with all branches of the building trade. Under these two gentlemen we have a staff of COMPETENT TRADESMEN.
Our business is conducted upon systematic lines. We are prepared to sell any of our Cottage Residences upon 5, 10, or 15, or even 20 years' terms.
Now surely it does not require very great argument to convince you that under all the above conditions we should only turn out work
WHICH IS ABSOLUTELY FIRST-CLASS, being necessary both in your interests and in that of our own. Haberfield is a
"MODEL SUBURB."
You can only have one Cottage on one block, and NO WEATHERBOARD Buildings are allowed, and Shops are only permitted on a limited Business Site. PRICES range from £500, £550, £575, £650, and so on to £1200. TERMS, small deposit, practically as much as you can conveniently pay at the time, reserving yourself the right to pay off any sum upon any day, when you are immediately credited with this amount, and
YOUR INTEREST CEASES AT ONCE.
TORRENS TITLE. We also transfer immediately to buyers. We appeal to you who are paying 25s per week rent
TO VISIT HABERFIELD.
In 10 years you pay your landlord £650, and what have you to represent that sum? ABSOLUTELY NOTHING; possibly a notice to quit because you have made the place look so nice that it is attractive to somebody else at a higher rental.
Do not ask others to explain our business, but see us personally and we will take a lot of trouble with you. We are only too happy to show you over the property, whether you buy or not.
We have a big business, or we could not afford to advertise as we do. It is only by advertising we can reach you, and if we have a good article to dispose of the public must be told about it.
We pledge our honour as business men that our statements are as substantial as our buildings.
CALL AT OUR SUMMER HILL OFFICE, and we will drive you to inspect.
OFFICE HOURS, including Wednesdays and Saturdays, 9 to 6 p.m. HABERFIELD OFFICE always open.

POST MORTEM PROVISO.
A unique proviso, showing wise forethought, has just been added to their already liberal terms of sale by Messrs. HENRY F. HALLORAN and CO., 82 Pitt-street, Sydney, which practically means a question of LAND PURCHASE AND LIFE ASSURANCE COMBINED.
Should a purchaser die after paying half or more of his purchase money, the land will be transferred to his legal representatives absolutely, without any further payment; and should death occur before he has paid half the purchase money, his representatives have the option, if they so desire, of giving up the land, and receiving back in cash all moneys paid on account of the purchase. THIS PRIVILEGE IS A FREE GIFT, no charge or premium of any kind being necessary, and it will apply to almost all land sales for which Messrs. HALLORAN act for the vendor.
We have fine 50ft lots in the WILLSTARMON ESTATE, on heights of Willoughby, a few yards from tram, from 15s to 30s a foot. £1 deposit, and 12s 6d a month. Choice Farmlets in WARRIEWOOD ESTATE, pick of beautiful Narrabeen, 9 miles from Manly, from £20 an acre, £1 deposit, and 10 years to pay the balance. No instalments for 2 years if you improve your land. Also, fine Farm Land, from £10 an acre, and choice Residential Sites, in good localities, from 5s a foot; Torrens Title; and the extremely liberal terms embrace the above proviso in case of death of a purchaser.
See our announcement in Auction Sale Column for fuller particulars of the new post mortem proviso, which is being copyrighted.
Call and see us, or send for plans, etc.
Open till 9 p.m. Mondays.

HOUSES AND LAND FOR SALE.

MR. INVESTOR.

In this Column you will find particulars of a few properties, and figures which will prove interesting reading. You will know, of course, that we have many more similar investments on our books, but space will not permit of our describing them. As you are a busy man, we will not waste time, but get at once to business.

£175 YEARLY FOR £1000.

Price asked for property..	£2,400 0 0
Amount which may remain at 5 per cent.	1,400 0 0
	£1,000 0 0
Yearly rental of property		£245 0 0
Interest 5 per cent. on £1400		70 0 0
		£175 0 0

Thus the purchaser receives the sum of £175 in return for the investment of only £1000, or a solid 10 per cent. on the full purchase money.

PADDINGTON, ELIZABETH-STREET, near new tram being constructed—a good-letting locality.—Terrace of 7 Houses and Shop, brick on stone, land 117ft frontage, Torrens Title. Annual rentals, £245. Price, £2400.

£100 YEARLY FOR £400.

Price asked for property....	£1,400 0 0
Amount which may remain at 4 per cent.	1,000 0 0
	£400 0 0
Yearly rent of property		£140 8 0
Interest 4 per cent. on £1000		40 0 0
		£100 8 0

Thus the purchaser receives the sum of £100 8s 0d in return for the investment of only £400, or a solid 10 per cent. on the full purchase money.

DARLINGTON, Calder-street.—Terrace of six Houses, brick, good-letting locality, close to City-road, land 81ft frontage, Freehold. Annual rentals, £140 8s. Price, £1400.

£45 YEARLY FOR £275.

Price asked for property ..	£775 0 0
Amount which may remain at 5 per cent.	500 0 0
	£275 0 0
Yearly rent of property....................		£70 0 0
Interest at 5 per cent. on £500		25 0 0

Thus the purchaser receives the sum of £45 in return for the investment of but £275.

DARLING POINT, about 100 yards from water, Brick HOUSE, containing 7 rooms, kitchen, bathroom, laundry, verandahs, balcony, every convenience, well let to good tenant, land 25ft x 130ft. Freehold Title. Price, £775.

£79 YEARLY FOR £450.

Price asked for property ..	£750 0 0
Amount which may remain at 5 per cent.	300 0 0
	£450 0 0
Yearly rent of property		£104 0 0
Interest on £300 at 5 per cent., plus £9 15s ground rent		24 15 0
		£79 5 0

Thus the purchaser receives the sum of £79 5s in return for the investment of £450, or over 17 per cent. on the full purchase money.

RANDWICK, Frenchman's-road, close to M'Pherson-street.—Terrace of 3 brick Houses, leasehold, 74 years to run; ground rent £9 15s per year. Land, 40ft x 124ft. Annual rentals, £124. Price, £750.

RENT DAY.

is the worry and trouble of most good wives. How they do hate to part with the rent, for in return they appear to get so little. Sensible wives and mothers "turn rent day down" by prevailing on the husband or son to find a small deposit for a home of their own, and themselves paying the balance of purchase money by weekly payments.

KENSINGTON, 20 minutes from G.P.O.—Brick Cottage, just completed. There are four large rooms, kitchen, washhouse, copper, tubs, bath, pantry, and all conveniences. Price, £450. Deposit, £40; balance 17s 6d, interest included. Others from £560 to £710. If we haven't one to just suit, choose your land and we'll build one for you. Don't let terms deter you. Tell us what you can manage, and if it's at all possible one of our pretty little Kensington homes will be yours.

NEUTRAL BAY.—A newly-built Villa, brick on stone, 6 large rooms, kitchen, washhouse, copper, tubs, and every possible convenience, situated on a splendid elevated block 66 x 246, 72 years' leasehold, with a double frontage to High View-avenue and Premier-street. The property commands most extensive harbour views, and taken altogether is a most desirable one. Price £675, small deposit, balance rent.

KOGARAH.—Carroll's Hill Estate, fine position.—New and comfortable Detached Brick Cottage, verandah, hall, 5 good lofty rooms, kitchen, bath, pantry, laundry, gas, water, Torrens Title, £375; £20 deposit, balance 17s 6d per week, which includes interest. No shoddy work, every brick and foot of wood the best quality. Keys with Mr. Anderson, on Estate.

RANDWICK.—Nice Cottage, brick on stone, 5 rooms, kitchen, laundry, bath, all conveniences, metal ceilings. The place is in perfect order, and there is 135ft frontage to Fraser-street. Torrens Title. Price, £575. Terms, £50 deposit, balance rent.

PETERSHAM.—No. 169 New Canterbury-road, Petersham, has been placed in our hands to sell, and at the ridiculous figure asked it should go off immediately. It has 7 rooms, kitchen, bathroom, etc., is built of brick on stone, slate roof, in good order, and the land is 44 x 104. Torrens Title. Price, £550. Terms, £50 deposit, balance rent. We have an adjoining 44ft, which, if the purchaser desires, we will sell at £5 per foot.

NARRABEEN LAKES.—A pretty 4-roomed Cottage is to be disposed of at the Lakes. It's furnished, and there's money in it, for letting purposes. This is worth looking over; it's something out of the ordinary. Price, £375 the lot; £20 deposit, balance 12s 6d weekly.

FARM HANDS.

It is not necessary to wait until you have a large sum of money to start for yourself. You can do it now, right away, with the little you have. Carefully read list and note prices and terms.

BLACKTOWN, only 21 miles from Sydney, a 50 minutes' train journey.—The Quaker's Hill Estate, with Railway Station and Saleyards on and adjoining the property. There's some great farming land here, deep soil, every inch ploughable, and good local market. Five to 10 acre blocks, from £8 acre; £2 down, and £1 month. Overseer meets all trains at Quaker's Hill Station.

COLO VALE.—The Alpine Estate, no distance from station. Blocks of land for poultry or orchard culture, 6 to 20 acres in area. Price from £2 per acre. Terms from £1 down and 10s month.

ST. IVES, under 3 miles from PYMBLE Station, elevation 800ft, opposite Mr. Oag's prize poultry farm, surrounded by beautiful orangeries and orchards. Blocks 8 to 15 acres. £15 acre. £5 block deposit, balance over 6 years.

COLO VALE.—A farming block of 300 acres, main road frontage, permanent fresh water, 250 acres fit to cultivate; balance rough. Only 20s acre; 1s in £ deposit; balance over 6 years.

WYONG, between Sydney and Newcastle.—We have a 53-acre block of give-good-results land in this famous make-money district. The land is only 3½ miles from station, and it's worth your while to see it. Price, £4 10s per acre. We'll accept £10 deposit, give you possession, and spread balance over 5 years.

TURRAMURRA, one and a half miles from station.—The Pymble View Estate.—Big Blocks of Land, handy to Sydney, and most suitable for poultry-farming, vegetable-raising, and kindred pursuits. Pleasantly situated. Elevation, 700 feet. Price, from £17 10s acre. Special terms and concessions to those who build or fence and clear immediately.

BANKSTOWN, within a few minutes' walk of Chapel-road Station.—The Railway Extension from Belmore is about to be commenced, and land in this wonderfully fertile district will increase in value by leaps and bounds. Buy now Bankstown Farmlets from £10 acre, in blocks 1 to 80 acres. Terms from £2 deposit, £1 month. Intending purchasers met at Belmore by appointment and driven to and over the Estate.

DOUGLAS PARK, 45 miles from Sydney, 1 to 5 from Railway, handy to Menangle Creamery.—Blocks here very suitable indeed for Bee, Pig, Poultry, Fruit, Strawberry, Vegetable, and Onion raising. Average rainfall, 35 inches. Price from £2 acre; 1s in the £ deposit; balance by easy monthly payments. Overseer meets morning train from Sydney, Mondays, Wednesdays, and Saturdays.

CITY MEN.

Like to live a little way outside of Sydney, just far enough to be out of the dust and smoke, but still handy to their business. Any one of the following should fill the bill:—

KENSINGTON.—We start with Kensington, because it is not possible to get better or cheaper land anywhere about Sydney. The allotments for sale here are 50 x 150 in area, very handy to tuppeny tram, and beautifully level. The streets are ballasted and metalled, kerbed and guttered footpaths, gas, water, Torrens Title, building restriction of £300. Half-hourly electric tram service. Price from £2 per foot, and 10s foot reduction to purchasers immediately building. Terms from £2 down, and £1 month.

CABARITA.—Very close to the ferry at Cabarita, and fronting the new tramline, is the Waterside Estate. Most beautiful views of the Parramatta River are obtainable, fully a mile of the championship course being plainly visible. The lots are perfectly level, and the price from 5s foot. Terms from £1 down, and 10s month.

HURSTVILLE.—You are no sooner out of the station at Hurstville than you're on the land we have for sale. The Hillcrest Estate is tiptop building land, in large allotments, and prices and terms are ridiculously low and easy. Price from 7s foot, £1 deposit, 10s monthly.

DOBROYDE.—Situated just at the tramline. The Abbotsford and Five Dock trams stop at the Northcote Estate. We have not many lots left here, but each is a good one, and worthy your attention. Price from 15s foot. Terms, £2 deposit, £1 month.

EASTWOOD.—The Clanwilliam Estate, 5 minutes only from station, handy to Church and School, beautiful level building lots, from 17s foot. £2 down, balance 60 equal monthly payments.

CHISWICK, up the Parramatta River, right opposite Searle's Monument, the finishing point of the famous Parramatta Course.—The "Riverview Estate," superb building lots, from 12s 6d foot. Terms, £2 down, and £1 monthly.

GORE HILL.—Here we have some very cheap lots. Land about here is going to become very valuable. The tram extension will pass very close to the Estate, which for home-making purposes is not to be excelled. The Title is Torrens, and we can recommend you to buy on the Waterview Estate, right on the "Heights" "Now." Price from 10s per foot; £2 down, £1 monthly.

WEEK-ENDERS.

It is the correct thing to spend each week-end where surf bathing, fishing, boating, or swimming may be indulged in. The only thing against it is the expense of boarding. The way to save the board money is to secure an allotment on easy terms at the resort you favour, and put up a small place of your own on it.

MONA VALE, between Newport and Rocklily, just past the hotel. The land we have here is only five minutes from a good beach, surf bathing may be indulged in, and the main Pittwater-road passes the Estate. Here's a description of one block. A section of first-class Land, 2 roods 36½ perches in area, but one minute's walk from the main road and five from the beach. The lot has a good frontage to street, and the price is but £30. Terms, £2 down, £1 month. Other Blocks from £12 10s, same terms.

WOY WOY.—On the Sorrento Estate at Woy Woy we have a block of nearly 2½ acres. It has an absolute water frontage, and is the last one of the Estate. There are great fishing and week-end possibilities at Sorrento. This block may be secured by you for £25, that is, the whole 2½ acres. Terms, £1 down and 10s month.

PORT HACKING.—Where the "big fish" come from.—Here, on the Bundeena Estate, right alongside Government Wharf, we have 100ft facing Bundeena-street, and running through to the fine beach, off which some of the finest fishing in the State may be obtained. Price £28, deposit £1, and 10s month. We can recommend this block as a tiptop week-end resort, and worthy of your attention.

NEWPORT.—Scott's Green Point Estate, just up from Pittwater Lake. Several quarter-acres of level land, all cleared and ready for you to take possession. These blocks are just the thing for a week-end humpy or camp, being so handy to the lake, where fishing, bathing, rowing, or sailing may be indulged in. Price for the quarter-acres, from £10 each. £1 down, and 10s month, is our method of receiving payment.

CABARITA.—Water-frontages with absolute rights of reclamation may be obtained here on the Waterside Estate, which adjoins Cabarita Park at the ferry. They have big frontages, very great depths, and there is a very fair lot of water, even at low tide. The price is only 37s 6d foot, and when the few we have are sold you'll get no more on the river at anything like the figure. We commend these lots to sailing and motor enthusiasts.

WOY WOY.—The Mount Pleasant Estate, frontages to Sandy Beach of Brisbane Water. These lots are improving in value every day, and if you don't want a week-end site you can do worse than buy one to resell in the future. Price from £20 each, Terms £1 down, and 10s month.

THINK.

If working men, and women, too, for that matter, would but sit down and think occasionally, how much better off they could easily be. Look through this list of oddments, and note the low prices, and particularly easy terms. If you do this, it won't be many days before you are the owner of one.

GUILDFORD.—Mile from station, blocks 60 x 132, only £4 10s each. Terms, 5s down, and a penny a day or 2s 6d month.

MARRICKVILLE, handy to both shops and tram.—Fine Building Lots, 20s foot. £1 down, 10s month. Torrens Title.

NEWPORT.—Quarter-acres level land, good position, £10 each, £1 down, 10s month; 3½ acre block, with three frontages, £85. Deposit £2, and 10s monthly.

KOGARAH, main road frontages.—Magnificent views, lots 55 x 200, £60. Deposit, £2, and £1 monthly.

CENTENNIAL PARK.—Building lots, 20 or 40 feet frontage, depth 100ft; good position, sewerage, etc., £3 10s.

GRANVILLE.—Lots, 40 x 170, Torrens; handy works, £7 10s, deposit £1, month 10s.

CLOSE TO AUBURN STATION.—50 x 200, £15 a block, £1 down, 10s month.

THORNLEIGH STATION.—Lot, 66 x 168, from 10s foot, £2 down, 10s month.

HORNSBY.—Handy station, 2rd 24½p, £26; £1 down, 10s month.

WILLOUGHBY.—Lot, fronting Victoria-avenue, 66 x 212, Torrens, 10s 6d foot; £1 down, 10s month.

QUARTER-ACRES, close Rookwood Station, from 2s ft., £1 down, 10s month.

WOY WOY.—Nearly 2½ acres Water Frontage, £35 the lot, £1 down, 10s month.

RICHLAND ESTATE, Belmore.—Quarter-acres, £16 10s, dep. £1, monthly 10s.

BELMORE.—Lot 66 x 162, handy station, £66, deposit £2, monthly £1.

RANDWICK, Winchester-rd.—Build. Section, 40 x 135, £40, dep. £2, monthly £1.

BANKSTOWN.—Block, nearly 3 acres, price £9 acre, £1 down, 10s month.

RIVERSTONE.—Poultry Farm, Block 20 acres, 4 to 8 acre lots, £4 acre, any terms.

CANTERBURY.—Corner Block, 63 x 120, Torrens, 6s 6d foot, 10s down, 10s month.

CABARITA.—Water Frontages, close wharf, 37s 6d, terms £5 down, £1 month.

NARRABEEN LAKES.—Improved Block, 100 x 200, £60, deposit £2, monthly £1.

HUNTER'S HILL.—Large Building Lots, £13 4s, 7 minutes ferry, £1 down, 10s month.

PORT HACKING.—100ft, Water Frontage, £35, terms £1 down, 10s month.

CABARITA.—Lots, handy to tram and ferry, 5s foot, £1 down, and 10s month.

AUCTIONS.

We have quite a number of FIRST-CLASS SUBDIVISIONS coming on in the near future. In this column we print our programme for the next month or two. It's worth your while to cut out and keep handy for a future reference.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 7.—We invite you to accompany us to HAZELBROOK, up the BLUE MOUNTAINS, situated between LAWSON and WOODFORD. This is a beautiful spot, and the Hazelbrook Park Estate is the pick of it. Special Return Train Tickets may be obtained at our office; price, 8s 6d. For further particulars see Auction Columns.

SATURDAY, OCT. 26.—SPROULE'S ROSTROV ESTATE, only 3 minutes from PENSHURST STATION, will be the scene of operations. One of the best and most faithfully built brick houses about Sydney, consisting of 10 rooms, kitchen, laundry, offices, stables, tennis court, and about an acre of well-laid-out grounds, will constitute Lot 1, and the purchaser may have any reasonable terms. The balance of about 5 acres will be submitted in good-sized sections, and terms have been arranged from £1 down and 10s month.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 2.—An absolutely unreserved auction will be held at LAWSON, BLUE MOUNTAINS. The land is particularly well situated, handy to station, church, and reserve, fronts the Great Western-road, and is cut up into generous-sized allotments. Terms from £1 down and 10s month will be accepted.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 11, KING'S BIRTHDAY.—Another of our popular picnic Auctions will hold sway at WOY WOY. Water frontages and other quarter-acre lots will be submitted and sold to the highest bidder. The property is particularly well situated, just below The Rip, near the bar. It is little over 2 miles from Woy Woy station by road, and ferry steamer calls at Estate each day. Fare, sixpence. A free holiday camp is being arranged to last from Friday until Tuesday. We advise you to make no other arrangements for King's Birthday.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 16.—ALLOTMENTS in CARDIGAN ESTATE, ROSE BAY, will be distributed. What a rush there will be for these fine building sites. The property occupies an ideal situation. Many homes of the better class surround it, and in addition to people seeking an allotment for home-making this Estate offers a great opportunity for the investor, either large or small, for every lot has a NEAR FUTURE VALUE in excess of the price it is likely to fetch at auction.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 23.—THE GREENLAND ESTATE, WENTWORTH FALLS, up towards Leura.

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 30.—MANLY EXTENSION ESTATE, about 100 yards from Curl Curl Bridge. If you desire an allotment in this Estate it will be necessary for you to attend the auction. We expect to sell right out under the hammer.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 7.—THE SURF VIEW ESTATE, at MAROUBRA, will be dealt with.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 14.—The BARDWELL PARK ESTATE, ARNCLIFFE, will have our attention. We haven't a great many lots here, but the ones we have will be eagerly sought after. Every allotment has a good frontage and depth, and is in every way suitable for home building purposes. Terms from £1 down; 10s month.

Building Allotments, Cottages, and Investment Properties in Every Suburb. No matter where you may wish to buy, write or call on us. We are sure to have something there, cheaper and on easier terms than you'll get elsewhere.

NOTIFICATION OF APPROPRIATION OF LAND FOR RAILWAY PURPOSES UNDER THE "PUBLIC WORKS ACT, 1900."

PROCLAMATION.

New South Wales, to wit.—By his Excellency Sir HARRY HOLDSWORTH RAWSON, Admiral in the Royal Navy, Knight Grand Cross of the Most Honourable Order of the Bath, Governor of the State of New South Wales and its Dependencies, in the Commonwealth of Australia. (L.S.) HARRY H. RAWSON, Governor.

Whereas the Chief Commissioner for Railways and Tramways of New South Wales is desirous of acquiring the land referred to in the Schedule hereto for the purpose of improving the railway traffic at Darling Harbour, which work appears to the Chief Commissioner necessary, and is such work as the Chief Commissioner is authorised to carry out pursuant to the "Government Railways Act, 1901," as amended by the "Railway Commissioners Appointment Act, 1906," and, it is estimated that the cost of completing such work will not exceed the sum of £20,000; and whereas the said land is, in my opinion, required for carrying out the said work: Now, therefore, I, the Governor aforesaid, with the advice of the Executive Council, in pursuance of the "Public Works Act, 1900," do hereby direct that the said work shall be carried out under the "Public Works Act, 1900," by the said Chief Commissioner, who, in respect of the said work, I hereby declare shall be deemed to be the Constructing Authority: And in further pursuance of the provisions of the said Act, I do hereby direct that the said land may be acquired and taken for the purposes aforesaid under the provisions contained in Division 1 of Part V. of the said Act; and I do declare, by this notification, to be published in the Government Gazette, and in one or more newspapers published or circulated in the Police District wherein the said land is situated, that the Crown Lands comprised within the description set forth in the Schedule hereto have been appropriated for the public purpose hereinbefore expressed, that is to say, improving the railway traffic at Darling Harbour, to the intent that upon the publication of this notification in the Gazette the said land described in the Schedule hereto shall forthwith be vested in the said Constructing Authority on behalf of his Majesty, for the purposes of the said "Public Works Act, 1900," for an estate in fee-simple in possession, freed and discharged from all trusts, obligations, estates, interests, contracts, charges, rates, rights-of-way, or other easements whatsoever, and to the intent that the legal estate therein, together with all powers incident thereto or conferred by that Act, shall be vested in such Constructing Authority as a Trustee; and I declare that the following is the Schedule of land hereinbefore referred to:—

SCHEDULE.

All that piece of land situate in the City of Sydney, parish of Saint Andrew, county of Cumberland, and State of New South Wales, being part of William Henry-street: Commencing at the intersection of the south-east side of that street with the south-west side of Hay-street; thence bounded on the north-east by the prolongation of that south-west side bearing north-westerly 66 feet 1½ inch; thence on the north-west by railway land bearing south-westerly 99 feet 7 inches; thence on the south-west again by railway land bearing south-easterly 66 feet 1½ inch; and thence on the south-east again by railway land bearing north-easterly 99 feet 8½ inches, to the point of commencement, and containing about 24 1-4 perches.

In witness whereof I have hereunto set my Hand, and caused the Public Seal of the State to be hereto affixed, at Sydney, this second day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and seven, and in the seventh year of his Majesty's Reign.

By his Excellency's Command,

J. H. CARRUTHERS.

GOD SAVE THE KING!

AUCTION SALE, ON THE GROUND, AT 3 O'CLOCK

SATURDAY, OCTOBER 26.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, LTD., AUCTIONEERS, 98 PITT-ST., CITY.

GEORGE-STREET, CITY,

a little north of Wynyard-street, in close touch with the GENERAL POST and TELEGRAPH Offices, BANK of NEW SOUTH WALES, BANK of AUSTRALASIA, COMMERCIAL BANK, and the imposing and variedly active business premises around.

THREE SHOPS and Offices, Nos. 327, 329, and 331 George-street, built of brick, each three storeys.

LAND 48 feet 4 inches frontage to GEORGE-STREET by a depth of 91 1-3rd feet through to Wynyard-lane.

This Street is the main thoroughfare of the city, and this portion is destined to increase in value. The sale affords a chance to acquire a Freehold Property which will prove a rich heirloom in the future. Meantime the rental is £1154 PER ANNUM, part net, from the limited buildings upon the land.

AUCTION Sale, FRIDAY, 18th OCTOBER, at our Rooms, 98 Pitt-street, at 11.30 a.m.

RICHARDSON and WRENCH, Ltd. (3312)

CENTRAL CITY.

GEORGE-STREET, near KING-STREET, adjoining the Australian Joint Stock Bank, Ltd.

ONE OF THE BEST SITES IN CITY.

LAND has a frontage of 33ft 10½in to GEORGE-STREET by a depth of 99½ft, in addition to which is a side abutting piece of about 27ft square. On it is that tall commanding Building,

Nos. 375 and 377 PASTORAL-CHAMBERS, tenanted by Baker and Rouse (two Shops), and numerous other tenants on upper floors.

The Premises are faithfully erected of stone and brick, which, owing to a Trust holding could not have been altered to produce the largest income, but in the hands of a Company or new owner could be adapted to up-to-date appearances and requirements, and thus prove a much more remunerative investment.

The chief street and parts of our city are growing in traffic and trade, and when it is considered how small an area the Central City is, it is impossible to predict the large value that must accrue as the years go by to such a position as "Pastoral-chambers," now submitted to the appreciative consideration of buyers.

BY ORDER of the TRUSTEES of WILL of late FELIX WILSON, Esq.,

for whom Messrs. Holdsworth and Son are Solicitors.

PITT-STREET, CITY,

between Moore-street and Vickery's-chambers, adjoining Batt, Rodd, and Purves, Ltd., and Eldon-chambers.

GLADSTONE-CHAMBERS,

No. 90 PITT-STREET, as above situated, of attractive design in front, well built of brick, comprising basement, ground, first and second floors, these three being subdivided into six offices each. LAND, 21ft 3in frontage Pitt-street, depth 122ft, through to a Reserved Lane.

Pitt-street at this position is admittedly one of the best office divisions in the city, close to G.P.O., leading Banks, Stock Exchange, and many active large concerns.

Tenanted until 31st day of December, 1919, at £400 per annum and taxes. The rack rents on expiry of lease will be large, therefore recommended to trustees, capitalists, and others.

TITLE TORRENS.

C. F. W. LLOYD, in conjunction with RAINE and HORNE, will sell the above, in the Rooms, 86 Pitt-street, on THURSDAY, October 10, at 11.30.

8-HOUR DAY, 1907,

Will be a RED LETTER DAY in your history if you attend THE AUCTION SALE of the BROCK ESTATE,

MONA VALE, PITTWATER.

The situation of the Property for Sale is alluring beyond conception. Imagination in its airiest flights cannot picture the reality.

PERSONAL INSPECTION ALONE IS ADEQUATE.

THE TOURISTS' GUIDE and MAP OF THE DISTRICT, containing 25 Illustrations and PLAN of the ESTATE, can be obtained on application.

ON THE PLAN you will observe that the vendors have exercised unprecedented liberality. Instead of selling the frontages to the lovely SANDY BEACH, provision has been made for a DELIGHTFUL MARINE ESPLANADE, 66ft wide, besides reserving the immediate Ocean Frontages, containing a considerable area, to be known as "BROCK PARK," for the use of the public for all time. FURTHER, it is proposed, under conditions to be announced later, to reserve, as noted on the plan, about 6 ACRES, including an ORNAMENTAL FRESH-WATER LAKE, as a Recreation Ground, to comprise a BOWLING GREEN, TENNIS COURTS, and CROQUET LAWN.

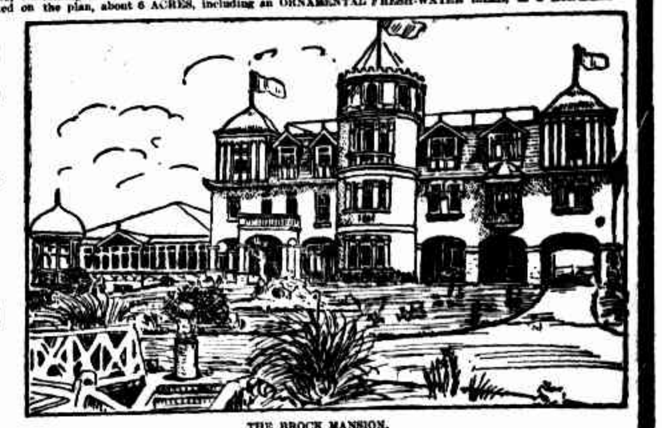

THE BROCK ESTATE

is unique in character. A large fortune has been spent in making it a model property.—Nothing similar in this State has ever been on the market before.

The IMPROVEMENTS are all of RECENT CONSTRUCTION,

AND INCLUDE

THE BROCK MANSION, known locally as "The Club House." It is a magnificent building, highly decorated externally and internally, built of brick on concrete foundations, containing main entrance hall, billiard-room, ladies' lounge, smokeroom, 25 bedrooms, 6 bathrooms, etc. There are also PREMISES ATTACHED, solidly constructed of timber, decorated and finished in rough cast cement, comprising very large dining hall (about 30ft x 72), and at rear generous provision for kitchen and servants' quarters.

THE BROCK MANSION.

5 Handsome Villas are also included in the Sale,

TOGETHER WITH

167 Choice Building Sites.

THE WHOLE ESTATE is under the REAL PROPERTY ACT. TORRENS TITLE. TERMS to SUIT BUYERS—On vacant land, £10 per cent. deposit, balance in quarterly payments extending over 5 years, with interest at 5 per cent. SPECIAL ARRANGEMENTS can be made with PURCHASERS of MORE THAN ONE LOT. PURCHASERS of the MANSION and COTTAGES may pay CASH, or they may elect to accept either of the following terms offered, viz., £25 per cent. cash, balance on Mortgage for 3 or 5 years, with interest at 5 per cent.; o the alternative offer—10 per cent. cash, balance in quarterly payments extending over 10 years, with interest at 5 per cent.

THE AUCTION SALE OF ABOVE ON 8-HOUR DAY, MONDAY, 7th OCTOBER, at 2 O'CLOCK,

WILL BE

PRACTICALLY WITHOUT RESERVE.

The Vendors are determined to realise, and the Auctioneers' values will be accepted regardless of any loss on original outlay, however stupendous.

ON THE SALE DAY,

FREE COACHES AND MOTOR CARS will RUN BETWEEN MANLY and the ESTATE from 10.15 to 12.30, returning after 5 p.m. A LIGHT LUNCHEON will be SERVED ON THE GROUND, WITHOUT CHARGE. A Band will be in attendance.

TICKETS OBTAINABLE FROM THE AUCTIONEERS.

HOWES AND HOWES' 3 TAILORING PARAGRAPHS READ—THEM!

PARAGRAPH NO. 1.
Haven't you felt the need of a tailor who would give you EXACTLY what you want—mark you, we emphasise that word—EXACTLY—a tailor who would look after YOUR wants with the sole idea of pleasing you?

PARAGRAPH NO. 2.
Yes, we know you have, because that is our experience—men have told us so.
When you come to Howes and Howes you will feel that need no longer. This big tailoring business has grown into maturity and increased the number of its patrons by just that feature—giving men EXACTLY what they wanted and giving it to them—ALWAYS.
It takes a liberal policy—careful, painstaking, cutting, and constant watchfulness to do this.

PAY CASH — Yes, pay cash when you buy your Suit, and it will pay YOU. Cash is the mighty factor that commands good value in a Suit, from the material to the making. The man who pays cash unquestionably gets a little better suit, or pays a lower price than the one who buys on credit. The same thing applies, no matter what you buy. So—pay cash—we are exclusive Cash Tailors. — PAY CASH

THE LEADERS OF FASHION,
KING and GEORGE STREETS, SYDNEY.

THERE IS A CORNER

IN OXFORD-STREET (CITY) around which the LADIES LOVE TO LINGER.

It is familiarly known as

BUCKINGHAM'S CORNER, whereon stands
that fine Palatial Gothic Building, yclept

THE BUCKINGHAM PALACE EMPORIUM.

It is scarcely necessary to ask why
THE LADIES LOVE TO LINGER HERE.

The THIRTEEN FINE SHOW WINDOWS, each vying with the other in their rich profusion of THE MOST FASHIONABLE GOODS, artistically displayed, present attractions which to the feminine mind are irresistible.

What Woman can close her eyes to the RECHERCHE UNDERCLOTHING,
with its wealth of lace-trimmed folds, which fills
THE RIGHT-HAND VESTIBULE WINDOW?
HERE IS A PRETTY UNDERSKIRT!
THERE A SWEET CHEMISE!
At the further corner a
SNOW-WHITE NIGHTDRESS, embellished in its airy Valenciennes, peeps out.
A GARMENT FIT FOR NIOBE.

And then THE MILLINERY!
Where is the Woman WHO CAN RESIST A PRETTY HAT?

The little window AT THE VERY CORNER is always FULL OF PRETTY HATS; while AROUND THE CORNER to the left are MORE PRETTY HATS, and an abundance of BEAUTIFUL FLOWERS.

Beyond this again are several windows devoted to the display of the Famous WARNER'S RUST-PROOF CORSETS, (Every Pair Guaranteed), for which THE BUCKINGHAM PALACE EMPORIUM is so justly celebrated. With these are shown some fine examples of the
REDFERN IMPERIAL CORSET
(all Whalebone Boned), which we can confidently assure our patrons is
THE ACME OF THE CORSET WORLD.
Can anyone wonder, then, why the LADIES LOVE TO LINGER round this Entrancing Corner?

CROWN & BRIDGE WORK.

To avoid the necessity of employing a movable plate, which to many people is so objectionable, CROWN AND BRIDGE work is now recognised as the most advanced method of permanently replacing lost teeth by artificial ones. This system, combining as it does the advantages of UTILITY and COMFORT, is at the same time impossible of detection.
A further advantage is claimed for this system in that the teeth, being permanently fixed, CANNOT MOVE WHILST EATING OR SPEAKING, and every part of the mouth can be reached with the tooth brush; neither voice nor taste can be impaired or interfered with, the teeth occupying exactly the same space as the natural ones.

SUPERFLUOUS HAIR AND MOLES.

In spite of anything you may see stated to the contrary, you can be quite sure that the only known "Electrical Process" for the permanent removal of superfluous hair is Electrolysis—which I have practised with success for so many years, and I am acknowledged to be THE EXPERT in Australia in this work.
I don't even expect you to take my unsupported word for this claim. All I ask is that you will please

WHERE SHOPPING TOUCHES THE PURSE BUT LIGHTLY.

GRACE BROS., THE MODEL STORE, BROADWAY.

A QUALITY-BARGAIN DAY!

Last week a Lady visitor from a neighbouring State remarked:—"I always seem to strike a busy day at Grace Bros., for every time I have been in the Model Store there have been crowds all through the Building; and yet I had no trouble to get served, so Grace Bros. must know their busy days and prepare for them." But the young Lady did not hit the right nail at all, for the secret of the readiness for crowds at the Model Store is that THERE ARE ALWAYS CROWDS THERE. And that is just what may be expected, because wherever Good Articles can be purchased for LOW PRICES Public Appreciation is sure to express itself in a practical manner.
To-day we have two Departments which are offering SPECIAL QUALITY-BARGAINS.

QUALITY-BARGAINS IN LADIES' SHOES.
SAMPLES. SAMPLES. SAMPLES.

We have made a Special Purchase of LADIES' SAMPLE BOOTS and SHOES at a Large Discount. These are on view on the Bargain Table in our Ladies' Boot Department. They are selling very rapidly, and we invite you to COME EARLY AND INSPECT THEM.
We have also a New Shipment of INFANTS' and GIRLS' SHOES, English Manufacture, in Black and Colours. These goods are the very latest shapes and styles.

A SPECIAL QUALITY-BARGAIN.
LADIES' WHITE BUCKSKIN LACE SHOES, Pump Soles, leather heels, very smart, 8/9.

QUALITY-BARGAINS IN TOILET SETS.

Do you think that an article worth 30s would be cheap at 22s 6d? That is what we are offering To-day in Toilet Sets. They are all genuine Grimwades, with each piece stamped. 6 pieces to the Set, and they have never before been sold at such a low price. We are showing them in one of our Broadway Windows. Come and See them. We invite the closest inspection of this line, for we know that you cannot fail to appreciate such a genuine reduction.

BOOTS AND SHOES BY MAIL.

THE CALLAGHAN MAIL ORDER SYSTEM HAS PROVEN ITS EFFICIENCY MOST UNMISTAKABLY.

REPEAT ORDERS are the sure index of this. As far as fitting Boots or Shoes is concerned, our Mail Order service is practically as good as a call in person.

So complete is our system of Registration that we are accurately fitting ladies and gentlemen whom we do not see from one year's end to another.
The same service is at your command any day, and we advise you to send a postcard for our post-free style book at once.
We exchange goods, or refund money.

TOO MUCH WATER
SPOILS THE COMPLEXION.

The woman who washes her face more often than three or four times a week is unfair to her looks. Both cleanliness and good appearance would be better served were she to gently rub Valaze on to the skin, if possible letting it remain there say for a quarter of an hour, if the time can be spared. Water merely takes the dirt off the surface of the skin, whilst the dirt within the pores—the dirt that does most hurt—is left untouched. The reason of this is that the natural oils exuded by the skin mingle with the dust that gets into the pore mouths, and the oily nature of this impurity repels water. The uncleanliness of water washing is more emphasised in winter, as the cold water contracts the skin, and the pores close up over the dirt within.

VALAZE,
the Famous Russian Skin Food, is far more cleansing than water. Valaze not only removes all the surface dirt, but it sinks right into the pores, and persuades out from them every trace of impurity that clogs their passage.
Leave Valaze on your face for a while, then gently rub it off. With it will come every impurity, and your skin will be bright and clear, as a young healthy girl's. You can go out into the coldest weather without fear of being chapped by the wind, and you will have a soft lovely complexion as well.
Try Valaze washing and water—washing week and week about. See for yourself how far better and more cleanly and beautifying the Valaze way is.
Valaze is sold by leading Chemists everywhere at 3s 6d and 6s jar, or posted 6d extra from MARK FOY'S.

SATURDAY—A BRIGHT DAY.
OPEN TILL 10 P.M.

On Pay Day, when care must be exercised in spending the household allowance, do not forget, Ladies, there is such a thing as

ECONOMY MISAPPLIED.

And there is one thing particularly on which a woman, with due regard for her appearance, will hesitate to economise, and that is

HER CORSET.

When the price of a good Corset seems excessive, she will prefer to save in some other way, knowing full well its period of usefulness can be prolonged by proper care, so as to more than equalise the difference in cost.

Besides, an ill-shaped, cheaply-made Corset will ruin the effect of a Handsome Costume; while even plain clothes can be worn "with an air" over a well-modelled Corset.

To procure good Corsets you want to come to where thousands of socially successful women find the Styles which accentuate their beauty of person and of Dress.

Here are a few Styles to whet your interest in

FOY'S CORSETS.

The "PRINCESS ELIZABETH" embodies the latest Continental Style. It comes in good quality Grey Coutille, with Coloured Silk Flower. Has high bust, and is well-boned (to support bust), is long over hips, and straight fronted. Sizes 19 to 26. 6s 11d.

The "MIRANDA" is a very popular Corset, because of its service-giving qualities. It may be had in Grey and White, and any size from 19 to 26. It will be found to be well boned, and has straight front, with long hips. 5s 9d.

The "STEPHANIE" is a beautiful and substantial Corset that will hold its shape till worn out. It is well boned, and comes in Grey Coutille, has very long hips, low bust, and carries suspenders on hips and front. Sizes, 19 to 26. 11s 6d.

"LYSISTRATA" is a hard word to pronounce, but it is the name of a very good Corset, in Grey Coutille, with long waist, straight front, extended hips, and two sets of suspenders (hips and front). Sizes, 19 to 26. 6s 11d.

The "CHARM" may be had in sizes from 19 to 24. It is a Grey and Black Brocaded Corset, with broad, straight busk and tabs for suspenders. 3s 3d.

The "SAIGON" is a lightly-boned Corset, in Light Grey Coutille; has low bust, and is very long below waist. Sizes, 19 to 24. 3s 11½d.

The "MARGERY" is known everywhere as a very Stylish Corset. The Straight Front, Diagonal Seams, Low Bust, and Extended Hips combine with the good quality of the materials to make a Corset that is very near perfection. In Grey only, and sizes 19 to 29. 9s 9d.

A very short effect finds expression in the "EPSOM." It is of good quality, White Batiste, trimmed with Lace top and bottom. May be worn with or without suspenders. Sizes, 19 to 26. 2s 11d.

The "LILIAN" is a very strong Corset, of medium height in bust, cut away on hips, and straight-fronted. It may be had in sizes from 19 to 24. 4s 9d.

Many other Styles may be seen at where just now the Stock is showing a wide range of Prices.

Come in To-day, Ladies—just as soon as you can.

OPEN TILL 10 P.M.

FINE FURNITURE.

Elaborate carving, costly materials, ostentatious and elaborate detail, do not necessarily make fine furniture. The essential beauty of furniture lies in FORM AND FINISH; the materials may be plain pine or redwood, there may be an entire absence of carving, and the details may be simple to severity; but if what is made BE WELL MADE, and the design be carefully and conscientiously wrought out, the result will be FINE.

BEARD, WATSON'S FURNITURE

has enjoyed a very enviable reputation for QUALITY for many years, and the reason is apparent. However low in price we go, we take good care that the WORKMANSHIP shall be first-rate.
Thus, in buying Furniture from BEARD, WATSON'S, you do not have to consider the question of price; all you have to do is to spend what you can afford, knowing that your outlay will cover to the utmost.

VALUE FOR MONEY.
We have furnished THIRTY-THREE Specimen Rooms, all different, both in character and price, and if you will kindly call and walk through these rooms you will be struck with the beautiful and artistic furniture we can sell at really astonishingly moderate prices. This is the only safe way to buy furniture; you cannot tell what a suite will look like in your bedroom if you have to choose it amongst a hundred other suites, but in these furnished rooms we can show you the suite you want in a room the same size as your own, and in similar surroundings.
May we ask you, when you call, to inspect our new department for the sale of genuine household

IRISH LINENS.
We sell household linens of every description, and can supply in any quantity at prices appreciably below those of any other house.
